Stanley boys and Scotts girls were the champions of the tournament. The refreshment stand sell a quantity of soft drinks and sandwiches. The seventh-grade boys are the "cleaner-uppers", gathering in the bottles and cleaning up after each day's play. In cleaning up they run across many lost articles - car keys, purses, letters - these are turned in at the judges' stand and are usually there by the time the owner misses them. Many things are turned in, but this year was the first time that we ever had a live lost article, and it was a sixteen-year old girl who announced that the party she was with had gone on home and forgotten her and here it was 10:30 on a snowy night and she had no place to go. Well, we made arrangements to get her home but she was called for before that necessity really arose. Her party finally missed her and came back after her.

This year an event happened that ought to get into Ripley's column, and we hope everybody who owns a Chevrolet '36 model will read this article, because they might look in the trunk of their car and find the lost articles we are talking about. Here's the story. This boy was on the Thomasboro team. He came to the game with his parents. They parked the car in the parking lot and came in to watch the game. Before the game was over, however, the boy's parents went on to Statesville and another car of exactly the same model and make came and parked in the place where this car was. Well, after the game was over the boy went out and took his key which was the duplicate to the key which his parents had and proceeded to unlock the trunk of this other car, thinking it was his own, put his suit inside and his Sunday shoes, locked it up again and went back in again to watch the other teams play. Later on in the evening his parents came for him and he got in their car and went home, and then they discovered that this was not the same car in which he had put his clothes.

The coincidence of a car of the same make being in the same spot would be rare enough, but to have a lock that could be opened by the same key is just too much to believe all at one time, and yet it really happened. All you Chevrolet owners go out immediately and look in the trunk of your car and if you find this suit and shoes, please return them to this boy at Thomasboro.

We are showing elsewhere in this paper a picture of the trophies that are awarded at this tournament. There are quite a lot of them. Also in this picture are the trophies for the Junior Tournament which is staged a month later.

The profits of the tournament and the profits of the refreshment stand go to defray Barium's athletic expenses. In the first years the tournament barely broke even on expenses, the paying of the officials and the purchasing of the trophies taking most of the profits. But in recent years the attendance has been so good that the net profit of the tournament has materially helped to defray the expenses of all of our athletic teams.

The big trouble today is accommodating the people who want seats; we could easily fill a gymnasium three times as large as our basketball court which is in our grammar grade school building. We are looking forward to the day when we

I BELIEVE IN THE UNIVERSAL CHURCH.

This month we come in our study of things that we as Christians believe, to the fourth article of the Apostles' Creed. Already we have examined the first three articles, which deal with our belief in God. They have shown us God the Father as the architect of the universe and of our salvation, God the Son as the Master Builder who wrought out the work of salvation on Calvary, and God the Holy Spirit as the applier of salvation to our hearts and the presence of God with us always.

Now as we pass from our belief about God to our belief about the instrument through which God works in the world, and we say, "I believe in the holy catholic Church." Before discussing this doctrine, let us define the terms. I have found that children are often confused by the word "catholic", thinking that it refers to the Roman Catholic Church. Of course, there is no such meaning. "Catholic" is simply an adjective meaning "universal" or "world-wide". This article might better be restated today: "I believe in the universal Church".

In the Epistle to the Ephesians we find the heart of the Scriptural doctrine of the Church. There we are told (1:22, 23) that God gave Christ "to be the head over all things to the church, which is His body." From that statement we gather two useful figures which help us to understand the Church. First of all, Christ is called the head. The head, which is the seat of the brain and the will power, rules over the body, directs its activities, and controls its movements. It is His, for He is its founder. "Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." He is also the Lord of the Church; and as such He rules and directs it, protects it from harm, and uses it to do His work on earth.

A second and complementary figure also comes from this same passage. The Church is pictured as the body of Christ. It serves as His arms and legs to do His work in the world. It is under His direction and control and performs His will. This figure which Paul uses pictures for us the Church in a way that all of us can understand. In the sense that we who are members of the Church are the chosen instruments of Christ, we can say that "Christ has no hands but our hands to do His work today . . ."

From another viewpoint we ask what the Church is, and we receive the answer from our Confession of Faith that it is all those who believe in Christ as Lord and Savior through all the ages. The Church is bigger than just our local congregation, or even than all the local congregations in the world today. It includes all believers, past, present and future. Thus when we become members of the Church, we join the vast throng of the saints of all ages. We identify ourselves with Abraham, Paul, Luther, Calvin and Wesley. We become linked to that innumerable host that is around the throne of God in heaven, and to multitudes of those yet unborn. The Church, consisting of all God's children, whom He adopts into His family through Jesus Christ, is bigger than anything else we have ever known.

February and March Issues Combined

You readers of the Messenger may be somewhat puzzled, and you have a right to be. The February and March issues of the Messenger have been combined into one issue for this month. Here's why. The paper problem still exists and it has been quite difficult to get enough paper for all issues of the Messenger. Right now we are faced with the necessity of skipping one issue for lack of paper. The April issue is always a big one. It contains a lot of information covering the end of the Church Year, and the only issue which could be well combined with another is the one of February, so we are combining February with March. This is the first time since the Messenger started many years ago that we have failed to get out an issue each month, and we hope that this will not happen again.

We do not want to revert to newsprint, so we are hoping that by skipping this one issue we can get along all right for the rest of the year. Be patient with us and we will do the best we can.

It is a glorious thing to be a part of this great, true invisible Church. But membership is not just a matter of getting our names on the roll of some earthly church. It is rather a matter of an overwhelming belief in our hearts that turns our lives around and makes us like Christ.

The Church in the world has a two-fold task. The great Commission instructs us to go and make disciples of all nations. The Church's first task is to preach the gospel for the salvation of souls. It is God's rake in the field of the world for the gathering in of the harvest of those to be saved. One distinguishing mark of the true Church is the performance of this duty - the true preaching of the Word of God. Its first message is that Christ came into the world to save sinners, "for God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have ever-lasting life."

The second part of the Church's task is to gather together those reborn as babes in Christ, and to nourish them in order that they may grow in His likeness and strength. As the first part of the Church's mission is to the lost, so this second part is to the saved. The Church has the duty of preparing its members for their future.

Letter to the Alumni Association

Burlington, N. C.
Route No. 6

Dear Alumni,

At Barium Springs, Home-coming day, I was elected to that most cherished position of Secretary and Treasurer of the Memorial Fund. This fund is to be set aside to establish a memorial to the boys and girls of Barium Springs who served in the Armed Services. The nature of this memorial will be decided upon at the next Home-coming meeting of our Alumni Association.

Now, I was instructed to give each person an opportunity to contribute to this fund so that each of us will feel as though he had a part in this small way to express our deep appreciation to those who gave so much and to the memory of those who gave everything.

Won't you please send to me your most liberal contribution so that next Home-coming we may have a sizeable fund with which to establish a memorial to our gallant Brothers and Sisters.

Your Foster Brother,

D. REID BROWN.

The above is a communication from Reid Brown, a most enthusiastic member of the Alumni Association. He is very anxious to get a more complete mailing list of the alumni, and if every one of you who read this will send him your name and address it will help him lots. If you will call this to the attention of any other members of the alumni that you know, we will appreciate it.

We know that many of the alumni read The Messenger whose addresses the Alumni Secretary does not have. The alumni mailing list has been incomplete from its very beginning and you can now help put it in better shape. Give Reid a hand in this and it will make for better work all around.

By the way, while you are thinking of alumni doings it might be well to commence to make your plans for our next Home-coming Day - it will be on October 17th - not quite as early as last year but much earlier than many of our Home-comings have been. On that day Lexington will play Barium Springs in football.

Attention Treasurers

In order to have our books ready for the Auditors, that we may have our audit report ready for the Annual Meeting of the Regents of the Orphans' Home we must close our books on April 10th. Please have all funds for the Current Church year in our hands by that date.

Thank you,
R. S. ARROWOOD, Treas.

MRS. S. A. GRIER

We, the members of the Auxiliary of Little Joe's Church, wish to pay loving tribute to the memory of our dear friend and co-worker, Elsie Morrison Grier, who died suddenly at sunset on November 30th 1946. Mrs. Grier was devoted to her Church and every phase of the Auxiliary work was dear to her heart. She was ever ready to do her share and more, and accepted responsibility in the Auxiliary willingly and cheerfully. She was especially interested in Foreign Missions and inspired us all with her enthusiasm and devotion to the cause.

In the year 1925, when the "Ladies Aid Society" was organized, Mrs. Grier became the first President and did a large part in shaping the constitution to fit our local conditions. After some years she was pressed into service again as president - then Foreign Mission Secretary, and then Secretary of Spiritual Life. In recognition of her service, the Auxiliary presented her a "Life Membership". Her life was rich in service, beautiful in faith and trust - and gracious with the simplicity of true culture.

Her death, far from bringing a feeling of sadness, gives us a sense of triumphant victory. It is a fitting climax to a life of loving service that she should enter into the mansion prepared for her and hear her Savior's "well done good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord".

We cherish her memory and pledge ourselves to seek to imitate her goodness, in order that we may be more like the Savior Himself.

"CROSSING THE BAR"

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea.
But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.
Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark:
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark!
For tho' from out our bourne of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

Pastor's Paragraph

ture life in heaven. We are far from perfect when we come into the Church, but its preaching and teaching should constantly aid our development in that direction.

There are many tasks to be done on earth, but just these two are the work of the Church. All its proper functions aim at calling lost sinners to come to Christ and helping the saved to grow more like Him. Any work which cannot be comprehended under one or the other of these aims is out of line with the true purpose of the Church.

The Church in the world is a militant Church, fighting the battle against Satan for the souls of men. Only when Christ returns and ushers His Church into heaven will it become a Church triumphant and at rest.

While we must grant the theoretical possibility of being saved without becoming a member of an earthly church, we are reminded that "the church is the means through which men are ordinarily saved." It is the natural way to Christ. And the church offers us the best environment for growth and service. There we have the companionship of other believers to strengthen us. There worship and Christian study are provided for us. And there we have the best opportunity to serve Christ our Lord.

"I believe in the universal Church." And, believing in it as it has been presented here, I cannot but throw my life into its great work of bringing in the Kingdom of God.

Mid-Piedmont

will have such a gymnasium and then our tournaments can really help in defraying our other expenses.

The Barium teams do not participate in this big tournament they help make it a success. In fact, everybody at Barium Springs has a hand in it. The school teachers sell tickets and that is quite a job. The Domestic Science department make sandwiches out of hams that were raised by the farm crew and cooked by the kitchen crew. A group of boys look after the parking arrangements.

The printing office gets out the programs, posters, tickets, etc. One school principal has charge of the score keeping and timing; another school principal has charge of the arrangements; others have charge of the seating of people - the ushering. Another one of the staff is one of the four officials handling the games.

There is something to be done by everybody and they have all done their work so efficiently that this tournament is one of the most popular in this section of North Carolina.

Just a month later another tournament is held - the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament. The girls' teams entered are from the ninth grade on down. The boys teams entered are 125-pound weight limit. There will be 32 teams entered this year and they will play double eliminations and each team winning two of their three games will get a trophy. The play will start on Tuesday, March 18th, and run through March 24th. Barium's teams participate in this and have won a good percentage of the championship trophies in the past.

Barium Springs students have an opportunity to come in contact with the students of many other schools in these tournaments. They enjoy them and it makes friends for themselves and for Barium Springs too.

Barium Messenger

Campus Happenings

The Barium Messenger coming out just once a month cannot carry reports of all the interesting events which take place at Barium. This time it is increasingly difficult because this particular issue covers nearly two months of activities, and during that two months so many things have happened. To begin with, there was the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament, and then there was the Student Conference, and then a lot of the grown folks went down to Charlotte to attend the Tri-State Orphanage Conference. Then we have had the Senior Play and the different classes have put on Chapel Programs which have been most interesting, and as this is written we are getting all dressed up for the big music recital. Then there is the basketball banquet, and all of those things ought to be talked about, but we will just have to devote a little bit to each one of them.

Let's begin with that Junior Tournament. This year there were 32 teams entered. Play began on March 18th, and every day that week from then on four games were played in the afternoon and four at night and the following Monday afternoon four games were played with the finals that night.

On the eve of the first day's play one of the girls' teams dropped out and Barium substituted a second team, so this year Barium had two girls' teams and one boys' team entered, and two of these teams went into the finals on Monday night, and in the finals our boys were defeated by Mooresville and our girls came through victorious. There were 16 trophies given at this tournament and we believe more fun was had at it than at any of the big tournaments.

Just a week after this we had the basketball banquet. Our pastor, Reverend F. B. Benton, was the toastmaster, and the following boys and girls were awarded monograms

MASCOTS

The mascots for the class are Joe Anne Jackins whose Daddy was raised at Barium and whose Mother taught at Barium and who is named for Mr. and Mrs. Johnston. The boy mascot is Adrian Cochran, but nobody knows him by that name - Buddy he is to everybody at Barium.

TOP TO BOTTOM

 Third Row: Frances Isenhour, Margaret Katen, Jean McDonald, Benny Gregory.
 Fourth Row: Toni DeLancey, Helen Hawley, Miriam Huddleston, Earl Allen.

We are presenting in this issue of the Messenger our graduating class for 1947. There are 16 in this class, but only 15 pictures. The other member of the class is a neighborhood boy who did not get his picture in in time - Buddy Lip-pard. He has been a most consistent member of the high school for the last four years. The girls greatly outnumber the boys as has been the case since the war started. It will continue through next year's class, and then we hope it will even up.

 The member of the class who has been at Barium the longest is Jean MacDonald who entered from St. Pauls, N. C. in 1933, the youngest of a big family.
 Earl Allen is next. Earl entered in 1934 from Lexington, the same year that Hannah Price and Myrtle Rushing entered. These two girls came from different parts of Union County. In 1935 Helen Hawley from Wilson, N. C. entered; in 1936 Dwight Spencer from just over in Mecklenburg (Cornelius) entered, as did Lee Vinson from Johnston County. In 1937 Toni DeLancey from Charlotte and Mary Ann Ryder from Durham entered. None of the class entered in 1938 or 1939, but 1940 brought in Frances Isenhour from Concord, and in 1941 Margaret Katen from Lexington, Benny Gregory from Charlotte, Eleanor Pope from Elizabethtown, and Miriam Huddleston from Wilmington, and in 1944 the baby of the class entered - W. A. Johnson from Laurinburg.

Pastor's Paragraph

By Rev. F. B. Benton

I BELIEVE IN THE FORGIVENESS OF SIN"

The oldest problem of the human race is the problem of sin. Hell used to be a favorite sermon topic for preachers, but we don't talk much about it any more. The consequence of sin is still eternal punishment in hell, but we today prefer to stress the means of escape. We have discovered that more people can be loved out of hell than can be scared out of it.

 The writers of the Apostles' Creed expressed the same emphasis that we use today. They spoke not of punishment but of forgiveness. The fifth article of the Creed states, "I believe in the forgiveness of sin." Here is the core of Christianity's appeal and the keystone of its hope, for the path of forgiveness is the one path to eternal life.

The ever present fact of sin keeps constantly before us the need of forgiveness. Of course, many people manage to dull their consciences enough to put it out of their minds, especially when things are going well with them. But sooner or later the inescapable fact creeps back upon them, and their guilt before God makes itself known. I shall never forget calling at a home during a former pastorate in an effort to interest a family in the church. It

NEWS FROM SOME OF THE COTTAGES

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Dear Friends,
It has been quite a long time since there has been any news from the Woman's Building in the Messenger, so we should have a lot to talk about.

There has been much flurry and excitement in our building in recent weeks. Ten seniors are getting ready to leave us in May. They certainly will be missed, and our building will seem rather empty for awhile until we get some new Rumble Hall girls.

The Juniors have been quite busy too. They have been preparing for that gala occasion that all the Seniors look forward to - the Junior-Senior banquet and dance. The rest of the girls are happy too, because school will be out in four weeks.

One of our girls is getting married in May. We are very glad she is getting married this soon after graduation because we will have the opportunity of seeing the wedding which will be held in Little Joe's Church.

One of the most interesting features at Barium was the Student Conference which was held here last month. Delegates from many orphanages attended and stayed with us for three days. We learned a lot about the other orphanages, as well as making many friends. The Woman's Building housed the girls, while the quads took care of the boys. The girls were hostesses at a tea given for the delegates on Friday evening 27th.

Until next month this is all the news, so don't forget to read our column next month.

— The Woman's Building girls

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

We have a new girl over at our house, she has not been here very long, and her name is Betty Ann Blackburn.

We have a new substitute matron over at Howard. She is in the eleventh grade and her name is Ernestine Baldwin. She is nice to us, and we like her. She has been our matron this week-end, and we enjoy having her.

School will be out in about a month. All of us will be glad to let our minds rest a while, however our hands will be busy stringing beans.

Linda Inman, Louise Bradshaw, Aline Thomas, Betty Blackburn, Mary Bowles, Phoebe Cochran, Shirley Byrd, Lois Dellinger, Margaret Hucks and Carol Jean Andrews made the honor roll for the last six weeks period. Because this includes about half of our family, we are very proud of this record.

Most of the grammar grades have been enjoying practicing their commencement plays which we are looking forward to present during the next few weeks. Come up folks and see some good entertainment!

You should have seen the happy faces on Easter Sunday, for we were thrilled to death wearing our pretty Easter dresses and ribbons. We know that we have more than that to be thankful for though, and all of us appreciate every kind little deed you have done for us. Thank you each very much.

—The Howard Girls.

LEES COTTAGE

It has been several months since you have heard from us.

School will be out the tenth of May and we will be glad.

The campus is pretty now and it is our job to keep it clean and we are doing a good job. Hope you will come to see us this summer.

We are going to take off our shoes in a few days and we are all excited.

We have been studying the Child's Catechism and the following boys have recited it: Tommy Scott, Leroy Norman, Jimmy Harrison, Eugene Thomas, Jimmy Harwell, Edward Lane, Frankie Smith and Archie McMannan.

We want to thank our friends in Mooresville for the cookies they brought us Easter.

We have a flower bed in the backyard and we hope to have some flowers for the house this summer.

We are all interested in soft ball now.

— Lees Boys

answer to my invitation the father in the home replied, "We feel no need of the church. We live as best we know how, and we are certainly getting along all right without it." His words pretty well summed up the man's feeling of self-sufficiency. But later I was called back to that same home. Conditions had changed and a new trouble had entered. The father spoke again, quite differently this time: "We realize now that we have been neglecting and dishonoring God, and that we need Him."

Some would say that God was punishing those people for their sin. But I believe as the Scripture tells us, that God brought them low in order to bless them. Our God of love would rather forgive than punish, but often He has to use severe means before He can make us ready to receive His forgiveness.

All sin is primarily against God, and all failure to honor Him and to obey His law is sin. Even so great a man as David had to learn this truth by painful experience. When he committed his great sin of taking the wife of Uriah the Hittite and was confronted with his sin by Nathan the prophet, he left us a record of his repentance in the fifty-first Psalm. And the great burden of that Psalm is in these words, "Against Thee, Thee only have I sinned." Beside the offense to God, the offense to others faded into insignificance. Every sin is first and foremost against God.

But the Christian can say with confidence, "I believe in the forgiveness of sin." This same God

There has gone from us one whom, though not all of us knew her personally, we counted among our friends, because she was so near to one of our number, Mrs. W. F. Andrews, mother of Miss Lulie E Andrews, Cashier and Bookkeeper of Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Her cheery presence will be greatly missed when we drop in at Miss Lulie's apartment. Our thoughts are with Miss Andrews in the loss of her mother.

who is offended has made a way of escape for all who have sinned. Perhaps we are used to thinking of some as "hopeless cases", but Christ teaches that all who look to Him can be forgiven. The case of the paralytic who was brought to Him teaches us this truth. He was in a hopeless condition when his four friends brought him to Jesus. And Jesus spoke to him first of his most serious need, "Thy sins be forgiven thee." Only when the bystanders whispered in horror of blasphemy upon hearing these words did Jesus continue his healing and move from soul-need to body-need. In doing so He made it plain that the physical healing was but proof of His power to forgive. "That ye may know that the Son of Man hath power on earth to forgive, I say unto thee, arise and walk." Yes, there are no hopeless cases.

But perhaps our error is at the opposite extreme, and we take the forgiveness of God for granted. This same miracle corrects this error by showing us that the one basis of forgiveness is the power of Christ. As sin is an offense against God, only He can forgive. The mission of Christ to the world was to establish a means of forgiveness commensurate with God's justice. His death on Calvary unlocked the door of forgiveness, for only by bearing our guilt and paying the penalty of death for every sin could this be done. God's justice and mercy were reconciled in the cross, and only in Christ and through Christ is forgiveness possible.

Nor may we forget that we too have a part in obtaining forgiveness of sin. We must repent and believe. Repentance, which is the burden of David's great Psalm that we have already mentioned, has been defined as "being sorry enough not to do it again." Belief, or faith, is emphasized in the story of the paralytic. John sums up both in his great statement, "If we confess our sin, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sin, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

There is yet one more thing we must notice, and that is the extent of God's forgiveness. Human forgiveness is seldom complete. The memory of a wrong lingers on and crops up again under the proper conditions. Often the wrongdoer is less intimate or less respected by the wronged one than before. But this is not so with the forgiveness of God. His forgiveness is total and complete. When He forgives, He then looks upon us as if we had never sinned. He sees us clothed in the righteousness of Christ, and thus as pure and sinless as our Savior.

Such forgiveness is always ready for those who come through Christ in faith and repentance. It is there for the child standing on the threshold of life, for the reprobate as near to death as the thief on the cross, and for every Christian who seeks forgiveness for his sins anew each day.

When I say, "I believe in the forgiveness of sins", I imply other things as well. I must also mean, "I believe in the love of God — in the atoning death of Christ for me — and in the power of the Holy Spirit to change my heart."

Eight More Sunday Schools In Clubs

Each year when the offerings are all in for the fiscal year just closed we make up a report on the gifts from the Sunday Schools of the Synod that take a special offering for Presbyterian Orphans' Home. In this we do not include the Thanksgiving Offering. We will print that report later.

The returns this year are indeed gratifying. To make special mention of the increases in each case would almost require two lists. The total amount from these clubs this year is the splendid sum of $28,472.39. The year before the figure was $24,793.15. Last year we reported ninety-nine Sunday Schools in these clubs. The number this year is one hundred and seven.

Hall, Lucille Stricklin, Sadie Gray Buie, Helen Vinson, Ann Wicker, Mary Dickson Arrowood.

Special honors went to several of the players. Benny Mac Gregory was voted the most valuable boy player, Earl Allen was elected captain for the season. Among the girls, Helen Hawley was voted the most valuable and Hannah Price the captain. The banquet was just a home affair with not more than three outsiders these being from the press. Quite a number of old boys and girls were here and there were altogether around 200 present. It was quite an occasion.

Just a little later we had a very remarkable gathering at Barium. This was the Student Conference, a revival of an organization that commenced to function about ten years ago but had to drop its activities during the war period. It is composed of a selected number of students from The Children's Home, Mills Home, The Kennedy Home, Lexington Junior Orphanage, Oxford, Hughes Memorial School at Danville, Virginia, and Barium.

The Beta Club at Barium sponsored the meeting and they got off to a good start on the night of March 27th. Their meeting lasted through the night session of the 28th and adjourned Saturday morning, the 29th. Two of the members were commissioned to present their findings to the Tri-State Orphanage Conference which met in Charlotte on the night of April 8th. Dwight Spencer of Barium was the temporary chairman to convene the meeting and was elected permanent chairman for this meeting. Jerry Young was elected president for next year and the meeting will, no doubt, be held in the neighborhood of the latter part of March, 1948. Dwight Spencer of Barium and Ben Tucker of Oxford were the two commissioned to present their resolutions to the Tri-State Orphanage Conference. They did this on the night of the 8th and did a splendid job - they were well received by the Conference.

The program of commencement has been pretty well prepared and the activities of the school now are looking toward commencement. Our baccalaureate sermon on the morning of the 11th will be preached by the Reverend John McAlpine of Lexington. The sermon on Sunday night will be delivered by Reverend Samuel M. Houck of Lora, and the commencement address on the night of the 12th will be delivered by an old Barium boy, Reverend Samuel E. Howie, D. D., of Fayetteville. The senior play was quite interesting as well as the other programs. The sixth grade put on a mock wedding which was so perfect in all its details, that we expected a shower of rice when it was over.

Barium had a rather large meeting on April 21st. This was the annual meeting of the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association. There are 30 schools in this Association and 20 of them were represented at this meeting, about 50 delegates altogether. The Executive Committee met during the afternoon and all took supper in the big dining room that evening, the annual meeting following immediately. People seem to like to come to Barium. We had a steak supper that night, and that may have had something to do with it. The fact that we always have apples to eat has a lot to do with it, but the smiling pleasant way that our young girls serve the dinner guests has the most to do with it.

Oh, yes! Here is a big piece of news. Ever since Barium got out its first athletic team there has been a problem as to how to get that team moved from place to place. We have solicited friends to furnish cars. We have really worn out the cars belonging to many of the folks who live at Barium. The business of transporting a football team and midget teams and basketball teams, etc. amounts to a lot in a year's time. Every time we have had to make a trip we have come back home dreaming of the day when we would have a bus. Well, back yonder nearly two years ago we reached the point where the Board authorized us to buy a bus and we placed the order, and then we thought we would never get it, but here on the day that our athletic season ended the bus was delivered, and it is a beauty. It so happened that the very next day after we received the bus 28 of our music students were to take part in a contest in Salisbury and they got to make the first trip in that bus. Since then it has been used for a number of things. Every month the Playhouse Theater in Statesville gives a free ticket to each of the two leaders in every grade. Well, that is just a bus load of folks and sometimes it takes a whole month to get those youngsters in to the theater a few at a time, but now we just load them up and take them in at one time. How lovely! There are many other occasions which we use it for. Up to now it has made one trip to Charlotte, one to Mooresville, one to Salisbury, and dozens of trips to Statesville, and the new hasn't worn off of it yet.

Softball has come to life again. When we lay aside our highly competitive sports like football, basketball, etc. we want to relax and still we like to play. Mr. Calhoun seems to be a genius at capitalizing on this desire. He has organized a four-team league of softball. Twice a week we meet for a double-header. It is a faculty team and three student teams, and already eight games have been played. The season lasts until the end of school and then we will take up something else.

The tennis experts are beginning to flex their muscles - these muscles, by the way, have to be first used in getting the weeds out of the tennis court then they can use a racket.

It will soon be time to commence cleaning up the camp. The camp is already booked solid from June 6th to August 21st. There is just something doing all the time.
Happy Days!

soloist. Other numbers entered were a mixed quartet, girls trio, and the mixed chorus. Barium's mixed quartet is composed of Dickie Arrowood, Anne Wicker, Herbert Good, and Charles Barrett. Members of the girls' trio are Callie Dunn, Virginia Presnell, and Dickie Arrowood.

The number of entrants was greater, the competition keener, and the judging seemingly stricter, than in former years; with the result that none of the Barium contestants received a rating of "I", which entitles them to enter the state contest. The trio received a rating of II, which gave them a certificate. They were the only Barium contestants to receive ratings higher than III, but a rating of III is considered "Good".

16 Graduate at Barium May 12.- Awards Made

Commencement is always a happy time tinged with some sadness. The children are happy that school is out for a few months. The seniors are happy that their period of preparation is over and they can go to college or out into a life work. The sadness comes from the fact that our graduates scatter rather widely and so have to part from life time friends. Friendships formed here are very close and vital and parting for new environment is the more poignant for that reason.

Members of the graduating class whose pictures appeared in last month's Messenger are Mary Ann Ryder, Lee Vinson, Dwight Spencer, Eleanor Pope, Hannah Price, Myrtle Rushing, W. A. Johnson, Frances Isenhour, Margaret Katen, Jean McDonald, Benny Gregory, Toni DeLancey, Helen Hawley, Miriam Huddleston, Earl Allen. This was a splendid graduating class. There were more honor students in this than any previous class. Of the fifteen, four girls and three boys plan to enter college.

Fine sermons were preached on Commencement Sunday by Rev. John McAlpine, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Lexington, and Rev. Samuel M. Houck of Concord Presbyterian Church, Loray, N. C.

The subject of the Baccalaureate sermon was "The Merchantman Who Sold His Possession to Gain the Pearl of Great Price."

The evening sermon by Mr. Houck had the subject "Building Bridges."

The inspiring Commencement Address by Rev. Samuel E. Howie, pastor of Highland Presbyterian Church of Fayetteville, N. C., was on "Paying the Price."

Certificates for perfect attendance were given to over sixty boys and girls by the grammar school principal, Mr. Harry Barkley.

The eighth grade certificates were delivered by the superintendent.

Honor Roll for Last Six Weeks

Second — Harriet Barkley, Patsy Dean, Barbara Johnson, Nancy Lee Kyles, Carolyn Hucks, Marie McNeil, Walter Plyler, Johnnie Terry.

Third — Johnnie Collins, Charles Creech, Jerry Ellis, Kenneth Yandle, Laura Jane Craig, Shirley Johnson, Mildred McFarland, Peggy Privette.

Fifth — Betty Ann Andrews, Carol Jean Andrews, Louise Bradshaw, Shirley Byrd, Tommy Scott, Aline Thomas.

Sixth — Helen Barnes, Billy Black, Hazel Creech, Patty Inman, Dorothy Surles, Dean Upton, Palmer Wilcox.

Seventh — Louise Campbell, Dwight Reid.

Eighth — Shirley Inman, Peggy Neel, Lucille Stinson.

Ninth — Kathleen Monroe.

Tenth — Mary Dickson Arrowood, Margaret Bullard, Jane Sigmon.

Eleventh — Betty Coffey, Peggy Coffey, Betty Joe Smith.

Twelfth — Helen Hawley, W. A. Johnson, Margaret Katen, Buddy Lippard, Jean McDonald, Eleanor Pope, Hannah Price, Myrtle Pushing, Dwight Spencer, Lee Vinson.

The above picture is of the wealthy class at Barium, those people who have more unused and unspent years ahead of them than anyone else at Barium Springs. They are the Baby Cottage crowd.

The girls from left to right - Mary McEwen, Jackie Taylor, Ruby Truelove, Nancy Yandle, Sheila Wilson, and Ruth Shepherd. And the little blondes out in front are Linda Shepherd and Brenda Shepherd. These young ladies have already commenced to take on some of the responsibilities of living. They have had their vaccinations and inoculations, and little Jackie Taylor has even assisted in a wedding. In this picture they show up just as blondes and brunettes. In technicolor there would be some brilliant reds, with little Nancy Yandle the particular star. Ruth Shepherd has had the most hospital experience and the deepest dimples. She forgot to put those dimples in operation when this picture was made. Mary McEwen has the widest range of expression - to see her smile and to see her frown unless you were right there to see the transformation you would not believe it was the same person. Little William Harrison must belong to a different political party from the rest of them. He seems to be viewing everything with alarm. We wish you could know these youngsters. They will be our regular citizens from right now on.

In the April issue of The Messenger we always glorify the graduating class. In this issue we are introducing the rising seniors, the ones who will have a large part in making Barium Springs a good place in which to live during the next twelve months. There is a little larger percentage of boys in this class than was in last year's.

If you have any old annuals if you will look back about eleven years you will find five members of this class in the Baby Cottage picture of that year. These are Charles Barrett, Betty Jo Smith, the Coffey twins and Mildred Monroe. We hope that you will look at this picture and learn to like these folks. They mean a lot to us and we are counting on them in a big way.

46 Children Joined Little Joe's Church

Easter Sunday was a memorable day at Little Joe's Church. On that day we had the thrilling experience of seeing forty-six children received into the membership of the church at one time. Our pastor, Mr. Benton, had been conducting a communicants class for several weeks preceding Easter, instructing a communicant's class the meaning of church membership and receiving the children in clear profession of allegiance to Christ.

We wish that every one of our readers could have been with us to see the impressive scene. As names were called, the line of children grew until it crowded the whole area in front of the pulpit. Then, while their eager, upturned faces responded to the required questions, it seemed truly that "the angel of the Lord came upon them and the glory of the Lord shone round about them". And most impressive of all was the mass baptism with which this part of the service ended.

Thirty-eight children were baptized upon profession of faith at that time. They were:

QUADS NEWS

Howdy Folks,
With spring here for 1947 it's about time we were getting our "annual" message to you into the messenger.

The spring sports have come so quick that we have hardly had time to catch our breath from playing basketball. We have organized three softball teams from the boys in high school and the faculty has one also. With these four teams we have four games a week, giving each team a chance at the other three. The faculty and Jack Clark's "Mugwumps" are tying for first place with three wins and one loss apiece and with Jack Mangrum's "Little Wonders" and Benny Gregroy's "Playboys" battling it out for the third place.

School is out and four of our boys are missing from the summer work line up. We miss these boys but maybe Barium won't go bankrupt in their absence. Their names should let you know how valuable they are; Benny Gregory, Earl Allen, Dwight Spencer, and W. A. Johnson. The rising Senior boys with Charles Barrett as their "Generalissimo" should take care of matters.

We'll sign off for now with hope that we'll be able to get in another few words to The Messenger before next Spring.

With all our spring fever,
"The four sided boys"

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
School is out at last, and graduation is over and we have really started our vacations

We are going barefooted and all the rocks are getting us down, but that doesn't matter just so long as we get off our hot shoes.

Some of our girls are moving up to Howard, we will miss them a lot but we hope they will be happy in their new home.

One of the little girls found a bird bath and is still watching it in hopes a bird will bathe in it.

Miss Blakeny, one of our teachers, gave us a party the other night. We had a nice time and enjoyed it very much. Our matron took thirteen of the girls who made the honor roll to the show. We hope that we will have more on the honor roll this time.

We will see all of you about this time next month. So long.

—Annie Louise Girls

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

School is out and without our shoes we are enjoying our lawn of grass, clover, and also the bees.

Marble season is almost over and Marvin Garris has the greatest collection, 360 of them.

We dressed up in our new shorts and polo shirts, and attended the graduation exercises. We were thrilled, as it was a new experience for some of us. We were happy that our big sister, Eleanor Pope graduated but we all were sorry to see her leave. She will attend Flora Macdonald next year and we hope to have her visit us often.

Moving time is here and six new boys from the Baby Cottage are coming: Rickie McArthur, Charles Bowles, Donnie Privett, Donnie Harris, Richard Blackburn and Larry Terry. Six of us will move to Lees.

We are proud of Shirley, our big sister, who is assisting in playing the piano this summer. She will enter high school in the fall.

Louise Campbell, our other big girl, was awarded a lovely letter of congratulation on her improvement in school by Miss Faye Stevenson.

Four of our boys were given perfect attendance certificates in school and we are very proud of them.

We are quite happy to know we have been adopted by the Business Women's Circle of the Mooresville First Presbyterian Church and we are looking forward to a visit from them in the near future.

Billy McAllister has done a fine job on our flower beds and we have a beautiful azalia plant given us by Miss Lulie. We are hoping for lovely flowers next year.

—The Wiggles.

Pastor's Paragraph
By Rev. F. B. Benton

"I BELIEVE IN EVERLASTING LIFE"

Through the past several months we have been thinking of the Apostles' Creed and the great fundamentals of Christianity with which it deals. The Creed begins with our belief in a Triune God, the Father our Maker, the Son our Savior, and the Holy Spirit the Communicator of salvation to us. It proceeds to a statement of our belief in a great Christian community, the Church, and the fellowship of all saints in that community. Then it expresses Christianity's answer to the greatest human need, the forgiveness of sin. Finally it ends with the answer to man's great problem, death, by expressing man's great hope, everlasting life.

The efforts of men to look beyond the grave are as old as the human race. Job asked the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" And his faith answered, "I know that my Redeemer liveth;" David expressed his belief in immortality in the twenty-third Psalm: "And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever." But the final answer was reserved until the resurrection of Christ and His promise that "in my Father's house are many mansions - - - I go to prepare a place for you." It is because of Him that we can say with full confidence, "I believe in the resurrection of the body and the life everlasting."

People have always speculated as to what lies beyond death, but to the Christian alone is given the answer to the problem and the assurance that the grave is not the end. I shall never forget my first experience with death after I became old enough to realize its meaning. A friend of mine died while we were in high school, and I went with a little group to her home to pay our last respects. I do not know what I expected to see, but as I looked into the coffin there I experienced an amazing sensation. My friend was not there! She had departed, and what remained was but the shell in which she had lived. And in that moment I knew that her soul was still living.

The Scripture teaches me that what I experienced that day is true. The believer's soul is indestructible. It is hard for us to disassociate the soul from the body as long as the two are joined in this life, but in death we realize the destination. Our bodies are nothing but the house in which we live. Death frees the soul from this earthly habitation and allows it to fly upward to God.

Death is then but a change of state, and not really an end at all. As the moment of death approaches Christ whispers to every believer, "Today thou shalt be with Me in paradise." The end of this life ushers us into the state for which we were created. No wonder that Paul could write, "I have a desire to depart and be with Christ." What comes after is a fuller life in which man regains the blessed privilege of walking with God which was lost in Eden.

Christ gives many benefits to believers in the present life, but the fullest and best are reserved for the time of death which so many fear and dread. The Scripture teaches that we are then made perfect in holiness. The everlasting

Alumni News

Dr. Sam Howie, minister at Highland Presbyterian Church, Fayetteville delivered the commencement address. He was awarded the ace medal that is given to the alumni for outstanding work.

We were happy to have many of our former children back for commencement. We noted Lucille Smith, Wilma Jessup, Dalma Jessup, Arthur Sigmon, Donald Bolton, Esau Davis, Richard Shoaf, Anna Bell Williams Dawson, Marguerite Jordan Tysor, Will and Sam Warlick, William Wadsworth, Edna Maples, William Billings, Jack McCall, Joe Long, Martha ing life given to us the moment we first accept Christ as our Savior bursts forth into full bloom. Like the butterfly emerging from the cocoon, we appear in full beauty and glory. And like the butterfly soaring upward on its newly given wings, we soar upward to join Christ in glory.

It is hard to bury a loved one, but we can only bury his body. And even that body remains under the care of God. It is still united to Christ in some mysterious way we cannot understand. Its condition is expressed in our Confession of Faith by the beautiful word "rest" as it waits the day of resurrection.

And we do believe that the time of resurrection will come. Then the resting body will be raised up and reunited to the soul. It will be raised in glory, a better body than we place in the grave, without spot or blemish, fashioned after the resurrection body of Christ Himself. The fifteenth chapter of I Corinthians gives us such a beautiful picture if this change as to make us await it with eagerness.

On that last day, when the believer's soul and body are reunited he will stand before Christ for the final judgement. It will not be an occasion for fear, for Christ will recognize His own. "Then shall the King say unto them on His right hand, 'Come ye blessed of my Father and inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.'" The judgment day will be a day of joy, for then will begin the enjoyment of the full blessing of God throughout eternity. We have the assurance of God's own promise that "in Thy presence is fullness of joy; at Thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore."

As long as this world lasts, death will bring sorrow into the lives of men, but it need not bring despair to believers. Sorrow is for the ones left behind, those who are lonely without the loved one who goes before them. But for the believer who leaves this life for his final home, death is an experience to look forward to, the greatest joy that life holds. We express this confidence when we say, "I believe in the resurrection of the body and the life everlasting."

A LAST REMINDER OF THE WAR

Here in the summer of 1947 we want to forget about the war, but just to remind us that Barium Springs was very much in the war we are printing this picture. There was no doubt a good deal of mail from Barium Springs headed toward Adolph Hitler. This particular package was directed and sent on its way by William Lindsey who is also in the picture.

MESSAGES OUT OF THE DEPTHS

Facing death with fortitude is nothing new or unique among men, but it never loses meaning. Written on a rock above the bodies of thirteen miners who died in the Centralia disaster were the words: "Look in everybody's pockets. We all have notes. Give them to our wives." The contents of these notes are revealing. One might have expected to find some echo of the long, bitter struggle of the miners for safety, for protective measures which might have prevented the disaster; but not so. Thoughts of loved ones were uppermost, and of God.

Two miners asked their wives for forgiveness seeing the mistakes of the past in a different setting. One wrote the single sentence, "God bless you and your baby." Another put it, "It looks like the end for me. I love you, honey, more than life itself. . . . You are the sweetest wife in the world." An expectant father who realized he would never see his unborn child wrote simply, "My dear Wife: Good-bye. Name baby Joe, so you will have a Joe. Love to all, Dad." One wrote to two boys: "Be good boys. Please your father. O Lord, help me." Here is a sort of last will testament from another brave American passing into the valley of the shadow "Dear Sweetheart and Sons: It's now 6 o'clock. — is feeling pretty low, but Honey, if I don't make it, sell the house and go live with your folks. Your Mom and Dad will take care of you and the boys. Please pray for me and join the church for me. Tell Dad to quit the mine and take care of Mom, not like this. Well, Baby, and my loving boys, goodbye as I am feeling weak. Lots of love." — North Carolina Christian Advocate.

Two Delegations Visited Campus

Two large buses brought a fine delegation to visit us from the Men's Bible Class of Cherryville on the afternoon of May 20. Rev. George L. Riddle, the Church pastor, headed up the group and spoke of the fine work of this class.

They brought six nice boxes of oranges and apples, as well as some crayons and drawing books for our little folks.

It seemed to bring us good luck as we had a refreshing shower of rain just after their arrival. However, their spirits were not dampened, and we enjoyed showing them around the home.

A small group of ladies from Laurel Hill Church in Fayetteville Presbytery also paid us a delightful visit recently, and it was a great pleasure to have them on the campus. We hope that many more delegations will visit us from time to time.

THE CAPONE AND VOLSTEAD ERA

It was a rather curious coincidence that the two persons whose names were synonymous with the 1920's should die within the same week. The nation's press made much of the evils of Capone and the bootleggers' paradise. Scarcely a word even a by-line heralded the death of Volstead, the author of the amendment that brought in prohibition. Who wants to bring back Capone's days with its mass murders, gang fights, and muscle men? But, on the other hand, have we much about which we can boast with legalized liquor for sale in every block, night clubs available on the outskirts of every city and cocktails once and for all made respectable? — The Baptist New Mexican.

THE GREATEST TASK IN THE WORLD

By Thos. A. Frazier, Knoxville, Tenn.

The preaching of the gospel is the greatest task that has ever engaged the mind of mortal man.

It's great because of him who said go and preach. It's great because of the value of that with which it deals. Who can calculate the value of an immortal soul? It's great because it deals with time, eternity. It's great because it deals with that which man cannot give and money cannot purchase. It's great because its subject matter will live when the stars have grown old and the sun has grown cold, and when all things else have been brushed aside. It's great because its field of operation is as broad as the universe, as high as heaven, and as deep as the bottomless.

It's great to be an ambassador, to cross the ocean (the briny deep) and have the crowned heads of Europe bow at your feet and pay you great homage. But it's greater still to be an ambassador of the Son of God and have men and women fall at your feet and cry out and say, "What must I do to be saved?"

It's great to see men and women turn from death unto life, from darkness unto light, from punishment to bliss. It's great to have the Lord's seal of approval stamped on your work.

It's great to have the Lord and the King of Kings to say unto you, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things I will make thee ruler over many things." And do you know that the same God who said preach also said teach? Then how great and grand and glorious is the teacher's task. You say whom shall I teach? What shall I teach, where is my field of operation? (Continued On Page Three)

Pastor's Message

By Rev. A. D. Benton

"THE BREAD OF LIFE"

Have you ever seen anybody starve to death? Real hunger is so far from us that it is hard even to imagine not having enough to eat. Yet America is one of the few nations in the world where there is enough food today. A British leader recently characterized his country's diet as one of slow starvation. And on the continent of Europe, with even less food than England, constant hunger over the past several years has left children weak and stunted and has allowed disease of all kind to reach alarming proportions. All over the world people are crying for bread and are ready to follow anyone who can provide it.

Bread is one of the fundamental necessities of life. This has always been true. Therefore, when Jesus spoke of Himself as the "bread of life", He intended to show the essential nature of His relation to us. Let us think together this month on His enlightening words: "I am the bread of life; he who comes to me shall not hunger."

By these words Jesus would tell us first of all that He alone can satisfy the gnawing pain inside our souls. Bread is a staple filler that gives needed bulk to the diet and produces a feeling of satisfaction. In recent years scientists have developed concentrated foods to the extent that a person can now get all the necessary food values for his body by merely swallowing one or two little pills at each mealtime. But experiments in the use of these concentrated foods over a period of time have proved them a failure. Their users invariably become unhappy and irritable after a day or two. They miss the bulk which their bodies require for full satisfaction.

We who live here with growing boys and girls are used to seeing them reach for the bread plate toward the end of the meal and eat two or three slices of bread just to top things off. That is perfectly normal during the fast growing years, for nothing else satisfies the craving of our stomachs and gives a feeling of well-being so well as bread.

And Jesus would have us know that He fills a corresponding soul need. If we stop long enough to think about it, we must realize that most people in the world are unhappy. The vast majority don't know what is wrong with them, but they are not contented. The truth is that their souls are hungry, unfilled. And Jesus is the "bulk" that alone can fill the void, give a feeling of well-being, and bring the happiness of contentment. Our souls must be miserable without a daily filling by Him.

Again, "I am the bread of life" tells us that Jesus nourishes our souls and enables them to grow and develop to maturity. All of us know that a growing body requires more food than one that has finished its growth. Appetites are biggest during the teen years when the body is growing fastest. And bread is one of the best foods to supply the vitamins and minerals and calories that growing bodies require.

News From Some of the Cottages

LEES COTTAGE

Everyone is having a good time at Barium since school is out.

We go swimming, play ball, marbles, and work a little.

Six boys came from Synods to live with us, they are George Moore, Bobby Fry, Peyton Miller, Charles Creech, Marvin Garriss and Ronnie Hudgins.

Vacations will start soon and we are looking forward to spending some time with our home folks and friends.

We are going to camp this afternoon to clean up. Amos Hardy is our new boss and we have a lot of fun with him.

Mr. & Mrs. Dawson and daughter and granddaughter came for Commencement and brought us some funny books.

We are glad to have Charles and Ray Smith come and live with us.

We went to the show the other day to see "Song of the South."

We are going to Vacation Bible School now and we are having a good time.

We will miss Mr. and Mrs. Johnston this month, hope they have a happy vacation.

others in Miss Moose's class.

Two of our girls are going to Hickory Dockery Camp the 9th. We hope they will have a fine time. We are anxious to go on our vacation and that is our topic for conversation at present.

Eight of our larger girls moved to Rumble Hall and six girls moved from Annie Louise to our cottage their names are: Betty Lou Johnston, Laura Jane Craig, Shirley Hollifield, Jackie Liverman, Shirley Shaw and Nellie Rae Sellers. We are glad to have them come live with us.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Well, the swimming pool is really open and all are going in every day. Boy, that water really feels good after a hot day of working!

We haven't started stringing beans yet but we will soon be helping the Howard girls string them.

Almost all of us have gotten our toes stumped since we have been going bare footed, but that doesn't matter because we can always get one of the big girls to paint them.

We are all looking forward for June 14 because that is when we start on our vacations. Boy it really is a headache because it is hurry, hurry, hurry all the time! We think we are never going to get home.

Last Saturday our matron and two big girls took us down to the spring for a picnic. We really had a good time, we played games and had lemonade, cookies, sandwiches and oranges for supper.

We will be looking for you next month.

— Annie Louise Girls

HOWARD COTTAGE

This is one of the most exciting months of the summer so many things are happening to us. Miss Taylor came to our cottage to live and we hope she will enjoy living with us as much as she did the Synods boys.

We got our first peas June 3, we had four crates of peas to shell.

I guess you know the swimming pool is open and we are having a grand time in it.

Bible school has started. We all go to Bible school and we have a good time. The Junior department had to be divided because there were so many. Half of us are in Miss Troutman's class and the

JOHNSTON COTTAGE

It has been but about three weeks since school closed and work begun but it seems much longer to us who hunger for knowledge and long for the classroom.

N't getting to go to camp this year we are looking forward to our vacations very much.

The boys in our quad have been shaken up and reshuffled. Billy Lybrand, great romeo of Statesville and beloved by all who know him, has departed to dwell with his comrade, Jack Clark, in quad two. Ray Clark, Donald Mitchell, and "Jeep" (a K-9) still room together. Billy Mack and Terrel are still trying to make a go of it, however they now have a valet, Carl Spicer.

The Whiting brothers, John and Bobby are still living together peaceably except for their regular arguments with "Mole" Meroney and "Buster" Myatt. "Buster" set a new record by not blowing a fuse with his experiments in a whole month.

J. D. Everett and Paul Barnes are still fighting for their beds when visitors come.

Last and everything but least we come to Charles Barrett and Herbert Good. We have no slighting remarks to make about these two grand boys, so you can guess who wrote this.

Thanks for your reading time. Good health to all from us all.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Summer is here and summer means hot weather. That means swimming and all the other summer activities that we are swinging into. The pool has opened and every one is getting his share of swimming. Our tennis champs have been occupying the court from morning til night. Our recreation room now has a piano. Now everyone who isn't a Beethoven can really enjoy himself playing chop sticks and boogie woogie.

Mrs. Bryant, with the help of the girls, has been turning our long neglected back yard into a garden.

The seniors have taken over at the sewing room and have turned out many pretty clothes.

That is about all the news for this month, but we'll be back next month with more facts, about our building and our "gals."

— The W. B. Girls

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

When you last read the gossip and bits of news from the sewing room, you were hearing from a group of seasoned veterans. Today you are reading the news from a bunch of girls who have been sewing only three weeks. However we have turned out many dresses and other items. Mrs. Smith has been slowly but surely pumping the "do's and don'ts" about sewing into our heads.

Sadie Buie isn't tearing up the machines as fast as she did in Home Economics but no B-29 could beat her on the take off.

Mildred has been singing "Its Benny a Long, Long Time."

Lucille Stricklin hasn't quite hit the jack pot yet but she's still betting on those corny radio programs.

Betty Jo is leaving us next week to go to a conference at Red Springs. (Good luck Jo)

We wonder why Peggy and Betty always spell please — Pleas.

Bradley Jean certainly is happy these days. Could it be because she is hearing from Robert so often. We wonder?

Va. Presnell sews so much until we don't know anything to say about her.

Ernestine Baldwin got tired sewing, she went to the Infirmary.

Pearl Morgan is hoping she can wait on tables in Laurinburg this summer. She always did like to wait on tables.

Enough of this gossip. Folks just remember to read our column next month.

SYNODS COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

We are so busy playing and going to Bible School that we almost let our cottage news slip by this time.

First of all, we want to tell you about our Bible School. It started Monday morning at nine o'clock when we all went to church and were divided into classes according to our age. We are learning something new every day and oh gee, what a good time we are having! Next month, we will give you a full report on the outcome of Bible School.

Mrs. Bowling has gone on a two weeks vacation to Stanford, Kentucky and we miss her very much. Dewie Buie, one of our former big sisters, who is back from Flora Macdonald College for the summer, is seeing to it that we keep our hands and faces clean and get to Bible School on time along with her many other tasks.

It is almost warm enough to go in swimming and we are looking forward to it very much. Here's hoping we'll have a long list of boys to report to you next time who know how to swim.

So long until next month when we hope to have lots of news to report.

— "The Wigglers"

PRINTING NEWS

Our school days have ended for the summer and we have been enjoying the three weeks that school has been out. Most of the Printing Crew will leave us this month for their beloved vacation. There is, Jimmy Reid our right hand man in the printing business. James Williams, assistant shoe cobbler, Dwight Reid the faithful printers devil. We hope the rest of the crew can carry on after we lose these most valuable men. Wishing them many good times as Mr. Kyles, Mr. Wally assistant printer Twombly and myself, continue to carry on the good work.

BABY COTTAGE

Hi There,

It has been a long time since you have heard from us, and we have so much to tell we don't know where to start.

To begin with we have a lot of new children. They are as follows: Jackie Taylor, Brenda, Linda, and John Lea Shepherd. Linda Byrd, Douglas's little sister, is also new. Douglas has been here for quite a while, he is five years old. Linda has just come and we are so glad to see her.

We have had lots of fun lately. We have been going to Bible School and have had lots of fun there.

Mr. Johnston came to blow bubbles for us in the afternoon. They have also taken us for a ride in the new Barium bus. We also can have fun on rainy days for the Cherryville Men's Bible Class brought us all some nice coloring books and crayons.

We were sorry to loose Miss Moles. Also six of our big boys have moved to Synods' Cottage.

Miss Richards has taken Miss Moles place as our little girls' matron. We all miss Miss Moles but are happy to have Miss Richards with us.

Guess that is about all that has happened at our cottage so bye for now.

Vacations will begin June 14th and several of us are going in the month of June. We sure hope Mr. Johnston will have a nice time while he is away on his vacation.

We will try and bring you more news next month.

We'll sign off for this time.

Dr. John R. Mott

I have just come back from the most exhausting but illuminating trip of my life. I have visited nine principal zones of Europe, representing five world-wide agencies, and I know from what I have seen and felt, that while this is the most dangerous era the world has ever known, it is also incomparably the greatest opportunity to build and develop a future that will far transcend anything in the past.

I have in my collection, 115 sets of findings which have been adopted by various organizations, committees on post war requirements, international and national welfare organizations, problems incident to the atomic bomb and others of a religious character, all of them dealing with resolutions looking toward the betterment of mankind.

Never has there been anything quite like this. Many groups of thoughtful and serious people across the breadth of the world are trying to take stock of our world situation, asking the question — "Where are we heading?"

When I think of human tragedy, as I saw it and felt it, of the Christian ideals sacrificed as they have been, the thought comes to me that God is preparing the way for some immense, direct action. Who knows through what conduits and channels He will make His power felt? I believe we are on the threshold of something far greater and more portentous than the world has ever known.

These piled up figures, Dr. Vickrey has assembled, are not an exaggeration. Their only fault is that they are an under-statement.

What is money? It is so much stored up personality, whether the dribbles of the poor or the rivers of wealth. Money is a solemn trust and responsibility. Apart from money, we cannot do the larger things.

What is organization? The means of distributing force more advantageously. With the impulse to go forward, and gathered momentum, what can we not do?

What does the increasing thoughtfulness and turning to religion mean? It means the hour is here. We are summoned to something that will far transcend anything in the long history of mankind.

Man's extremity has ever been God's opportunity. We are on the threshold of something that may be marvelous. We should walk softly here, today.

Are we sufficiently responsive to recognize God's visitation? — The Baptist Courier.

SOURCE OF SPIRITUAL POWER NEGLECTED

The Church has been neglecting the source of its spiritual power. We can never know accurately the state of the Church until we look into the Scriptures. If the Bible is the Christian's only rule of faith and conduct, it is no less the one standard by which the Church can gauge its power and spiritual condition. More specifically, the book of Acts sets forth clearly the plummet which God places alongside the Church to show the degree of rectitude. Here is not man's measurement; here is God's. The test applied is not: Is the Church getting on in the world? The question is: Is the Church fulfilling God's purpose, is it indwelt by His life? The Church is God's husbandry, God's building. He had laid the foundation. Christian fellowship is the temple of God. If any man defile the temple of God, him will God destroy, for this spiritual habitation of God is holy. When a minister of Christ breathes deeply and long in the pure, pungent atmosphere of the book of Acts, he is bound to come forth from the experience with some deep convictions concerning the state of our churches. The change in atmosphere is arrestive— even startling. And the difference is summed up in one fact; namely, that the Holy Spirit is not honored in our churches as He was in the infancy of the Christian movement.

HOW DO YOU RATE AS A PARENT?

Parents have report cards too! The Piedmont, California High School Dads Club issued a report card which parents graded themselves, according to the Bulletin of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals. For each of the following questions to which they could answer an unequivocal "Yes" they received ten points:

- 1. Do you provide a quiet study room for your child away from family, telephone, and radio?
- 2. Do you schedule a regular study time, and insist on its being kept?
- 3. Do you make an unsatisfactory report card (grades 3 or below) or a delinquency slip an occasion for a parent-faculty conference, at once?
- 4. Do you require your child to stay at home and study every evening before a school day?
- 5. Do you see that your child gets adequate sleep? (9 hours Jr. High)

(8 hours H. S.)?

6. Do you contribute to your child's school morale by avoiding criticisms of teachers and school before your child?

7. Is the home work help you give your child such that he does not become dependent upon you?

8. Do you insist that your child refrain from cigarettes and cocktails?

9. Do you refuse to permit your child to do things you do not approve, even when he tells you "everybody else does"?

10. Do you refuse to permit unchaperoned parties or "dark dances" in your home?

— Uplift.

WHAT IS HOME

A roof to keep out the rain? Four walls to keep out the wind? Floors to keep out the cold? Yes, but home is more than that. It is the laugh of a baby, the song of a mother, the strength of a father. Warmth of loving hearts, light from happy eyes, kindness, loyalty, comradeship. Home is first school and first church for young ones, where they learn what is right, what is good, what is kind. Where they go for comfort when they are hurt or sick. Where joy is shared and sorrow eased. Where fathers and mothers are respected and loved. Where children are wanted. Where the simplest food is good enough for kings because it is earned. Where money is not so important as loving kindness. That is home. God bless it!—Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

— Baptist New Mexican.

LIQUOR PICTURES

Far too many of our young people are seeing the wrong pictures in connection with liquor traffic. Wet propaganda and liquor advertisements portray the person who drinks as an elegant gentleman or glamorous lady imbibing amid surroundings of culture, sophistication and refinement. Unfortunately, that is the only picture many people seem to see. But there is another that should be kept vividly in the imaginations of youth: the broken home, the foul-smelling drunkard, the mangled victims of automobile accidents caused by drinking drivers, the depraved criminal, the pathetic alcoholic. Quite often, the cartoonist pictures the ardent dry as a fanatic with a long face, long hair, long coat, long nose, tall hat, and bulging umbrella, lifting a warning face. The caricature of the temperance advocate, offensive to the imagination, has probably done more to prejudice young people against the dry cause than all the arguments and editorials of the wet press taken together. There is another picture of the brilliant doctor or the learned judge, or the unprejudiced social worker, or the impartial scientist, or the judicious minister, who intelligently and conscientiously oppose the liquor traffic because of the tragic ruin it has wrought in human experience.

— J. Maurice Trimmer in Watchman-Examiner.

FATHER OF THE R. F. D.

City residents of this country have never had much reason to complain of Uncle Sam's mail service. Since the year 1853, their letters have been delivered regularly at their front doors.

It has been different with farmers and other people living in the outlying rural areas. Less than fifty years ago, the people of these sections had to walk or drive to the nearest post office. Often this meant a journey of ten miles or more. On the face of it, this arrangement seemed hardly fair. No one had considered it seriously enough to do anything about it for all those years.

The establishment of the R. F. D. changed all that. Rural free delivery routes now extend over most of the back country roads, and tin mail boxes dot nearly every highway. From Bad Axe, Michigan, southward to Rough and Ready, Texas; from Sudden, California, to Meddyhemp, Maine, and back again to Evening Shade, Arkansas, these boxes stand unguarded along the road.

Who brought about this revolutionary improvement?

Curiously enough, "the father of the R. F. D." seems to be forgotten today. He was Perry S. Heath and was appointed first assistant postmaster-general by President McKinley. He had hardly stepped into his new office before he began to plan for better mail service for the farmers. To him, more than to anyone else, the nation owes its present rural free delivery system.

The son of a Methodist lay minister, Heath was born in Muncie, Indiana, on August 31, 1847. He must have been an up-and-coming young man, for by the time he was twenty-one, he was sole proprietor of the Indiana city's first newspaper. Then, succumbing to the Western fever, he sold out and moved to Aberdeen in Dakota Territory, where he launched another paper.

Washington, the national capital city, was his next stopover, and here he made quite a name for himself as a journalist. Heath became well acquainted with Republican party leaders. They were so impressed with his ability that they asked him to take an important part in managing William McKinley's campaign for the presidency.

It was 1896, and William Jennings Bryan was making speeches up and down the country on "free silver." Heath decided on a different approach for his candidate. He decided that he would make an appeal to the voters of the country through the newspapers. He had 135 carloads of campaign literature printed and distributed throughout the country. He hired 350 writers to produce "Republican copy" for more than 12,000 newspapers.

The result of the election everybody knows. Grateful for the part Heath had played in his election, McKinley appointed him first assistant-Postmaster-general. It was an office that the publicity director was well qualified to fill, and as soon as he took up his new duties he began to make changes that at the time seemed very startling.

His biggest innovation was in country mail delivery. The R. F. D. already existed in a small way, but had never been given any whole-hearted backing by his predecessors in office. Skeptical of its success, deeming it impractical, earlier postmasters-general refused to ask Congress for any large outlay of funds. The biggest appropriation that had ever been made was $50,000, and for a nationwide service it can be imagined how far this would go and how ridiculously inadequate it proved.

Grangers and farmers flooded Heath's office with petitions demanding better mail service. Even if the assistant had not been convinced a vast improvement was possible, he would have had to listen to their appeals. As a matter of fact, Heath was all for the experiment and made such a strong plea that Congress granted him $150,000 for the R. F. D. the first year.

The following year, the allotment was doubled. By that time, Perry Heath's work was beginning to show that the experiment in free rural delivery could be a success. Congress sat up and took notice since the public approved the service so enthusiastically. By 1900, the number of rural delivery routes had increased from 44 in 1897 to 1,214.

Encouraging as this was, Heath foresaw the time when it would be of nation-wide benefit. In his report to Congress he pointed out,

"It no longer is in an experimental stage, but has reached a practical stand-point. With the cooperation of Congress, this rural free delivery service should be extended to the entire rural population."

Not long afterward, Mr. Heath resigned his Washington office to return to newspaper publishing, but his three years of organization had been a triumphant success. The people of the rural sections owe him a lasting debt for the mail service which has proved so worth while.

Let him that lacks wisdom ask of God who giveth to all freely and upbraidth none.

It's not enough to have ability however highly we may prize this. It's not enough to be able to translate Greek and Hebrew or calculate the distance from one planet to another. You may have the wit of Voltaire, the poverty of Byron, the science of Halley, the philosophy of Hobbs, the command of Napoleon, the statesmanship of Pitt, the common sense of Franklin, the mechanical skill of Stephen, the business talent of a Rothschild and a superficial knowledge of the Bible. But without the spirit that gripped the great Apostle to live is Christ you will fail.

— Baptist and Reflector.

years, leaves a person weak and stunted for life. It makes dwarfs, both physically and mentally. And soul starvation has exactly the same results. The world is full of spiritual dwarfs and weaklings whose condition is just as pitiful and just as apparent as that of the physically starved. They are indifferent to God because the starved soul is sluggish and unwilling to put forth the effort to think and work. They blight the world with their immorality and other crime, which are results of their souls not being fed.

Jesus alone provides food to build the bone and muscle of the soul. Only by feeding on Him can we grow and develop into spiritual adults. Our entire lifetime in this world is the "growing age" of our souls, and we need large amounts of the "bread of life" every day. There may be some reason why people must be physically undernourished, but there is plenty of "bread of life" for all.

Finally, "I am the bread of life" means Jesus can provide strength for the work God gives us to do each day. All of us know that if we are going to do hard work we have to eat heartily to prepare ourselves for it. Bread is a source of energy that enables the body to accomplish the tasks set for it.

Some people are afraid to try the Christian life because it looks too hard. In reality, they remain inactive because they are so starved that they are weak. They need the assurance that the "bread of life" can nourish and strengthen them, and enable them to do their duty to God. The well fed soul can say with Paul, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

There is no need to remind you readers not to neglect your three square meals a day for your bodies. But Jesus would remind you not to neglect the feeding of your soul as regularly and as well. "I am the bread of life", He says; "he who comes to me shall not hunger."

The Cruise of the Little Red Angel Being the Vacation Trip of the Johnston Family

By JOSEPH B. JOHNSTON

On June 4th, the remnant of the Johnston family, consisting of Mrs. Johnston, daughter Leila, and myself set out on a month's vacation. On that morning we gaily waved good-bye and set sail in our little red chariot to explore the United States, and thirty days and 480 gallons of gasoline later we pulled up at our home, winding up a series of most thrilling experiences, chief among which was the conviction that however great our nation may be and however wonderful the different states may appear there is nothing quite so nice as that particular part of North Carolina known as Barium Springs.

But wait a minute! Let's get started. We went to San Francisco. We spent nine nights and ten days on the way there. We spent ten nights and nine days in San Francisco; and we spent eleven days and ten nights on the way home. The first night we spent in Corbin, Ky., then Olney, Illinois, then just outside of Kansas City, then Colby, Kansas, then Loveland, Colorado (what a place for a honeymoon), then Vernal, Utah, then Ely, Nevada and Carson City, then Yosemite Valley and on in to San Francisco. On the way back the first night was at Bakersfield, then Boulder Dam, then the Grand Canyon, then Winslow, Arizona, Albuquerque, New Mexico, Elk City, Oklahoma, Fort Smith, Arkansas, Iuka, Mississippi (look that up on your map), Chattanooga, Tennessee, Fontana Dam, North Carolina, and then home.

On that first day out we really said good-bye to North Carolina at Montreat where we stopped with friends for a word or two and then lit out for foreign countries like Tennessee and Kentucky. In Tennessee we passed through the upper reaches of the Norris Lake and on to Louisville - we will remember that Norris Lake before we get back. Across the river from Louisville we had lunch with son Bill and his lady Nell and from that time until we reached San Francisco not a single person did we see that we knew, but everywhere we met people who knew about North Carolina. In Olney, Illinois where we spent our second night, the talk was about the heavy rains in Iowa and Nebraska and the damage it might do to that part of the country. We crossed the river at St. Louis - that is the big united Mississippi and Missouri - and it looked mighty peaceful on the way out. It really did not look any larger than the Ohio which we crossed at Louisville. On across the Missouri and then into Kansas, we commenced to see those big wheat fields and corn fields which made us wonder why people would take the trouble to farm little hilly fields like we have around Barium. The farther we went the bigger the fields seemed to get. The biggest crop of all was wheat, although alfalfa was plentiful and it seemed to grow so rank that there was hardly enough land where it grew for it to cure; it had to be spread out so the sun could get to it. But the rivers commenced to look ugly. Those we crossed were beginning to get

Death Makes Two Visits to Barium

Early in the morning of June 5th death visited Barium Springs. Richard Lee Huddleston, a thirteen year old lad, was stricken suddenly, taken to the hospital and just a few hours later passed away. The doctors diagnosed his trouble as meningitis. It struck suddenly and without warning.

Richard was born May 26th, 1934. He entered Barium Springs November 22nd, 1941. He was a member of the largest family at Barium during his lifetime - four boys and two girls.

Richard was beloved of everyone at Barium. He was eager to help, always cheerful, thoroughly dependable. On an occasion several years ago he and his sister just younger than he went on a vacation to a camp. His devotion and protective attitude toward his little sister made him the favorite at the camp. This was such a common trait in Richard's makeup that we at Barium just took it for granted. He was very popular around the families where there were young children - he liked to play with them and protect them. No one could have been missed more from our community than little Richard. The tokens of love, not only from those of us who live here but from all who knew Richard, indicated the deep affection in which he was held. His body rests in the little cemetery at Barium Springs.

Just one month to the day after the death of little Richard Huddleston, death again visited Barium Springs and this time took a faithful colored man who had worked at Barium for over twenty years - Everett Young.

Everett became ill about a week before his death. He was taken to the hospital and became rapidly worse, passing away early in the morning of July 5th. He was buried near his home in Troutman on July 8th. His funeral was attended by more people than could get into the church. Many expressions of admiration and love for this faithful citizen were made. Barium Springs will long miss Uncle Everett.

A number of years ago another faithful colored man, Uncle Abner, died. There was a team that he worked and one of the mules, Abner's favorite in that team refused to eat after his death; for a time it looked like Old Cordy would die. She lost three hundred pounds before she began to pick up. We had a veterinarian to check her over and he could find nothing wrong. We finally decided that the verdict of the other colored men was correct, that Old Cordy was grieving for her master. Well, there is a team of mules at Barium Springs right now that are grieving for the man who drove them for so many years. They will, no doubt, miss for many months the sound of their master's voice.

We all miss Uncle Eb.

Mr. and Mrs. Benton and little daughter Betty came to Little Joe's Church from Dyersburg, Tennessee in February 1946. His pastorate of sixteen months was all too short for his many friends at Barium.

Mr. Benton is a fine preacher; an excellent pastor; and a very capable organizer. He was a most efficient scoutmaster and assistant football coach. His influence touched the life at Presbyterian Home at every point. The children loved him and his family

Goes to Black Mountain

Barium Springs is losing one of its landmarks, the Barkley family. Mr. Barkley has been the principal of the Grammer School, basketball coach, and assistant football coach for many years. Mrs. Barkley has been supply teacher and during the past year has taught the sixth grade most acceptably.

We had hoped that the Barkley's would stay here until they had forgotten the year they came, or until memory failed, but an opportunity for a larger service presented itself and they moved to The Mountain Orphanage at Black Mountain, N. C. The best wishes and love of every one at Barium goes with this family in their new work. We believe that both Mr. and Mrs. Barkley are particularly well qualified to handle the job to which they are going. It is a Presbyterian Orphanage in the Presbytery of Asheville - a good place, a good work, and we know these good people will make it better.

Mr. Barkley's successor has not been selected but someone will be secured to carry on the work which he did so well. We will miss this family for many a day.

News From Some of the Cottages

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends.
Well here we are bringing you what news we have for this month which isn't much.
Since you last heard from us there has been lots of excitement going on in our cottage about vacations. Most of us have gone and come back or getting ready to go.
Miss Eva Sluder, a former student, has come to be our matron in the dish hall. We all like her and hope she will be with us for some time.
We want to thank Mr. Calhoun for the nice ping-pong set he bought us. We all have fun playing with it.
We are sorry to tell you the sad news of one of our Barium boys, the angels came and took him home with the rising of the sun, he went from us into the presence of his Savior. This boy was Richard Hudleston.
Our news is running short so we will have to say so-long until next month.
— The Rumble Hall Girls.

LEES COTTAGE

Miss Neely Ford, our matron, is on vacation during the month of July, Miss Alice McConnell from Charlotte is taking her place. She has been teaching us some new games three evenings during the week. She has also been reading King Arthur stories to us and other good stories.
We enjoy going in swimming everyday.
Lots of the boys have enjoyed two weeks vacation this month. We go to camp in August.
We have been picking blackberries almost every day for the past two weeks. Although we have picked 300 gallons. Some have been used to make pies which we have enjoyed. The rest are being canned to use this winter. Along with the blackberries we have had extra visitors in the form of redbugs.
We think Amos Hardy is the best "boss" we have had. He keeps us so busy we don't have time to get into mischief. We hope he will have another good year at Davidson.
— The Annie Louise Girls

HOWARD COTTAGE

We have been enjoying our swimming pool these hot afternoons. A few of us can swim and several girls have learned to dive this summer. The time from 2:30 to 3:30 P. M. each day just seems to fly.

Miss Richards and Miss Moose have given us two water melon feasts. The babies were going to join us for the last one Wednesday afternoon but the rain forced them to stay at home and us to make a retreat to the back porch.
From the ladies of Circle Number Six of the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville we received a generous box of cookies and candy. These were very nice to have when we finished stringing beans and were tired and hungry.
Sixteen girls have returned from their two weeks of vacation. Jackie Liverman has gone to Hickory Dockory Camp. There she will get to learn new games and handicrafts. Jackie will like to ride the ponies which are named, "Beauty", "Lucky Star", "Tony", "White Rose" and "Chocolate Drop".
The few girls who do not get vacations will go to Camp Fellowship. That is always fun.
Miss Jackson, our matron, will soon return from her vacation in Virginia. We have missed her and it will be good to have her home at Howard again.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,
Well we are back again bringing you the news from our cottage.
Since the last time we wrote you most of our little girls have gone on their vacations. They are back now having as much fun working and playing as much as ever.
A few days ago the truck came backing into our house and sat down 25 beds. We are real proud of them and every time some one comes to see us we just have to show them our new beds.
Our matron has gone on a vacation for a month. We miss her but we hope she is enjoying herself. We have a girl who graduated from Barium now she is working up here this summer. We really like her and will be sorry to see her leave this summer.
We are helping the Howard girls string beans and we really like to do them.
You will see us again next month and we will probably be getting ready for school.
Until next month.

BABY COTTAGE

Our dear friends all over N. C.: We are having a wonderful time playing in the sun.
We are a bit lonely since six of our big brothers moved out to be ready for school and there are only six boys left, but we still have ten little sisters and two big ones and two big mamas to take care of us and believe me they sure do that and make us walk the chalk line too.
Since our last letter to you two little girls have come to live with us. They are real little it makes us big boys feel so big to have three little babies live with us. They are cute and we love them.
Not many of us got to go on a vacation I guess we are just too little but we will move out very soon and then we will get to go.
We have a new matron for the girls and we all love her so much.
Miss Moles came to see us July 4th. We sure were glad to see her and wish she would come back to live with us.
Ann Wilcox has been gone on a vacation for the past two weeks we are looking for her home today. Florence Andrews, our other big sister will go to camp pretty soon.
We had a watermelon party July 8th for Ruby Truelove and Billy Harrison's birthday. We had a happy time. We wish we could have many more melons to slice they are so good.
We are so glad to see Mr. Johnston back from his vacation but sorry for Mr. Benton to leave us. We miss him so much.
Well bye now.

out of bounds and some of the crops were being destroyed. A few weeks later the worst flood in a century crashed down over these lands and through the center of Missouri.
All through Kansas, while the land was level, it rose and we could begin to tell the difference when we crossed over into Colorado. Then we began to hit dry country and by the time we reached Denver we had almost forgotten about there being such a thing as rain. The approach to Denver is something which a person who has seen it can not soon forget. There are clouds in the sky, but as you approach nearer you see that they begin to separate and then you realize that the lower part of those clouds are snow-covered mountains, and as you get nearer and nearer to Denver they become more and more distinct and you begin to wonder if you are going to have anything to do with those mountains later on. Well, after spending a delightful half-day and night in and around Denver we started out to find out. Up through Thompson Canyon into the Rocky Mountain National Park we went to an elevation of something over 12,000 feet, and there we saw plenty of that snow. We went through places where the snow plows had cut the road through drifts at least twenty feet deep, and we thought it extremely interesting and funny that we would be here on the ninth of June driving through snow drifts. Well, before that day was over it ceased to be too funny because at a place called Rabbit Ear's Pass we ran into some new snow - a snowstorm, believe it or not, and for twenty-six miles we had some of the toughest going on the whole trip. I am sure that if that snow had laid on the ground there would have been at least six inches of it. At times the road was clogged with stalled cars and our faces were very red for a number reasons when we slid into the ditch ourselves. A highway truck pulled us out. We finally pulled into a town called Steamboat Springs and waited for the snow to stop before proceeding further. That was our introduction to the wonderful state of Colorado. We had an experience climbing the mountain that was interesting. As you go up from Denver to the high point in the Rocky Mountain National Park you have some wonderful scenes along the road. We pulled out at one of these places and immediately there was a great scurrying among the rocks just below us, and in a few minutes the chipmunks were sitting all around looking at us. Finally, one sickly looking little one crawled up to where we were standing and stood on its hind legs. We gave it a peanut, and in less time than it takes to tell it there was another and another, and finally the old Daddy Rabbit of them all, seeing that we were harmless tourists, came up and filled his jaws with our peanuts. This was the official recognition that we had that we were tourists - a traveling gravy-train to the inhabitants both four-legged and two-legged. It was not an unpleasant experience and we still have a very kindly feeling toward the little chipmunks who recognized us as harmless travelers ready to give them a hand-out. As fine as Colorado was we eventually pulled out of it and into Utah, and there were more interesting scenes, all climaxed by Salt Lake City and the Great Salt Lake. We spent a good part of a day in Salt Lake City. We listened to lectures on the Mormon Church and soaked up a lot of their history. It happens that this year they are celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of their move to Utah. The state of Utah recognizes this and has some words on their automobile license plates which were the words that Brigham Young said when he first laid eyes on the Salt Lake valley - "This is the place."

The whole state of Utah seems to be dominated by this Church and they have done some wonderful things - things of which any church might be proud. They certainly started from scratch in that dry, harsh country and have made a garden spot of it. We thought of this as we left their beautiful city, journeyed out by the Great Salt Lake and the Great Salt Lake Desert. There we saw geology of recent times. You can see the outline on the mountains of the ancient shore-line of Salt Lake when it used to be one thousand feet deeper than it is now. All of that was wonderful but we hadn't seen anything yet when it comes to studying geology. After leaving this state we bounced into a state that instead of being organized around a Church and its religion was one that very frankly derived its revenues from the weaknesses of men - the state of Nevada. The sign that greeted us as we entered this state was something like this: "Nevada - the state that has no ad-valorem tax, no license tax, no gas tax, no sales tax." We happened to know that the revenue of the state is largely derived from gambling machines and liquor sale so you could just feel the difference when you commenced to circulate in Nevada. In some of the other places we had been there was an eating house in the front with a gambling house in the back in Nevada the gambling house was in front and the eating place was in the back and the slot machine were in evidence everywhere we went.

We spent our first night in Nevada at Ely. We did not know thing about the town before we got there, but found it to be one of the most interesting places on our trip. We could spend a lot of time talking about Nevada. I had just read an article by ex-president Herbert Hoover in which he said that the United States was unable to feed the whole world and itself too. He made a rather depressing picture of it. Well, I wonder if he had ever traveled through Nevada. There is enough land there which does not seem to have any inhabitants on it at all that might be irrigated and turned to use that would feed a good part of the world by itself. Nevada, one of the largest states, has less people in it than one good sized North Carolina city.

One of the most remarkable things about traveling in this state is what it does to your eyes. After we entered Nevada at Wendover we entered a valley which appeared to us to be about two miles wide and to have a lake at the lower part of it. We found that that valley was fifteen miles wide and that the lake at the bottom was a mirage. We crossed a small mountain range and into another valley ten miles wide with a mirage lake in the bottom. We crossed so many of these between Wendover and Ely that we lost count. The land in these valleys was practically level. There was no sign of a person or anything alive but prairie dogs and an occasional squirrel. At one place a coyote took a look at us and seemed inclined to trot along beside us just for company, but gave up the job after a little while. We passed only one town in the hundred miles between Wendover and Ely - that was McGill, Nevada, and we could see its lights twenty miles before we reached it. It snowed on us a little as we entered Ely and the next morning it was rather cool. As we left the town we came to a sign in the road which said that nearby was the biggest man-made hole in the world. We had to investigate. It turned out to be a copper mine and we are willing to admit that it was certainly the biggest hole we ever saw, man-made or otherwise, up to that time. It started out to be a mountain but they had mined the copper ore with steam shovels, hauling the waste and dumping it in a valley and now the valley is a mountain and the mountain is a hole in the ground. I would not say how deep that hole is, but there were at least twenty levels with a railroad track on each level. While we were there a train with a crew had started and was about half-way down. We understand that it takes about an hour and a half to go from the top level to the bottom level. Well, we must not stay too long at Ely. Our next stop was at Carson City where we secured a place to stop and then set out to explore Lake Tahoe which lies partly in California and partly in Nevada. We drove completely around this lake - 74 miles. It is probably the biggest spring in the world because no river runs into it and quite a good-sized river runs out of it. I asked one of the people there what became of that river and he said it just disappeared or dried up out in the desert - it did not get anywhere. This is a very deep lake with whole mountain ranges in it and the color of the water is beautiful. In driving around it you see it from highland and from lowland, in places you almost look straight down into it and it is a wonderful place. We think of Lake Waccamaw and White Lake as being pretty good-sized springs, but neither of these would make any impression on Lake Tahoe at all.

The next day we left Carson City and set out for Yosemite Valley. On the way we passed Lake Mono and that is an amazing lake - it has no outlet, it is not salt, it is alkali, the alkali is so strong in it that it sometimes crystallizes on the surface and this makes it look as though it were frozen over in spots. We will have to talk a little geology to explain that lake. When the Rocky Mountains were being pushed up and the things that afterwards became the Yosemite and the Grand Canyon and other places were rising up, part of it slipped and fell back. Geologists call it a "fault", and on one of these places is what is now Lake Mono.

After leaving this place we started to climb and if any of you have an idea that you have done mountain climbing in a car by going up from Old Fort to Black Mountain, or from North Wilkesboro to Sparta, don't say anything about it until you have gone from Lake Mono to Tioga Pass - it is equivalent to climbing up the top of Mount Mitchell and then climbing the same height - it is over 10,000 feet when we get up there and the road is steep and narrow and sometimes there appears to be nothing but air under you. It looked terrifying to us on the way up. I know it must have looked twice as terrifying to anyone coming down. We happened to have the inside track going up and we met a man who would have to pass us on the outside. He just couldn't take it - he pulled over against the wall or precipice and waved us to pass him on the outside which was to his left. So much for that.

We landed in this part of the Yosemite Park - over 10,000 feet. There was snow there. The ranger described the road we would take to get down - he said it was a one-track road and had just been opened for a week, that is the snow had just been cleared off of it, and we would have to look out for up-coming cars as those coming up have the right of way. In other words, if we should be on a narrow place and meet a car coming we would have to climb a tree with our car to let him pass. It sounded dangerous and we would not recommend that twenty-six miles which starts you down as just an everyday pleasure drive. However, it was fun. We got our first glimpses of the deer there although they did not bother us - they did later on when we had to stop twice to let the deer get out of the road. We couldn't understand this at first, but we believe that the deer had been reading the literature that they have in all of the parks informing all of the people who come to the Park that they are not allowed to harm any of the wild animals, so the deer naturally know that we cannot harm them even with an automobile, and they are not in too big a hurry about getting out of the road.

We finally landed down in the Yosemite Valley, climbing down (by road, of course) through the northern side of the gorge. We had a most delightful day there. There are so many things about it that it would take too much space just to tell all the things that we saw and heard in this marvellous place. We learned some geology. We had always looked on Stone Mountain as being a pretty respectable chunk of granite. We had even heard it said that it was the biggest chunk of granite in the world. Well, the Yosemite Park which is the size of a fair-sized county is just one chunk of granite which a little river cut a slice through.

The last thing we enjoyed in the day in the Yosemite was the fire fall. We sat at the base of a cliff and saw the pouring of live coals over a precipice at Glacier Point. It had the appearance of a falls just like it were water - a most impressive sight and something of nightly occurrence in the Yosemite. The place where this went over the top was just a mile and a half from where we sat. The next morning we drove thirty-five miles to reach that point and eat breakfast. Later on in that day we went to the grove of the big trees that are in the Yosemite Park and drove through the big tree that has a highway cut through it and had our pictures made to prove that we had been there.

Then we left the highland and went down into the valley. We had been living up high so long that we had gotten used to the cool and rarefied air, and it made the San Jacin Valley seem oppressively hot and close and we did not spend too much time there as we drove right on to San Francisco.

San Francisco is a magic city and man has added two wonderful things to it - the two bridges. We stayed about equidistant from the two, maybe a little nearer the Golden Gate Bridge. We drove across both bridges several times. They seemed more wonderful every time we went on them. Alcatraz, the most famous prison in the United States, was in the Bay in easy sight of where we stayed. Ann Fayssoux, our daughter, was our hostess and guide in San Francisco and the ten days we spent there were busy, delightful days. The Golden Gate Park, The Cliff House, the cable cars, Fort Mason, Treasure Island, Oakland, Berkeley, the ferry over to Berkeley, the fisherman's wharf, Nob Hill, Chinatown. A too brief summary and not nearly inclusive enough. One of the most wonderful things about San Francisco is the intense loyalty of everybody we met. I took the car to a garage for a check-up. The man in charge was originally from Cleveland, Ohio. I discussed with him some of the difficulties of an Easterner understanding the traffic regulations in San Francisco. He said, "They are the worst of any place in the world, but if you stay here long enough you will get used to it but if you stay here that long you will never be able to leave the blankety-blank place you will be so in love with it then that no other place on earth will satisfy you."

While in San Francisco we had a meal at the famous Omar Khayyam: we saw a show at one of the big opera houses: we went to the Standard Oil Hour with its big symphony orchestra: we went to see the Ice Follies - the very tops in entertainment: we rode the ferry to Oakland. Leila and David Morris went to Sacramento for a side-trip. We spent a half a day in the Zoo until the monkeys were almost ready to claim kin with us, and we left San Francisco feeling that we had not begun to see all that was to be seen. Leila went off to Los Angeles for a day, flying down and arranging to meet us at Bakersfield, so she missed one of the most delightful days of that trip. That was when Lt. Eston Lackey took me over the Navy Yard, into a submarine, all through a big airplane carrier, and all over Treasure Island which now belongs to the Navy. We saw the wreck of the airplane carrier, Independence, which was one of the smashed up vessels in the Bikini bomb test. We met Eston's wife, baby and little step-daughter - a delightful family. On Sunday we had a visit from Betty Lou Hooten who has grown taller and prettier than she even was at Barium.

On Monday, June 23rd, we bade farewell to San Francisco and journeyed down the peninsula through the hottest, driest country I think I have ever seen. We followed a river, the Salina; and it had big bridges across it both for railroads and for highways, but not a drop of water in it. As a matter of fact, in that part of California there is far more oil than there is water and yet the country is low and the production of crops is tremendous - all irrigated. Bakersfield is the center of the California oil fields and when you leave there to go East they really talk of your going on to the desert. We thought we had been in dry country before but we did not know the half of it. Most people carry an extra supply of water, not only to drink but to feed the automobile, as the water in the radiator usually boils out before you are half way across. Our little car behaved nicely, however, and we did not have to pamper it but that thermos bottle that was so thoughtfully given us when we started our trip saved our lives many a time. We would fill it up every time we stopped and drink that cool ice water between stops.

We finally left California and went back into Nevada to Los Vegas and then to Boulder City and the Hoover Dam, spending the night there and having a most interesting day going through that big enterprise. You go down an elevator from the top of the dam down to the level of the powerhouse. A guide takes you down and explains everything to you. I won't attempt to do that here except for the wonderful feeling that man had within the last ten years conquered that Colorado River and put it to use. Before that it was a destructive thing, destroying more than it helped. Now it not only yields electricity but it has stopped flood danger and supplies irrigation water for enormous sections of the country and water for the city of Los Angeles. Before we arrived there we had begun to realize the absolute importance of water to that section of our country.

After our day at Boulder we drove to the Grand Canyon, and there had another thrilling day. Mrs. Johnston and Leila gave me an extra thrill in paying my way on an airplane which spent about thirty minutes over the center of the Grand Canyon. You know this Canyon is so big that you cannot see the river from the top - you know that the river has cut the Canyon and you want to see it, but it is hidden by the trench that it has dug but from an airplane you can see it plainly and it is a wonderful thing. There we had another lesson in geology which was most interesting. It made us believe that the Yosemite was just a recent occurrence - that thirty million years was all it took to do the job - whereas the Grand Canyon took at least a billion and a half.

From the Grand Canyon we had hoped to spend the night at Flagstaff, Arizona, but were unable to get a place to stay so we missed several interesting things - Sunset Mountain and the Meteor Crater near Winslow but we might have spent too much time if we had lingered. We went on to the Petrified Forest and the Painted Desert and the reason people don't talk about those things so much is because nobody would believe them. We brought back a little piece of petrified wood to prove that there was such a thing as the Petrified Forest, but there is no way to prove anything about the Painted Desert. We were still passing rivers that had no water in them and the first time we commenced to find water was when we reached Albuquerque. There the Rio Grande at this time of year has a little water in it, but we understand that it dries up by midsummer.

Oklahoma, Arizona, and New Mexico are wonderful states. We won't attempt to describe Texas although we went clear across the Panhandle without having to spend the night in it. We did not see enough to really know about Texas. This country through there is another great wheat section and we hit it right at the time when combines were in action on every hand. The grain elevators were busy and the roads were full of trucks hauling wheat to these elevators. Certainly going through Kansas and coming back through Oklahoma and Texas, a person could not be afraid of running out of bread. We spent a night in Albuquerque, and our next night in Elk City, Oklahoma. In the morning there I turned my radio on to get the news, and what should I get but the "Voice of Carolina" - it was the Briarhoppers from WBT in Charlotte - and didn't they sound good! Claude Casey, Fred Kirby and all the others with Kirk Webster announcing. The station tuned in on was Wichita Falls. This was Sunday morning, June 29th. We journeyed on, stopping for church at Oklahoma City and then on to Fort Smith for the night.

The womenfolk of the party had pretty well had their way about what we should look at and what we should miss, but I was determined to show them some North Carolina doings that would at least compare with things like Boulder Dam and the big bridges in San Francisco, so we set Fontana Dam as the place we would stop last. On leaving Fort Smith we decided to see some of the Tennessee Valley doings. We dropped down into Mississippi and spent the night at a little town called Iuka; it is the county seat and is about the size of Troutman and full of good, friendly folks. They told us a lot about the Pickwick Landings Dam and the other Dams so that the next morning we were prepared to enjoy seeing the Wilson Dam at Florence and driving across the Wheeler Dam and soaking up a lot of information about the various dams that had made the old red dangerous Tennessee River a series of lakes.

Forty-two years ago I was in Sheffield, Alabama. At that time the Tennessee River could not be used for anything. It was a danger in flood time and it was too shallow in dry times to support any ships. It was a menace. Now it not only furnishes navigation all the way to Knoxville, Tennessee, but it protects that whole land from floods and helps to control the Ohio River so that it ceases to be a menace from Paducah down. We spent the entire day sight-seeing in the valley, finally arriving at Chattanooga and getting a bird's eye view of the city from Lookout Mountain. We spent the night there in a delightful Motor Court and then set out for N. C. We passed through a section of country which is slowly being brought back to life. It is around Ducktown, Tennessee, where there is a copper smelter. For years the fumes from the copper refinery were allowed to settle on the country which destroyed all the vegetation - not a living piece of grass, tree or shrub remained, and the land washed away. Now the TVA is getting trees and grass started back on that land.

We passed some wonderful dams and finally arrived at Fontana. Fontana is the fourth highest dam in the world. It dams up the little Tennessee, the Nantahala, and the Tuckeseegee rivers, and creates a lake over thirty miles long. After a delightful day and night there, Mrs. Johnston and Leila took a boat and proceeded up the lake to Bryson City. I took the car and traveled sixty-five miles around the mountains to meet them there. Then on to Montreat and home by nine o'clock, and the nearer we came to Barium Springs the better the air seemed to feel and the happier we became. We came back with memories of wonderful things. No longer do we think of the United States as an old, settled country. It is a young vigorous country and we are just now commencing to do things with it. When you look at the Grand Canyon and the Yosemite and the other marvels of nature it makes you feel mighty small; then when you see things like Boulder Dam, the big bridges in San Francisco, and the miracle that the TVA has accomplished, you are grateful that God has permitted his little creatures, men, to do things like that. All of these things have been accomplished within the last fifteen years, and there are so many more things to accomplish. For instance, as we crossed the Mississippi on the way home all the land above us was in distress. We crossed at Memphis, but at St. Louis and all above there they were suffering a flood - a flood such as used to devastate the Tennessee Valley and the lower reaches of the Colorado. Now those things are under control - surely within the next few years men will be able to control the Missouri and the Mississippi and the Ohio and other lesser streams.

Another thing that impressed us was the kindness of people. We don't think we came across an ill-tempered person on the whole trip. They were busy - sometimes they were inclined to charge too much for the things that we needed - but, all in all, they met us with a smile, served us well, and waved us on as good neighbors. We crossed state lines - many of them - going into twenty states altogether and only once were we stopped - that was for an inspection to see if we were carrying any fruit. Every time we passed one of these lines we could not help but think of what it meant in other countries to cross from one commonwealth to another where passports, visas, and all those sort of things were necessary. Surely God has wonderfully blessed our nation.

We attended worship in Loveland, in San Francisco, and in Oklahoma City, twice in big churches, once in a post chapel, and once in a little church where the congregation was so small that the pastor met each member at the door when they came in, gave them a hymnbook, and carried on a conversation with different members all during the service. There was real religion there and you could feel it, even though the church was small and the congregation was few in number.

The best part of the trip was in getting back to Barium and seeing how well things had gone along in my absence. I really believe that it did Barium more good to be rid of me for a time than it did me to be rid of Barium. That's an idea! Don't talk it too much, however!

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., AUGUST 1947

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

I Cor. 12:31, But Covet earnestly the best gifts.

Dominant Desires

We all have desires - Those desires are mingled. We have good desires and bad desires. They often conflict. That was the experience of the Apostle Paul. He says, "For the good that I would I do not, but the evil that I would not I do."

There are sometimes conflict between desires which are both good. The Apostle Paul had a desire to remain on earth for the good of his work. He also had a desire to depart and be with Christ.

Now the desires which are strongest and so control us we call dominant desires.

Dominant Desires tend to attain their objects.

Little can be accomplished in life without an earnest desire.

Robert Burns the poet did much for his country Scotland. He tells of the dominant desire of his childhood.

"E'en then a wish (I mind its power)

A wish that to my latest hour

Shall strongly heave my breast,

That I for poor auld Scotland's sake

Some useful plan or book could make

Or sing a song at least."

A greater Scotchman was John Knox. He changed the life of Scotland; gave a plan for public schools established a Church government; gave a tremendous impression upon the world so that his ideals had much to do with establishing the free institutions in America. The great burden of John Knox was uttered in his prayers, "Lord give me Scotland or I die."

The great Dominant Desire of Christ he expressed in these words, "In the volume of the book it is written of me I have come to do Thy will O my God." Do we wonder that from the excellent glory (Continued On Page Three)

Vacation Hangover

(The Pleasant Kind)

The account of our vacation trip to the West Coast brought so many letters that I feel I must make some acknowledgment in this paper. At first I attempted to acknowledge all the letters that came in but, believe it or not, too many of them came in for that, so this is a public acknowledgment and thanks to those who wrote in or called in about that article in last month's Messenger.

It is most gratifying to know that so many people even read the Messenger, and still more gratifying that so many people are interested in the movements of us here at Barium. Many people wrote in who had made a trip something like that. They had stopped at some of the same places and the article stirred up pleasant memories. Letters from others told of planning to make such a trip and they were inclined to follow the same routing that we used to such good profit. One man wrote in even threatening to enter suit since our description of the trip had created so much enthusiasm in his family that he saw he was going to have to send or take them on that same trip and it was going to cost him a lot of money. He felt that he had a justified suit against me for stirring up all that enthusiasm! Of course, that was all in fun.

There is nothing we like to do more than to meet old friends and to make new ones, and this trip was so prolific in both of those - not only the trip itself but the tell (Continued On Page Three)

It Prints The Barium Messenger

The pictures which we present in the Messenger are usually of people. This time it is a picture of a machine at work - a very important machine - it prints the Messenger for you every month. Ordinarily, it is a right good-natured bunch of metal, but there are times when it is just as cantankerous as flesh and blood.

There was a time when the Messenger was quite a young publication and the type was set by hand and printed on a hand-fed press. It took a lot of doing to get it ready but the mailing list was not so large, so we managed to get it out on time every month - that is most every month. One time a boy was carrying the forms to the press and stumped his toe and dropped the type which had been set up for one whole page. The echoes of the groan that went up in the printing office still resound at Barium. That was a calamity of the first water. The type was pied - it had to be picked up and separated and then reset, and such a time that turned out to be.

As time went on a linotype machine was put in and that made the type-setting easier, but it did not make the printing any easier, and as the mailing list grew from five thousand to ten thousand to fifteen thousand and finally to twenty thousand it was quite a job to get that paper out. Then we installed this completely automatic press. You are supposed to pile the paper on top of it and it feeds itself, prints the paper and deposits it on a platform. All you have to do is to pick that paper up again and put it on top and let it run through and print the other side, just as simple as that. Well, that sounds nice and the boy can just stand there and look on as the paper goes through when everything is working right, but there are some five hundred different things that can go wrong in this piece of machinery. The paper can be too dry and get static in it, or the ink can act bad, or the feeding apparatus can get out of fix, or the paper sticks to the rollers. Mr. Kyles, who is the head of the printing department is entirely bald on top of his head. He is the only member of his family who has lost his hair. It did not fall out - it was pulled out just a little bit at a time when this big machine would take a notion to have a bad day. However, Mr. Kyles still has some hair left and an enormous amount of patience, and as a result this machine behaves nicely most of the time. Once a month it prints enough Messengers for a mailing list of twenty-five thousand. It prints our Annuals, and does a lot of other special work in the course of the year. It is like the little girl with the curl right in the middle of her forehead, when it is good it is very, very good, and when it is bad it is horrid.

School at Barium To Open Aug. 28

By the time you receive this, school at Barium Springs will have started and all the young people will be busy with their algebra, geography, reading, writing and arithmetic, and the grown folks will be busy at their various jobs. In the summer time this process is reversed somewhat. Many of the teachers go to summer school, and then there are various schools for the rest of us too. Down at Chapel Hill there is held every year an Institute for orphanage executives. We have been represented at that Institute for the last three years and found it very helpful. This year two of us took in the week designed for the executives. Some twenty-three orphanage superintendents were present. Many things were discussed and experiences told which will result, we hope, in all of the orphanages represented doing a better job. We hope that in our own case, certainly, we may (Continued On Page Three)

Dr. A. T. Jamison

On August 9th in Greenwood, South Carolina, Dr. A. T. Jamison passed away. Dr. Jamison was eighty-one years old, and yet to those of us who knew him he was so vigorous, and alert, and as interested in orphanage affairs as when we first knew him twenty-five or more years ago.

Dr. Jamison was the superintendent of Connie Maxwell Orphanage for forty-six years. Just a year ago he laid down the work of superintendent, turning it over to a man who had grown up under him as a student, as an assistant, as a co-superintendent, and finally as full superintendent.

Dr. Jamison was one of those people who dared to be different. He was not tied down by convention or practices which most people are afraid to break. If a thing appeared good, although it were different and new, he would try it, and as a result the institution which he administered was a leader for many (Continued On Page Three)

Many New Faces Seen on the Campus

By the time this issue of The Messenger reaches you school will be starting and all the vacationers will be back at Barium. That means not only children but teachers and workers. There will be some old friends missed - the Barkleys, the Bentons, Miss Burroughs and Miss Greene. We are going to miss all of them. In their places will be Mr. Archie Calhoun and his wife who will both have work in the Grammar School; Miss Ernestine Cullom will replace Miss Burroughs. Miss Cullom substituted here two years ago at Rumble Hall and I am sure most of us here at Barium remember her most pleasantly. Miss Margaret Ritchie will take over Miss Greene's work. Miss Dorothy Deal will be Miss Carpenter's assistant. Then there will be some additions to our staff of matrons. Miss Nell Richards has taken work at the Baby Cottage since school was out and she will be new to many of (Continued On Page Three)

MAINTENANCE DEPARTMENT

In this article I shall try to inform you of the maintenance department, its groups and their accomplishments this summer.

This is the largest working department at Barium. It is subdivided into three groups, all of which are under the general supervision of Mr. John W. Ervin. The three subdivisions are as follows: The Campus group, the plumbing and Electrical group and the Carpenter group.

I shall take each group, beginning with the smallest, and give you some idea of their work.

The plumbing group is composed of four high school boys, their foreman, and a boiler attendant who are in order named: Herbert Good, J. D. Everett, Ray Clark, Mason Traywick, Mr. Isaac White (director) and Walter Williams, boiler attendant. This group is in charge of all plumbing and electrical work on the campus. They are kept busy repairing bath rooms, fixing faulty wiring, broken irons, supplying the campus with light bulbs and other electrical appliances. This summer's work has been composed largely of installing plumbing in the chicken farm attendants' house, wiring the new shop and moving in, cleaning the water tank. They are right now in the midst of putting a new wall in the cold storage. This group is one the campus could not do without. They are on call twenty-four hours a day, and on all holidays. can see for yourself just how important their work is.

The campus group. This group has twenty nine boys on it, and is directed by Mr. R. E. Jackins. It is more an occupational group; formed to give boys from 9-12 years of age something to keep them busy and prepare them for heavier work. There are three larger boys who do the heavier work and Amos Hardy, a Davidson College student, who is "foreman" of the smaller boys. He sees that the lighter work is done. As the name would imply, the campus group keeps the campus clean. They water shrubs and new trees that have just been set out, clean the drainage gutters, cut weeds, and pick black berries that are taken to the kitchen and served. They have just completed the hard job of clearing the fence of vines which obstructed the view and also distracted from the campus. This work is valuable; not only for what the group accomplishes, but also for the training and experience the boys receive in working as a group among many groups.

The third and last group is the Carpenter's group. It has the largest number of high school boys and older men than any of the other groups in the department. On it there are nine high school boys, who are: Jack Clark, Jack Mangum, Jerry Young, Johnny Merony, Kenneth Walker, Kenneth Manus, James Wheeler, Paul Barnes, and Charles Barrett; four Carpenter employees, who are: Mr. M. F. Gabriel, Mr. T. A. Rumble, Mr. Joe Ben Gibbs, and Mr. Roscoe Smith. The last two named are Barium graduates. This is directed by Mr. John W. Ervin. The Carpenter's group does all repair work on the buildings, such as painting plastering and they also repair furniture. They construct most of the buildings, except the dormitories and main buildings. This summer we have had experience in all three types of work; Constructive, destructive, and cleaning up. First we have built a nice dual bus garage for our two new buses. We have completed our large new shop which has a large basement for the plumbing group. I don't believe my group would like it if I didn't brag a little on the new shop. The building is very well constructed and will look better after it has the green lawn growing in front of it. Most of the machines in it are new and when the rest come in we will be able to do the finest type cabinet work. In the back of the shop are two large rooms and a bath room completed with a shower bath. There is plenty of room and it will be a great improvement over the old shop.

Another item we are now working on is our warehouse. It is to the right of the shop, and will be a storage house for our lumber. I'll give you a brief summary of the work we've done this summer besides what I have already named. We have repaired, plastered, painted and varnished the Lowrance house. The swimming pool got its first coat of paint. Claude Stinson's house has a new coat of paint along with the dairy barn fences the dairy barn, and Jennie Gilmer basement.

Mr. Johnston's roof has been painted and now plans are in progress to do the same to Annie Louise Cottage. Some of our summer work, that hasn't yet been completed is painting all the chicken houses, and major repairs on the Barkley and White residences.

The work and training that one gets on one of these groups largely takes the place of the vocational training that is taught in other schools.

These groups, although separated in name are not independent of the other groups. Each group is in constant need of the other, and by cooperating, we gain a smooth working department.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Here we are back again to tell you every thing that has happened since last month.

All of our little girls are back from their vacations and all of us had a very nice time. After we came back our matron and two big sisters got us ready to spend a whole week at our camp. Clara Mangum one of our big sisters went with us. Bonnie Odom, the other one, went with the other camp.

We started to camp Monday right after dinner and got down there about 2 o'clock. The first thing we did was to put lipstick and finger nail polish all over us. We kept it on all week and we still can't see how the girl's and boy's who went down to look after us put up with us, but I guess when they saw how we looked they just wondered what we would look like in 3 or 4 more years. But we still had a good time going in swimming and everything that goes with camp even with our looks. Now we are back and looking forward for school to start and the teachers coming back.

Our flower garden is real pretty now. We have flowers all over the house.

We have one little new girl to live with us. Her name is Bernice Kuykendall. We are very glad to have her live with us.

Until next month.

—Annie Louise Girls

BABY COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

So much has happened to us this month we hardly know where to begin.

First of all, Mama Nelson has been on her vacation for a whole month. We missed her very much, but Miss Cloyce Moose was a very good substitute. We hope she has enjoyed being with us as much as we have enjoyed having her.

We have been swimming lots of times this month when the weather was good and hot. We are all crazy about the water and some of us boys think we already know how to swim.

Miss Richards, our matron upstairs for the girls, and Miss Moose gave us a birthday party and we invited Mr. Johnston and Miss Carpenter. The cake was mighty pretty and also good! We all had such a nice time!

Our two big sisters - Florence Andrews and Anne Wilcox - are out at camp this week. Elsie Vest and Callie Dunn are helping keep us nice and clean. A mighty big job, isn't it Elsie and Callie?

All of us girls have had a short hair cut and you should see us now. Some of us hated to part with our curls, but we all look and feel very cool now.

Wonder if everybody has had as much watermelon as we have had lately? We are beginning to lose count of the number we have had now, but we can tell you they all have been very, very good!

Linda Lee Byrd, our next to the youngest baby, is just about to out weigh us all. She is two years old and weighs forty pounds. We all like to tease her about swallowing a watermelon seed and it is taking root in her "tummy".

We have been to the movies several times this month in our big yellow bus. It is just lots of fun to go riding in it and especially when we get to go to the show. Paul Horne took us out to camp in it, and oh boy - did we have a grand time. We played in the sand until we got so dirty that Miss Richards could hardly tell us apart when we got ready to leave.

Well folks, this is all the news for this time. Look for us again next month when we will be back to tell you more about our good times.

Until then - so long.

—The Babies

LEES COTTAGE

Vacation is over and we are looking forward to starting back to school.

All the boys in our cottage went to camp for a week and we sure did have fun. We went swimming twice a day and some of us went boat-riding.

We enjoyed having Miss McConnell with us during July, hope she can come back next summer.

Charles and Ray Smith's mother visited them Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Beard and Mr. and Mrs. West came with her. They brought us ham and chicken and we had a picnic supper. Thank you folks.

We have been working at the office, fixing the yard. Miss Carpenter is going to put out some pansy plants.

We will be practicing football soon and then we will have fun.

Will have more to tell you next month.

—Lees Boys

INFIRMARY

Here we are bringing you the news from Sick Bay.

We have all returned from vacations and camp. The seniors were in charge of camp this year and we want them to know we had a wonderful time.

The men of our cottage are back to live with us again and we are very glad to have them.

Louise Harwell had a visit from her father and grandmother Saturday.

One of our girls, Vivian Jacumin left us to make her home with her sister in Valdeese.

We still have Melva, Marie, Hazel and Louise to nurse the sick.

We are having a few sick people mostly sore throats and sore ears, nothing really serious.

Well guess we will say so long until next month.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Dear Friends,

We have just returned from a two weeks leave of absence to bring you the latest news from the Sewing Room.

Mrs. Smith has just returned from a two weeks rest period which we think she deserved very much after struggling through the summer with us.

All of us had the privilege of being councilors at Camp Fellowship this year. We enjoyed ourselves very much and we hope the children did even more.

Lu. Stricklin is walking around with her head in the clouds. The reason, too many long distance calls from the air corps boy lately.

Sadie Buie is busy collecting pictures from the sports page of the newspaper. That's the reason she hasn't been sewing so much.

We never see "Ernie" Baldwin at night. We wonder why? Everyone is guessing.

Bradly Manus and Lu. Strick have been "feuding and fighting" over who they were going to invite to the Virginia Hall Social.

Betty Jo Smith is wondering if a certain team will enter the basketball tournament this year. Kinda early, aren't you Jo?

Peggy Coffey has been hearing from a Marine lately, so we hear. What are you holding back on us, Pug?

Betty Coffey is busy thinking about the Kentucky Derby and a horse named Don. She doesn't think he's much of a horse though.

Va. Presnell has been dressing up even to come to work lately. Wonder why? Could it be some one is next door?

The people on the second camp all ran out to greet Pearl when she came to visit us. The gravey certainly looked better. It looked more like gravey than it did the day before. Isn't that right, Lu?

If we don't stop it'll take the whole Barium Messenger for us alone. What would everyone else do? Look for us next month.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Drop by sometime and see our house, it has been varnished and it looks so pretty.

We went to camp August fourth and we had the best time. When we had to come back some of the girls almost cried.

We have a new girl at our cottage, her name is Catherine Kuykendall.

All of our girls went on a vacation except four, their names are Shirley Shaw, Betty Lou Johnson, Shirley Jean Byrd and Carol Jean Andrews. They went to the show with the Baby Cottage and rode around with Miss Carpenter.

Miss Moose is coming over to live with us this winter. We are glad to have her.

We have six music students, Louise Bradshaw, Shirley Byrd, Linda Inman, Lois Dellinger Margaret Hucks and Larua Jane Craig. We can hardly wait for school to start.

—The Bean Stringers

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Everybody,

August is always a month of happiness for the Synod boys. The first week was spent at Camp Fellowship under the watchful eyes of Miss Dewie Buie and it was an event that we will always cherish and we have resolved to be good "Little Men" so we will be allowed to go again next year. We boated, swam and some of us fished, and we all hunted for uncle Remus and all of his animal friends, but most of all we surely did eat, and at bedtime we were lulled to sleep by the water from the river flowing over the shoals.

Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman our big sisters went to the second week of camp, reporting much fun and a most satisfactory rest and recreation period.

Mrs. Arrowood gave a see-saw to the boys of Synod's and Lees Cottage and we sure do thank her for it. The board is just a bit short (all the 26 little boys can't get on it at the same time) so we left it out in the rain hoping it will grow.

We are indebted to Miss Alice McConnell for the lovely book, to be used in our devotional period. "Three Minutes With God." We remember her kindness and stories she told us.

The following conversation was overheard by our matron:

George Truelove: "Miss McConnell you tell stories so good, you must be Uncle Remus."

Jimmy Campbell: "George, she can't be Uncle Remus."

George: "Maybe she is Mrs. Remus."

Jimmy Campbell, Walter Plyler, and George Truelove all had birthdays and enjoyed the traditional spanking, George is still laughing.

We, Nat Craig, David Reid, Melvin Cannon, Richard Blackburn, Ralph Huddleston, Donnie Harrison, and Larry Terry have started our fall football training, by eating our food well so in eight years we shall be able to be on the varsity team.

The wigglers signing off.
Good-bye.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends,

Here we are again, all back from vacations and camp, ready to start school again which starts August 28th.

August 11, we went to Camp Fellowship to spend a week. The seniors and Miss Carpenter were in charge, and oh boy! what a good time they did give us.

Mrs. Craig, our upstairs matron has come back from her vacation and we are glad to have her back Mrs. Hobgood, our dining room (Continued On Page Three) matron is on her vacation now. We will be so glad when she comes back. Mr. Calhoun is back from his vacation, and we are glad to hear his friendly laughs and listen to his jokes again.

They are fixing our dining room floor and it really does look grand. Until next month.

THE QUADS

This is the quads bringing you the latest news of the month.

The quads are very glad to have two new house keepers, Mrs. J. D. Lackey and Mrs. White. We know they will do their best to keep the buildings clean.

Peaches are now in full swing and everyone is enjoying them.

Mr. Jackins just got back from his two weeks vacation at the beach. Paul Horne, a Davidson student, took over his work.

—Reporters, Jim and Rufus.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Dear Friends,

Since we are all back from our vacations and camp we have begun thinking of school which is not very far off. I believe every one of the boys and girls are excited about its beginning.

We are all very happy that we have gotten our house cleaned up, the halls upstairs and down stairs have been varnished. They shine so well that you can almost see yourself in them.

Mrs. Bryant is now taking her vacation during the month of August. We all hope that she gets plenty of rest.

The campus seems natural to have Mr. Calhoun back from his vacation.

So long until next month.

—Elizabeth Johnson.

PRINTING NEWS

All of our valuable men are back with us as the motors start rolling again for the messenger. We are all positive that our crew members had a grand vacation. Two of our important members have just arrived from their week at Camp Fellowship, where we had a most enjoyable and pleasant week.

Since June, something new has been added. He happens to be the one and only Rufus W. C. Clark, we cordially welcome him to our staff. We say good-bye until September.

—Donald Mitchell

JENNIE GIMER

Hello Everyone,

Our vacation and camping days are over now and we all have many pleasant memories of the times we've had all summer. Our thoughts are turning toward school and football. Practice begins to-morrow for football, and that is the type of work we all enjoy.

We missed Mr. and Mrs. Johnston the month they were gone, but are glad they could make the trip. We read all about the good times they had in the last Messenger.

One of the circles in Mooresville has been doing so many nice things for our cottage. We want to thank them all and especially Mrs. Melchoir for the books, candy, and the birthday gifts for the boys.

Well, we wish you all the best of everything until next time.

—The Jennie Gilmer Boys.

THE MINISTER'S CAR

Isn't it about time you elders, deacons and members of our churches waked up to the fact, that your pastor's car is just as essentially a part of your church equipment as your building, organ, pianos, furnace and the like? It has a vital place in the life of your church. It is used not just on Sundays and a few times in the week.

It is used every day, night and day, to carry forward the word of the Kingdom. It makes possible for your minister in pastoral visiting, to cover a wide area in the shortest time possible, and to meet promptly emergency calls. It is a constant moving force for mercy, righteousness and loving-kindness. It is an essential part of the life of the modern church. Face the facts of the cost and maintenance of an automobile in constant use and service. From actual experience, I know that the cost of purchase, and maintenance of a low priced car averages around $500-600 a year. This, of course, includes running expenses, depreciation, insurance and replacements. Your minister gives, as you do, to every phase of the life of your church. He has unnumbered calls upon him for charity which come to him because he is your representative. Is it fair to him to ask to shoulder, in addition, the expense of $500-$600 a year, to purchase and maintain a car, which is used almost exclusively for the good of your church or mission?

—The Presbyterian Outlook.

IMMORTALITY

Death is not the end; it is only a new beginning. Death is not the master of the house; he is only the porter at the King's lodge, appointed to open the gate and let in the King's guests into the realm of eternal day. And so shall we be ever with the Lord. And so the range of three score years and ten is not the limit of our life. Our life is not a land-locked lake enclosed within the shore lines of seventy years. It is an arm of the sea, and where the shore-lines seem to meet in old age, they open out into the infinite. And so we must build for those larger waters. We must lay our life plans on the scale of the infinite, not as though we were only pilgrims of time, but as children of eternity! We are immortal! How, then, shall we live today in prospect of the eternal morrow?

—John Henry Jowett in the Watchman-Examiner.

NO TIME

I have no time to find fault with others,

I have too many faults of my own; While I, myself may not know them

I'm sure to others they're known. I have no time for idle gossip, It may all be a lie, And soon the story will die out

If everyone passes it by. I have no time to believe everything I hear,

And to others the story repeat; I would rather obey the Golden Rule

And be kind to all whom I meet. I have no time to listen to those who tell Something to stir up strife. Far better to tell of good deeds done

And brighten the journey of life. I have no time to be moody and lonely,

No time to be gloomy and sad. It takes all my spare time planning

How I can help make others glad.

BIRDS

The merry singing of the birds, Is wonderful to hear.

The song must have such pretty words,

For a melody so dear.

If ever you've listened to a bird, Singing so brave and strong, It's the prettiest sound you've ever heard Singing such a merry song.

Whenever you are down and out, And ready for a tear,

A bird's song says, "Cheer up, Cheer up;

Be happy now for Spring is here!"

ing of it afterwards, that we are more firmly convinced than ever that it is our duty to make a trip like this every year, so look out! If this ever becomes boring, remember a lot of you had a hand in bringing it on yourselves.

When you come to think of it our trip only touched twenty states and there are forty-eight states in this big Union of ours. That is material for several years of such trips as we made, and in every part of this nation there are things to thrill and inspire one.

It would be interesting to get on a boat at New Orleans and ride out to open sea in the St. Lawrence - that can be done; or to take a boat at Pittsburgh and finally land at Knoxville, Tennessee, or up the Missouri just as far as you like to go. It takes time for these things, but wouldn't it be fun?

While on the Mississippi it would be a good idea to have a big stack of Mark Twain's novels to bring the Mississippi alive to you.

All of this is just by way of warning that probably next July you will be reading in the Messenger about the ramblings of those itchy-footed Johnstons off on another trip, and we hope we meet as many interesting people and hear from as many old and new friends when we come back to tell about it.

The Message of the

was heard the words of God the Father, "This is my beloved son in whom I am well pleased."

The reason Dominant Desires tend to attain their object is because we thus concentrate our powers in that direction. John Burroughs said, "If you have a thing in mind it is not long before you have it in hand." I am not speaking of idle day dreaming, air castles which lay no foundations and build no walls. I am speaking of real definite dominant desire.

Also in the pursuit of our dominant desires, if they are right and proper and in accordance with God's will, we may count on the help of God Himself. For God answers prayer and as the old hymn has it.

"Prayer is the souls' sincere desire unuttered or expressed".

If our dominant desires are high and holy. If we strive for them with our lives and pray with our lips our prayer will be answered.

We show our dominant desires by what we are willing to sacrifice for. If a boy or girl wants an education bad enough, it can be gotten. If a man or woman wants to be good strong enough, sin will be given up. If we really want the world to be saved we will give our effort and money to that end.

Paul's dominant desire made him the great missionary of all time. Christ's dominant desire made Him the Saviour of the world.

And so we would ask ourselves what motive controls us. What is my dominant desire? Is it something small, temporal, fruitless, empty and frivolous, or is it noble high and true, one that I may feel is a part of the great purpose and plan of God for His world, as eternal as God Himself.

"For the world passes away and the lust (the desire) thereof. But he that doeth the will of God abideth forever".

PRAYER

Our Father God we are very grateful for another day begun in Thy mercy. We have lain us down and slept, we have arisen because thou hast sustained us. As the sun has chased away the shadows of the night may the sun of Righteousness arise in our hearts with healing in its wings to drive away all darkness of sin all shadow of sorrow that this may be a joyous day in Thy service.

For the talents of hand and heart which Thou hast given we offer to Thee our thanks. Grant that none may use the gifts of a generous God in a low or evil manner. But give us ever higher and higher aspirations after a noble and useful life. May we seek to serve in the higher spiritual realm of life which alone is eternal. Bless us, use us, inspire us. Through Christ our Lord.

The 1947 Meeting of Synod

By JOS. B. JOHNSTON

Synod met this year at Flora Macdonald College, and evidently the memory of the delightful meeting at Barium in '44 still lingered in the minds of the commissioners because they honored me by electing me Moderator. This was the first time that I was elected commissioner to attend Synod since the meeting here in '44. There can be no doubt but that it was the splendid way in which Synod was served while here that brought about this election, and not from any excellence on my part.

The Synod was on its best behaviour. No controversial matters were brought up. The actual business of moderating the assembly appeared easier than at any time in recent years, and the final hymn, "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" was sung with enthusiasm, and I believe without any mental reservations.

Next year Synod meets at Montreat. This is the first time, we believe, that it has met out of the bounds of the Synod. Montreat is just twelve miles beyond the extreme limit of the North Carolina Synod. Some day we will have them back at Barium. We hope we will have a new Church for them to meet in when they do meet here.

Alumni News

We have had a number of visitors on the campus this month:

Marley Sigmon is coaching football and teaching at the Mills Home, Thomasville.

Dennis Williams came by to see us. He is buying and selling cars and at present is in Ashe County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mosley (Ida Bell Dunn) of Laurens, S. C. were visitors on the campus.

We were glad to have Ruth Bobbitt and her family visit us, also Robert Blue, his wife and two children.

Born to Clarence Clarke and his wife on September 6th a son, Joe Stephen, weight 9 pounds.

Toni DeLancey of Charlotte spent the week-end at Barium.

Born to Wallace and Birdie (Whitener) Twombly, at Davis Hospital, September 17, a daughter, Ruth Elizabeth.

Fred Cole is spending some time in Statesville with Ed. He has been away for two years. He will be stationed in California at the termination of his leave.

Mary Ann McCormick was a visitor at Barium.

Stanley and William Smith and Janie Smith Linchium made a visit to Barium.

Home-coming Day Will Be October 17th

Home-coming Day is drawing near. It will be on October 17th and part of the attraction for the day will be a game of football with Lexington. We hope more of the old-timers will come in early in the morning of the 17th. We count on them (that is these early comers) to help at the pep meeting which we always have on the morning of Home-coming Day. It does something to our football team and they seem to play better ball that afternoon than in any other game of the year. They will need encouragement like that this year because the team which they will meet is one of the strongest on our schedule, one which has already beaten Statesville 35-0.

However, the football game is not the biggest event of the day. It is getting back together and renewing friendships and making plans for the future. Several days ago we had a visit from an old-timer, Laxton Sherman. He was one of the very first children entered after the founding of the Orphanage, and was part of that family which was living in the old hotel when it burned.

Home-coming days were not so well attended during the war and that was understood. Now, we are looking for more and more of those (Continued On Page Two) Hebrews 8:5: See that thou make all things according to the pattern showed thee in the Mount.

The Message of the Pulpit

PATTERNS

When Moses was to have the Tabernacle built God told him just how He wanted it built and gave him patterns for every part. He gave him patterns for the walls; the courts; the altars; the tables; the lamps; candlesticks; everything. And God told Moses to use those patterns and make each part according to pattern.

All well made articles are made by pattern.

I used to go into a large iron foundry. They had hundreds of patterns for all kinds of metal ware. I have watched the workmen as they select a pattern, say of a part of a stove, put it in a hinged frame, fill around it with moist sand. Then, lifting the frame take out the pattern, leaving the imprint in the sand. Then they would pour in molten metal and the molten metal would fill every crack left by the pattern. So when the metal cooled and hardened it would be exactly like the pattern.

When a woman wants to make a dress or a tailor a suit of clothes he or she goes and gets a pattern (Continued On Page Two)

Mrs. Mary Bryant, who among other things has the oversight of the Lottie Walker Building here, has interested herself in the backyard of that building and has been instrumental in changing what was a wilderness into a place of beauty. One of the improvements there is a grill like the outdoor cooking arrangement which we have at Camp Fellowship. They are using that grill right now to give the football boys their Sun- (Continued On Page Two)

Barium Defeat Mooresville 6 - In Season's Op

Barium's 1947 football season opened on the afternoon of September 19th. The Mooresville team was the visitor, and along with the team came Mooresville's splendid high school band and the biggest crowd of rooters that we have had in many a day. The afternoon was hot but the game started out as a fast proposition and it was good throughout, although in the second half the heat slowed both teams down somewhat. Barium's lone score was made by Jack Clark, and in that second quarter it was Jack who did most of the ball carrying. The back-field was composed of Jack Clark and Jack Mangum, veterans; Charles Barrett, a veteran end but playing his first game in the back-field and Paul Barnes playing his first game as a varsity player. In the line Mason Traywick played his first conference game and stayed through the entire four quarters. The whole team did surprisingly well. Mooresville brought an experienced, well-coached team. They showed evidences of power and played a splendid defensive game. They will be heard from later in the season. This game with Mooresville is the only conference game that Barium plays in September.

A Committee Meeting

The Board of Regents usually has an Executive Committee meeting during the summer, and one of the things that was supposed to be looked after was the purchase of furniture for Lees Cottage living room and a few other things. Well, the summer seemed so full of so many things that this meeting was never held, but a special committee visited Barium on September 22nd and unanimously approved the purchase of this furniture. So in a short time the Lees boys can be as proud of having visitors as the Howard girls are at the present time.

A number of years ago we had contests in housekeeping and each month some visitors would be asked to inspect all of the cottages and to award the prize for a month. The prize was the privilege of flying a particular flag at that cottage for a month. The practice was discontinued owing to the difficulty of getting people to do the judging. We believe that if it were in practice today the Lees boys would rate high, although the competition would be mighty keen.

to make it. Before a church is built pictures, designs, blue prints of the walls, the framing, the spire, the heating, the lights, the arrangements of the seats has to be prepared. It all has to be done according to pattern. Before a weaver can make a yard of cloth a pattern must be made. In an automobile there are thousands of parts. Before any one of them is cast a pattern must be made.

Now in the making of Character in the building of a life; in the weaving of a fabric of our existence we need a pattern to go by.

What patterns do we have?

Happy is the boy who can say I want to be as good a man as my father. Happy is the girl who can say I want to be as sweet and lovely like my mother.

There are other great and good men whom we may take as our pattern. Paul could say "Whatever ye have seen in me do".

James says "Take my brethren, the prophets who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience". But the complete and perfect pattern we find in the life and character of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Hear him as he says, "Come unto Me all ye that labor."

"Take my yoke and learn of me". Peter says in his first letter, "Christ suffered for us leaving us an example that ye should follow."

It means a copy to write under. Do you remember the copies in the old copy books? We wrote under them and the further down the page the worse our writing. The blots the smears the thumb marks and the scrawls gave evidence we were getting farther away from the copy.

Then we would turn the page to another copy. Yes keep close to the pattern of Jesus. At His last pass-over He washed their feet and said, "I have given you an example that as I have done ye should do". And Paul says, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus."

There are flaws in every pattern but that of Christ, so mould your life according to His pattern. Say, "Make me and mould me after thy will."

While I am waiting yielded and still."

Where is the pattern seen?

Our text says the pattern was showed in the Mount. Do you remember how Jesus went up into a Mount and He sat down and taught them saying "Blessed are the poor in spirit?"

On another day He was transfigured. Yes on another Mount He was crucified. On another Mount He said "Go ye and disciple, baptizing". On another Mount He ascended and a cloud received Him. Yes go into the realms of the spirit world to get your pattern and go down into the valley to serve as He did.

If we mould our lives real closely after that of Jesus Christ we may be given the blessing of being an example for others who are not close enough to Jesus to have Him for an example. That is what Paul meant when he wrote to Titus. "In all things showing thyself a pattern of good works". We are apt to say to others "Don't do as I do, do as I say do". But the urgency is upon us not only to deliver the precept but also to set the example.

There is one more little word I want to speak of. It is a little word of three letters but it covers a lot of territory. The word is all, A-L-L. See that thou make all things by the pattern. That means that we are to be like Jesus when we kneel in prayer. And not only then but when we are eating our dinner. And not only then but when we are engaging in games or enjoying pleasure, or in our work or when we are in the market place or off on vacation, or when we are in our homes or visiting with others.

Earthly pleasures vainly call me

I would be like Jesus.

Nothing worldly shall enthrall me

I would be like Jesus.

Be like Jesus this my song

In the home and in the throng

Be like Jesus all day long

day night supper and the food prepared and served there tastes, if anything, even better than that served at Camp. The Sunday before our opening game the girls prepared a steak supper for the boys. Well, after that the boys just couldn't help but win that first game. The next Sunday it was outdoor fried chicken, and that deserved another victory. Barbecue is on the menu for the next Sunday.

In addition to this grill, Mrs. Bryant has interested herself in flowers and shrubbery and she says that she can use all of such things that our friends can give her. So keep that in mind. If you have any bulbs, shrubs, or flowers that you wish to donate you will find them flourishing later on in this Lottie Walker park.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., OCTOBER 1951

No. 12

PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME began its work when some motherless children were found whose father had deserted them. Since that time the HOME has ministered to over two thousand dependent children.

The HOME undertakes not only to give the children under its care a subsistence, but to give a normal life of study, work and play, so that they may live while here a happy life and be fitted for usefulness in the Church and community.

The cost of all supplies and services is constantly increasing. We are sure you will not be unmindful of that in making your THANKSGIVING OFFERING.

PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C.

WILL YOU GIVE ONE DAY'S INCOME TO YOUR HOME FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN?

The High Cost of Orphanage Financing And the Thanksgiving Offering

Eleven months in the year we try to bring to you in The Messenger the news of the Home, interesting events in the lives of the individual children here, interesting things that happen to us as an institution, the doings of our alumni, and in all of these months we try to keep in the background family matters, such as paying the grocer, meeting the payroll, etc.

But in this one issue which comes to you just before Thanksgiving we have to let our hair down and really tell you some of the things that we face. We only have to go back a few years and compare prices with those that we have to pay now and it does not seem like we are living in the same country. As an extreme example let us tell you about coal. Fifteen years ago we installed stokers in order to utilize the very cheapest grade of coal which we bought at that time for fifty cents a ton. The railroads brought it to us for half freight rate, altogether the coal cost us at our boiler less than $2.00 a ton. Now we pay a full rate and $5.10 a ton at the mines for this same identical coal. We have put in coal-saving devices but our coal bill is more than doubled, of course.

All the clothes that we buy and such food as we have to purchase has increased in like manner, although not to that extent. We are raising a larger proportion of our food than ever before and we have been blessed with bountiful crops. As we write this our barns are full of hay, our cribs are full of corn, we have enough pigs and steers to guarantee us our meat rations for the winter, our apple house is filling up with apples, and potatoes and other things are being stored

Report of Barium Alumni Association

The Barium Springs Alumni Association met at 1 P. M. in the Grammar School Auditorium. Approximately fifty members attended and paid dues for the coming year.

The meeting was called to order by the president; minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, treasurer's report heard, and a Thanksgiving offering ($36.56) taken.

Following the report of the committee on disposition of the Memorial Fund, it was voted that the Alumni Association would buy the pulpit furniture for the new church. Reid Brown will continue as treasurer of this Memorial fund, and he urges that each of us help him get a complete and up-to-date mailing list. Additional contributions to the Fund are expected, and it is hoped that when the time comes to spend it there will be

Isaiah 38:16 - O Lord, by these things men live.

In this text we have the expression of one of the greatest and best kings Judah ever had, King Hezekiah, in the greatest moment of his life. King Hezekiah's life had been spared fifteen more years. He had been drawn back from the jaws of death by the mercy of God. So he meditates upon the true meaning and values of life. The light grows brighter and we hear him say Lord, by these men live.

Hezekiah had been very sick and in that time of trouble had found that men live by prayer. He had prayed to live and God had heard his prayer and granted his request.

Home-coming Day at Barium Springs.— Everything Fine But the Weather and the Score

We used to have Home-coming Day in November and it always rained. Then we moved it back to October and for several years we have had perfectly clear beautiful weather. We did not always win our ball games during that pretty weather but outside of that the Home-coming was perfect. This year we had a return of the rain and it looked like a lot of our fun was going to be rained out. It rained so much in the morning that we could not have our outdoor picnic dinner - we had to have that inside. At the half at the football game it really did pour, but the crowd hung on and witnessed a very good football game with Barium staying on the short end of the score.

Barium Children Take Mountain Trip

Several weeks ago some of our larger girls had occasion to make a trip to Morganton. They were so impressed with the mountains on either side of the road as you go to Morganton that we thought it would be a good idea to let them see some real mountains. Mrs. Bryant first conceived the plan and it has worked out so well that she deserves a trophy of some kind. Here's how it worked out. On Saturday morning around nine o'clock a bus load of about 32, a station wagon of 10, and a carload of 5 left Barium Springs on Highway 21. They journeyed up through Elkin, Roaring Gap, took a quick look around the grounds of Grey-stone Inn, then on to the Parkway, and along the Parkway to Wildcat Rocks where the party stopped for a weiner roast and for a ramble. Then back home by route 16 and North Wilkesboro, arriving

People began coming in to Home-coming on the afternoon before. Maude Inman and her sister, Anna, were the first to come and then Anna Turner came in. Incidentally, Anna brought lots of folks presents and the one she gave us was the most beautiful of the lot. By ten o'clock there were so many that we had to reserve a special place at our pep meeting for them. The boys in college were particularly in evidence. There were six from Carolina, two from State, two from Catawba, and one from Davidson and two from Mitchell. More would have been present from Davidson but for a football game which took place there on the same afternoon. Children were more in evidence than ever before. Nellie Culp with her four and Linda with her one were about the biggest single carload that came in.

At the meeting of the alumni the same officers were re-elected for another year: Irene McDade of Barium Springs, president; Reid Brown of Burlington, treasurer;

HOWARD COTTAGE

We had a nice beginning of school this year. Twelve girls made the honor roll, they are: Laura Jane Craig, fourth grade; Linda Inman, Lois Dellenger, Betty Anna Blackburn, Phoebe Cochran, Shirley Shaw, Shirley Ann Hollifield, Mary Bowles, Letha Walker, fifth grade; Shirley Byrd, Louise Bradshaw, and Carol Jean Andrews, sixth grade. Three out of four of the sixth grade girls made the honor roll. Elizabeth Ann Huddleston just made one S-. Each child that made the honor roll will be rewarded with something nice done for them.

We went to the fair on Wednesday, Oct. 8. We were lucky not to wear our shoes because if we had they would have gotten messed up. We had a wonderful time.

There has been several football games this year. Our last game was on Home-coming. Our luck was rather bad that day. We lost the game and also during the game the rain just poured down and we got wet to the skin. The day had a wonderful ending after all. We saw several of our old friends and after supper we had fun blowing plastic balloons.

We have new Sunday coats, they are red, blue, green, brown and plaid. Some of them were made at the sewing room and they are just lovely. You must come to see us when we get dressed up.

LEES COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

We are having a good time going to school. We got our report cards the other day and some of us are going to have to do a little better next time.

We are enjoying the football games. We are sorry we didn't win the Home-coming game. We all got wet.

Now is the time for us to pick up apples and put them away for winter.

The campus has been beautiful for the last few weeks, the leaves are falling now and we will be raking them up soon and carrying them to the barn.

We are enjoying our concrete walk in front of our house.

We went to the show the other week and had a good time.

— The Lees Boys

BABY COTTAGE

It has been a long time since you have heard from the Baby Cottage. We are all here except one, Nancy Yandle. She is now with her mother. We miss her very much. We have been enjoying nice fall weather and go out on the campus and gather nice acorns.

We also went to the Home-coming football game. Mrs. Arrowood is teaching us kindergarden so you see we are getting ourselves ready for school next year. We feel like big boys and girls going to school every morning. You should see our Halloween faces and pumpkins we have been making at kindergarden. You should see us with our Halloween costumes.

Tomorrow we have a birthday table for the ones who had a birthday in the month of October. Only one baby girl and one big sister get to go. They are Linda Shephard and Florence Andrews.

We have had quite a bit of company these past two months.

Well folks this is all the news for this time. Look for us again next month when we will be back to tell you more about our good times.

Until then so-long.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

Here we are again bringing you the latest news and gossip of the last two months.

The sewing room looks different from what it has in previous years, because of the many coats and skirts Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Fox have been busy making while we have been at school.

Last Saturday we made a delightful trip to the Blue Ridge Mountains. where we spent the day roaming the mountains and enjoying the beautiful scenery. Incidentally our matron, Mrs. Bryant had been there before and could show us many sights we would not have noticed otherwise. We don't know who enjoyed it most, the girls or Mr. Johnston.

Since the gossip is usually the main subject of our column, we'll start on it now.

Virginia Presnell now looks her age. She has recently cut bangs. Incidentally she's seventeen.

Janie and Mildred have been talking a great deal lately about bears. Is it time for the hunting season to start?

Bradley felt right at home Saturday in the mountains. To watch her climb the mountains you would think she was an old hand at it.

Ernestine Baldwin, better known as Mrs. Elizabeth Porter to her classmates, hopes to be the first woman president of the United States. You have stiff competition, Ernie.

Sadie Buie is having a hard time trying to make up her mind??

Lucille has been feeling mighty sharp lately. Could be she's eating too many Clark candy bars too.

Look for us next month.

WOMANS BUILDING

Hello Friends,

Since you heard from us last, two or three big events have happened to us.

The first and most important event was Home-coming which took place Friday. Usually the Home-comers eat at the dining room, but this year they ate in the basement of the Woman's Building which was decorated by Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Harwell, Mrs. Gresham and Mrs. Williams in the Autumn motif. In the afternoon of the same day we saw our boys defeated in football by the Lexington "Yellow Jackets."

A second big event to happen to the Woman's Building girls alone, but which will happen to the Rumples Hall girls next Saturday was a trip to the Blue Ridge Mountains. We traveled along the new Scenic Highway which provided us with beautiful autumn scenery. We stopped at Wildcat Rocks Picnic Grounds to eat and roamed around for an hour enjoying the picnic grounds.

We wish to thank Mr. Johnston and Mrs. Bryant for making it possible for us to see the mountains at a time when they are at their prettiest.

Not long before school opened a grill was built behind Woman's Building for our use at any time. The Junior and Senior girls have been cooking supper on Sunday nights for the football boys ever since it became usable.

We are proud to boast of the high percentage of honor rolls we had at our cottage last month. I find it a privilege to list the names here. From the Senior Class we had Ernestine Baldwin, Bradley Jeanne Manus, Mildred Monroe, Betty and Peggy Coffey and Lucille Stricklin. From the eleventh grade, Margaret Bullard. From the tenth grade, Lorene Hall and Betty Sue Wolfe. From the ninth grade, Joyce Katen and Frances Stricklin.

— Margaret Bullard

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Well, here we are back again with the cottage news and we have lots to say.

We have gotten our report cards for the first time and eleven of our little girls got on the honor roll and one of our big sisters. We are all proud of them and hope that all of us can get on it next time.

Friday, Oct. 17 was Home-coming at Barium. It was so nice to see all of our friends back. Our game Friday was almost rained out but we still had a good time.

The campus is very colorful now with all the leaves changing it makes it very beautiful. We hope they will stay on the trees a long time but soon we will be raking them up and the trees will be bare. But we won't mind raking leaves as long as the days are pretty and bright. We'll get them up before the winds start blowing. I guess every one knows how hard it is to rake leaves when the wind is blowing in every direction.

Halloween is just around the corner. We are all looking forward to it very much because that is the time when we can look as ugly as we want too.

Until next month.

"Up to the moment."

Hi Folks,

Here we are bringing you the news from Sick Bay.

First of all we wish to thank the Circle No. 4 of Mooresville and Circle No. 1 of Washington for the nice books and other things they sent and brought us.

We sure were glad to see the visitors who came back for Home-coming Friday. We had a picnic lunch for them and then we played Lexington and they won 31 to 0. Although it rained the last half of the game the boys kept on playing but most of the visitors left.

We are having a few sick ones, some with colds and headaches, nothing really serious.

We will say so long until we bring you the news from our cottage next month.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

We sure wish you could see how beautiful our campus is now. All the trees are turning and their colors really do make a pretty picture. The Lees boys have been busy raking leaves.

Our report cards came out Monday and a number of us made the honor roll. More of us are going to try to make it next month.

The Board of Regents came to see us Tuesday and we had the birthday table then. Only three of us went. They were Richard Blackburn, Jerry McArthur and Memory Thompson. The Regents went too.

We had Home-coming last Friday and a football game with Lexington. We lost 31 to 0. During the middle part of it there was a hard rain. Most of us left.

We'll be seeing you next month.

RUMPLE HALL

The Rumble Hall girls have been busy this month with their home duties. Mixed with these, we have had lots of pleasures. Ball games at Davidson and Charlotte. Mr. Johnston was good to let us go. We had such a nice time Oct. 17 which was Home-coming day. Our boys played Lexington and they were our supper guests. We are always glad to have guests.

We are going on an all day trip to the mountains Saturday. Mr. Johnston, Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Harwell are going with us. We are expecting a good time. We hope it will be a beautiful day. We are thankful for all the good things that have come to us.

We are very glad that school has started, we are having a very nice time in school.

The next game that our boys are playing is going to be with Davidson Freshmen.

Basketball will start in the middle of November. The last football game that we are going to play will be with Statesville. The Rumble Hall girls will play during the half so if you want to see a good game come to the very last one that we play.

We have two girls up at Rumble Hall that made the honor roll. They are Patty Inman and Aline Thomas.

home about 5 o'clock. It does not sound like much in this brief telling and yet the number of adjectives used by these 43 girls, there were four grown people along, would if placed end on end certainly reach around the world.
The elevation produced symptoms resembling sleeping-sickness, high blood pressure, bad hearts, and plain hunger. As the day progressed and the journey lengthened all the other symptoms merged into just one of plain hunger, and when we finally arrived at the picnic grounds and were trying to coax some reluctant wood to burn so that we could roast our weiners, the hunger pangs became acute. We had intended to have a weiner roast, but the fire was so slow in burning and our hunger was mounting so rapidly that we lived on smoked weiners rather than roasted weiners, but the digestions we carried along were perfectly capable of handling weiners in any style.
The girls spent a little more than an hour ranging over the grounds at this picnic place in the mountains and got enough scenery in their systems to pretty near fill them up to capacity. They were not too much interested on the way home; in fact, some of them slept through the interesting down-mountain trip, but they came back home most enthusiastic about the trip, North Carolina and the country at large in general.

We were impressed with the beauty of the Scenic Highway, the way it is kept up, the efforts made to beautify it the care with which spaces have been provided for cars to stop and view the scenery. While we were at our picnic grounds two of the park's rangers stopped and inquired where we were from. They gave us valuable road information about the return trip and were most solicitous for our pleasure and safety. We told them that we were planning to bring another group of younger children on the same trip and they gave us valuable tips as to how to arrange that to make the trip even more delightful. These things make us so enthusiastic about our country that we are inclined to pay no attention to the headaches that arise around January 1st to March 25th when income tax reports are in order.

And in his hour of sorrow he had done more than utter a petition for himself, he has found fellowship with God and worshipped him. So have sorrowing souls in every age. Jesus said "My soul is exceeding sorrowful even unto death, tarry ye here and watch with me." And he went a little further and fell on his face and prayed.

"All ye who journey soon or late Must pass within that garden gate, Must kneel alone in silence there And wrestle with some dark despair.
God pity who only say 'let this cup pass' Who never say 'not mine but thine,' and cannot see The purpose of Gethsemane.

Hezekiah lived by obedience. In verse three we read "Remember, O Lord, I beseech thee, how I have walked before thee in truth and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in thy sight."
To most of us life is not always serious sickness, sad bereavement, terrible tribulation. Our lives are subject to these things. They happen sooner or later to all. But for the most part our life is in the workaday world doing our part in the home, the school, the community, the church. In all our dealings we should live by high moral principles, walking in truth with a perfect heart, doing that which is good in the sight of God.
Hezekiah lived by faith. The historian who wrote the eighteenth chapter of the Book of II Kings says this of Hezekiah; "He did that which was right in the sight of the Lord - - - He trusted in the Lord God of Israel - - - He clave to the Lord and departed not from following him." Hezekiah had shown great faith all the days of his life. As a young man he had succeeded his no good father, Ahaz, on the throne. Ahaz had sold out to the Assyrians; had removed sacred furniture from the Temple; and had brought in heathen gods and shrines. The Chronicler, after he had with blistering words described the iniquities of Ahaz, wrote for him the devastating epitaph; "This is that King Ahaz."
Hezekiah took the throne when the Temple was closed; no priest, no worship; the country disorganized; groaning under the rule and tribute of Assyria; the people were at a low ebb spiritually. Isaiah describes them as smear eyed, dull eared, and fat hearted, worshipping the gods of nature on high hills and under green grass; bowing down to the old brazen serpent Moses made in the Wilderness and forgetting to worship the God of Moses.

Hezekiah showed his faith by his works. He hewed in peices the brazen serpent; he cleansed the Temple; and restored its priests; liturgy, and choral service. In close cooperation with Isaiah and Micah, he led the people back to the worship and service of God. He looked to God in faith and by a miracle the army of the Assyrians was destroyed and Jerusalem was saved.
"This is the victory that overcometh the world even your faith."
Hezekiah lived by a consciousness that God loved him. In verse seventeen we read; "Thou hast in love to my soul delivered it."
Sometimes the providence of God is hard to understand. "He leads us on by paths we do not know." But when we can believe as did Hezekiah that every stroke of chastening is in love; that the blows we endure are not the bludgeining of blind fate or the vindictive fury of an angry deity, but the way a God of Love leads us through storm and tempest to a higher holier life, we can say with Job, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him."
Hezekiah lived by praise to God. In contemplation of the goodness of God and his mercy in prolonging his days, Hezekiah wrote this passage which we are studying today, set it to music so it could be sung in the Temple supported by stringed instruments. (See verses 19 and 20)
As we approach the Thanksgiving Season we are reminded that we should not confine our praise to one day in the year but every day should be Thanksgiving Day in America. In this land which is still safe and still free and still prosperous and still full of plenty, we should daily praise God from whom all blessings flow.
And when at last by prayer and faith and righteous service to our loving Heavenly Father we reach the haven of our souls and enter into a closer fellowship with God; when with undimmed eyes we know as we are known, and enter into a deeper experience of his boundless love, then may we rest our souls in his compassion, and the abundant life will possess our spirits. Then from the fulness of our hearts we will join the much people of heaven saying "Alleluia! Salvation and glory and honor and power unto the Lord our God." And life will grow sweeter and richer and fuller throughout eternity.
For by these things men live.

away in abundance. But the cost of producing these things has increased - fertilizer, the labor such as we have to employ, the equipment, the expense of running that equipment and keeping it in repair, all have advanced tremendously, so much so that the money that we thought was ample just a few years ago will not carry the load today. We have added to our case work department in an effort to more thoroughly work out every possible means of caring for children without crowding Barium Springs. We are utilizing more and more the boarding home idea, especially for very young children. This is more economical because we can often enlist the help of other agencies in this.
All of this is an effort to stretch your dollars further, but in spite of it all we find ourselves more in need of a bountiful Thanksgiving Offering than ever before in our history.
Those of you who have kept up with Church affairs know that every year more and more things are added to the budget of the Church and the giving to the various causes, such as Home Missions, Foreign Missions, and the like has been increased, and no one can find fault with that. The need is great and must be met, but these things have meant the lowering in many instances of our gifts from the regular Church budget. Our percentages have been cut and we today can depend on less money from that source than before.

The only large source of revenue other than this on which we depend is the Thanksgiving Offering, and that is right before you now. What you do during Thanksgiving Season will largely determine the welfare of Barium Springs for the next twelve months.
We had hoped that when Social Security and Aid to Dependent Children began working we would feel its effects and that many cases of dependency would be wiped out. That probably is the case, but in their place have come many, many other calls.
The adjustments necessary following the end of the war have not all been made; many homes are broken in spite of the best efforts of the parents to make a go of it. The helping hand of the Orphanage is needed in more different ways now than ever before.
Barium Springs has endeavored in every way not to be greedy. Back in '41 plans had been made for making an intensive drive for building funds, but before this could get going the war came on and those plans were dropped. Ever since there has seemed to be something of a greater necessity than our need for new buildings and this plan has been postponed from year to year. Even today we do not contemplate starting such a campaign. The money has come in to us for our Church from a different source, - Memorials. Money has come in to us from individuals that will enable us in the not too distant future to start our Children's Village. We hope money will come in for our Gymnasium, but we are not trying to shove any of these things ahead of the various drives of our Church, but we do come to you and lay the case of the Orphanage before you. We are trying our best to be economical and to make the money go as far as possible, but the total needed from you this year is greater than any sum we have ever asked from you before.
If we measure this sum in terms of a day's work it does not look so large, because the average income of our Church members has increased along with expenses, but if we measure it in the old time dollars it takes more of them. If you respond to our call as we have every reason to believe that you will we will not bother you with other headaches that may come our way, but will try for the rest of the year to bring you the cheerful and the happy news of this big family which we believe still occupies a high place in the affections of our Church. We look to you with hope and confidence.

Walter Beatty of Charlotte, secretary. There were quite a number of this year's graduating class present - Dwight Spencer, Lee Vinson, Earl Allen, Benny Gregory, Frances Isenhour, Myrtle Rushing, Miriam Huddleston, and then at the other end of the family was Mr. T. M. Alexander who was in the original group of children who started Barium Springs. He was here from 1891 to 1896. Of the couples of Barium children who were back there was Ed and Sallie Cole, James and Ann McDonald Shroyer, Howard and Grace Adams Beshears, John and Mabel Vinson Lee, Ed and Sadie Eudy Flowers, James and Lois Mott Hannon, and then, of course, there was Ralph and Bobby Marlowe Spencer and Wallace and Birdie Whitener Twombly.
To those of you who are interested, the football game turned out 31-0 in favor of Lexington. We could not soften those Lexington boys up on the football field, but we did certainly soften them up at supper. They had part of the meal prepared for the Home-comers and they seemed to enjoy it. In fact, they enjoyed the whole day and we did not feel too badly about it.
considerably more than the present $650.00.
General officers for the next two years are: president - Irene McDade; vice-president - Walter Fraley; secretary - treasurer - Walter Beattie.
Correction: In our list of Thanksgiving Offerings in September we did not give credit to Morven Church in Mecklenburg Presbytery for any Thanksgiving Offering. We received $40.50 which was designated as a Regular Offering but which we now know was a Thanksgiving Offering. We are glad to make this correction.

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Ecc. 11:9 - Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth: but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgement.

Ecc. 12:1 - Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.

REJOICE AND REMEMBER

A certain man who had followed the false philosophy "to try anything once," wrote out his experiences and conclusions and they have found a place in Holy Writ. Out of his life time of experimenting with the possibilities of study, of worldly pleasure, of amassing a fortune, he made some discoveries under the guidance of the Holy Spirit. He has given them to us. Among those conclusions can be found our text; "Rejoice and Remember."

Rejoice, O young man in thy youth. Enjoy life, have your fun with sports. Get all the joy and pleasure out of life that you can but remember that God will give you an examination at the end of the course as to how you have used the body and the time and talents he has given you. For that reason be careful to keep the body clean and strong and pure for him.

"Know ye not that ye are the Temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?"

There is a little fable of the Foolish Skylark. If you think this story is too silly to tell, I am reliably informed that Luther Burbank liked and repeated it.

Once upon a time there was a foolish little skylark that was just learning to fly, soaring into the sky; and as it soared it sang. They do say that the singing of a skylark is most beautiful.

But this little skylark heard the tingle of a little bell on the ground and came down. And there he saw

There have been times when we have had an outstanding varsity team. The fall of 1941, for instance, when we were about the best team in the state, 1940, when we were one of the best, and many other times in our athletic career. There have been times when our 125-pound team was the talk of the country - that team which was called "The Light Brigade" which took championships all over the country, and then later on the team that was called "The Rhapsody in Gold."

And then we have often had 100-pound teams that broke into the headlines. We had a 100-pound team that went for several years without a defeat. They were so good that they ran out of competition. They were the ones who had the name "Symphony in Blue." Now, we have an 85-pound team that is our pride and joy.

We have spent some unhappy afternoons and nights watching our varsity play - the weather had a lot to do with it and the strength of our opponents had a lot to do with it. We have not won all our games. Our 125 or B Team has had an excellent record and we have all enjoyed seeing them play. We have gotten a lot of fun out of the 100-pound team which is a little better than average, but the team that has really brought out all of our enthusiasm is our 85-pound team. Take a good look at them. The upper part of the picture shows them lined up and raring to go: the lower part of the picture is the squad. They are noted for their long runs and tricky play; in fact, anything that the big team does this team apparently can do just a little bit better. Show them a play one day and they will perform it the next.

The record for 1947 is as follows:

Barium 14-Concord 0: Barium 13-Newton 0: Barium 21-Huntersville 0: Barium 16-Newton 0: Barium 48-Huntersville 0: and as this is written they have one more game to play with Concord.

In addition to this the members of this team have often substituted in the 100-pound team and have had a big part in their victories. The record of the 100-pound team is as follows: Barium 26-Concord 0: Barium 2-Cramerton 0: Barium 7-Newton 0: Barium 25-Davidson High 0: Barium 7-Newton 0: Barium 20-Davidson High 0: and as this is written they still have games with Cornelius and Concord.

We are proud of this grand bunch of players. Watch for them as they make the larger teams, and in about three more years some of them will be getting on the varsity. Watch out!

Football Season Ends At Barium Springs

The football season is over - all but the eating - the banquets and such. Our varsity has played 10 games: they have won 3. They lost 4 conference games and 3 games outside of the conference.

We have not had any out-and-out 125 pound team. We have played a number of games, each one under a little different setup. Two games were B team games with everybody below the varsity regardless of weight and age.

Then we played three games with 140 pound weight limit and sixteen years age limit; and then we played some with 130 pounds. All of them are listed, however, under B. Team activities.

The 100 pound team has been quite a team. We have held to 105 pound weight for the most part, but some of the teams that we played were allowed a greater weight limit to make up for our greater experience.

The doings of the 85-pound team are written up elsewhere in this paper, so we will just add the statistics for all of the football games. The weather has been bad and it was hard to play on many occasions. It has certainly affected the gate receipts, but there is nothing we can do about that and we just take it as one of the things that

Building America's Future

(Editor's Note: The following article was written for the local newspapers in connection with the observance of National Education Week.)

The above topic is the one that has been chosen for special emphasis on this day of National Education Week. It is also the topic that was assigned to me for an "Education Week" newspaper article. Although this matter of building America's future is the chief business of all schools, I shall confine my remarks to the one school in which I work: the School at Barium Springs.

It may be that there are those who think of the Barium Springs School as a private, or privately supported, institution. The truth is that it is a state school, whose teachers are - for the most part - paid with state funds; it is a part of the Iredell County administrative unit; and makes up a part of District Number Six. This is as it should be; for, after all, the children are citizens of the state of North Carolina, and are just as much a part of the state's responsibility as the children of any other town or community.

However, the people who support and control the Presbyterian Orphans' Home feel that they, too, have a definite responsibility for the education of these children; and so, the matter is not left entirely to the state. Since many of the children who enter this school are retarded and maladjusted, and since each extra year that the pupil stays in school because of repeated grades will cost the Orphanage several hundred dollars; the orphanage authorities feel that it is good business - to say the least - to try to have the best school possible. In order to do this

Hello Folks,

We are all looking forward to Thanksgiving. We are going to have a holiday. We are having a ball game in the afternoon.

Mrs. McLelland from Mooresville brought us some cookies, candy, and chewing gum. Folks certainly are good to us.

A group of the Lees boys went to Mooresville and put on a program for one of the Circles. We really had a good time.

We hope a lot of our friends will come and see our pretty tables and chairs. We are proud of them and we are going to take care of them.

We all went to Statesville and got some work shoes.

The leaves are falling and we have been raking them up and they use them at the barn.

Some of the boys went up to Synods the other night and Mrs. Bowling gave us some pop corn.

We will be looking for Santa Clause the next time you hear from us.

— The Lees Boys.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Many things have happened since the last time you heard from us.

Halloween night the little boys who are the same age as we invited us to a party at their cottage. We played games and before we had anything to eat we went up into the ward where the little boys sleep. Our big sisters had arranged the beds so that you couldn't get out without crawling under the beds. After we got out we had crackers, cookies, pop corn, and lemonade. We had a wonderful time and wish that all of our friends could have been here with us to enjoy the fun.

This past Sunday Circle Number 5 of the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville came to see us and brought supper for all at the cottage. Before we ate we gave a short program and walked with our friends around the campus. Here are a few of the things we had to eat. There were about a dozen different kinds of cookies, sandwiches and cakes. For our drink we each had a Pepsi Cola. They also brought us toys, funny papers and books and puzzles. We have a lot of eating and reading to do for the next week. All of us would like to thank our Mooresville friends and hope they had as much fun as we did.

Thanksgiving is just around the corner and we are all looking forward to it because the children at Barium have a lot to be thankful for.

Hoping each and everyone of you have a happy Thanksgiving.

— The Annie Louise Girls.

INFIRMARY

Here we are again bringing you the news from our Cottage this month.

We have not had many sick folks lately.

We are proud of our smaller football teams we would like to let you know why. They haven't lost a game the entire season so far.

Well we guess we will say so long until next month.

— Marie Andrews.

QUADS

The Quad boys are looking forward with great interest to our annual football game with Statesville this year. All of our "Stars" including "Jack Clark, J. D. Everett, and Jack Mangum" are very confident of a victory. Of course the "Three Musketeers" will be down on the field cheering the team on. If you're not familiar with these fellows they are Tommy, Buster and me, three of the best boys at the Home.

Bill Stern Berryhill and Ted Huesing Clark predict a great victory over Statesville. They also predict Carolina over Duke, Army over Navy, and Southern California over Notre Dame. But don't put your money on their predictions because they are usually wrong about 5 out of 6 times.

The grading period in our school is about over now and we hope to bring the boys "honor roll" total up to "three" at the most this time which will make a great improvement over our two of last month.

Well here's hoping you will have a grand Thanksgiving with a big turkey on the table, but remember the food shortage in Europe and don't waste anything.

Take it easy till next time.

Your "Ace" Reporters.

Whiting, Hudgins and Myatt

SYNOD COTTAGE

There is hardly time to take our Halloween faces off before Thanksgiving comes around. On Halloween night we had a party and had heaps of fun. Mrs. Bowling made a ghost out of a sheet and a pumpkin, and it did look like one. Louise made a witch out of a mop and chair and decorated our sitting room and clothesroom to look like a real ghost gallery. We had punch and cookies, served to us by some of the senior girls. Our good friend Jerry Newbold was here to help us celebrate.

All of us have new shoes and galoshes and we have started wearing our overalls and knickers.

We wrote our Christmas letters this week in school. We are all excited about Christmas. Just 35 more days.

For Thanksgiving we get three days holiday. Whoopee!

They had the birthday table last week. Louise, Shirley and Rickie McArthur were the only ones to go.

We'll be seeing you next month.

— The Synod Boys

HOWARD COTTAGE

Mr. Johnston is so nice to us. He arranged a way for us to go to two Davidson football games. Best of all we got to go in personal cars. Mr. Johnston, Mr. Calhoun, Miss Carpenter, and Mr. Lowrance took us. We got to go because we were good girls. The second game we went to, Mr. Grier, Mr. Calhoun and the Barium bus took us. We all were glad to get to go.

Miss Carpenter is our leader in Junior League this year. For Halloween she took the Lees boys and Howard girls to Statesville in the Barium bus. She let us watch the people in the costumes. When we got back we had Coco Cola and cookies for refreshments.

On November 10, Circle No. 6 of Mooresville met with us. We gave them a program and then they had their business meeting. They were so good to us. They brought us all kinds of candy, a lot of cookies and all kinds of jelly.

Shirley Shaw was not here when the Circle came. She went to Morganton with Miss Carpenter.

Carol Jean Andrews, Shirley Byrd and Louise Bradshaw have been to Statesville shopping and to a show for making the honor roll. The other honor roll students will go soon.

WOMANS BUILDING

Last month I touched on the subject of the Junior and Senior girls preparing supper and acting as hostesses on Sunday night to the football boys. This month I wish to tell you more about these Sunday night suppers.

Until the weather prevented it we cooked these suppers on our grill behind Woman's Building, but now that it has gotten so cold we find it quite convenient to cook at the kitchen.

We all enjoy these suppers because they are informal in that they are served S and W style.

Since it is the Woman's Building girls who help fix most of the meals, we find it suitable to tell you about a new improvement at the kitchen. The carpenters here at Barium have replaced the back porch by enclosing it with glass windows and wood walls, whereas before it was enclosed with screen. All vegetables and meats will be prepared (cleaned and cut) on the porch before entering the kitchen, therefore preventing the kitchen from becoming dirty and cluttered.

Basketball practice starts soon and everyone is excited. It is hard to tell exactly which sport is the most popular among the children here at Barium - basketball or football - because so many participate in both.

The Juniors and Seniors wish to thank Mrs. Bryant and the carpenter group for our new dressing tables. They not only make our rooms attractive but are quite convenient. Each girl is making her own spread and curtains for her room. In the middle of the spreads a design of a flower has been sewed on.

Every month Mr. Sams, who owns the theaters in Statesville, sends two tickets to each class in school. Many of the girls at our Cottage received a ticket because of outstanding school work. We commend these girls, namely; Lucille Stricklin, Betty Jo Smith, Virginia Pressnell, Lorene Hall, Betty Sue Wolfe, Jeanne Steppe, Helen Vinson, Betsey Page, Mary Frances Price and Margaret Bullard.

We'll be with you next month so look for us.

Margaret Bullard

SEWING ROOM NEWS

The sewing room has been quite busy since we last wrote to you. We have been busy making blouses for the Glee Club girls; making coats for the younger girls and curtains for various cottages on the campus. There has been almost more talk in the sewing room about the football game with Statesville Friday than there has been sewing. This is "the" game of the year for us.

Since basketball has started most of the girls aren't with us too much of the time, so we don't have much time for gossip. Therefore you won't find the usual gossip this month. Most of the girls have been talking about Christmas and what they plan to do during the holidays. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Fox, (our matrons), seem content to listen to our chatter, but our guess is that they are thinking about the holidays too.

To each of you we wish a happy Thanksgiving holiday.

—The S. R. Girls.

JENNIE GILMER

First of all we wish to thank the circle of Mooresville for the nice gifts that they brought to us. We are very sorry that we were not here to see and be with you. The scarfs are all so nice. We could hardly pick the one we wanted for our room. Everytime someone comes to our rooms we have to show them to them. We all think that the candy, cookies, and oranges had a big help in making us win our games. We also want to thank you for the beautiful Camera.

Basketball has started now and we are very glad. Besides football this is the next best liked sport among us. We hope that you can come up to see us play sometime.

Read about us in next months paper.

Jennie Gilmer Boys

RUMPLE HALL

Dear Friends,

Here we are bringing you the news again this month.

We wish that all of you could see our play room. We have a new victrola and some nice records. We like to get in our play room and do acrobatics.

The Junior Choir went to Taylorsville last week and gave a program in the First Presbyterian Church. After the service the ladies of the Auxilliary served delicious refreshments.

We are going to get new coats from the sewing room by Christmas, we hope.

Good-bye until next month.

— The Rumple Hall Girls

News From Other

1900. He was a good young man. He has been a most efficient pastor and orphanage superintendent. The Talladega institution will long miss his services.

Dr. Lynn, the former superintendent of Thornwell Orphanage, still retains his home at Montreat and meets his many friends there every summer. He holds a pastorate in Florida.

Speaking of orphanages, there is an orphanage in Australia - the Melbourne Orphanage - whose superintendent Mr. Butler, has kept in touch with us for many years. We exchange literature, reports, and letters. During the critical war years the things that their institution had to do brought us a close-up picture of the war front. Today they are recovering, but the recovery is slow and the additional burdens on this institution seem to be greater than those on us here.

We know that wars upset the lives of children in many ways, and we feel it in our lives, but these things are tempered to us by distance and by many other things. Australia was near the front and there was not much to temper the shock of these disturbances to them. We remember a letter which we received from Mr. Butler during the early years of the war. It was at a time when the Jap drive was nearing Australia. There did not seem to be any strength lying between the advancing Jap armies and the relatively undefended shores of Australia, and then as he described it one morning they suddenly found the streets of their cities full of American soldiers - big, strapping, self-confident, and unafraid. "They just took over," so he said. "They ate up all our steak, all of our sheep, and nearly everything else that we had, but how we thanked God that they were here. We are now no longer afraid." Some of our own Barium Springs boys were in that crowd of early soldiers on the streets of the Australian cities. They wrote back and gave us their impressions, too, and it made us feel close kin to these neighbors down under. We have just received the Annual Report of this institution. Their buildings are badly in need of repair, new buildings are needed, but building conditions are even worse in Australia than they are here. They have also had an epidemic. We can say that was due to the war too - an epidemic of ringworm, so severe that they had to stop taking children into the orphanage until it could be gotten under control. Diphtheria and other things have had a hand. Well, we sympathize with them and then give thanks for our doctors and the health measures that are possible here at Barium. For instance, we had an epidemic of a new kind of ringworm. It was new to some of the doctors. It was a tropical job that was picked up by our army and brought back to the United States, and eventually reached us. The old methods of handling ringworm and kindred diseases did not seem to work with this, but eventually after many attempts it was gotten under control. We know they will manage it somehow, sometime, at this Australian institution. It all adds up to this, that when you are dealing with children there is never a dull moment. Even behaviour problems sometimes shrink by comparison with some of the more urgent and distressing health conditions. Sometimes we think we are suffering more than others, but the report from Australia opens our eyes to the fact that we are living in a mighty good place.

One most valuable speaker was a former Barium boy, Rufus Long, who presented Barium most effectively on two occasions.

It is gratifying to be invited; it is most heartening to feel the affection and loyalty toward Barium by our friends all over the State. Many things are calling for help. That we at Barium are remembered so generously at this time gives us renewed courage.

we have to take in stride.

There are only six boys in the senior class at Barium and just half of these play football, a much smaller percentage than is usually the case with Barium seniors. Of the three who do play two of them are regulars and the other a mighty good substitute.

The one who has made the headlines more often than any is Jack Clark, tailback, punter, passer and runner. There are times when he has played magnificent ball. Sometimes he has been slowed up by injuries.

Barium will miss this blonde boy, but there is another blonde coming up from the eighth grade who will attempt to fill his shoes.

Charles Barrett, fullback, converted from end, has played a good consistent game all year. That boy has played when he was hurt and turned in an excellent performance. He was the only regular back who was left in the Salisbury game and he made a real game out of that.

James Reid lacks only one thing and that is size. He has the know-how and a most willing spirit, but he is too small for the competition we have been up against this year. However, he has seen much service as a replacement when any of the other backs had to leave the game. He has played just about as much as anybody.

There are enough juniors on the team to assure us good leadership in 1948 and some mighty likely prospects moving up from the eighth grade, so we are looking forward to 1948 with lively hopes for a better season.

The final game of the season was with Statesville. Statesville is our nearest neighbor and keenest rival. The game with Statesville climaxes the season, and all comparative scores are forgotten when the teams take the field. This year Statesville beat Barium - the margin was small, 7-6, but it was a defeat - the first since 1928. This does not mean that Barium has been better every year - many things contributed to these victories and some of them might have been the result of luck. It looked that way especially to the Statesville rooters. This year Statesville had a good team. They did not have as good a record as Barium. They had been defeated the week before by a team which Barium had badly defeated a week earlier. You mathematicians add this up. Barium defeated Spencer 26-6; Spencer defeated Statesville 31-0; Statesville defeated Barium 7-6.

The rivalry between Statesville and Barium, keen as it is, does not carry with it some of the disagreeable aspects of other rivalries. The players, the cheering sections, and the team followers (spectators) all seem to have a genuine affection for each other and the game ended with a lot of hand-shaking and no fist-shaking.

May it always continue so.

a strange sight. A jack daw coming down the road pulling a little cart and ever and anon tingling his bell and calling "Worms, worms, beautiful, fat, juicy, worms." The little skylark loved worms so he sidled up and said "How much for a nice worm?" And the jack daw said "I'll make you one cheap, just one wing feather." And after that the jack daw had a steady customer. Every time the foolish little skylark heard "Worms, worms", he came running with a wing feather. One day he noticed he could not soar so high and his song in flight was shortened; but "my those juicy worms! I'll just have to have another". So it went on till at last he couldn't fly at all, and he didn't feel like singing. So he went out and began to dig up worms and he got a pile together and took them to the jack daw and said "Here take these worms and give me back my wings." But the jack daw said "Silly boy, I buy wings, not worms."

What happened to the little foolish skylark then? I don't really know. I hope his wings grew back and that he never sold them for worms again. But there are boys and girls just as foolish who sell the finest things of the soul by which they may soar upward unto God, giving up purity of life, cleanliness of conscience; an unsullied body; selling for that which is unclean an unholy, clipping the wings of the soul and spoiling the song of the heart.

We are to rejoice in life and enjoy its pleasures but we are to remember that we were made in the image of God; That when God made man, he breathed into man the breath of life and man became a living soul. Since man is the only creature made in the image of God, man should value his own personality. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul." Because one soul is of more value than all the world.

There is a story that when Louis XVI king of France was executed his son, called the Dauphin, was put out with an abandoned character. When she tried to get the Dauphin to do evil things, or utter profane or vulgar words, he would say, "But I am a child of the king."

"Beloved now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know, that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure."

We should remember God by seeking Him in the beautiful and sublime. Everything beautiful is made to praise Him, everything useful is to be dedicated to His service. All things are for his glory and God is revealed in his creation. We should apprehend him not only by our intellect and our sense of the esthetic but we must perceive him by the exercise of the powers of the soul. His glory which expresses his love can best be apprehended by love.

"The night has a thousand eyes
The day but one
Yet the light of the bright world dies
With the dying sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes
And the heart but one
Yet the light of the whole life dies
When love is done."

"Whatsoever things are lovely - think on these things."

Remember God. Seek him in the Holy scriptures. While much of the wisdom and glory of God is revealed in nature, the full orb'd glory of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost is only revealed in his word. There God is revealed in the person of His Son, The Lord Jesus Christ. "God who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ."

Jesus Christ is the answer to the needs of the world. In him we may rejoice in our youth and our joy will be full, containing nothing which we need dread in the day of judgment. Life following him will be an age of achievement. And when we remember God in our youth those evil days will never come when thou shalt say "I have no pleasure in them;" for old age will be an era of blessed memory.

Farewell, ye dreams of night,
Jesus is mine.
Lost in the dawning bright,
Jesus is mine.
All that my soul has tried
Left but a dismal void;
Jesus has satisfied
Jesus is mine.

Building America's

the orphanage supplements the amount allotted by the state, and uses this supplement principally for the employment of additional teachers. As a result, we do have a school of which we are proud, and we believe that there are certain features of our school that might well be emulated, whenever possible, by other schools of our state.

Our teacher load averages about twenty pupils per teacher instead of thirty-five or more as in most schools. All of our teachers have Class A or Graduate certificates. On account of certain conditions such as smaller classes, less expensive living arrangements, somewhat less of the "extra duties" found in most schools, freedom from political interference, and a feeling that their job is secure as long as their work is satisfactory; we have been able to secure and hold some of the best teachers to be found in the state.

Our attendance averages better than 98 per cent. There are few absences except on account of sickness, and far less than the average amount of sickness, due to the outstanding health program of the school and orphanage.

An orphanage can never take the place of a "Good" home, and certainly a matron with twenty or thirty children to look after can not take the place of "Good" parents. Nevertheless, there is more cooperation between matron and teacher than can be found in many instances between parent and teacher. Which leads me to make a plea for more cooperation and a better understanding between parents and teachers. Know your school! Visit your school! Get acquainted with the people who teach your children!

From what has been said, one might get the idea that the Barium Springs School had about reached perfection. Nothing could be further from the truth. We have problems every day. In spite of our smaller classes and excellent teachers, some pupils fail in their work, and a few have to repeat their grade, and far too many drop out of school before graduation. On the other hand, many do graduate, and many continue their education beyond high school. Forty-four Barium graduates are now in college, and our teachers share with all other teachers the great satisfaction of feeling that they are having a very important part in building America's future.

Wm. A. Hethcox, Principal

VOL. 25 BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C. DECEMBER 1947 No. 2

Mitchell Co-Eds vs. Barium Alumni

When you read this it will be wry past football season - even the Bowl games will have been played, but there is just one game you must hear about. It happened on Thanksgiving Day at Barium Springs and it was between the Mitchell Co-eds and the Barium Alumni. Now, the Mitchell Co-eds are boys and there are about 85 at Mitchell College. The idea for this game started out as sort of joke, but as time went along the boys got more and more serious about it and when Thanksgiving Day finally arrived the event took on the appearance of a Bowl game. There was a grand crowd out to see it: the weather was beautiful a nice, sunshiny afternoon. Men women and children came, and the Barium Alumni looked formidable. They brought so many wives and children with them that it took a separate section to handle them and it was difficult to keep the second generation off the bench.

Listen to this line-up, you old football fans. At center for Barium was Roscoe Smith, a recent graduate. At ends were Toe Donaldson and Lee Spencer. Toe has children in high school and he belonged to one of those teams of way back yonder when Barium's annual occupation was to beat the State Champions. We did it so regularly and so neatly that we were called "The Giant Killers". We liked to pick out the champion in each of the Conferences and work on them. There was Buck Brigrance, that motorcycle racer, who is so toughened up from spills from his motorcycle that a little thing like a tackle or a block did not even irritate him. He did have to stop for breath occasionally. By the way, Brigrance came all the way from Jacksonville, Florida, to get in this game. There were three boys from Chapel Hill - Benny Gregory, George Lewis, and Dave Burney. From right here at Barium in addition to the ones already mentioned there was Ralph Spencer at guard, Joe Ben Gibbs in the backfield, and even old man Jackins, the Barium Coach. When Jackins used to play as a regular he was one of those slim, willowy, slippery backs. Now he has sacrificed a good bit of his speed to weight, and he cannot carry his 225 plus around like he used to carry his 150 but he was still potent and toted a mean ball all during that game. He really set up the one touchdown that was the margin of Barium's victory. Arthur Roach was here with his wife and baby to watch him, and he looked just like the Roach of old. He made the touchdown that won the victory. Dwight Spencer, now a student at Mitchell College, was torn between two loyalties - whether to play on Barium's team or Mitchell's. He finally chose a Barium uniform. His half-brothers, Fred and Clyde Johnson, wearing the same uniform created too much of a pull for him. Kenneth Baker, another Barium alumnus, played on the Mitchell team, so that evened things up. There was Charlie Sear, whom a lot of Davidson folks remember as the midget back who helped to defeat V M I one year while at Davidson. Ed Oliver, the boy who led Barium to a 28-0 victory over Greensboro; Ed Flowers, the speed-boy of one of our former teams and who now lives in Statesville, and to complete the list of Eds there was Ed Cole, one of the backs of that miracle midget team, who was so good that he finally made the varsity without getting (Continued On Page Three)

Some of This Year's Senior Class Ten Years Ago

Take a good look at this picture, and then preserve it because in about five months the Messenger will carry individual pictures of nine people who are in this picture. They will be graduating and in this picture they are second graders - just ten years ago this picture was made. We will not attempt to name everybody in the picture but just pick out the seniors. In the first row, second from the left, is Betty Jo Smith and in fifth place right square in the middle is Virginia Presnell; then next to her is Peggy Coffey and on the extreme right Betty Coffey. In the second row, second from the end right in front of the teacher is Sadie Buie;

the fourth in the row looking down is Mildred Monroe; next to her is Ernestine Baldwin, and between them and behind is Charles Barrett. Second from the end is Lucile Stricklin. All of these are in the present senior class at Barium. In the front row the third from the left is Doris Gant who is a senior in the Statesville High School this year. Third from the right in the back row is Betty Lou Hooten who is graduating in San Francisco this year. The teacher, by the way, will have to remain unidentified. She is still teaching at Barium and looks just as youthful as she does in this picture. She might not like it known that she has been teaching here that long. We are rather proud of it and proud of her. There are also two others in the picture who are still at Barium. The little girl in the back row slipped one grade and is now a junior - Helen Vinson, and then in the first row third from the right, is another who due to illness missed two grades - that is Elizabeth Johnson. Down in the first row at the extreme left is a young lady who is now a settled married woman - believe it or not. Tempus does fugit! We are going to miss all of these young people when they finish up here.

Children Enjoying Christmas Parties

There was a time when all the time before Christmas was just a time of delightful waiting and lively anticipation of the things that were going to happen on Christmas day. This year we have not had time to do much thinking about the future for enjoying the present. Here are just a few of the things that have happened. The Playhouse Theatre invited all of us to come in and see The Miracle of 34th Street, and that was just like having an extra Christmas. Everyone who saw it, and that includes all of us, thoroughly enjoyed that fine picture. And then on last Tuesday night, the 9th, the fraternities at Davidson invited 157 boys and girls from Barium, practically everything below the high school and above the Baby Cottage. Eleven fraternity and independent groups did the inviting. There were around fifteen children as guests at each of these eleven parties. The groups were arranged by Mr. Calhoun. They went down on our buses and trucks right after supper Tuesday night. They were met in front of the Chambers Building by a boy from each of the inviting groups. The Barium children were introduced by one of their number who who had been appointed monitor and then the parties began. We would not attempt to describe any one of them. Whenever you say "Davidson Party" to a (Continued On Page Two)

THE LIGHTS OF CHRISTMAS In many lands there are no Christmas lights. In some countries millions have never heard the story of God's great gift to man of the light which shone from the Manger Cradle or the Glory of God which shone round about when the angels Host sang Glory to God in the highest. The lights of Christmas should mean more to us than the candle in the window; the lights on the Christmas trees or the brilliant illumination of the city streets. In the Beginning of Creation God said "Let there be light and there was light," and, as the curtain of darkness lifted, the miracle of light drove away the darkness. Paul gives us the spiritual interpretation of that sublime scene in II Cor. 4:6 "For God, who hath commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts; to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." So, after all, the great and blessed Christmas light is that which comes from him who said, "I am the light of the world." There is then one light, one hope, that is found in that "light not seen on land or sea." But we are His. He teaches us that we should walk as children of light. Paul is very bold as he says (Continued On Page Three)

Eighth Grade Presents A Christmas Play

The eighth grade gave a Christmas present to every member of the first seven grades Thursday, Dec. 18, 1947, when they presented the heart-warming one act play, "The Birds' Christmas Carol" in the high school auditorium. The play, an out growth of a project in English, was a dramatization of Kate Douglas Wiggin's famous story of the "Ruggleses in the dear Carol Bird. The costumes, reminiscent of the "eighties", were planned and executed by the wearers. A prize was given to the member of the cast judged to have interested (Continued On Page Three)

Football Banquet Held Here On December 11

By ALWYN MORRISON

A most delightful occasion was that of the annual football banquet at Barium Springs last night, which honored some sixty odd football stalwarts of the home, for outstanding play on the football gridiron this past season. A most delicious steak supper was served, at beautiful appointed tables set in Rumble dining hall at Barium, and with their decorations suggestive of the past football season and of the approaching holiday season, made a most attractive scene as some one hundred or more officials, alumnae, workers and invited guests enjoyed a most delightful evening together. During the supper, Miss Rachel Hickman, music director at Barium and a sextet of singers at the home made the occasion a most delightful one with some snappy and entertaining song hits. Those composing the sextet were Misses Betty and Peggy Coffey, Betty Jo Smith and Messrs. Herbert Good, Charles Barrett and Jerry Young.

Genial Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, superintendent of the home, welcomed all present and introduced a number of his guests of the evening, including a number of the alumnae of Barium Springs. Messrs. Sid Bost and Bill McLain of the Statesville Daily Record, Alwyn Morrison of the Statesville Daily, assistant coach Moneyhan of Davidson College, and Heath Whittle, who incidentally is Mrs. Southerland's son-in-law. Mr. Johnston called on Joe Ben Gibbs, a former outstanding Barium athlete, to present the letter certificates to the 85 pound team that won five out of five games played this past season, these being: Edsel McArthur, Jimmy Freeman, Jimmy Johnson, Dean Upton, Jerry Hudgins, Robert Lee Hall, Charles Hall, Larry Dean, Ennis Blackburn, Calvin Burleson, Everett Vest, Woody Smith and Archie McMannan. To Donnie Bolton, another former outstanding athlete at Barium went the honor of presenting the letter certificates to the 100-pound team that won seven games this season without a setback, these being: James Wheeler, Mack Wicker, Charles Faircloth, Carl Spicer, John Plyler, Alfred Williams, Palmer Wilcox, Ray Shumaker, Bobby McMannan, Clyde Dellinger, Billy Black, Joe Barkley, Jack Harwell, Dean Upton and Bobby Whiting. Mr. Johnston next called on another former outstanding Barium athlete, Ralph Spencer, to present the letters to the Junior varsity or "B" team, which com- (Continued On Page Two)

WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS TO ME

By CHARLES BARRETT

Member Senior Class, Barium Springs High School, Barium Springs, N. C.

WHAT does Christmas mean to me? At this writing I can't attribute its meaning to any one thing and say, "That's what it means to me".

In writing this composition, I shall try in an informal, subjective way to acquaint you with the different attitudes I have taken toward Christmas during my past seventeen years.

What the first few Christmases meant to me can be described in one word - PRESENTS. I was strictly on the receiving end, and what interested me most was whether I got more presents than anyone else.

But, as a few more years passed, I learned a new significance of Christmas. I now divided the season in two parts: Santa Claus's part, and Christ's part. The latter I didn't fully understand; in fact at the age of six, I thought "Silent Night" was a Halloween song; and as far as going to church and hearing beautiful music, I enjoyed that; but we went to church all year; therefore I didn't get the special significance out of the religious Christmas festivities, knowing only one phase of Christmas, that of Santa Claus, my thoughts centered wholly around him and what I would receive.

When I was in the fourth grade, and about to celebrate my eleventh Christmas, our teacher asked us to prepare a Christmas note book. Wanting mine to be different, I decided to try my hand at poetry. The result was the following poem, entitled "Christ's Birth".

In a manger filled with hay
There the little Christ Child lay,
With His parents watching o'er Him,
And the angels round about them.

And the wise men from afar,
In the East had seen His star,
As they rode out to the West,
Where the star was soon to rest.

And the angels as they flew,
Came and told the shepherds too,
As they sang Christ lowly,
For He was born in Bethlehem.

Our minister had it published in the bulletin. My ideas of Christmas were changing.

It was two years later that I gave my first Christmas gift. I shall never forget it. It was a simple picture of the American flag with a prayer for a better world written below it. I gave it to my mother. She was more surprised than anything else, but she kept it. The act of giving that first Christmas gift meant something to me - I believe that after that gesture in Christmas sharing to know a new meaning to me.

In the foregoing paragraphs, I have tried to show the change that has taken place in my thinking since I was first introduced to Christmas. Now I shall try to reveal how I feel about Christmas now.

The thing that means most to me in the celebration of Christmas is the beautiful music. The music written for this season is the most beautiful ever written, in my opinion. Great composers were inspired to write magnificent Cantatas such as Handel's "Messiah", which is probably the most famous. The Christmas lyrics have many lessons one would do well to learn. In mentioning these beautiful hymns and cantatas, I wouldn't minimize the many heart-warming stories such as "The Birds' Christmas Carol". From these stories and lyrics we can largely get the real meaning of Christmas. In them we find wonderful lessons on tolerance, love and kindness. An example is, "Good will hence forth from heaven to men." What does it mean? To me it is the fulfillment of what the prophets had been saying all through the ages. At last a Savior was coming who would save the world from sin. It means God will redeem man from his sins and give him a second chance - which none of us could do without.

Christmas has become a time of joy! To me, joy is the keynote of Christmas; and joy is incomplete unless it is shared.

Joy, it has been said, is the sign that the soul has found an object. To me the chief source of joy is found in a demonstration of thoughtfulness to others. During Christmas our joy reaches new heights, because we celebrate a new the birth of our Savior, "Who came to minister; not to be ministered unto."

"The keynote of Christmas is joy". Christmas to me, means the joy of giving, of receiving, and of the rebirth of Christ in the hearts of all mankind.

Dickens, in his inimitable story, "A Christmas Carol", has expressed my feelings of Christmas far better than I can, when he has Scrooge's nephew say, "Christmas is a good time; a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time; the only time I know of the long calendar of the year, when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely, and to think of people below them as fellow passengers to the grave, and not another race of creatures bound on other journeys."

My Christmas prayer this year is a prayer that could be universally prayed. "Give Peace for all time, dear Lord, and fill our hearts and the hearts of all men everywhere with the love of Christ Jesus," who was born in an humble stable two thousand years ago. This is what Christmas means to me.

SEWING ROOM

Dear Friends,

It hardly seems time to write sewing room news again. Everyone's mind has been on Christmas, so the time has certainly flown by. We finished making coats since we wrote you last, and we are now working on dresses for the Woman's Building girls. Our materials are steadily decreasing since the "new long lengths" have come out. Incidentally, our girls like the new longer dresses. We certainly are proud of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Fox who have been working so well since we started to school. We are in the sewing room only a small part of the day, so our two matrons are really kept busy.

Three of our girls, Lucille, Sadie, and Betty Joe are on the basketball team. We had a game last night with Celeste Henkel and won. Another of our girls, Ernie Baldwin, is book-keeper. She is quite a mathematician. Virginia Presnell is the manager this year and is kept very busy by our famous "All Stars".

Our twins, Peggy and Betty, are having a happy birthday today. They're suffering from longevity today since they are now eighteen.

WOMANS BUILDING

One of the most enjoyable fall parties was the square dance given by the Juniors and Seniors the night following Thanksgiving. Most of us wore jeans and dressed as much like hill-billies as possible. We succeeded I think. The gym was decorated in the barn motif, and believe me it looked more like a barn than a gym. Without too much trouble we rigged up a horse out of a carpenter's horse, but failed to locate a "cow". Hill-billy music was provided for the square dancing, which was called by Mr. Neill and Mr. Hostettler, both of Troutman.

After standing in line for three hours the Juniors and Seniors finally boarded the "Freedom Train" and explored the documents searching for some thing that our history teacher, Miss Thompson, had not already told us.

Mr. Sams, of Statesville, invited us to a "free" show and we wish to thank him. We enjoyed the show very much and recommend it to you. (Lots of Freedom!)

We wish for all of you who read the Messenger a merry, joyful Christmas and a healthy and happy new year.

INFIRMARY

It is so near time for Santa and we have been writing our Christmas letters. We are just about to write this in letter form.

We have had only three or four sick ones in the past month. Don't tell anyone but maybe the reason for no sickness is because they have heard Santa doesn't visit the sick. But little David Reid doesn't think the way everyone else does. He has spent the past two years and says he wants to again this year.

We had two girls, Marie Andrews and Hazel Creech on the honor roll, we are proud to say just one or two unsatisfactory marks kept the other three girls off.

Glad to welcome two new comers, David and Sidney Morrison into our home.

We wish to thank Circle Number 4 of Mooresville for the candy, cake and chewing gum they brought us. We surely did enjoy it.

We hope Santa is as good to everyone as he is to us. We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

So long.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hip, Hip, Hooray. We boys have a new boy - Little Bobby Synod, our dog.

Dr. Nesbit visited us Saturday afternoon bringing us candy and a beautiful white and black puppy three months old.

We received cookies and candy for Thanksgiving from the Business Women's Circle. "Yum Yum, so good."

Thanksgiving day Mr. Inman visited his daughter bringing a fifty pound bag of pecans. Shirley sure does make good fudge with pecans. Someone, we don't know who, brought us some goodie-good home made candies. We hope you see this, thanks.

Circle No. 4 from Morganton sent us some books and we are sure enjoying them. Louise and Shirley are reading to us one half hour each evening before going to bed. We certainly do appreciate the money for candy from the same ladies.

We all were treated to a trip to see "The Miracle of 34th St.," at the Playhouse Theatre. It was so good. Now we all are sure Santa will answer our letters.

We had eight children on the honor roll, of which we are very proud.

Leaves are falling and we are trying to help clean the campus.

Our champion "sack-filler" in the leaf cleaning crew is Nat Craig. He has a system all his own he lays the sack on the ground and with his back to the bag puts his feet on the opening of the bag, bends over and pulls the other part over his back, with hands like little diggers he soon has his bag full then he jumps in and packs them down. This should be seen to be appreciated. This is his own idea.

We are a happy group and in unison we shout: Merry Christmas to all from Synod's Boys, Girls and Housemother.

HOWARD COTTAGE

We have been raking leaves since the last time you heard from us. We have raked up 224 sacks. The faster we rake them the faster they fall.

We had thirteen girls on the honor roll last time. Margaret Hucks made the 13th one. The ones that made the honor roll the first month got to go to a show and window shopping.

Christmas will soon be here and we are all excited. We hope you have a Merry Christmas.

We got to go to a free show in the Barium bus. The name of the show was, "Miracle on 34th Street." It was a very good show about Santa Clause.

Some of the small cottages get to go to a party at Davidson on December 9th.

Most of us have new boots and galoshes. They are brown and red.

Well I guess we had better sign off until next time.

RUMPLE HALL

We are back again bringing you our news for this month. We have so much to tell you that we can't write it all down on paper, so we are counting on you to come to see us sometime.

We were invited to Davidson College last week to a Christmas party. The children of the grammar school grade were divided into groups of fifteen and the different Fraternities saw that we had a good time.

We played games and sang carols for a while and then saw motion pictures of some of Davidson's football games. They were very interesting. Each Fraternity house had a Christmas tree with presents for everyone. A boy played Santa to us and we had a grand time.

Another thing that is very important to us is that our rooms are being painted. We are so happy about it that we just had to tell you. We are very proud of them and hope that you will come to see us sometime.

Good bye until next month.
—The Rumble Hall Girls.

Children Enjoying

group of children there is such a clamor of everybody trying to tell it at once that all we can gather is that it was one evening of supreme delight. Mr. Jackins drove one of the buses down there. He had been to Davidson possibly a thousand times during his life; he was so entertained by the thirty or more children telling him about the party on the way home that he got lost in Mooresville. That is something that ought to be sent in to Ripley. Mr. Hethcox who drove another bus brought back stories of individual experiences at one of these parties that would fill a small-sized book. We have received letters from Davidson mentioning the results from the boys' side and it altogether adds up into one perfect evening. Whoever thought up that idea and those who carried it out should be commended and have this as a pleasant memory as long as they live.

As this article is written, we are now beginning the last week of school before Christmas. The big event of the week will be the "Give To" Christmas Tree on Wednesday night. This is an occasion where all the children and grownups at Barium make a contribution and decorate a tree. The contribution gets the decoration which is then tied on to the tree and when it is over it is a very much decorated and beautiful tree. This is the third year we have had this and it is a beautiful occasion, one in which everyone joins. Mr. Arrowood and Miss Hickman will lead the music during the decoration of the tree and, all in all, it is a very happy occasion, and some worthy cause or individual is the recipient of our Christmas giving.

Following this on the same night will be the Cantata, arranged by the music department, which will be held in Little Joe's Church.

Then there is a ball game on Thursday night, and then the Christmas parties really begin. The long part of the vacation comes before Christmas Day, but every one of those days will be pleasant with Christmas Day being the climax - a great occasion.

Already Christmas boxes are beginning to come in. One of the rooms which is ordinarily used for a Sunday School class is used for the assorting of these Christmas presents. Yesterday the Sunday School class had to meet somewhere else, as this room was already filling up. By next Sunday there will be places where the pile will reach to the roof, and by that time several of us will have dropped all other duties to see that Christmas presents are properly handled and distributed.

piled the fine record this past season of seven games won in seven attempts, and the players receiving their letter certificates on this team were: Billy Lybrand, Donald Mitchell, Ray Clark, Mack Berryhill, Jimmy Williams, Cecil Burleson, Kenneth Walker, Bobby Johnson, Earl Huddleston, Terrell Hall, Fred Feimster, John Bullard, Bobby Allen, Charles Stephens, Buddy Maples, Johnny Hudgins, Norvin Hilliard, Jerry Ennis, Cecil Creech, Jay Terry and Paul Dellinger.

Before presenting the varsity lads their certificate letters, which also entitles the player to his regular Barium letter, Mr. Johnston stated that six years ago, Barium made a most enviable record on the gridiron in that they were one of the highest scoring football high machines in the State, but along came the war and from then on up to the present season, the Barium varsity team had not quite the success of former seasons, but are gradually building back to the period, before the war wrecked their football fortunes. It was the 85, 100 and 125 pound teams at Barium during the war years that kept things going in a football way at Barium and helped the varsity teams to win some of their games by feeding some of their players up to the varsity eleven. For a school that had only about 35 boys in the high school department, Barium has done exceedingly well on the football gridiron, and some of these 35 boys did not take part in football. Those receiving their varsity certificate letters were: James Reid, Jack Clark, Charles Barrett, Jerry Young, Johnny Meroney, Jack Mangum, Ricky Lip-pard, Herbert Good, J. D. Everett, Curtis Baldwin, Kenneth Manus, Rufus Clark, Mason Traywick, Paul Barnes and Bert Atwood.

By a vote of the team, Charles Barrett was elected captain for the 1947 team; Jack Clark was selected unanimously as the most valuable player to his 1947 team. Jerry Young was voted the best blocker and Charles Barrett the best tackler, the latter two receiving miniature sterling silver foot-ball charms for being selected as the best blocker and tackler, these medals being given by your cor-respondent who is interested in clean sports.

With this presentation program completed, the banqueters ad-journed to the school building where assistant coach Moneyhan of Davidson showed technicolored pictures of two of Davidson Col-lege's football games, these being the Davidson - William and Mary game and the Davidson - Richmond t'l. This concluded a most enjoy-able evening by all who had the pleasure of enjoying this most de-lightful of events on the Barium sports calendar of the year.

out of the midget team's weight. He still weighs about 125 pounds, but knows what to do with a foot-ball. Also, Bobby Reavis mustach and all, got in there for some play. Bobby was one of the backs on the midget team that earned a National championship.

The game was an interesting one. A Barium cheering section, of course, took over for Barium and the Mitchell cheering section added some extra thrills. They had a little comedy sketch that they had planned. Here is how it was sup-posed to work: one of the Mitchell boys would pretend to be hurt - completely knocked out. The bug-ler in the Mitchell cheering section then would stand up and play Taps in a very solemn and heartrending manner. After awhile the boy would commence to stir. His ren-dition of Taps would then speed up a little bit, then the boy would get up and start to walk and the Taps would swing into ragtime. Well, it went off apparently ex-actly as rehearsed. The boy on the Mitchell team was down; the bug-ler did his stuff and everybody in the stands thought it was tremen-dously funny. The only trouble was that the boy who got hurt was not in on it and it was not a fake hurt but a real one. The boy was knock-ed almost unconscious and when the fog cleared up in his head he heard Taps being played and he got the idea that the Mitchell cheering section were making fun of him. There might have been a girl involved in there some way; anyhow, he had to be restrained from climbing all over the bugler. However, by nightfall the bugler was able to come out of hiding and everybody went to bed happy with no hangovers of this most interest-ing sports event.

Both sides were so enthusiastic over the outcome that they want to stage it as an annual event, so if you are looking around for some-where to go next Thanksgiving, drop in at Barium. You will very likely be highly entertained.

By the way, the proceeds of the game were divided, the Mitchell boys using theirs for equipment, and the Barium side going into the vacuum caused in the athletic bank account by so many rainy Fridays. Thanks to Mitchell and thanks to our Alumni for the fine entertain-ment they put on.

"But we all, with unveiled face, beholding as in a mirror the image of the Lord, are transformed into the same image from glory to glory even as from the Lord the Spirit." "Ye are the light of the world" says Jesus. Phil. 2:15 "Be the Sons of God in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world."

Yes we should have our lights burning just now. The world is so dark that Christians should be careful to have their lamps trim-med and burning.

I was interested in seeing a wise quotation from an apocryphal book of the Old Testament II Esdras 14:25 which said, "I shall light a candle of understanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out."

We live in violent times. In days when ideas principles and their ex-pression are matters of life and death. It is a time when we need to exercise ourselves; to be very chari-table, very sympathetic, and very understanding. It would be easy for us to forget that we are Chris-tians and that we follow a Master that even as they drove the nails prayed, "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." Yes, may we have in our hearts lighted the candle of our understanding which shall not be put out."

Another candle that should be lighted in our hearts is the candle of joy.

I am not referring to light or frivolous pleasure. There never was a time when that is more out of place than now. Surely the thoughtless will be restrained from using this season in excess of drink-ing and foolish or riotous living. But it should be a time of deep Christian joy that as a people He has been so good to us. We have our homes where we still have safety. We have an abundance of food, clothing and shelter. We have open churches and open Bibles. We can gather and tell and sing the Christmas story and worship at the manger. We can gather round our family altars and sing our songs and exchange our gifts and our love. And above and beyond all we can live by faith in Him who loved us and gave himself for us.

It is a time when we should keep the candle of love shining very brightly. O there is so much unbridled hate in the world. So many cruel unmerciful things are being done; so many hard words being said, its natural to fall into the spirit of the age. We have a hard thing to do but we must not shrink from it because it is hard. Hear the words of Jesus, "Love your enemies; do good to them that hate you; pray for them that dispisfully use you and persecute you that ye may be the children of your Father which art in heaven." Yes, against the mantel of dark and cruel hate, Christ and love should flame out. "How far the little candle throws its beam" said Portia, "so shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Isaiah, who so clearly saw the dawning of the light of Christ, al-so so eloquently prophecies of the duty and privelege and joy of Christians to bring light to the darkened world.

"The people that walked in dark-ness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the sha-dow of death, upon them hath the light shined." Isa. 9:2.

Isa. 42:6 "I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand and will keep thee and give thee for a covenant of the people, and for a light of the gen-tiles."

Isa. 60:1-3 "Arise shine for thy light is come and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. For be-hold darkness shall cover the earth and gross darkness the peo-ple, but the Lord shall arise upon thee and his glory shall be seen upon thee and Gentiles shall come to thy light and kings to the bright-ness of thy risings."

Isa. 60:19 "The sun shall be no more thy light by day; neither for brightness the moon give light unto thee; but the Lord shall be unto thee an everlasting light, and thy God thy glory."

The Give-to Christmas Tree — Before and After

The picture reproduced here is not a moving picture but it almost is. They are three views of our "Give-to" Christmas tree which was held on the night of December 17th in our big dining room. You know in this we start out with a bare tree. When each person makes a contribution they pick up a decoration and tie it on the tree.

The picture at the left shows the first decoration being pinned on. The picture at the right shows the final results, over 300 decorations. The picture in the middle shows the activities in full swing.

Our Christmas gift this year went to a former Barium Springs student, George Faison. After leaving Barium he decided to study for the ministry. At that time he was married and had a family, but he managed to take care of the family and get his college degree and then he went to the seminary. Right in the middle of his seminary career his health failed him and he had to move to a dry climate. This was a great disappointment to him as well as a great expense. He says that our contribution will enable him to enter Austin Seminary. His letter of thanks for this gift is printed elsewhere in this paper.

Crystal City, Texas
December 22, 1947

My dear Friends at Barium,

This morning I received a very special Christmas present. I think it was the nicest Christmas surprise I have ever had, because I have never gotten a Christmas gift from so many friends at one time. The gift I am writing about is that one which each of you made possible at your "Give-to" Christmas tree.

I know that to just write a letter to say "thank you" could never let you know how much I appreciate your kindness, but maybe if I tell you what your gift is going to be used for, you will have some idea of what a wonderful thing you have done. By the gift that you have sent, I am going to be able to go back to the Seminary this next fall and finish my studies in preparing for the ministry. I am sure you have all heard of the great need there is in our church for ministers today, and then when you realize that each of you, by your gift at the "Give-to" Christmas tree, will have a part in helping fill this great need, you can really understand what a useful and generous thing you have done.

I am at loss to think of a single thing that could have brought a greater joy to me on this Christmas Day, or that could have been more useful, than the gift you have made. Your "Give-to" Christmas tree at Barium reflects the true spirit of Christmas more radiantly than all the "Take-from" Christmas trees I've ever known! From the depths of my heart I say, "Thank you", for sharing that which you have with me, and thus making this Christmas one of the happiest and most glorious ones I have ever known.

With love and Best Wishes to all,
George Faison.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Friends'

Here we are back again to bring you the news. We are getting our house painted up and clean. Our new matron arrived and we are all very glad to have her to come to live with us. She looks like she is very nice but when she has lived with us long enough we will learn to know and love her better, her name is Miss Grier. Mrs. Bryant is moving back over to the Women's Building and we will all miss her and hope to have her as our matron some other time. We sure had a good time when she was our matron. We are all doing good in school and hope to have 27 honor rolls next month. We will see you next month when the time comes.

Good Bye,
— The Busy Bees

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Here we are back again with lots to tell.

School was out for Christmas holidays December the nineteenth and started back the thirty-first of December. During that time we had a lot of fun. We don't see how our matron and big sisters put up with such excitement. Mr. Johnston let us go Christmas shopping. Everything we saw we wanted but of course that was impossible.

Christmas Eve, we went to bed but couldn't sleep. The next morning we were awake and had a wonderful Christmas. It snowed almost all day. We didn't play in it but still we had a good time with all our dolls, games and other nice things we got.

We want to thank each and every one of our friends for making our Christmas such a successful one. Also we want to thank Mr. Sams in Statesville for the show

Letter From One of Our Little Friends

Dear Friends,

If you can, please print this in the February issue. I wish I could go to see all of the people at Barium Springs, but I can't go up there. I am a member of the Tar Heel Presbyterian Church. I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. I come to see my grandmother and grandfather to read the paper that all the friends make for me to read in Barium Springs.

Have a good time. My mother and father's name is Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Gooden and my grandfather and grandfather's name is Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Gooden.

Your pal,
James David Gooden.

tickets.

It was nice to get away from school for a few days but it is nice to see all of our smiling teachers.

Report cards have come out for the third period. Eighteen of our little girls got on the Honor Roll. We are very proud of them. We hope all of us will make it next time.

It is getting cold now. Hope it snows soon. Any of you who pass by Barium will probably see a lot of snow men, women and children.

Hope all of you have made some New Years Resolutions. Our's is trying to be good. Our big sisters and matron are glad to hear that.

Be with you next month same time, same paper.

The Message of the Epitaph

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

THE MINISTER'S MESSAGE

Psalm 90:12. So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

John Calvin calls this a problem in arithmetic. It is the same problem we experience when we have a certain amount of money to spend and we go to the store to spend it. That article is too high, we do not buy that. Another is not of good quality, we pass it by. Another we would like to have but it is not necessary.

Now, perhaps we may have little money, but there is something more valuable than that; it is Time. It is said that when she was dying, Queen Elizabeth offered her doctors any amount of money they asked, for one hour more of time.

We have a year before us. We do not have the promise of the whole year, though God grant we shall all live the year. But we have certain days before us to spend. Our problem is to spend them wisely and well for things worth while and so may find a good investment. That was the thought of the Psalmist and he seeks help from God.

The writer of these words is Moses, the man of God. Moses has been, from his youth, learned in all the learning of the Egyptians. But Moses looks and says, "So teach us." Moses has lived in the desert of Arabia in contemplation forty years, but in humility he looks to God and says, "Teach us." Moses has seen God face to face but he says, "So teach us."

He makes his prayer out of his experience with God. For many years he has had no home but has lived a nomad a wanderer on the face of the earth.

He looked to God to teach him because of the Eternity of God and the frailty of man. God knows all about time, the numbering of the days, because he is before time and above time. Before the mountains were brought or the earth was born, even from everlasting to everlasting, He is God.

But man is mortal. His time is so limited when he begins to know something, mortality crooks a finger at him and he is gone. Bishop Edward H. Buckersleth wrote a transcription of this Psalm which brings out the thought most beautifully. "O God the Rock of Ages, who evermore hast been, What time the tempest rages, our dwelling place serene, Before the first creation, O God, the same as now, To endless generations the Everlasting Thou."

And then the second verse man's Mortality. "Our years are like the shadows on sunny hills that lie. Or grasses in the meadows that blossom but to die. A sleep, a dream, a story by strangers quickly told; An unremaining glory of things that soon are old." And Moses would suggest to us that we pray God to teach us, for God is wise and we lack wisdom. The children have a beautiful song:

"Teach us Lord thy wisdom
For Thou art wondrous wise
Teach us Lord thy wisdom

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST).

The 12th English Class wrote New Year's Prayers after studying a part of Tennyson's "In Memoriam". The following is Mildred Monroe's poem:

NEW YEAR'S PRAYER

Heavenly Father, who has been
Our only hope so true,
At the end of this year of hate and sin
We turn in prayer to you.
Be with us while we strive to do
All things pure and right,
And let us remember to turn to you
As day gives way to night.
Let us resolve within this year
To find a lasting peace,
Which will rid the world of doubt and fear,
And good will to others increase.
Be with people in foreign lands,
Who have not heard of Thee,
And may this year be one that stands
Out, in believers brought to Thee.
Cleansed from secret faults let us be Refreshed to do Thy will,
Blessed by Thee who always sees,
The good that's in us still.
My heart is filled with thankfulness,
Knowing You're always near;
May I prove my worthiness
Throughout the coming year.
— Mildred Monroe.

The Message of the

Lord of earth and skies
Teach us, Teach us Lord thy wisdom".

I do not think he was here asking to know how many days he was to live. That would be a foolish prayer. And the number of the days is not the most important thing. One day properly spent is of more value than a hundred years of a misspent life. There are many things more precious than length of days. Patrick Henry said "Give me liberty or give me death" and that saying has leaped into meaning for us in these days.

No, the meaning of number here is to properly appraise; get an understanding of the brevity of life, and value of the days.

Now the Psalmist doesn't suggest that we number our years or our months, but our days. As never before my friends we must learn to pray "Give us this day our daily bread". "Lord for tomorrow and its needs I do not pray. Keep me my God from stain of sin. Just for today."

"The man Christ called a fool was one who said "I have food laid up for many days", but the Lord said, 'not for you, you will pull down no barns; you will build no more; you will eat no more big dinners; you will drink no more. This night thy soul shall be required of thee'. Rather should we live in the spirit of the words: "I expect to pass through this way but once. Any good, therefore, that I can do or any kindness that I can show to any fellow creature, let me do it now. Let me not defer or neglect it, for I shall not pass this way again."

We come finally to the purpose of the prayer; the object of the teaching; the solution of this problem in arithmetic; the treasure to be bought by our investment of our days, that we may harvest a heart of wisdom.

Wisdom does not come to us as a free gift. We are not endowed with wisdom, we must acquire it. It is not bestowed on us because of piety or because of heredity. Moses out of the wealth of his experience says we are to so use the days of the spring time of our life, in sowing; and the summer of our lives in cultivating and watering and fertilizing; that in the autumn we may hope to harvest a heart of wisdom.

It does not take so long to collect an assortment of facts. The quiz kids show us that. What a galaxy of facts; what a store of knowledge is crammed in the pigeon holes of their young heads! But the ability to make a proper application of facts; the correct use of knowledge; the use of our knowledge and experience to give direction in the use of our faculties; that is wisdom.

In the markets of the world how few of us spend our days for wisdom, of which Solomon said, "The merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold. She is more precious than rubies and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her."

Yes if we have the earnestness of purpose to say to the sellers in Vanity Fair, as did Christian and Hopeful, "We buy truth". Then, with God's wisdom in our hearts, we shall be satisfied early in the morning with his mercies. We shall be glad and rejoice all the day. His works shall be made manifest unto His servants and His glory revealed unto their children.

And the God, who is covered with light as with a garment, will shed his wisdom upon us through His Son, who is made unto us wisdom. So that the graciousness of God may be upon us, and the work which God has given us to do in so far as it accords with the divine plan and purpose and wisdom, will be forever established; and with faith we may pray, "Establish thou the work of our hands upon us, yea, the work of our hands establish thou it." So with courage we may look forward to the new year following

"One who never turned his back but marched breast forward. Never doubted clouds would break. Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph. Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better, sleep to wake."

We got our report cards the other day, Sidney Morrison, Donald Dean and Richard Vest made the honor roll.

Mr. Johnston gave us a lot of army guns and we will have a big time playing "bang bang."

We still have some candy we got Christmas and we get some when we come from school in the afternoon.

SYNODS COTTAGE

Here we are again, telling you of our doings during the first month of the new year, 1948.

We went to the show last Saturday to see Roy Rogers in "The Bells of San Angelo". It was very exciting and kept us on the edge of our seats.

We got our report cards last week and ten of our boys were on the honor roll. They were as follows: Lawton Rice, Johnny Collins, Jerry Ellis, Jerry Thomas, Nat Craig, Jerry McArthur, Walter Plyler, Boyce Dean Smith, Memory Thompson, and Richard Blackburn.

Two little new boys have come to live with us now. Their names are Buddy Lane and Charles Ward. We hope they enjoy staying with us as much as we enjoy having them.

Jimmy Campbell, one of our "big" boys has moved to Lees Cottage. We miss him but are sure he will like his new cottage.

So long for this time but look for us again next month.

— "The Wiggles"

INFIRMARY

"Santa" was extra generous to us girls at the Infirmary this Christmas. Not only did he bring the presents asked for, but extra gifts. And to top all the talk about not having snow this Christmas we woke up to find a white Christmas well on the way after all. God must have realized that it just wouldn't seem like Christmas without snow.

With the New Year came a new nurse to the Infirmary, Mrs. Finley. Not only is she a good nurse but a good cook also. We're sure that you would like to meet her.

Before many months we feel sure that the Infirmary will be one of the prettiest buildings on the campus. The bathrooms have been inlaid with green and black tile and before long the dining room is to have tile on it. Mr. Ervin and his workers have done quite a lot of painting around and Mr. White, the plumber and electrician, has been seen around quite a lot. We have new draperies for the dining room and for the windows at the end of the halls. I'm sure we'll be able to tell you more about these things next month so be with us.

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

'The following sermon was preached at Little Joe's Presbyterian Church on the occasion of the calling of a pastor.)

John 17:8. For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me.

Acts 20:26,27. Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men. For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the Council of God.

THE MINISTER'S THEMES.

As we today go into the election of a new minister let us consider the minister's themes: What should be the content of his message?

What should be the limits of his discussion?

What is the fundamental purpose of his preaching?

That there is a wide difference of opinion and practice on this subject all will agree. The minister is besieged by scores of agencies to present all manner of projects in a sermon. Often an outline is furnished. On the other hand he is admonished by sundry to stick to the old Gospel.

The content of the minister's message may be divided into two parts. The first is doctrinal, that great body of preaching on revealed truth. The second is the practical application of that truth. We may illustrate this from Paul's letter to the Romans. Paul takes his text from Habakkuk 2:4, "The just shall live by his faith." Paul gives us the great doctrines of justification by faith; peace with God; Predestination; The persevering love of Christ. So having told the glorious story of God's plan of salvation through Christ he comes at the 12th chapter with his application, "I beseech you therefore brethren, by the mercies of Christ that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice." And he continues that application through the rest of the great book of Romans.

In like manner Jesus gave his sermon on the Mount with its description of the citizens of the Kingdom, their influence, duties and the principles by which they should live. His application included these words, "Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him to a wise man, which built his house upon a rock." When Jesus spoke to the lawyer on the subject who then is my neighbor he applied the lesson of the parable of The Good Samaritan with the effective words, "Go and do thou likewise." We would say then that the content of the minister's message should be the teaching of God's revealed truth and its application to life.

So far we can probably all agree. Difference of opinion arise when we begin to apply the implications of the scripture to social questions of the day.

Take for instance, capital and labor; should a minister have anything to say about that? Well the Fourth Commandment has this to say, "six days shalt thou labor." That is pertinent. James, the brother and servant of Jesus Christ has this to say, "Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. Behold, the hire of the laborers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth." Is

VISITORS

We have lots of visitors at Barium Springs, people who casually drop in, delegations that come to see us from various churches, sometimes big groups like the men of the church when we have three or four hundred for a meal, and then the alumni and their friends. Hardly a day goes by but we have from one to a dozen visitors just to pass the time of day and look over Barium. Then we have another sort of visitor - the high school boys and girls who come to play basketball, and we have had some most delightful visits already this year. Early in January while we are getting ready for our basketball season we have games with our neighbors, the consolidated schools, Celeste Henkel, Scotts, Cool Springs. And then, while we have not had a game with our nearest neighbor, Troutman, they are on hand to see our other games so much that we feel like they are really part of us. Then in our regular basketball season in the games with our fellow conference teams, we have entertained Monroe, North Wilkesboro, Albemarle, The Mills Home, and still have Mooresville, Kannapolis, Spencer and Statesville to visit us. And then in addition to that, our big Mid-Piedmont Tournament has taken place. This year in this tournament there were 43 teams entered, representing 22 schools. Nine of these schools are in Mecklenburg County; the others are scattered around - Catawba, Alexander, Davie, and Iredell. They are from the consolidated schools, and they are fine folks. Barium enjoys playing host to them every year. They are well-behaved, courteous, and good sports. Even the losers nearly always have pleas-

New-comers at Barium Springs

Our January newcomers were all boys - two from up in the mountains, one from down toward the sandhills. The mountaineers are Charles and Ricky Ward, our little sand-lapper is Rusty McNeill. We have been having chicken for Sunday dinner since the first of the year, and the smiles on the faces of these boys may be thinking about that or about the sunshiny day on which these pictures were made. They are all three nice youngsters and seem to like Barium Springs just as we like them.

The Johnston Pew

Back yonder some twenty-six years ago when the Johnston family moved to Barium they did not quite fill one of the church pews. The old man sang in the choir most of the time, and little Mrs. Johnston sat in the pew with their six children, ranging in age from the tenth grade Ann Fayssoux, to the baby, three year old Leila. As time went on the old man's voice commenced to creak and he moved back to the family pew but by that time the family was beginning to move out - to colleges, to jobs, etc., but they had increased in size so much that when the family got together they filled the pew entirely.

And then as time went on wives and husbands commenced to have a part in it, and now a family reunion overflows and takes a pew and a half at least.

This past week a further addition was made. Bob Johnston, the oldest son, has taken unto himself a wife and a step-son, and now at a family reunion the roll-call would run something like this: In addition to the two old folks there would be Ann Fayssoux, her husband and son; there would be Bob, his wife and step-son; Bill and his wife; Joe, his wife and daughter; and Leila, still hopeful. Time does move and while this increase in this particular family would hardly justify enlarging the church, it is still an indication that room which was ample twenty-six years ago now needs adjustments.

Another Evidence of Growth

Some twenty-two years ago we built a school building and in that school building we arranged a combination auditorium and basketball court. It was such a wonderful improvement on our outdoor court that we thought we had secured just a little piece of Heaven. We enjoyed playing on that court and a few homemade bleachers made it possible for everybody to see our games and the children too.

But much time has passed since then and during this time our athletic and recreation program

School News

There is one department of the school at Barium Springs that we believe deserves a little more publicity then it has thus far received. That is the music department.

Last year, the school secured for the first time a full time music director: Miss Rachel Hickman of Covington, Va., and a recent graduate of Erskine College. Already, we wonder how we got along without someone to devote her full time to music in the school. Miss Hickman teaches public music in the first seven grades, and in addition, directs the high school glee club, the junior choir, and the church choir.

The glee club, or smaller groups from the glee club, has already made a number of appearances this year; before church groups, civic clubs, and other organizations. Both the glee club and junior choir frequently take part in the services at Little Joe's Church. The glee club has several invitations to take part in the services of some of our neighboring churches this spring. The next scheduled appearance is at the Second Presbyterian Church in Mooresville, Sunday night, March 7th. If any other churches that are not too far from Barium Springs wish to secure the services of the glee club they may write Wm. A. Hethcox, Principal, or Miss Rachel Hickman, Music Director.

In addition to the services performed by Miss Hickman which have already been mentioned, she

THE BUDGET

All contracts that are written in war time have this clause, "Subject to acts of God and the public enemy." Well, maybe that sort of a clause should be attached to the budget of an institution like ours. Every spring we spend a lot of perspiration figuring out a budget. We try to estimate every item of expenditure - how much it is going to cost to feed the family, how much to clothe them, how much to look after their medical needs, how much to keep the buildings warm, how much to feed the cows, etc. The items of this budget are bewildering in number, and a person who can guess correctly is a magician indeed.

Just one little item - Fuel. When the weather is balmy and bracing, ordinary winter weather we will say, a carload of coal lasts us from ten to fourteen days. When the thermometer takes a nose dive and it snows or sleets we burn up a car every four to five days.

Well, we know that we are going to have some bitter weather, and we try to average things year by year. We cannot always tell about the price. Several years ago we were buying Nut and Slack coal at less than a dollar a ton at the mines. Now we are paying $5.25, and a lot of that was added in the last twelve months.

Then the year 1948 came along with a special brand of weather, and our coal supply which we expected to last us through March has disappeared before the month of February has passed away. That is doing something to our budget.

We have been extremely fortunate in not having any serious illnesses. Several years ago we had an epidemic of measles in February which necessitated running our heating plant 24 hours a day. This year we are glad to say that we have no such epidemic and can shut off our heat from 9 o'clock at night to six in the morning.

We are fortunate in having coal at all. When we read of the shortages elsewhere and the hardships that people have had to go through, it makes us thankful that so far we have not run out, but we shiver when we think of what it is doing to our budget and the things we will have to answer for when next the Board of Regents meets.

Another thing, all the hay and grain that a cow eats does not go into milk - part of it has to heat her up, and the amount of extra food that our herd has eaten this winter has made another dent in our budget.

Maybe we should not worry too much about this: we have gotten through the winter with very little illness in spite of the weather.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Since we last wrote you it has snowed, but now we have been having a few pretty days.

We have been enjoying watching the people who come to see our tournament. It seems like they always come by to see us.

Mrs. Goodrum came to Barium from Charlotte to be a substitute matron. She helps Miss Jackson with us sometimes and we like her a lot.

We had a nice time on Valentine's day. A Circle from Mooresville and Morganton sent us a Valentine each, and we got some from our parents and other friends.

— The Howard Girls

SYNODS COTTAGE

Dear Folks,

Valentine has come and gone and we were very enthused about it. We received some beautiful ones.

Our dog just came back from the hospital. He some how got hold of a few chicken bones and for a while we had a very sick dog on our hands. He is completely well now and is so frisky none of us can keep up with him. We wish you all could see how he is growing.

We had a good time eating the oranges Dr. Nisbett sent us from Florida. They were wonderful. We are going to see "Black Gold," the story of a horse, thanks to Dr. Nisbett also.

Rusty's Aunt made some cookies and he gave us all some. Yum Yum!

Mrs. Bowling went to town Thursday and bought kites and string for us. We're just waiting for a good wind so we can show them off.

Mrs. Harrison, Bobby Ray's sister, sent us a box of lollipops. They were in the shape of big red hearts. Lollipops are good to little boys no matter what shape they're in.

Good-bye, we'll be back in the next edition.

— The Synods Family

INFIRMARY

Hello, Friends,

Since we wrote you last our dining room has been completed. The furniture is grey and black as is the floor. The curtains are grey and black with a yellow back ground. To go with the curtains, and for Sunday use, we have a beautiful yellow table cloth. We hope before long to be writing you about our "new" kitchen.

Since Mrs. Finley has come, we've had more company than ever. It seems that all the boys feel that they have to get sick. Is it Mrs. Congleton, the "bonne cook," or Mrs. Finley, the nurse, they really come to see? We'll let you decide for yourself. Of course it's not the girls.

Kathleen Ellis is worried about the fact that she's getting too boney. Is this why boys don't come to see me?" She's asking herself. It's the other way around with Kathleen Monroe. By the way, Margaret Bullard has lost three pounds. Is it from lack of food or love? eh! Mangum.

Mrs. Finley had to get on to Elsie the other night for keeping such late hours. Who's the lucky guy, or is it more than one, hon?

We had quite an entertaining guest at our lunch table Tuesday, none other than Miss Lulie Andrews. Miss Lulie is not only a person to have around when you need something, but she's sweet and understanding at all times.

Mr. Hethcox, our principal, who lives at our house, is "sporting" around in a new 1948 Chevrolet.

We'll be with you again next month, so until then keep smiling.

— Margaret Bullard

LEE'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the news. We are having a good time skating. Miss Ford bought each one of us a ball of string, and we are having a good time flying kites, and she bought us paste to make our kites.

We are glad it is getting warmer. After awhile we are going to have to start working on the float-groups.

Miss Ford varnished our hall, playroom, and library.

We will be seeing you next month.

—Eugene Thomas,

Billy Hardin.

SEWING ROOM

The sewing room has been a busy place for the past month. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Long have piled forth dozens of new dresses for Woman's Building and Howard girls.

The fact that snow was a great hindrance against "good old school days" in many sections, did not burden us. We tucked in our warmest clothes and set forth each morning to school.

Since we wrote you last we (the sewing room girls) have bought our evening gown materials. We have already started work on them and many of us are ready for the grand finale.

It hardly seems possible that in only three short months we will be leaving our beloved co-workers (the sewing machines) to find work of our own choosing. Many of us are already beginning to get homesick for them.

Ernestine has finally found a mate. What does he look like? Oh, you know him, the red headed boy from Paw Creek.

Bradley has been a very efficient salesman during our tournament (isn't that right girls.)

Peggy, better known as Pug, is still keeping good time at the basketball games. Oh- Don't get me wrong I meant with the clock. Don't give up hope, Pug.

Who did we see walking to supper with Betty the other night?

Alumni News

W. A. Johnson, Amos Hardy and Ernest Stricklin, students at Davidson College, spent the week-end at Barium.

Gene Bonnous was discharged from the Navy 1-11-48 and has entered Iona College at New Rochelle, New York.

Raymond Good has moved into a new home in Charleston, S. S. He has a little girl born May 23, 1947. Raymond is still in service.

Earl Adams, student at Catawba College, spent the week-end at Barium.

Bennett Baldwin is working in Wilmington.

We were glad to have Jack Weeks make us a visit. Jack is living in Wilmington.

Announcement came to us of the birth of Stephen Mark, 8 pounds, 8 ounces on January 28 to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cumbie of Greensboro.

(He's a little "too fat for you," Bet). But, of course, love is blind.

Mildred, the shoulder, is still the person who knows what you're going to say before you say it.

We've got to get back on the job, so look for our slanderous column next month.

Sew long.

— The Sewing Room Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Basketball and tournament are in the air about this time every year and most of the Woman's Building girls have been helping out at our annual basketball tournament which started February 18 and ended February 23. The basketball players sponsored the teams, while the other girls worked in the refreshment stand, kept time, and did various other duties. Our own basketball team will enter a tournament at Salisbury in March.

We have a new matron in our building form Charlotte, Mrs. Ellis. We are delighted to have her live with us.

Several of our girls have been selected to attend a Beta Club Convention in Raleigh. This is quite an honor, and we are very glad they can go.

This is about all the news for this month, so be looking for more news next month from the W. B. girls.

— Bradley Jean Manus

Our children show a fine gain in growth and weight. We have had good things to eat and have stayed reasonably happy. Maybe that should wipe out some of the money worries.

Another Evidence of

has increased, and now when we have a ball game it is a question of whether we shall let our children see it or hold them out and let visitors see it. It crowds things entirely too much to have both. It does not seem right to exclude the children from their own contests and it does not seem right either to exclude friends who are willing to pay to see these contests. Incidentally, we need the money that these visitors would pay in our athletic program.

In addition to our regular games we have tournaments. One of those tournaments is briefly described elsewhere in this paper. We have just finished that tournament, and on the final night we had to stop selling tickets twenty minutes before the first game started. We have about 450 seats in our gymnasium by crowding in every available space. By twenty minutes to game time we had sold in the neighborhood of 900 tickets. We stopped the sale of tickets and the estimated number who were turned back ran everywhere from five hundred to a thousand. There is no way to estimate those who did not come, knowing that the conditions would be crowded.

It is a pity that these good friends had to be turned away. They were good-natured about it, and those who had to crowd in and stand up were good-natured about it: the teams that had to play under the handicap of people standing on part of the playing court were good-natured about it, but each year they ask us why in the world we do not build a bigger place for them to play. These questions are asked good-naturedly, but it appears to us that there is a little more acid in the questions now than there was a few years back, because it appears to them that we are making no effort to provide better accomodation.

Let us interject here an answer to your question as to why we stage these tournaments. Well, if we did not it is doubtful if we could have our athletic program because this tournament and a smaller one in March pay the freight. The profit that is made on these is the money which makes our own athletic program possible.

One other thing, and a more important thing. No orphanage can exist without friends, and the business of making and holding friends is one of the biggest and most important jobs that we do. Well, of all the things that are done by Barium and at Barium to our minds it appears that the tournament creates more goodwill, adds more good friends to Barium and to the individual boys and girls here than any other one thing that we do. We have evidence of that by the hundreds. People who come to our tournaments say that they are unique, and that they would rather lose in our tournament than win in some other tournament. We hope that they will always feel that way about it and we hope that we can soon furnish accomodations, or make a start toward it, so that our friends will not feel that we are taking their money without giving any thought to their comfort and convenience.

We think the tournament does our community good in another way. You know people are inclined to think the younger generation of this day and time are going to the dogs. The papers and magazines seem full of evidences of juvenile delinquency and incidents of selfishness and thoughtlessness on the part of young people. Well, if anyone is getting down from these thoughts they should come to these tournaments - they would go away feeling better. There were 43 teams entered this year. They with their cheer leaders meant something like 600 young people. Some of them became highly excited during the games. They wanted their teams to win: they played hard for their teams to win. In the playing of that many games under the pressure that exists at any tournament anything ugly in these young people would be pretty apt to come out. Well, not a single incident occurred during this recent tournament that was any indication of bad sportmanship, bad manners, or thoughtlessness on the part of these 600 young people. They were courteous, good sports, good losers, and not arrogant winners. You would see a game going on with teams doing their best to outdo each other - thirty minutes later you would see the members of those same teams at the refreshment stand enjoying a bite together, teasing or complimenting each other in the best spirit in the world. Very few of them forgot to pat the referees on the back as they left and tell them they did a good job.

It might interest you to know that the officials consider it a high compliment to be chosen for this tournament and say they are willing to work for much less money than in another tournament because the crowds and the players are such good sports. We do not attempt to jew their price down on that account, but we do appreciate their sentiment.

All in all, we think the participants of the Mid-Piedmont Tournament are a fine set of folks. We hope they will hold their good opinion of us until we can get better accomodations for them to play in.

that a problem settled ages ago? Recently a brother minister told me of serving a church in a cotton growing section of the deep south. Officers in his church who had stores furnished the negro tenants on credit and charged exhorbitant profits. The land lords also, in some cases officers of the church, stood for the accounts and received ten per cent on the accounts when cotton was marketed in the fall. Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, "Woe unto you, Scribes, Pharisees, hypocrites; for ye devour widow's houses and for a pretense make long prayers." Similarly we might illustrate from such subjects as war, poverty and riches, race relations, marriage and divorce, the liquor traffic, etc.

If you will study the way that Jesus handled these matters, you will find that Jesus refused to act as a judge. He would not tell a man how to vote, he entered not into useless controversy. But when a social or political problem was presented to Him He delivered great and profound principles on which the earnest seeker could build his faith and by which he could guide his life. For instance when they asked him that question so full of political dynamite "Is it lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar, or no?" He answered "Render therefore unto Caesar the things that be Caesar's, and unto God the things which be God's." In all these things the minister can go as far and no farther than the principles of truth and right as found in the Word of God. For he follows a master who said I have given them the words which thou gavest me." He has for his example the Apostle Paul who said "I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God."

The purposes of preaching are many fold. I shall mention but three fundamental purposes which meet basic needs of men. The first is that men might be saved. Without Christ man is lost. But it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

Man is in need of spiritual food. So Jesus said to Peter "Feed my sheep." Paul said to the Ephesian Elders "Take heed to feed the Church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood."

There is a great deal of sorrow and sadness in the world. There are pictures on our walls, there are poignant memories in our hearts. A minister can have no finer name than to be called Barnabas, "The son of consolation." There can be no more helpful message than that in Isaiah, "Comfort ye, Comfort ye my people, saith your God." No more gracious invitation than that of Christ's, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

These three things: the salvation of immortal souls; the feeding of the flock; the bringing of comfort to heavy hearts can only be accomplished by preaching Christ in all his full orb'd deity. There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent." Jesus said, "I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat this bread he shall live forever." Jesus only could say, "In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have over come the world."

May our minister, may every minister, hear the voice of inspiration, "O thou that telleth good tidings to Zion, get thee up on a high mountain; O thou that telleth good tidings to Jerusalem, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up, be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, Behold your God."

also has several voice pupils; and she has recently started a rhythm band in the primary grades. This band will be making itself heard in a short time.

Miss Margaret Ritchie of Statesville is teaching piano at Barium this year. She was secured to take the place of Miss Green, who resigned after serving most capably as piano teacher here for a number of years. Miss Ritchie has more than forty pupils, and would have more if she could possibly get them in her schedule. There will be recitals by the piano pupils this spring.

The Johnsonian, a Winthrop College publication, each year publishes a high school edition carrying the pictures and write-ups of high school senior girls in the Carolinas who were selected by their classmates as "Miss Hi Miss". Bradley Jean Manus of the senior class at Barium received this honor.

ant words to say when they leave and have some good words for the officials; which, by the way, is the last word in politeness.

A number of trophies are given to the winning teams and the runners-up, the foul shooting contest, and one for the best-dressed girls' team. It is more difficult each year to decide this particular winner. This year it goes to Troutman, with so many teams close behind that it would not do to name them all. Troutman won it, however, by the unanimous vote of the judges. It would take a color photograph to do justice to that team.

Elsewhere in this paper will be given the scores of the various games in the tournament.

The results of the Barium games will be compiled next month and a story on the entire basketball season given, also the results of the Junior Tournament which is to take place about the middle of March. This Junior Tournament, by the way, is more fun than you could imagine. The teams that compete are made up of girls from the ninth grade down - the beginners. The boys' teams consist of players weighing 125 pounds or less.

There will probably be 32 teams entered in this tournament, and there will be double eliminations, and every team winning as many as two games will receive a trophy. As a matter of fact, there are more trophies given for the Junior Tournament than there are for the big tournament. It is quite an exciting time, and brings to Barium still another group of schools.

The attendance at this Junior tournament is not anything like as great as at the big tournament, for a number of years it took some of the profits of the big tournament to pay for the Junior tournament, but now it pays its own way, and it winds up the basketball season with everybody happy. Those who assist in putting this on are the varsity players who have finished their season. By the way, the big tournament handled to a large extent by the students at Barium. The score-keeping, the refreshment stand, the sponsoring of the various teams, and many of the details of the tournament are handled most efficiently by the students.

Those in charge of the tournament are Mr. R. G. Calhoun, Mr. Jenkins, Mr. Hethcox, Mr. Archie Calhoun, Mr. Sigmon, Mr. Ike White, Mr. Lowrance, Mr. Ervin and Mr. Gibbs and the whole staff of teachers who assist in ticket sales and other details of handling the crowd and the teams.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., MARCH 1948

Old Man Winter Took A Slap At Us

Old Man Winter certainly played rough with us and it was not all in fun either. The weather commenced to play tricks on us last Fall when it would set in and rain every Friday and thus make mud-hens out of our football boys until they got so they did not know how to play on a dry field. You might say Old Man Weather was playing a joke on us, and then when the winter months rolled around he served notice on us Christmas Day with that nice snowstorm, and all through January and February we had it, rain, snow and sleet. With it all it looked like just clean fun except on three occasions when Old Man Winter shook his fist at us and finally slapped us down - they were the times when it sleeted.

If you want to know what really scares us at Barium Springs it is a sleet storm, and when this last one came along on the night of March 5th it really did fix us. Along about 10:30 P. M. Saturday the lights went off which meant that something had happened to the wires in Statesville or between Statesville and Barium. Whatever it was was soon fixed, however, and the lights came back on, but at 2 o'clock a wire came down right at Barium and the live wires kicked up such a racket that it put the girls at the Woman's Building into a complete panic. They had to shut off the power in Statesville. Well, from that time on a good many folks were busy, not only at Barium but in Statesville too. The

Barium Girls Are Champions of the South Piedmont Conference

The picture that we publish this month is the same picture that will go on a handsome trophy that will occupy an honor place in our trophy cabinet. It is the champion girls team of the South Piedmont Conference in basketball for 1948. Our girls went through the season with only one defeat in conference play and with fifteen wins. They lost some warm-up games to the consolidated schools in the neighborhood before the season opened and they lost one game in the Salisbury tournament. By the way, this loss was to a team which the Barium girls had defeated twice in the regular season.

There are many good teams in the South Piedmont Conference. Statesville, Albemarle, Children's Home, Mills Home, and Thomasville. There are only three really weak teams. The complete record of all our teams is listed below.

Our boys ended up in fourth place in conference play. They lost two games to Statesville, one game each to Albemarle, Kannapolis, and Monroe. Our junior team played a short schedule, and as this is written are engaged in the junior tournament. The results of that will appear elsewhere in this issue.

In the Salisbury tournament both of our teams went down in the semi-finals, our girls losing to Statesville and our boys to Lexington, but three of our players were chosen for all-tournament honors: Frances Stricklin, forward, on the girls team and Janie Hall, guard, and Jack Mangum from the boy's team. They attended a banquet given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the tournament, in the Yadkin Hotel Tuesday night, March 16th., and there received their trophies.

This is Mr. Archie Calhoun's first year as coach of basketball. He handles both teams. To place one team in the first division and another team as champion is quite an achievement in any year, particularly so in the first year.

Three of the regulars of the girls' team are seniors and have played their last game for Barium - Lucille Stricklin and Sadie Buie, forwards, and Janie Hall, guard. Betty Jo Smith is also a senior and has seen a lot of service but was not a starter.

The boys lose only one by graduation, Charles Barrett. They will miss Charlie because in several games he was the high scorer.

This is the final news on basketball. It has been a lot of fun and the basketball trips have been much more pleasant - we have had a bus - and it was lots of fun, particularly coming home from the games. Mr. Hethcox did the bus driving and he is the world's best. The crowd usually spent a good deal of time coming home from the games singing and you could not tell from the music whether we had won or lost. Usually there was a stop somewhere for a hamburger or hot-dog to fill up that void due to an early supper and a long time until breakfast. It was fun winning a championship, but almost as much fun just going and playing, win or lose.

We are proud of our teams and like to associate with them.

Following is the scores of our basketball games:

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Isaiah 61:10. "He hath clothed me with the garments of Salvation."

This subject was suggested to me by the outline of a sermon which was preached by a Jewish Rabbi in a Synagogue during the first century of the Christian Era. As seven was The Sacred Number, he found in the Psalms and Prophets seven garments for Christ.

Remember in the first place that clothes are the outer covering, but that the being underneath is the same. Yesterday a mechanic was underneath an automobile, clothed in old overalls, blackened and greasy. Today washed, shaved, in fresh linen, and a good suit he may look very different but he is the same man.

So, though we see Jesus under varying conditions and clothed differently

The Every-Member Canvass for Little Joe's

(By Jos. B. Johnston)

This is a purely personal narrative and is my own experience in recent every-member canvasses. We have heard elders congratulate themselves on their election to the Session by saying that now they would not have to bother any more in the every-member canvass, that the deacons would look after that. Well, here at Little Joe's Church we do not have enough deacons to do the job and the members of the session are called in to team up on the every-member canvass day's work.

I am one of the older elders and might plead an excuse for getting out of the job, but I am not inclined to do so because it is so much fun. During the last three or four years I have had one of the younger deacons to team up with and we had most of the high school boys and girls on our list. This year my team-mate was the very youngest deacon - a young man who just a few years ago was one of the high school boys himself. We started out on Sunday afternoon, March 14th. We visited the area known as the Quads where the high school boys live. Some of them were waked up out of a sound sleep and had a card and pencil poked at them. Some were reading, some were listening to the radio, and some (beleive it or not) were out playing marbles. The cheerfulness with which they all stopped what they were doing

Junior Tournament Held Again At Barium

We hope our readers will not get the idea that we do nothing else but play basketball at Barium. It just happens that this issue of The Messenger is the one which has to have the writeup of so many basketball doings that is crowds out some other news sometimes.

The final act of the basketball season is the Junior Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament. In it there are 32 junior teams entered. The boys play under a 125-pound weight limit and the girls must come from the ninth grade or under.

Due to conflicting tournaments in Catawba County and in Winston, a number of schools that ordinarily take part in this tournament were not able to enter this year, so Barium entered three girls' teams, Statesville entered two girls' teams, Mooresville entered two boys' teams, and Claremont entered two teams of both boys and girls.

It would take too long to put all of the scores down. The tournament

Worth-while Reading

(From The Connie Maxwell)

Most of us will agree that a child gets his sense of values in life from the people with whom he grows up. In fact, although we seldom think of it, there is no other way for him to obtain a sense of values.

Spend an hour with Gloomy Gus and how do you feel? Gloomy! Spend an hour with the happiest person you know and how do you feel? Hardly gloomy. Associations have a great deal to do with how we feel and act.

We no longer say a child inherits his behavior from his parents. He acquires it by association with people, and develops it as he learns to deal with people in one way or another—acceptably or otherwise.

As a matter of fact, the cards are stacked against the child from the start. He will have little choice in what he becomes. He wants to do as he pleases, but these horrible adults are continuously interfering in their efforts to make him conform. How ever you take it, growing up is a fight for the child and many harmful things can happen to him if he is misunderstood.

After all, each of us who deals with a child has a deep-seated need of our own to see him grow up in our own image. Too often we forget the needs of the child and the fact that he is an individual with an inalienable right to be so. We also forget that our image may not be the only valid one in the universe.

If the people with whom the child grows up determine his development, are some more important than others? Of course. The parents are the key persons. The child's experiences with his parents will determine more than anything else his adjustment to other people. If he has been happy with his parents, he will exhibit few problems. On the contrary, if he has had to fight his parents to get a decent break, his feelings toward other adults will be colored by his experience. He will feel that he has to fight to get his due where-ever adults are concerned. A child who has had unhappy experience with his parents—

- 1—may fight everybody.
- 2—may fight people who seem like his parents.
- 3—may steal.
- 4—may play the big-shot.
- 5—may become outright delinquent.
- 6—may wet the bed.
- 7—may be sullen.
- 8—may withdraw and live within himself because trying to live like a human has hurt him at every turn.
- 9—may have nightmares.
- 10—may fail in school.
- 11—may run away.

There are many other ways in which he may express his unhappiness.

To grow up normally, a child must have two parents who love him, understand him and encourage him in his efforts to conform to life's demands, or he must have the best possible substitutes. This seems to be an innate need. The child must belong and must know that he belongs to someone who loves him for what he is and regardless of what he is.

Consequently, good—bad—indifferent—moral—immoral—dead—or alive, the most important people to any child are his parents; and next his relatives. And the most important decision any person takes upon himself is that of cutting the ties between a child and his parents. This can be done psychologically just as effectively and just as completely as it can be done physically and with much more serious implications for the child.

We are again talking about human relations. But what do these things imply for us—the people who try to substitute for the home and parents. There are many implications. The child comes to us with his behavior pattern well-developed. He has already learned a great deal about people. But so many of our children have difficulty with one or both parents and often with other people. They may have found that they could not trust the adults in their world. After all, few adults are consistent and children just will look for consistencies. If they burn their hands on a stove, they will expect to be burned if they touch it again. But if they are "burned" by an adult, they may be "loved to death" by the same person the next minute. This is all rather confusing. Why should they trust us? As a matter of fact, they won't until we prove we are different.

We are not talking about punishment. But suppose the child has been hurt by adults. What if we hurt him also.

There is no reflection upon any one of us that a child exhibits any or all the problems mentioned when he comes to Connie Maxwell—we cannot control the past. There is no reflection when one of us fails. The important thing is that one of us succeed. The child first must respond to a person. This is why it is so important that the janitor and the plow-hand be the kind of people who understand and love children, because the child's need may be met by the janitor as often as by the social worker. There is a reflection upon each of us when a child leaves with the same problems he brought.

We can be very sure the child's problems are related to his feelings about his own people. Patience, and understanding will be required to restore his confidence in people. Some one must break the chain of events. These problems persist from generation to generation as all of us are so often reminded.

Whether we want the responsibility or whether we are capable of accepting it, when a child comes to us it is up to each of us acting as individuals, and all of us acting collectively, to break the chain and send the child away at peace with himself, capable of living with people and confident that he carry on. These traits can come only through a conviction on his part that he is loved for and in spite of what he is.

There is no greater challenge. There is no greater responsibility. There is no task in which failure can work such unlimited havoc.

To sum up the child has an inborn need for his parents, or substitutes, which must be met if he is to be normal and happy. His behavior is determined largely by his associations with these parents. When he comes to us, many behavior patterns have already developed. If he is to be helped to overcome his problems, it is we who must break the chain of events, else the problems may pass on to future generations. There is no greater responsibility. There is sufficient knowledge to equip us to deal with these problems, but we must work on our feelings about this knowledge.

ferently, as he is revealed to us in the word of God, yet he does not change. He is the same yesterday, today and forever.

The first garment Christ wore was the garment of honor and majesty. Even as Jacob loved Joseph, the beloved son of Rachel, and gave him a princely robe of rich and royal colors; so God the Father loved and honored his only begotten Son and gave into his hand the stupendous works of creation.

"In the beginning was the word." He was the image of the invisible God, first born of every creature, for by him were all things created that are in heaven and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones or dominions or principalities or powers, all things were created by Him and for Him and He is before all things and in Him all things consist, that in all things He might have the preeminence."

It was he who spake from Mt. Sinai and who passed by as the herald angels proclaimed, "The Lord, The Lord God."

Daniel saw the ancient of Days clothed in a garment as white as snow. John and James and Peter saw Jesus on the Holy Mount and amidst the pure white snows of the heights of Mt. Lebanon His garments glistened more white than the snow about.

The Jewish preacher taught that the white raiment of the ancient of days represented forgiveness, but surely he missed the mark. White is the emblem of purity and of innocence. Jesus was pure, the only perfect man. He was not only clothed with the garment of purity which is in a sense a negation; His was also a positive character.

He was clothed with righteousness. Jesus not only did not break the law in its smallest part, but he filled the law full, He fulfilled it. He carried it out in every precept, every ordinance and command, every implication; He obeyed the spirit. And he went not as a galley slave driven to the bench, scourged to his task at the oars, but joyfully; "In the vol of the Book it is written of me, I have come to do thy will, O my God."

And so out of his Ivory Palaces, clothed in garments of beauty and glory, smelling of myrrh, aloes, and cassia, He came into this world of woe. Where He was clothed in purity, ty, in righteousness, obedient to the law.

He was clothed too with humility.

He girded himself with a towel and washed his disciples feet.

But for us surely the most significant of the garments of Christ is that one mentioned in Rev. 19:13 "He was clothed in a vesture dipped in blood: and His name is called the Word of God."

Jesus conquered Satan, Jesus prevailed over sin, Jesus destroyed death, Jesus wrought out salvation not by the shedding of rivers of blood from his enemies. His was a conquest by consecration; a rule by righteous; a salvation by sacrifice. We were bought by the blood. He conquered with the conquest of the cross and on that triumphal day when on his snow white steed he leads forth the hosts of heaven he will still be our Savior, clothed in a vesture dipped in blood.

But as I meditate upon this subject I could not but remember that when they came to a place of a skull the soldiers took His garments and divided them and they lifted Him upon a cross stripped of His raiment.

Yes, He was stripped of honor and majesty. Despised and rejected. Even holiness, purity, and righteousness were taken from Him and the filthy rags of our sin were laid upon Him that you and I might be clothed upon with the robe of righteousness; that when the prodigal son shall come to himself, he can go home, and the father will say "bring forth the best robe and put it on him, and a ring for his hand and shoes on his feet." That we may be clothed upon with the righteousness of Christ that we may, being clothed with the wedding garment, enter into the marriage supper of the Lamb.

Shall we return to our Jewish Rabbi? He went his round of ceremonies, he read the scrolls of Moses, he uttered the usual prayers, and he even preached on the garments of salvation of his Messiah. And a young teacher passed him on the street, teaching as never man taught in tones of love and deep sincerity, performing miracles of healing even dying like a God. But the Rabbi saw him not and knew him not.

But a certain woman said to herself "If I could only touch the hem of His garment I might be healed." "She only touched the hem of His garment

With one glance around the Sewing Room it looks as if it were already spring. All the bright yellows, pinks, greens, reds and blues give this appearance to our busy work-room. How we wish you could all be with us at the Easter Parade! Then we would not have to tell you how busy we have been.

The seniors, not to be out done by the rest, have been busy making evening gowns. How striking we will look in our reds, pinks, blues, lavender, blacks, greens, and whites.

Three of our girls, Mildred Monroe, Betty Coffey and Betty Jo Smith, are going to the Beta Club Convention in Raleigh Easter week-end. Have a good time, girls!

Well, basketball season is finally over, and we are now convinced that our girls can do something besides sew. It will seem good to have all the girls back at work again, at least for awhile.

The Glee Club has an invitation to go to Covington, Virginia the first week-end in April. They are doing a lot of performing this year.

Look for us next month.

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

This is the Synod's Cottage Boys again with our monthly news broadcast.

Its "marble shooting" time again and the knees in our overalls are wearing out so fast, Mrs. Bowling is having a hard time keeping them fixed.

We had a visit from Mrs. Nisbet, Mrs. Murell, and their friend Mr. Taylor last Saturday. They brought us some candy which we enjoyed very much.

We certainly have been busy getting all the clothes out of the clothes rooms so we can have them painted. So, thanks to you, Mr. Ervin, our work will be much lighter.

Mrs. Goodrum, the substitute matron in our division, is with us for a while to learn us and our ways. We like her very much and hope she likes us.

Synod's Cottage signing off.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

We want to thank our Mooreville friends for the delicious box of cookies they sent us not so long ago.

This month we had eleven girls on the honor roll. Last month we had three new girls on the honor roll and our matron, Miss Jackson took them to a show.

Shirley Shaw is taking piano now and she is so thrilled.

Mr. Johnston comes to see us on Sunday nights and tells us stories and last Sunday night we invited him over to see us and we surprised him with a birthday cake.

We are so happy that we get to see movies about the Bible on Wednesday nights at the church. The last one we saw was, "The Calling of Matthew".

This month we had two girls to go to the birthday dinner. They were Shirley Hall and Edna Bau- (Continued On Page Three)

As to His side she stole

Amidst the crowd that gathered around Him

And straightway she was whole."

Have you touched Him? Fathers, have you touched Him, Mothers have you touched Him, Children, young men, and maidens, have you touched Him?"

"Oh touch the hem of His garment And thou too shall be free His saving power this very hour will give New life to thee."

Campus News

Mrs. Smith and the girls at the sewing room made eight of us the prettiest Easter dresses you have ever seen.

Little David Lee Spencer has been spending the afternoon with us lately. Elizabeth Ann Huddleston and Louise Bradshaw are the official nurses right now.

See you next month.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

This is the Annie Louise Girls with the latest news from our cottage.

The weather is very changable up here. It is cold one day and hot the next. We surely hope it is warm Easter because we don't want to go to church wearing coats.

We have had report cards and 13 of our little girls got on the honor roll. Hope all of us can get on it next time.

Our junior basketball games start the 16th of March and last until the 22nd. We hope we can see most of them.

We have about two more months of school. Can't wait until school is out. But I'm sure we'll miss our teachers but we won't talk so much about that until about May.

We hope all our friends can come up once in awhile to see us.

Until next time.

— The Annie Louise Girls.

BABY COTTAGE

So many things have happened since you last heard from us.

We had so much fun playing in the snow and helping our big sisters make a snowman.

One of our big sisters has just come back from the hospital after having her tonsils out. We are glad to have her back.

All you can see around our house right now is bang, bang, and more bangs. We have all had our hair cut and we think our bangs look cute.

Jacky Taylor had a birthday this month. She really did enjoy all the good things she had to eat at the birthday table.

Mr. Lyon came from Statesville the other day to take our pictures. We all put on our Sunday best, and tried to look just as pretty as could be.

We have a new victrola at our house. At night after supper our big sisters play it for us. We use it in Kindergarden too.

We will all be so glad when old man winter packs his suitcase and goes back to the North Pole. When the sun shines we have such a nice time playing outdoors.

It will soon be Easter Bunny time. We just can't wait.

Bye Bye.

QUAD

Well, here are the three musketeers again bringing you some of the news hot off the wires of the Barium Press.

At the present time we are tied up with the sponsoring of the junior tournament and all the boys are having fun beating out of school and work. Your Ace reporters have been down looking the situation over, and although there are boring moments, on the whole everything seems to be moving along smoothly.

Recently, tears have been seen some of the quad boys eyes because your Ace reporters are finally going to leave with a diploma or a certificate. Don't get us wrong, some tears have also been quite a few of the girls eyes, but we can't say the same about any of the matrons or teachers. We are not positive but the senior girls have informed us that we have only 4,838,400 seconds before we are left standing alone in this cruel world.

Leaving the quads a few minutes we venture to the senior table, there we find the Queens of the conference, Stricklin and Hall trying to put on weight so that they can try out for the wresling team.

Since this is our last article, all fan mail must be post-marked before May 15, 1948. Please address all your mail to the three musketeers, c/o Barium Springs, N. C.

We leave you with this question, "Do you know anything about Mrs. Slush or the sitting man?"

— Your "Ace" reporters,
Whiting
Hudgins
Myatt

LEES COTTAGE

Here we are again folks, bringing you the news. A Friend gave us some marbles and we are having fun playing with them.

Miss Ford's birthday was not long ago. We gave her a pot of flowers and Miss Carpenter gave us a party. Some of the boys are going to join the church Easter Sunday.

They are having junior tournaments. Our school teacher is sick.

Miss Ford is putting more flowers in her flower bed and they are going to be pretty.

Junior Tournament

ment is arranged on a double elimination basis and started out on Tuesday, March 16th, winding up Monday night, March 22nd. Four games were played every afternoon and four games at night until the finals when just two games were played.

The Barium girls (The Rockets) were the champions in the girls' division. The names of the other two Barium girls' teams were The Vixens and The Kittens. The Mooresville boys were the champions in the boys' division for the second year in succession. Mount Holly was the runner-up in the boys' division and the Statesville No. 1 team was the runner-up in the girls' division.

The record of the Barium teams is as follows:

The Barium Kittens were defeated by Mount Ulla 34-20. In their second game the Kittens defeated Troutman 22-9, and were finally eliminated by Hiddenite 21-18. The Barium Vixens defeated Hiddenite 17-16 and were defeated by Cool Spring 22-13 and finally were defeated by Mount Ulla 28-20. The Barium Rockets who came through as final champions played four games. They first defeated Celeste Henkel 45-18, Scotts 29-24, Claremont No. 1 29-21, and finally Statesville No. 1 29-19.

The Barium boys reached the semi-finals. In their first game they defeated Claremont No. 2 69-6; in their second game they defeated Stony Point 26-11; in their third game they were defeated by Mount Holly 21-19.

The attendance for these games was not up to that of former years because of other tournaments in progress at the same time, but those spectators who did come seemed to enjoy the enthusiasm of these juniors. Certainly what they lacked in skill they made up in enthusiasm and apparently everybody left in a good humor.

Sixteen trophies altogether are given in this Junior tournament. The four major trophies are given to those who play in the finals - the champions and the runners-ups.

The other teams winning trophies in the girls' division were Hiddenite, Stony Point, Cool Spring, Claremont No. 1, Mount Ulla, and Scotts. In the boys' division trophies were won by Salisbury, Scotts, Troutman, Barium Mount Ulla, and Stony Point.

Three former Barium Boys brought teams to this tournament: Carson Wood who coaches at Scotts, Joe Savage who coaches at China Grove, and Dewey Barnhill who coaches at the Junior High School in Salisbury. By the way, during the regular basketball season, our varsity played two games with the Mills Home and the Mills Home teams are coached by a former Barium boy, Marley Sigmon.

It was a mighty nice season, and now we will stow away our basketball doings and in just a week we will stow away some ratons by way of celebration at the basketball banquet, and then we will go outdoors. Tennis and softball, flowers and gardening, bees and fruit trees, and a little later haymaking and corn planting will be the order of the day.

The Every-Member

to prepare their pledge cards was interesting. Some had a pretty good idea of how much money would pass through their hand during the next twelve months. They put down a definite amount. The others could do no better than to put down 10 percent of whatever they received. I happen to know these boys pretty well and I know the efforts they make to live up to their pledges. They contribute, in addition to their church pledge, through the Boy's Bible Class and that class does a pretty big job. The budget which they have voted on themselves amounts to more than $5.00 a Sunday and they have never yet fallen under their budget.

After finishing up at the Quads, we went to the Lottie Walker Building and there our business was transacted all too quickly. The girls were up ready and waiting for us, most of them with a pencil already in their hands. They knew exactly what they wanted to do. Those cards were prepared and signed up so quickly and back in our hands that before we knew it it was a case of "Here's your hat, what's your hurry?" We almost wished that we might have had to argue some of them into signing, but it just worked out entirely too smoothly. Before we knew it our assignment for the day was over and we reluctantly journeyed back to my home where we prepared our cards to turn over to the chairman of the canvass.

One hour is what it took. We had some ninety cards carefully, and we know prayfully, prepared. A person could not have spent a more pleasant hour doing anything to have the company of an eager and enthusiastic young deacon and the ready cooperation of all the young church members among the students. It just made a person feel that our Church is a live, going concern and that we old-timers can get a lot of satisfaction. But we must not just coast along, we have a job to do too. The vigor and enthusiasm and the drive to go onward and upward is in such abundance in the hearts and lives of the young members. It is good to have an every-member canvass. We find out lots of things about our neighbors and ourselves too.

damage at Barium turned out to be rather mild compared with the situation in Statesville. We went into Statesville to see how they were getting along about four o'clock in the morning and things looked pretty grim. About the only electric lights we saw burning were at the transformer station. Back to Barium we came. Ike White, our young master mechanic, was already on the job and doing everything possible. He had gotten up one of the firemen to come and start our little boiler as the big boiler with the stoker could not be used. The dairyman was notified that there would be no current for milking. The kitchen was alerted not to depend on steam or electricity for breakfast. We did not notify anybody that there would not be any hot water in the bathrooms. We decided to let them find that out after they got in the showers! What did worry us though was the idea of trying to wash dishes with no dishwasher and no hot water.

Well, as good luck would have it, they managed to get us a little current between six and seven o'clock - enough to get the cows milked, so that job was done, but we had no heat until nearly nine o'clock and that cold water dish-washing job was just as we thought it would be.

Being Sunday morning the people in the Quads did not feel the need of heat quite so early and got along fairly well, so summing it all up we really came out of the crisis without too many bad effects, except the wear and tear on our worrying machine.

We try to have lots of faith at Barium, but we remember back in the days when we have had sleet storms that cut us down without current for two or three days on a stretch, and we do not want that to ever happen again but we know in the course of time it will happen again.

It gives you an all-gone feeling when you look at a stoker and have no electricity to run it. It reminds you somehow of a dead horse in a stable - a horse that is a beautiful thing when it is alive but a big, bulky, useless thing when it is dead. Well, that is the way these stokers are. They not only are big and useless but they won't let you get to the boiler to do anything by hand. The power company had plenty of power at the power station, but there was not any power at Barium. There was lots of hot water in the boiler but we could not get it to the bathrooms because it goes by electric pumps. We had a lot of coal in the coal bin but we could not get it in the fire-box without electricity to operate the stoker.

We hope this is the last slap from Old Man Winter, and that from now on he won't even shake his fist at us. We can stand his snows, his rain, and his cold, but his sleet storms are just too much for us. We just admit it. We hope someday to have something worked out to take the fear out of sleet storms anyway.

Electricity is a wonderful servant, so wonderful in fact that we have it helping us do almost every job on the place. It even has something to do with this article which is dictated on an Ediphone operated by electricity, it is set up on a linotype machine operated by electricity and printed on a press operated by electricity and even folded in a machine operated by electricity.

All of these things make us very dependent on this wonderful servant, and that makes it all the more terrible when this servant goes on a sitdown strike, and that is when sleet or a storm of some kind interferes with its coming to us.

Here they are, Friends, the graduating class of 1948, the product of 191 years of training at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Seventeen of them were raised at Barium and two are from our neighboring city of Troutman.

The mascots are, in a way, products of Barium. The little girl, Celia Donaldson, is the daughter of Lafayette Donaldson who graduated at Barium and lives near us. The little boy is James Howard Cole, a kind of double grandchild of Barium as both his father and mother were raised here - Ed Cole and Sallie Farmer.

Charles Barrett is the senior member of the class in point of years at Barium. He entered in '32.

We would like to write a brief article about each one of these children of ours who are now young men and women, but on account of lack of space (continued on page two) we will have to confine ourselves to the dates on which they entered Barium and the places from which they came. We would like to tell you about their achievements in music, in athletics, and in just plain citizenship. We would like to tell you something about their hopes and plans for the future. One of the boys and four of the girls are headed for college.

News From Some of the Cottages at Barium

ANNIE LOUISE

We are back with the cottage news from our cottage.

Spring is finally here, and we are very happy to see all the leaves and flowers again after a long winter of cold and snow. It is almost time for planting gardens again. We will have some pretty flowers for our house before long.

The little Synod boys took the girls that made the honor roll last time to the show at night. It was an experience we shall never forget.

The thing we had been looking forward to a long time has finally come and gone. Easter was cold up here but still we had a good time. All of us little girls got to wear a new dress.

Our friends in Mooreville sent us a big basket full of eggs and candy. We decorated the kindergarten and had a cute party. We hunted eggs after the girls hid them. Thanks for giving us such a nice Easter.

Saturday our matron and big sisters took us to the spring for supper. Playing games surely gave us an appetite. We ate supper, played some more then came home. When we got home there was ice-cream waiting for us. It surely tasted good after walking from the spring.

We have gotten report cards and 14 of our little girls made the honor roll. That was good but we could do better. We get report cards one more time then school will be out. We just can't wait to go in swimming.

That is all for now but we will be back next month same time, same place. Until then.

— The Annie Louise Girls

RUMPLE HALL

Only a few weeks ago our rooms and hall had a new coat of paint. We are very proud of them. The rooms are blue and pink. We mean they alternate in blue, the next pink. Some women from Wilmington Presbytery sent us our curtains, they are pretty.

One day some women from this Presbytery visited us and they thought our house real pretty. They really liked our playroom.

We had two basketball tournaments here. The Barium Varsity girls won the conference. We are really proud of our trophies.

April 6th we had our ensemble piano recital. Three of our girls played in it. They were real good and we were proud of them.

Presbytery meets here next Tuesday. We are looking forward to that day when they eat with us in the dining room. As we are the dining room girls we will serve their tables.

All for now, good-bye folks.
— The Bass Sisters
Retha and Hazel

HOWARD COTTAGE

This month we had 14 girls on the honor roll. Elizabeth Ann Huddleston came up on it and made the 14th one.

We went to see a real good movie named "The Three Daring Daughters." We think it is one of the best movie we have ever seen.

At school the grades have been giving chapel programs. They all are very good.

We have started our spring cleaning and all of our windows are nice and clean now.

David Lee Spencer has been spending a week or two with us because he has a new baby brother at his house. We enjoy playing with him.

Miss Brandon, the fifth grade school teacher took her class and her Sunday School class down to Barium Camp. They had supper down there and went on a walk. They all had a good time.

Shirley Byrd got the nicest gift from some of her friends in New Bern for Easter. You should see her prissing around in her bedroom slippers. Shirley Plyler got a nice gift from a circle in Huntersville for Easter.

Some of our girls have got the nicest clothing boxes this year that they have ever received before.

— Louise Bradshaw

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Again we come with the Synod's Boys news. Please listen at the same place on your dial.

Our boys who were diligent enough to make the honor roll entertained the honor roll girls from Annie Louise Cottage with a theater party and we had a lovely time riding to town in the bus.

We had three children to participate in Miss Ritchie's pupils piano recital. Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman, our big sisters, and Lawton Rice, one of us, and we were very proud of them.

Mr. Ervin is about the best loved man on the campus at Synod's at this broadcast. Why? Our clothes room is all white and it is a pleasure to go in there. Our coat room is ivory and our play room ivory with mahogany trim. We are very careful to keep all the little fingers off and all are co-operating in keeping it pretty. We varnished the floors and have new curtains at the windows so we shout: Thank you, Mr. Ervin.

Our new azalea plants are in bloom. Of course, you will have to look close to find them but they, like the Wigglers, will grow. Our pansy bed is a sight to behold it is so very pretty. We planted the seed and have raised our own plants. We have some new varieties of larkspur planted and will transplant them. Memory Thompson and Charles Ward are young farmers and they wield a wicked grubbing hoe. We think our Madonna lilies will soon be in bloom. We are going to build a trellis to cover the base of our fire escape slide and have planted clematis for our vine. The wisteria over our porch was so very pretty. While Mrs. Bowling and the garden crew: Boyce Dean Smith, Johnny Collins, Jerry Ellis, James Woodall, Bobbie Rae Bailey, George Cannon and Jerry Thomas were working in our beds the smaller boys headed by Nat Craig cleaned the gutters.

Cecil Burleson is making some beds in the back yard and he hauled some rock to edge it with.

Bobby Synod (our dog) became hot running and playing base ball so started scratching in the flower bed with our rare larkspur. Poor Bobby. We had to spank him.

Well folks, this is enough of the green thumbs of our family. Let us hear of the sports. Marbles are still being played, but baseball is our favorite. Mrs. Bowling was "batter up" and broke our bat, and not even a home run out of it. Now we don't let her play, because we have a new bat and ball.

Louise and Shirley are our team captains and of course Mrs. Bowling is the umpire.

Signing off and we are all looking forward to a visit to Charlotte to the home of our beloved friends, Dr. and Mrs. Nisbit.

So goodnights and Happy Days.
— The Wigglers

BABY COTTAGE

We have had so much fun fixing our garden. Mrs. Nelson and our big sisters have fixed a big flower garden and I bet it will be pretty.

We have 12 girls now and only 7 boys. When school is out 6 boys and 5 girls will leave us and go to another cottage. They start school in the fall.

We are all losing our teeth and we don't mind it too much when the fairy comes.

— The Babies

LEES COTTAGE

Baseball season has finally come around and we certainly do enjoy watching the larger boys play, besides playing it ourselves.

Since the last time that we wrote to you we have gone down to our spring and cleaned up down there. We surely do wish you could come and see it. We are really proud of ourselves.

Well, it won't be long until school is out now and we will be looking forward to our vacations and our week down at our camp on the river.

Look for us next month when we will be back with more news.

— Billy Burke

WOMANS BUILDING

Greetings Friends,

We are just bubbling over with news this time. The Beta Club Convention at Raleigh, the trip to Covington, Virginia, the Beta Carnival, the Ensemble Piano Recital, the Basketball Banquet, the trip made by the Seniors to Charlotte, the Senior Dance and other things have kept us scurrying hither and thither.

We'll dwell on one at a time taken in order.

First the Beta Club Convention at Raleigh was attended by three of our lucky girls: Mildred Monroe, Betty Joe Smith and Betty Coffey. Not only did they attend the Beta meetings and dance, but they even shook hands with his honor, Greg Cherry. Lucky Guy.

Now prepare yourself to journey with us, the Glee Club, to Covington, Virginia. We made this sight-seeing tour to Miss Hickman's home town to sing at her church. The kitchen girls packed a lunch for us and we stopped and enjoyed a very delectible picnic. April 3 & 4, 1948 was a beautiful week-end and the mountains were just about at their best. We rode with our mouths open as wide as our eyes. We "sensed" that we were rapidly approaching our destination as we reached Clifton Forge. Since words are many and space is short we'll have to conclude this paragraph by thanking our charming hosts and hostesses for the nice meals, pretty homes and Virginia country which we'll never forget.

The Beta Carnival itself would take up a nice column. It was held at our high school April 1st. We had a spook house, a horror house, and several games, but everyone seem to enjoy the stage show and square dance immensely. This was presented to raise funds for our Beta Club so they could contribute to the various Beta projects.

Next, the Ensemble Piano Recital. This is another thing you would have to see and hear rather than read to really enjoy. Miss Margaret Richie has done a wonderful work with her piano pupils, and you'll just have to take our word for it, that it was certainly nice.

If you come to Barium and see some of our girls "sporting" around in lovely white basketball sweaters, you'll be wise to the fact that they are the one's who worked so hard to win the South Piedmont Conference. They're just the thing for the versatile spring weather we are having now, eh girls?

Mrs. Bryant, our very ambitious house mother, took the Senior class to see our great industrial Charlotte. The members of the class enjoyed it thoroughly. More "oh's" and "ah's, you have not heard in a long time.

Basketball Banquet Enjoyed at Barium

Our basketball banquet was held here on the night of April 2nd. Mr. Methcox was the toastmaster and he was in rare form. We believe that the thing that inspired Mr. Methcox to do such a grand job as toastmaster was the fact that he was leaving early the next morning for a trip to Virginia and any answers or explanations that might have been needed for his remarks could be put off until he returned on Monday, so this gave him a little more leeway and he made full use of it. It altogether made the banquet a very enjoyable affair.

The meal was served by the regular Rumble Hall organization. The regular kitchen crew prepared and the dining room crew served, and it was just plain good eating served in a most attractive style.

We did not have as many guests as we usually have. We find that so many people are busy at this time of the year that we did not issue as many invitations as we have formerly done. Of course, there were a number of Barium alumni present with their wives or husbands, as the case might be, and in addition Mr. Jack Loftin and Mr. Jack Massey from Troutman. They were honored in having done such an excellent job with the Troutman teams. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Morrow were invited and were present. They were rated the most faithful attendants at the tournaments held at Barium. All of the officials who worked in our tournament or during the season were invited but none of these were able to come. Maybe they felt that they could be embarrassed if they had to take their whistles out of their mouths and they would certainly have had to lay them aside on Friday night.

One of the senior basketball players was asked to give out the letters to the Junior girls, Lucille Stricklin getting this honor. Charles Barrett, the one senior on the boys' squad, gave the letters to the Junior Boys. Mr. Archie Calhoun gave the letters to the Varsity girls and J. B. Johnston gave them to the Varsity boys. Trophies won during the season were presented. One of the minor trophies of the Junior Tournament was given to the boys, the championship trophy was given to the Junior girls, and the big South Piedmont championship trophy was given to the Varsity girls. Announcement was made of the gift of a trophy cabinet by the graduating class of 1947 and an alumnus of a former year.

As the final event of the evening, and one coming as a surprise to the varsity girls, was the presentation of white sweaters as a special gift for their having won the Piedmont championship.

The girl elected captain for the season was Janie Hall, a senior; Lucille Stricklin was voted the most valuable player on the girls' team.

The boy elected captain for the season was Charles Barrett, and Jack Mangum was voted the most valuable player.

About 175 people were present at the banquet.

Diplomas Received By 1948 Graduating Class

Commencement began with the Baccalaureate Service at 11:00 A. M. on Sunday. The nineteen seniors and the choir marched in to the processional, "For all the Saints" by Barnby. The Baccalaureate sermon was preached by Dr. Sidney A. Gates, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Salisbury, North Carolina. The subject of his highly inspirational sermon was "The Rich Young Ruler."

At the evening hour, Rev. M. Millard Miller spoke on the subject "Making a Heaven on Earth." He took as his text Psalm 86, "Who passing through the valley of Baca, make it springs of water."

A special feature of both services was the music by the choir of Little Joe's Church and the High School Glee Club. In the morning service the choir sang, "The Lord is My Light" by Speaks. In the evening, "Alleluia" was sung by Virginia Presnell and the High School Glee Club "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte.

Class day exercises were enjoyable very much at 10:30 on Monday morning, at which time the class history and class prophesy were delivered and appropriate gifts were exchanged. This was concluded by the singing of the class song, "Auld Lang Syne."

The Rising Senior Class at Barium Springs High School

DICKIE ARROWOOD, CURTIS BALDWIN, KRISTINE BULLARD, DAVID EVERETT, HERBERT GOOD, VIRGINIA HENDRIX, ANNIE STAR LANSLEY, RICKY LIPPARD, BILL LYBRAND, JACK MANGUM, BILL MCALLISTER, JOHNNY MERONEY, JANE SIGMON, ANNE WICKER, JERRY YOUNG, ELIZABETH VINSON.

Every year the feature of our April issue of The Messenger is the individual pictures of this year's graduating class. It seems fitting that the feature of the May issue should be a picture of the rising senior class. This class is a small one. We still have not recovered from the war. It will be two years yet before we begin to have classes the size of those pre-war classes. It will be the class of '51 that will really indicate that Barium is back to normal.

Take a good look at these juniors. There are only thirteen of them who are members of the orphanage family; three are village children. Jane Sigmon is the daughter of one of our high school teachers; Dickie Arrowood is the daughter of our treasurer; Ricky Lippard is the son of a neighbor. The number of years that this class has been at Barium is much less than the total number of years of the class just graduating. None of them were quite as young when they entered as four members of the recent graduating class.

They are an up and coming bunch of kids though. Every boy in the class is a member of the varsity football squad. All but one are first-class basketball players. They have notions in their heads by the way - the girls put it there. Now, this is not the ordinary kind of notion that girls put in the boys' heads but it has to do with trophies. Our girls won the South Piedmont Conference title this year, and with it a handsome trophy; the boys have notions to put the 1949 basketball trophy in our trophy case with their names and picture on it.

Most of the boys are musical. Three of them at least rate the front line in Glee Club activity.

The girls are all musical, likable, and lookable. The girls on each end of the line of this picture are basketball standbys. They were in the first six of our recent championship team. Three others play and keep the first-stringers on their toes. A versatile bunch of young people whom we are proud to present to you as the top class of the coming year.

Beta Club Had Many Activities This Year

we have many activities at Barium Springs. One of the finest groups that we have is the Beta Club. They are doing good things all year long, and for one week-end the chosen members of this club attend a convention.

The Beta Club mimeographs a monthly newspaper writing up their activities. Below we are giving you the account of the Beta Convention which this year was held in Raleigh. The account was written by one of the juniors, an active and enthusiastic Beta.

Another interesting item in the Beta News was the account of the trip taken by the Glee Club to Covington, Virginia. This is written up by a senior who is a Beta and also a member of the Glee Club. Our director of public school music has developed the Glee Club and Covington, Virginia, is her old home town. She took a sample of her work to show to the home-folks - quite a sample if you believe me.

Beta Convention

On Friday, March 26, after much planning, packing and primping, the delegates (Mildred Monroe, Betty Coffey, Betty Jo Smith, Dickie Arrowood, and J. D. Everett) to the annual Beta Club Convention piled into Mr. Hethcox's car, in high spirits. Not only were we "beating out" of school, but we had the prospect of a wonderful week-end before us. The sun was shining brightly, the red bud was in bloom and the miles flew by. We reached Raleigh a weary group, weak from hunger.

Our abode for the week-end was a pretty little tourist home situated right across from State College. The girls were delighted with this arrangement, but found no time (Continued On Page Two)

Strange Doings In Poultry Department

Ordinarily, three hundred and sixty-four days in the year the poultry department at Barium is a calm, easy-going community.

The eggs are gathered, the chickens are fed, the brooders are adjusted, etc. The eggs being from the same family of hens are usually of one color and one size, but on Wednesday, March 24th, strange things happened. We don't know just why - we know the chickens are getting pretty smart and they may be psychic from being raised under an electric brooder and lay-

LEES COTTAGE

Here we are again bringing you the news from our cottage.

April the 24th was a happy day for us and the Howard girls. Mr. Johnston took us to the mountains. We had a picnic lunch, you should have seen the "hot dogs" we ate. We had a grand time.

We are playing baseball and having lots of fun.

School is out and we are looking forward to a happy summer, just now we are anxious to go swimming.

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Ecc. 10:8. "Whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent will bite him."

Four or five years ago there was a popular song about the great open spaces which rather plaintively implored, "Don't fence me in!" Every one is impatient of restraint. The world is becoming increasingly so, especially here in America.

But dislike hedges, walls, restraints as much as we may, the fact remains that the walls are there and that they serve a useful purpose. Also that retribution follows swiftly when the restraint is thrown off. "Whoso breaketh an hedge a serpent will bite him." Even the good and righteous Job complained of his limitations "Thou hast appointed his bounds that he cannot pass. Turn from him that he may rest."

It is no happen so that the basic code of laws, The Ten Commandments are couched in the negative, "Thou shalt not" - "Thou shalt not". I heard of a little boy who when asked by a caller what his name was, replied "Johnny don't do that." When the caller expressed surprise at the strange appellation the boy said "well that's what they always call me."

There are many walls or restraints laid upon us. Many bounds that we may not pass.

One hedge is the limit to our physical strength. God has given us bodies of remarkable physical abilities with wonderful reserve powers. With proper care the old machine can perform long hours through many years and do a prodigious amount of work but there is a limit. The automobile has to regularly have the oil changed, greased, water in the radiator and battery, air in the tires and a gen-

A Message From Pres. Alumni Assn.

On last Home-coming Day, D. Reid Brown was elected president of the Alumni Association. He is writing a card to all of the alumni about next Home-coming Day and about another matter. Here is what he says: Hey Folks:

Here's that man again. Last year at our Home-coming you asked me to write each of you a reminder of our Memorial Fund drive during the year

You also remember that we decided to furnish the Pulpit of the new Church in honor of our foster brothers who gave everything for us and our country.

If you will please forward to me your most liberal contribution we will have a sizable amount to report at our Home-coming Meeting which will be held October 15, and the football game will be Barium vs. North Wilkesboro. Let's each of us plan to attend Home-coming this year, to see all of our old friends, and to make this the largest Home-coming yet. See you at Barium, Oct. 15, 1948.

Your Foster Brother, D. REID BROWN.

Reid's address is Route 6, Burlington, N. C. He would like to hear from you.

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST).

Beta Club Had Many

to take advantage of it.

That night, after registration, we enjoyed about two hours of stunts put on by the various chapters. When the program was over we gratefully rode home in a drizzling rain to fall exhaustedly into bed.

The chiming of the clock across the way and a healthy sneeze from Betty Jo awakened us on Saturday morning. About nine o'clock we joined the men who were still hoping to get their breakfast before it was time for dinner.

After breakfast a very edifying hour was spent in the State Museum. Later we went on to the Capitol. After climbing innumerable stone steps, having passed closed doors and looked into legislative chambers, we heard that Governor Cherry was receiving Betas. The girls wanted to see him and advanced boldly to his office. The men disgustedly sat down outside to wait. In about half an hour we were admitted to the inner chamber. Governor Cherry came forward with a cherry smile. We shook hands and told him our names and our home town. "Oh, yes," he said, "Barium Springs. That's down near Mooresville, isn't it?" We beat a hasty retreat (huh! he must be trying to get Mr. Hethcox's vote.)

At the afternoon business session the new officers were elected and other business attended to. When the meeting adjourned we went home to take our Saturday baths and dress for the banquet.

The crowd was divided between the Carolina and the Sir Walter Raleigh hotels. We were allotted the Carolina, where Dr. Cook from Alabama was to give the talk for the evening. There was a wonderful meal, singing, and much fun and fellowship. Dr. Cook was very inspiring. He analyzed many of the problems of today and how they can be met. After the dance the Convention was officially over.

Sunday morning we crawled sleepily out of bed, put on our Easter bonnets, and were on our way. At the First Presbyterian Church in Durham we heard beautiful music and a wonderful message.

After dinner at the Colonial Cafeteria in Chapel Hill, we honored both Chapel Hill and Duke by inspecting their grounds.

With great difficulty we dragged ourselves away and started home. Barium Springs was a pleasing sight when we arrived about nine o'clock.

Trip to Covington, Va.

The Glee Club made a delightful trip to Covington, Virginia, on April 13. At least it was delightful for seventy-five miles or more, until we began to get tired and thing was. The trip was really an innovation and one that we will remember for a long time.

—Bradley Jean Manus.

Strange Doings In

ing eggs by electric light. They may have been listening to the radio - they may have heard a lot of talk about rabbits laying eggs around Easter time, and decided to do something about it, or they may have been listening to John L. Lewis and his miners and decided to emulate them and to go on a kind of sit-down strike. Anyhow, on this particular Wednesday one hen laid an egg that was so little it looked like a marble: another one laid one so big that very few turkeys could compete. In fact, the egg was so big that the hen could not quite get into the nest to lay it - she laid it just outside and it was slightly broken in the process. Well, we wanted to see what was inside of that big egg and we found that it was a normal egg with a shell on it and then another egg outside of it. We think this hen had been listening to the miner's propaganda and decided to quit laying eggs for awhile, but her failure to notify her egg-producing organs played a trick on her - they kinder doubled up and she had to get rid of a week's supply in one laying. Anyhow, just to prove that what we say is not just a fairy tale we are showing the pictures. One of the pictures is the little egg: don't get excited about that. This hen was just peeved about something. Maybe she got to the feed box too late to get a full ration and took it out on the poultryman by only delivering a pint-sized egg. The other egg is a normal-sized egg: the only thing strange about it is that it came inside of the big egg. Now, look at that big egg, please. It measures 8 1-3 inches its smallest circumference; 9 1-2 inches its long circumference. In order to get the contents of this egg out of the shell we had to break it open on the back side, so don't think that we just manufactured this whole tale out of the pure cloth - it happened just like we tell it and we had pictures made of the whole thing to prove that what we say is correct. If you don't believe it come up sometime and we will show you the nest that the egg was almost laid in. We can't identify the hen; in fact, we think she is a little modest about the whole thing.

All of this just goes to show that you never can tell what is going to happen around Barium Springs.

weeks vacation this summer and one week at camp. What boy can wish for more?

Richard Vest, Edward Cannon, Ronnie Hudgins and Charles Creech got certificates in writing.

Mr. Lowrance got us some pretty sport shirts.

Our flowers are looking pretty, some are blooming.

Mr. Ervin made us two benches for our front porch, we will enjoy them this summer.

—Lees Boys.

ANNIE LOUISE

School is finally out. "Boy" we are glad we are out of school for about three months. Clara, our big sister won't be going around saying poetry all the time and we can get some rest.

We took some pictures at school the other day, all of us have a picture of ourselves, they are really good. We like to look at ourselves so instead of looking in a mirror we look at our picture and see what big "monkeys" we are.

The swimming pool has had about four coats of blue paint on it and we will soon be going in. Can hardly wait until we can get on our bathing suits and feel that cool water trickle down our faces and on our backs on a hot day.

Vacations start the 26th of May and we get three weeks to spend at home. Most of us will get a vacation, we hope.

We have had lots of plays and three of our little girls and one big sister played in a piano recital. We surely are proud of them.

We soon will be stringing beans and next month this time we will tell you how many beans we have strung.

Be sure to read our news next month, until then, so long.

—The Annie Louise Girls.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Everyone is very happy that school was out May 14th. We were so excited because it will soon be time to go swimming and go barefooted. Our vacations start May 26th, and we can hardly wait until then.

Lois Dellinger was the only girl who got to go to the birthday table this month!

We shelled our first peas May 12th, and afterwards we had a little party. We have new drinking cups and we used them at our party. They are a pretty greenish blue.

All of us have quit skating and are playing baseball and play-house.

Carolyn Lane has gotten two gifts from a circle in Wilmington. She got a box of stationary, a red pocket book, and a pretty white lacy handkerchief.

We have had three piano recitals. We had nine girls to play in them.

Good-bye until next month!

—The Howard Girls

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

We are real happy today, May 14th. School is out, and vacations are here and we will put on our shorts and polo shirts, shirts for summer wear. Tuesday we will go barefooted and our swimming pool is open. We all have bathing suits and happy days are here again.

Scenes on the playground: Larry Terry feeding Bobby Synod fish. Bobby on his haunches and Larry picking out the bones feeding bite by bite. Sunday, April 18th we had visitors from Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Goodrum and two daughters. April 20th, Louise and Shirley (our big sisters) entertained twenty of their friends playing games and contests supervised by Miss Rachel Hickman and Mr. Lee Spencer. Mrs. Bowling, assisted by Miss Carpenter, served a lovely candle salad and California cocktail.

Those present were Misses Pearl Morgan, Hilda Barnes, Peggy Neel, Bonnie Odom, Anne Wilcox, Elsie Vest, Jeanne Turlington, Messers Charles Barrett, Terrell Hall, Charles Stevens, Earl Huddleston, Johnny Hudgins, Herbert Good, Tommy Hudgins, Paul Barnes, Norvin Hillard. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and Mr. R. G. Calhoun came and enjoyed the refreshment hour with us.

Friday, April 23rd, David Reid came home bringing a turtle which we named "Pokey". He was lots of fun until he crossed the highway and was a casualty. May 1st we all went to Charlotte in our new bus to the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. Heath Nisbet, on Brandon Road, where we were royally entertained. We sure had fun playing in the servants quarters over the garage and in the playhouse in Mr. John C. Myers yard. It was the bestest party Synod's boy have ever had. Weiners, cold slaw rolls, onions and just everything to eat and drinks and ice cream. We shall always remember our friends. So here we send our love and thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Nisbet. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Myers, Mrs. D. L. Marrell and Mr. Miles Taylor.

On Mother's Day our big sister Pearl Morgan and our big brother Charles Barrett gave our "Mom" Bowling a gardenia corsage and

We have some porch boxes on our north porch and have flowers planted. Our Madonna lillies are about ready to bloom and pansies are so pretty. Miss Blakney gave us three African violets, a white, pink and blue. They are Mrs. Bowling's hobby.

We are hoping to get to go to Statesville tomorrow to see "Fun and Fancy Free".

FAITH AND COURAGE

The world outlook as 1948 gets under way, all must admit, is in many ways far from bright. What can we do about it? I was reading Charlotte Bronte, the famous author of the book, Jane Eyre. At a time when her sister had died, her sister Anna fatally ill, and her brother Branwell dying from drink, she wrote to a friend: "I avoid looking forward, or backward, and try to keep looking upward. This is no time to regret, dread or weep. God is all over."

It seems to me there are four things you and I may do in a confused world.

1. Each of us can, by God's grace, keep himself going straight. That will help. By believing in the Providence that watches over us in spite of our errors and bad judgments, we can attain a level of action that will be helpful to those nearest us, and help the contagion of Goodness to spread.

2. Let us keep looking upward. Sailing the Atlantic some time ago, I had several conversations with the captain. Learning that I was a minister, he took me to see the compass of the ship. He told me that sailing a ship was like living on land. Unseen forces play about us. No one can see the power that keeps the time clock of the heavens, yet the sailor banks on the North Star being in its place, even though it be impossible to glimpse it through the storm clouds.

3. Let's keep our faith in the future. The nations of men do indeed have much to learn about living together in peace and harmony on this whirling ball we call the Earth. Once nations lived entirely by the law of "Might Makes Right." Now there is a dream of justice and fair play called the United Nations. Surely it will come if—if we keep looking up, and going straight ahead. —The Uplift.

eral overhauling from time to time. The human body is the same way. It must have proper care, proper food, proper rest. If that hedge is broken the serpent of serious illness strikes. I read sometime ago about a man in his early forties. He had a fine position at the head of a big advertizing firm. He made a fine salary, enjoyed his work and went at it with zest for long hours. He also loved to play golf and played it with great enthusiasm. He was a great sportsman going afield with dog and gun or fishing in mountain streams. One day he picked up a couple of heavy suitcases and ran up a hill and up a flight of stairs with them. When he set them down the world went black. It was nature's warning. But he got better and ignored it. The next attack put him on his back for months. From now on he will not take a quick step or lift a chair. He went beyond his limit and the serpent of ill health struck him down.

Of course there are other ways to break the hedge of bodily health and strength besides over work, worry, or strain. There is the misuse of the body as the prodigal son when he wasted his substance in riotous living. In my youth I met a man of attractive personality who came from one of the proudest families in the state. When he went to work, he told me, "I did not drink, or curse, or smoke." "But", he said, "It wasn't long till I could go with the boys anywhere." He was a man of fine judgement, a great sportsman and attractive personality. He wasted his substance. He wrecked his body in debauchery and drunkenness and died as a result of his excesses in early middle life.

There is also the hedge of convention. It is that hedge which a mother or a matron speaks of when she says "nice girls do not do so and so". These rules of convention are made up of the general opinion in a community of what is right, or proper, or safe or most praiseworthy to do or not to do. It is determined, on the one hand, by those of noble thought and aspiration which would raise a high standard of conduct. On the other hand, the tongue of scandal, and the foul mouthings of the evil minded; the vulgar imaginations of those who, while they may not be outwardly vile, in their minds they run to do evil, and are always ready and delighted to believe the worst. Conventions are not so strict nor are the standards so high as they once were but the hedge is still there. Many a girl and many a boy has been heedless of that and the serpent has struck surely and swiftly. Honored names have been sullied, reputations have been wrecked in a few hours of heedless conduct.

There is the hedge of the law of the land.

The hedge of the law is supposed to run along where my rights end and the rights of the other man begin. I have a right to drive my car on the highway so long as I do not violate the rights of another. I must observe his right of way. I must not speed or otherwise operate my car in such a manner as to endanger the lives of others. You know how much that hedge of the law is being broken in this state and throughout the nation and how swiftly the serpent strikes wrecking property, maiming bodies, taking human life.

There is the hedge of Home Restraint. This comes before the law of the land and is the basis of law. It is of prime importance. It is made up of the counsel, advice and direction of the Father and Mother. It is founded on parental care, love and responsibility. Paul said, "Children obey your parents in the Lord for this is right." I remember years ago preaching one night in a little school house on "The Prodigal Son." That night my host told me of his own handsome son who had flouted his fathers advice and prayers and after a career of sin the boy disappeared. He told me how he had found his son's bloated body in the same little school house, a suicide. I had been thinking about a prodigal as some one long ago in some other country but reality got up and looked at me that night.

There is the hedge of the law of God. It was not different from the hedge of the home restraint or the law of the land. It is only different in extent or quality. The law of the Lord is perfect. Human laws are fallible, home restraints may lack in either being too strict or too indulgent; but God's law is true and just and good. And the certainty of punishment for break-that hedge is sure. God said "the soul that sinneth it shall die."

Parents are soft and forgiving and many a crime of the state goes unspanked of justice, but not the law of God. "Be sure your sins will find you out." "Whoso breaketh this hedge a serpent will bite him."

Is there then no hope for the sinner? Yes, it is in Jesus Christ. When the children of Israel were bitten by the fiery serpent, Moses was told to make a brazen serpent and those who looked at it in faith lived.

As Moses lifted up the serpent so was the Son of man lifted up that whosoever believeth in him might not perish but have everlasting life. Christ is the great physician of our souls, Christ cleanses from every sin.

I have heard a story of a rich man who had an only son. The boy was lonely and one day the father came home and there sat his son in a big chair looking at a book and by him about the dirtiest, most ragged boy he had ever seen. As he came in his boy put his arm around a dirty, ragged shoulder and said, "Father meet my friend". The rich man said, "well if he is your friend take him up stairs give him a bath and some clothes". So they went off together and presently came back two clean, fine looking boys. But isn't that what Jesus does for us? He says, "Father meet my friend". He cleanses us and clothes us and takes us as his younger brother, healed and free from sin.

"Look unto Him and be ye saved all ye ends of the earth."

Camp Fellowship

Miss Guelda Elliott

In Memoriam

Something over ten years ago Camp Fellowship was built. The land on which Fellowship stands was leased to Barium Springs by the Paola Cotton Mills owned by the Mills family, the Bloomfield Mills at that time owned by the Cannon Company, Statesville Cotton Mills and Statesville Flour Mill, Mr. Clint Wagner.

Buildings at Camp Fellowship were provided for by the Men's Fellowship Club of the Second Presbyterian Church in Charlotte. They gave the bulk of the money for this. Other contributions were made by Mr. Bob Grier of Statesville, Mr. Bill Preyer of Greensboro and numerous smaller contributors. The initial investment was in the neighborhood of $3,000. Later on the water supply had to be increased and wells were dug so that the total investment over all as of today is about $4,000. Camp Fellowship was used during the first three of four years almost exclusively for the Orphanages of North Carolina. The Childrens Home of Winston-Salem, Mills Home at Thomasville, the High Point Orphanage, and the Junior Order at Lexington and one year the Alexander Home at Charlotte.

Later on the Orphanages began to drop out of the picture and the Presbytery and churches of other denominations began to use the camp. Concord Presbytery now uses it for two weeks, the Methodist Churches use it for four weeks, the Baptist Churches for one week and during the last two years the Four H-Clubs have managed to get in a little time there also, this in addition to our own use of the camp.

It has become more a place for religious gatherings rather than just of entertainment and fun.

The lease under which we secured the land was for ten years and now that ten years is up. And many of the men who were interested in securing that lease for us are dead. Mr. N. B. Mills was most enthusiastic about the project. Mr. Clint Wagner, and Mr. Avery Sherrill. In fact, Mr. Sherrill and Mr. Wagner went to Charlotte with us to interview The Duke Power Company officials and were most helpful in getting electricity into the camp.

We started over a year ago to take steps toward the renewal of the lease. We found that the Statesville Cotton Mills were perfectly (Continued On Page Three)

'There Is a Lad Here'

It was Andrew, one of the Disciples who made this statement, wondering whether he had found a way of solving a serious problem. Great crowds of people had been listening to the Galilean Preacher for hours, but now it was past meal time and they were far from home in a desert place, where no food was available.

Still the Preacher said the people should be fed and the Disciples wondered what to do. They had a little money, but that didn't help when there was no store or bakery. When Andrew mentioned the lad and said, "He has a little food—five barley loaves and two small fishes—but what is that among so many?" Jesus took the loaves and fishes and blessed them and (Continued On Page Three)

The Junior Choir of Barium Springs

The group that we wish to honor this month by displaying its picture in the Messenger is the Junior Glee Club. It has furnished music and other entertainment many times during the year. Several times taking over the church service music and doing it acceptably. We are proud of the Junior Glee Club, not only for what they have done and are doing, but for the promise of additional music in the years to come. They won't be our Junior Glee Club very long. They will soon be the Senior Glee Club.

Four Elders Going to the Assembly

The church papers have already written splendid accounts of the recent meeting of the General Assembly of our church. This particular article will have something to say about it but not in a very serious vein. It is the account of the trip of the four Concord Presbytery elders on their way there. By way of introduction, they are: treasurer, F. L. Jackson of Davidson College, Dean C. K. Brown of Davidson College, Mr. R. L. Sparrow of Mount Mourne and Mr. J. B. Johnston of Barium Springs. For the balance of this narrative these four men will be known by their last names, Jackson, Brown, Sparrow and me. These four left Mooresville around ten o'clock on the morning of May 27 and headed toward Atlanta. The Presbyterian Orphans' Home furnished the car and the driver and a great deal of the conversation for the first and last part of the trip. The Assembly paid for the gas and the eats. And when the driver would let them, conversation went pretty freely around the whole car. As a matter of fact, we reached Atlanta without finding out how we stood individually on the important matters coming up before the Assembly. We didn't know who was for Federal Council or who was against it.

As it happened we went through Lincolnton, Shelby, and on down through Spartanburg and Gaffney. I monopolized the conversation so much during this part of the trip because I had once lived in Lincolnton and had a lot of business transactions in Cherryville, Shelby, and even down as far as Gaffney. After leaving Gaffney some of the others had a chance to talk a little. We found lots of things to talk about. About Bob Jones' University in Greenville. We passed right through the grounds. For many miles before we reached Greenville we also talked about something for lunch. Jackson mentioned an eating house in Greenville and described it so vividly that we were all practically drooling by the time we reached Greenville. We parked the car and went (Continued On Page Three)

Albert S. Barnes

One of the great men in orphanage work, Rev. Albert S. Barnes, superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage, Raleigh, has announced his resignation. We see by the papers what we never would have dreamed, that he was seventy-five years old. Mr. Barnes has been superintendent of the institution for thirty-four years and has kept not only abreast of the times in Orphanage work but has been a leader in its development. His own institution ranks along with the best of the south and that means the best in the world. The best orphanages in the world are found within the bounds of the Southeastern Conference. Men like Kessler and Jamison developed the standard of orphanage work. Then men like Barnes and Joseph B. Johnston, I. G. Greer and O. V. Woosley carried the work forward. For many years the child welfare people of the North and East have attempted to down the very idea of the institutional life for children. These leaders in the South have gone on the even tenor of their way rearing children in their orphanages and sending them out into life as highly useful citizens. The people of the North as a rule have never learned how to rear children in an institution and therefore think that because they cannot do it, it cannot be done. These southern orphanage not only know how to do it but do it. If the proof of the pudding is in the eating, the proof of the orphanage work is in the product, that it turns out. Mr. Barnes for thirty-four years has been turning out a product that is inescapable proof that children can be reared successfully in an institution. Mr. Barnes was superintendent of the Methodist Orphanage and never hesitated to admit that his institution was a Methodist institution. He felt that the Methodists were responsible for some dependent children of the (Continued On Page Four)

THE BIBLE AND CIVILIZATION

There is one book that has been the best seller ever since it was first printed, hundreds of years ago. That book is the Bible. It is one book it had one author, the Holy Spirit of God. It is many books. We think of it as having 66 books in it written by a number of men over a period of more than a thousand years.

All that is good and great in our civilization we owe to the Bible.

One of the pillars of civilization is business.

Back in the early days of the race each man's home was practically self sufficient. The members of the household killed the game; tilled the fields; cooked the food which they themselves had provided; wove their cloth; made their shoes; built their own houses; had their own work shops.

Now we buy food largely prepared and much of it cooked; we buy clothes ready made; we purchase fruits and vegetables from distant states. If we have any money, a bank takes care of it for us. This vast institution of business is built on credits and on the integrity and honesty of people. No great and lasting civilization can be erected in any nation or people who are not fundamentally honest. If, for one day the people of America stopped trusting one another and cancelled all credit, our business structure would collapse. This honesty and integrity comes from the ideals of that book which is called the word of truth and which teaches us "wherefore putting away all lying speak every man truth with his neighbor for we are members one of another."

Business also depends on industry. One reason the American workman gets high wages and has such a high standard of living is that he is worth it. He has been schooled in the word which says "whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might."

The man who knows and obeys his Bible will make a true success (Continued On Page Two)

Babe Ruth's Tribute

The following testimony to the useful life of an old minister was given by "Babe" Ruth, the famous baseball player: "Most of the people who have really counted in my life were not famous. Nobody ever heard of them, except those who knew and loved them. I knew an old minister once. His hair was white; his face shone. I have written my name on thousands of baseballs in my life. The old minister wrote his name on just a few simple hearts. How I envy him! Because he was not trying to please his own immortal soul, fame never came to him. I am listed as a famous homerunner, yet beside that obscure minister, who was so good and so wise, I never got to first base."

News From Some of the Cottages

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
Summer has really begun which proves that going swimming, bare footed and wearing shorts can be lots of fun on hot days.
Three of our little girls have gone home to stay. We are glad they got to go home, but we surely do miss them. Five more of our girls will be going home the 16 of June. We'll miss all of them, but we know they will have fun. One of our big sisters went to Durham to see her mother. We know she had fun, but we are glad she is back.
Saturday night our matron and big sister took us to the spring to eat supper. After we had a marsh-mellow roast which was a surprise to all of us. We had a time getting the fire started and then we looked like particles of soot. "What do you say about that Bonnie?"
One night not long our matron and big sister took us to Mrs. Lackey's to get some plants for our flower garden. We are sure our flowers will be the prettiest on the campus. We want to thank her very sincerely for the plants.
Miss Blakney sent us some candy. Boy does that candy taste good when you are real hungry on a hot day! Thanks a lot for the candy, Miss Blakney.
Read our news next month. So long.
— The Annie Louise Girls

JENNIE GILMER

Hello Everybody
Since we last wrote you we have been kept busy blackberry picking, going swimming, playing softball, and getting ready to go on our vacations.
Several boys have already gone on their vacations and one has already returned. We miss them, but we know that they are having a wonderful time.
Oh yes, we have a new clothes room now, and do we appreciate it! Now we don't have to walk downstairs every time we need clean clothes. That may sound as if we were lazy, but having the clothes on the first floor instead of in the basement really is a convenience.
Since nothing much has been brewing around here will say so long until next month.
— David Morrison, Jack Harwell

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,
We are back again with the cottage news.
Library has started and Miss Troutman has been reading us some very interesting books and poems.
We have painted our basement and are now using it for a playhouse.
Seven girls from Annie Louise have moved over here and we are having fun playing with them. Their names are Evelyn Cox, Florrie Garris, Carolyn Hucks, Shirley Johnson, Mildred McFarland, Peggy Privette, and Johnsie Terry.

We have been studying the Catechism. We soon will be getting Bibles and Testaments.
We have gotten our bathing suits and are going in swimming. Most of us know how to jump off the boards and swim.
We will be with you next month until then.
— The Bean Stringers

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
We have a different "Mama" here for two weeks. Mrs. Bowling went on her vacation last Friday to Florida. We hope she has a good time but we miss her. Mrs. Goodrum is here in her place. We like her a lot.
Miss Grier is going to be our Bible School teacher. Every Monday and Wednesday she is coming to our house. Today we learned a cute song about Little Tommy Tucker and we've been singing it all day.
Yesterday we got four new members. They are Tommy Taylor, Larry Carleton, Bobby and Joe Ramsey. We are happy that they could come to live with us.
Last Tuesday we went to see Tarzan's New York Adventure. It was just the kind of movie that we enjoy. We've all been practicing the Tarzan yell and we've nearly driven our matron crazy.
Louise Campbell, who was our sister last year, moved to the Infirmary after graduation. Shirley Byrd from Howard came over to take her place. Since we already have one Shirley we call her Jeanne.
Four of our number have gone on their vacations. Memory Thompson stayed only two weeks and is already back. Lawton Rice, David McLaughlin and Richard Blackburn are the others that have gone.
George Truelove went home to live with his folks. We miss him but we're glad he could go.
Dr. Nisbet from Charlotte did a wonderful thing for us. He brought us a Philco radio and phonograph combination. We have records about Uncle Remus and also some marches. We're learning to be real soldiers marching in time to music. It would be impossible to tell Dr. Nisbet how much we enjoy and appreciate the gift.
Our big sister, Pearl Morgan, came back to see us yesterday. It was grand to see her.
Be seeing you next month.
— The Synod's Boys

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hello Folks,
Since you heard from us last month things have happened and many new faces have appeared on our campus and at Woman's Building. School is out, the swimming pool has opened, and vacations have begun. Another week has been added to our vacation making us have three weeks. What a time!

Three girls from this year's graduating class have come back to work during the summer namely: Sadie Buie, who will work at Howard for a month, Mildred Monroe, and Ernestine Baldwin. All Three of these girls will enroll at Flora Macdonald College in the fall. We're glad to have you back with us girls!
The new crew in the sewing room, that includes only five senior girls, are putting out an abundant amount of clothes. So we think. Our new boss, Mrs. Smith, is tops.
We had two girls to go to conference from our cottage. Anne Wicker who is a senior and represented our senior league as Faith Commissioner attended the conference at Red Springs. Dot Surles reported a good time while attending the conference at Camp Fellowship.
Until next month think of us taking a dip in the pool whenever the sun gets too hot or catching a bus to go on that long awaited for vacation.
— Womans Building Girls

BABY COTTAGE

Dear Friends
You have not heard from us since school was out. But we are still here having a big time.
We have three new Big Sisters as our others moved out and we also have lost seven little sisters as four have gone home. Three moved to Annie Louise. We miss them so much. And we big boys will soon move out to be ready to start to school and we are so happy.
Mrs. Nelson carried all of us Babies down to her home to spend a day and gave Buddy Cochran a birthday party. We sure had a fine time. We went to the show Wednesday to see Silver Valley, it was grand. We got ice cream too.
Then Thursday Mr. Johnston carried all boys down to camp for a ride in the boat and enjoy the cool sand and swimming. All the girls went to camp on Tuesday evening and had a big time.
We have three new brothers to come in and three new sisters which makes sixteen children in our home now. Lots of the children are going on vacations, but we will not go this year but hope to next year.
Well we will stop for now.
Love from all.
— Baby Cottage

FARM NEWS

It has been a long time since you have heard from the farmers of the campus. Mr. J. F. Stinson, the man who knows everything about farming, is still the "Big Wheel" of the group. We have plenty of news to bring you this month hot off the wires of the Barium press.
To begin with we have about twelve boys working on the farm. Bill Lybrand who has helped us on the farm for about six years, holds the record for being the boy to work here the longest, and he is considered the best plough boy of all times.
Charles Stevens, one of our younger boys, is always looking for a chance to drive our pick-up when the boss man isn't around. Norvin Hillard, who is one of the best drivers I have ever seen, will soon begin driving our International truck for his regular work (about four years from now.) I am sure he will be a very happy boy when this happens. Most of the boys are happy with their work, but a few of them are hoping that school will soon start so they won't have to work so much.
The vacation days are here again, and some of our boys have already gone home. Terrell Hall and Fairley Morgan are both away at the time, and a few more of our boys will leave for home next week.

The next thing we want to talk about is the work we're doing now. We are working on our biggest jobs of the summer, at the present: cultivating corn, combining grain, and hauling hay. Charles Stevens and Jay Terry are the combining duet, along with Horace Welman, one of our faithful farm hands. Bill Lybrand and Curtis Baldwin, along with a few other farm hands are ploughing corn at the present, while the rest of the farm crew are participating in many odd jobs. Our work is hard and unpleasant at times, but we all enjoy it just the same.
We shall now say good-by until next month when we shall have more news to tell you.
— "The Busy-birds"

PRINTING OFFICE

The summer is ahead, as the members of the Printing department challenges any obstacle that is ahead, mostly the printing of the Barium Messenger.
We have completed the task "The Spotlight or "Annual" of our school activities, our largest job of the year. Although we haven't had the material in the past two years we tried to combine the most valuable pictures into the "48" Spotlight.
As the summer goes forward full force, we have the crew to meet the demand of summer work.
Our crew starts seven strong, losing only one man at graduation, Mr. James Reid, our right-hand man but don't worry, it isn't vacant.
Wallace, Assistant Boss Twombly, is running everything single handed, since Mr. Kyles is enjoying his two weeks vacations. Dwight Reid finally got off the mailing list, being promoted. Jim Williams "who quit the shoe business" is now helping upstairs more. Rufus Shooter Clark after a week on here is now on the mailing list and running the linotype. Edsel Charlie Printer Devil McArthur is still putting red devil lye on the cuts and getting his face blacker every day as he washes the presses. You don't expect me to say anything about myself do you?
— D. Donald Mitchell

CARPENTER GROUP

We now bring you the latest news hot off the wires of the rip saws and drill presses.
We, the carpenter boys have been very busy lately laying concrete sidewalks and making other repairs. Although there has been some change in the line-up of our staff, we still manage to get along. Charles Barrett and Jack Clark have graduated. Paul Barnes has been transferred to Mr. Lowrance's staff. Jack Mangum is working at our camp this summer. Mr. J. W. Ervin, the boss of our group has been very busy lately getting the camp ready for our visitors this summer and making other repairs on the campus.
Ken Manus is cutting grass with our new lawn mower. Kenneth Walker is assisting him with the other lawn mower, that is if Ken Manus doesn't put linseed oil in the lawn mower in the place of oil again. Mr. Sheets and Earl Adams are the painters on our group at this time. Earl Adams is a graduate of 1946 although he did not graduate from Barium Springs. Mr. Sheets and Earl Adams appear to be very fine workers. Jerry Young is now assisting Miss Ford as matron of Lees Cottage while Miss Ford is on a little vacation. Johnny Meroney, Billy McAllister and Ami Lybrand are still lying around in the shade and taking it easy as they always do.
James Wheeler is wondering what will happen June 30 when he goes on his vacation. Since he is the most valuable boy on the carpenter group he is afraid all the work will stop when he leaves.
Well folks until next time we will have to say so long.
Your favorite reporter.

The Message of the

in life.
"He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water and whatsoever he doeth he shall cause to prosper."
Another massive pillar that holds up this structure we call civilization is law. The more civilization develops and becomes complex, the greater the body of law necessary. A Crusoe on his island alone could be a law unto himself, but when men live in close contact and in constant dealings, laws are required to say where one's liberty ends, and the rights of the other man begins.
All law is comprehended in, and founded upon the character of God and the will and purpose of God as revealed in his word. The most perfect code of laws ever devised is the law as given to Moses and no more majestic moment has been recorded than when amidst the thunderings of Mt. Sinai, God wrote the decalogue upon the tablets of stone.
Now having law there must be a body to interpret and apply the law; and there must be an agency to enforce the law. Among men not controlled by the Bible, might has made right, and the law has often been cruelly and tyrannically applied and executed. But in the Bible we find the Hebrew Commonwealth established by Moses with these words. "Take you wise men and understanding and known among the tribes." And Moses charged those rulers "hear the causes between your brethren and judge and his brother and the stranger that is with them; ye shall not respect person in judgement."
The Hebrew Commonwealth was the first government to put restrictions on absolute monarchy; to have popular legislative assembly; the first to ask the judgement of the people in general elections; the first to organize government into three departments of legislative, judicial, and executive; the first to prohibit class distinctions; the first to make any provision for popular instruction.
The civilizations in the old world are largely tottering to their ruin. And America will only stand and her civilization be permanent so long as we are true to the word of God.
The third pillar of civilization which we will mention is the Home. When the home fails and falls civilization will fall with it.
Our homes are happy and blessed because the rights of womanhood are recognized. In the so called heathen nations she is a servant and a chattel.
The glory of childhood is found where the Bible is known. Not until our master said "suffer the children and forbid them not to come unto me" were the rights of children recognized. Until he lived on earth many men wished children to be saints but none ever proposed that saints must become children. The training of children, bringing them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord comes from the Book.
The ideals of chastity and purity as the basis of home life, and the strong duty of marital faithfulness has ever been a bulwark which if broken down, the marriage is destroyed. The seventh commandment and scores of other teachings inculcate that.
The covenant which God enters into with parents in presenting their children unto him is a strong bond and a precious promise which no parent should ever forget, and which has come down from the Covenant made to Abraham and renewed in the Covenant of grace.
The homes of America are in danger today. They are breaking up in appalling numbers for the family altar with its Bible reading and prayer is all too rare. Our courts are grinding out divorce. More children are knocking at the doors of orphanages today because of homes broken by divorce than because of the death of a parent. Let me plead with you to relight your family altar.

Robert Burns in his poem "The Cotters Saturday Night" describes a humble family having scripture reading, hymns and family prayer. He concludes the poem with these words we may well ponder:

"From scenes like these Old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her loved at home,
rever'd abroad;
Princes and Lords are but the breath of Kings,
An honest man's the noblest work of God."

Four Elders Going

n and found out that probably the only good meal the restaurant had ever served was when Mr. Jackson was there a year ago.

The next place of interest after leaving Greenville was Clemson College. And then on into Georgia. At Toccoa, Georgia we all took a bird's-eye view of the big LaTourneau plant. This is the place where a famous man manufacturers his earth moving machinery.

On into Atlanta around 6 o'clock. Before reaching Atlanta I again proceeded to take charge of the conversation and was doing fine. I told the other passengers that I had lived in Atlanta about six years and described Atlanta as it was when I lived there. I found that they had commenced to figure on the back of envelopes while I talked and didn't catch on until later. I found that they had figured up all the years that I had been talking about and had me a little over a hundred years old and were wondering if I was too old to drive a car.

Well in spite of my age, I got my passengers to the Hotel and finally to church. The first night of the Assembly is always the most exciting time. The sermon by the retiring moderator is one of the highlights of the meeting and the election of the new moderator brings much excitement. Dr. Cunningham preached a wonderful sermon and then Dr. Fulton took over as the new moderator. Jackson and Brown quartered at the Biltmore Hotel just about a mile from the church. Sparrow was lodged at Columbia Seminary about ten miles away from the church. I was quartered with a friend of mine who lived about seven miles across the busy part of Atlanta. I had to drive out and back, of course, every morning and it was quite a job in the heavy traffic. Well as luck would have it, I was appointed on the committee that had the most arguments, that of Interchurch Relations. And I had trouble with one eye. A sty was giving trouble, believe it or not, but it didn't act like a sty does on a very young person. It made my whole eye black and it made a pouch under it that I had to almost lift up to talk. Well people didn't notice this eye until about the second session of our committee meeting and then they began to wonder if our argument had gotten to where we were trading punches and I had a hard time convincing the friends who knew me best that such was not the case.

We all managed to get through the meeting of the Assembly but not without accidents. Of course, my eye put me in the casualty class for the first three days and then Jackson fell down the steps of the church, skinned his knee and had to be taken to the hotel. Brown had to stay with him and eventually took him home on the train. So that cut our party down to two for the trip home. And then something happened to me. I hate to tell about it but since this is a truthful narrative I will have to come through with it. You know as I told you before I used to live in Atlanta. I was rather proud of my ability to find my way around. I was also proud of my ability to handle a car in the heavy traffic. I wanted to show off a bit and one day I picked up an old friend of mine, Reverend W. W. Arrowood. He was in college with me way back yonder in the beginning of the century. I persuaded him to go across town with me to visit this friend of mine with whom I was staying. He reluctantly agreed. I purposely picked out the street where the traffic was the heaviest just to show him what a good driver I was. I would drive with one hand and point out the window with the other hand. I don't think my passenger looked where I was pointing, he looked where I was driving. Things went along beautifully. I came to a place where they were working on one side of the street and all the traffic had to be handled on the two lanes on the left hand of the street. And right there my car stopped. I had run out of gas and was my face red. In fact my face was so red that when I came home my folks thought that I had acquired a tan but it was just that deep flush still on my face. I think every automobile horn in central Georgia began to toot for me to get out of the way and I had to use my battery to pull out of the way so that they could get by. I had to ask my passenger to go a block or two to a filling station to get some gas. All in all I was very much embarrassed.

On the way home we had a passenger, Reverend J. S. Cook, who took the place of our two Davidson elders. Our trip home was uneventful. Leaving Atlanta right after our lunch hour but before we had any lunch. We stopped at Gainesville, Georgia to fill up on milkshakes and there our passenger lost his hat. It was so hot and the milkshake was so delicious that our preacher friend just had to take off his hat to inhale it properly and then he forgot to pick it up when we left.

The only other disturbance was a flat tire but that happened in Charlotte right at a service station so it didn't bother at all.

We all landed at home in good shape and with only our friend Jackson bearing any scars from the trip. We easily recovered the lost hat.

willing to give us not only the land on which the camp is but the balance of the 80 odd acres in the entire tract. The Statesville Flour Mill and Mr. Wagner's trustee and the Paola Mills were willing to go along with this and give the property to the Orphanage fee simple. But the Cannon Company was not willing to go that far but was willing for a long time lease.

Statesville Cotton Mills was willing for a short time lease but not a long time lease. So there the matter stood for awhile and then The Statesville Cotton Mills was sold to the Burlington Mills and negotiations had to be started all over again. This time purely with the idea of a lease.

We wanted a longer lease than for the ten years that we worked on before to justify more adequate buildings at the camp.

It took some time to get the Burlington Mills to agree to this arrangement but they finally did. All parties seemed to agree on it and the matter was turned over to the Cannon Company lawyer to draw up the lease well in advance of the date of the expiration of the old lease. It was in January of this year when final arrangement were agreed upon. This was more than two months ahead of the date for the expiration of the old lease.

We thought everything was arranged for so went ahead and make arrangement for holding camp this summer and booked the camp up straight from the seventh of June through August.

Then as the time approached for the expiration of the lease we again contacted the Cannon Company lawyer and was told that there was nothing in the way of preparing the lease and that it would be finished in a few days. March passed along. Our lease expired and nothing was done and then April, May and now June and still no lease.

As a matter of practice we commence booking up the camp for the next year during the present series of camps. This means that Concord Presbytery wants to book up the camp now for corresponding dates next year.

We have to tell Concord Presbytery that the camp is no longer in our hands and that we cannot book it ahead. We really have no right to use it this year.

We feel it our duty to acquaint the many people who helped us build Camp Fellowship as to its status at the present time. Literally thousands of young people have enjoyed Camp Fellowship. It has been a delightful spot. As near perfect for our purpose as could be found anywhere. It is with regret that we have to give it up but apparently something is in the way of a renewal of the lease and we aren't even able to find out what it is that is holding it up. When a person says "no," that gives you a chance to argue with him but when he says "yes" but acts "no" then you can't do anything about it. The buildings at Camp Fellowship received no fresh coat of paint this spring. Even the sign board looks old and bedraggled. We could hardly ask the Board of Regents to authorize any expenditures on a camp that no longer belongs to us.

"There Is a Lad Here"

then by a miracle of His divine power kept on handing out loaves and fishes to the Disciples and they passed them on to the people until all were fed.

What a day to remember! The lad may have set out to go fishing or on a hike and took a little lunch with him, then he saw the crowd and joined it, then he heard the wonderful words, and when the food question came up he eagerly offered his lunch, only to see it blessed and multiplied until it fed thousands. What a day and what an experience!

Do things like that still happen? Yes, they do—at least spiritually. A little lad consecrated to the Lord may become a great missionary, a mighty preacher, a brave leader among men through whom multitudes may be blessed.

Possibly somebody reading these lines and the heading, "There is a Lad will say, "that means me"—I will be inspired to step out to do great things for God and humanity.

Farm Activities

The big crop at Barium Springs is alfalfa. The welfare of the farm, the dairy and incidentally the dining room depends largely on our success with the alfalfa crop.

Of course, we plant corn by the scores of acres, small grain: wheat, oats and barley. And of course, we have vegetables and fruit.

Alfalfa feeds our dairy herd it feeds the mules and then sometimes we have some for sale. We try to keep a hundred acres of alfalfa and usually a good stand lasts about six years before it needs to be cultivated for a few years and then put back into alfalfa.

Last year we didn't put up enough alfalfa and had to buy hay for the last six weeks of the winter and that does things to a bank account in a most frightful way.

All of this made us all the more eager to save every bit of alfalfa that we raised this year. Of course, we can't order the rain when we need it or can we stop it when we don't need it. We have to have pretty soaking rains immediately after cutting the alfalfa to get the new crop started. But rain during the hay making time is bad. Naturally we have to take our chances. Well we cut our alfalfa first in May. We were about 60 per cent successful in getting the crop in. Not too bad for a first cutting. The heavy rains that fell while we were curing it made the second cutting all the more abundant.

Then as luck would have it the rain came back on us just when we were cutting the second crop. One field of twenty acres was lost completely, one of ten acres was lost. One field of twenty acres was damaged. The balance of the crop was gotten up in good shape.

This was rather disappointing as we had hoped to make a complete success of harvesting the second crop. We have two more cuttings to look forward to and if we get these put up we will be all set for the coming year. We are somewhat like a baseball player at the bat with two strikes on him. We can't afford to miss another one.

Of course we have many acres in lespedeza and we fall back on that when the alfalfa crop fails for any reason. One of the hitches, however, is that the lespedeza hay making must be done during school days and it has to be baled. All of this calling for a lot of labor at a time when labor is scarce and as far as our home boys' are concerned practically non existent.

We hope to have the use of a pick up bailer during the fall months as this will enable us to put a lot of lespedeza hay with a minimum of labor. Visitors to Barium Springs do not often get to see anything of our farm activities. Our farm is a very interesting department. It has a lot to do with our living. Our milk, beef, pork, mutton, chickens, eggs, corn bread, bread and many other by products, are the things we get from our farm and dairy.

The truck farm and orchards are a different department and we depend on that department from day to day. This year we will just read about peaches however, but are counting strong on having a lot of personal contact with our apple crop. The apple crop gives promise of being a wonderful one.

The young husband wrote home from his new job, saying;

"Made foreman—feather in my cap."

A few weeks later he wrote again saying;

"Made manager—another feather in my cap." After some weeks he wrote again, saying:

"Fired—send money for train fare."

His wife unfeelingly telegraphed back:

"Use feathers and fly home."

Mother: "Where do bad little girls go?"

Daughter: "Most everywhere."

Jack: I got up at dawn to see the sun rise.

John: Well, you couldn't have picked a better time.

Most women would be more spic if they had less span.

Father: "Well son, what did you learn in school today?"

Son (proudly): "I learned to say 'Yes, sir,' and 'No, sir,' and 'Yes, ma'am,' and 'No, ma'am.'"

Father: "You did, eh?"

Son: "Yeah."

Angry Father: "What do you mean by bringing my daughter home at 4 o'clock in the morning?"

He: "Well, you see, sir, I have to be at work by seven."

The Johnstons Take Another Trip

By Jos. B. Johnston

Last year the Johnston family took a long vacation. They drove all the way to San Francisco and back and had fun every minute of the time. Then they had fun writing and talking about it - so much so that they had planned to repeat that performance this year, but many things have occurred to prevent such an extended vacation.

We had hoped for a week, but finally settled for three days. Here is the story.

On the morning of July 29th, Mrs. Johnston, her sisters, Mrs. Wilkinson and Mrs. Marion, and her nephew, Dr. Chalmers Davidson of Davidson College, and your humble servant set out to improve our minds and to enjoy a vacation.

We drove to Richmond, taking the back roads wherever we could, but for the greater part of the distance riding on number one highway with a most energetic company of buses, trucks and cars to keep us company. We landed in Richmond at 5:30 p. m. and were there joined by our daughter, Leila Johnston, who had arranged for our entertainment that night. A supper at the home of Reverend J. H. Marion, D. D. and a night in a tourist home was our main entertainment in Richmond. The supper was fine. The tourist home would have been fine but for the fact that it was on the main number one highway, Chamberlain Avenue, that passes through Richmond. Big trucks were passing about every fifteen seconds and they should not have disturbed anybody and would not have the second night, but the first night we imagined the Indians were coming, or the Russians or the Germans, or somebody because those trucks do sound ominous in the wee small hours of the night. However, Friday morning dawned clear and invigorating and we started out for Williamsburg, landing there in the early afternoon. We won't attempt to describe Williamsburg except to say that the whole business is unbelievable. That any man or group of people would attempt the virtual destruction of a modern town to restore it to its colonial appearance is something that it takes you some time to take in. A whole nation will continue to be grateful that this thing was done.

We took in the ancient capital of the state, the goalhouse, the Governor's palace, and many other buildings of interest. That night we took in "The Common Glory," a pageant written by Paul Green and staged in a setting somewhat similar to the one at Manteo, and it was a most entertaining and instructive performance with Thomas Jefferson being the central hero and most prominent character.

If any criticism could be voiced it might be that the pageant should have allowed a little more credit to the rest of the United States for the success of the Revolution; however, that criticism is not vital enough to start a quarrel or even an argument. The pageant was thoroughly enjoyed as was the night spent in a tourist home at quiet Williamsburg, with an emphasis on the quiet.

An early morning start Saturday took us through Newport News and across the big bridge over the James River and on down through Portsmouth and along the Dismal Swamp Canal to Elizabeth City, N. C. Then down the rest of the Dismal Swamp and the Outer Banks to Manteo where we arrived about four in the afternoon.

Accepts Call To Little Joe's Church

Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

The above is the picture of the Pastor-Elect of Little Joe's Presbyterian Church. The church has been without a pastor since Rev. F. B. Benton left in June 1947.

Rev. Mr. Sides grew up in our neighbor community, Loray, and was a member of Concord Presbyterian Church, the church which gave Concord Presbytery its name.

Mr. Sides is a graduate of Davidson College and Union Theological Seminary. During his summer vacations at the Seminary he supplied the Duncan's Creek Church in Kings Mountain Presbytery and was assistant in the First Presbyterian Church of Kannapolis, N. C.

For two years he has been pastor of the Benton Heights Presbyterian Church of Monroe and under his leadership the church made excellent progress.

Mr. Sides will come to Barium Springs on Sept. 1st and will be received into Concord Presbytery during the meeting of Synod the following week. His coming is eagerly awaited by the children and whole community at Barium Springs.

the sights we saw in connection with that rivaled in interest Kill Devil Hill and the Wright brothers monument which we also took in.

You know, the popular costume for houses along the beach are swimming togs. A pair of shorts for a man and a two piece suit along the same lines for the girls. A rather attractive get-up when youth and symmetry are combined with this costume, but a little bit startling and sometimes alarming when worn by the more aged and less shapely members of both sexes. A mattress of hair down the front does not add to the glamour of an aging male, nor do the curves of an aging female when they get in the wrong places cause very much pleasurable excitement when displayed in these beach costumes.

At one of the places where we stopped the hostess of the motor court wore a most daring costume which did not fit too well with her surely sixty years and possible 150 pound weight. The women in our party were a little bit alarmed as she was very active and seemed to put more dependence on one large safety pin than prudence would dictate. They were just afraid that in her hurry and zeal to show us the delights of her cabin that a major tragedy might occur, and they all heaved a sigh of relief when we decided to go further in our search for quarters for the night.

On down to Manteo where we arrived about four in the afternoon.

Lottie Walker Building Gets A Dressing Up

Good things are always happening to Barium Springs. This time Lottie Walker Building has been the recipient of such lovely gifts to make our rooms more attractive and our girls very happy.

Some months ago, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Robinson of Fayetteville, redecorated the Pearl Green room. Such lovely bed-spreads, scatter-rugs, lamp, curtains and dresser-scarfs. The girls who occupy this room are so proud of their room, they want to sleep on the floor, rather than to "muss" their lovely beds.

Now the Lincolnton Auxiliary has really made us happy, with a gift of beautiful rugs, lamp, curtains, bed-spreads, scarfs and material for a dressing-table. Also, a subscription to girls magazine and a generous check to be used at our discretion.

And last, but not least, North Wilkesboro Auxiliary has given to the senior girls, something we have longed for, but was in doubt if we would ever possess - a beautiful lace tea cloth. Also, a crystal bowl and matching candle sticks. The seniors are so excited about this, they can scarcely wait for their first party which will be on the 27th of Aug. This is a reception for the teachers.

Want to see something pretty? Then come take a look. We believe that you will go home inspired to fix up a room so that all of our girls will have a room with that "new look."

We are so grateful to all of these kind friends, and wish to say "thank you."

The Message of the Pulpit

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Isaiah 37:3. And he said unto me, Son of man, can these bones live? And I answered, O Lord God, thou knowest.

THE MIRACLE OF PREACHING

Again today we are considering the calling of a pastor for Little Joe's Presbyterian Church. On a similar occasion we spoke on the Minister's Message, dealing somewhat with the content of the Message of the Minister. Today we would speak more in particular as to effect which, under God, may be confidently expected from the faithful preaching of the word of God.

We find our message in the vision of Ezekiel of the valley of Dry Bones. Note this is a vision. It is not related in the Bible as an historical event, but it was given to Ezekiel to see this vision with its spiritual meaning. Perhaps Ezekiel had seen some time such a valley where two armies had met and fought and the whitening bones of the slain still were there glistening in the sun. The prophet was to prophecy, which means to speak for God, unto these bones. And when he does, the miraculous begins to happen; a noise and a shaking, and the bones came together bone to his bone. The frame work of bodies became evident; sinews muscles form; skin covers them; and there they were, bodies but no life. Again the prophet was directed to speak to the wind, and the breath of God came upon them, and they stood up, an exceeding great army.

Barium Child Victim of Polio

Herbert Gerald McArthur

On the morning of July 16th death visited our family and took little Jerry McArthur. The doctors pronounced his illness to be poliomyelitis, the first case that we have experienced in the fifty-seven years of our history.

Apparently, institutions like ours are practically immune to this dread disease, but not completely so, and Jerry's passing was indeed tragic.

He had been in the hospital about a day and a half. His early symptoms seemed to point more to meningitis than to polio, and he was responding to treatment and showed mark improvement, but early on the morning of the 16th he developed symptoms that pointed to polio and in a very short time a complete paralysis of his heart and lungs set in and the little fellow quietly passed away.

Jerry, who was eight years old when he died, had been a member of the Barium family for a little more than three years. He came from Carthage, N. C., and has an older and a younger brother at Barium. He was a universal favorite.

Shortly after coming to Barium he had to have a rather serious operation on his eyes. It was painful and necessitated his eyes being bandaged for four days - a rather trying ordeal for a young man his age. He was such a good soldier and cooperated so thoroughly with the doctors and nurses that his operation was a complete success, and Jerry's smile for everybody increased just in proportion as that operation was successful. He thought everybody was good and especially good to him, and he was eager to do favors for anyone when he could.

Jerry's body was taken to Carthage and he was buried there late

Barium School Opens August 26

As this is written, the school buildings are being readied, schedules made, and other preparations are under way, for the opening of school Thursday morning, August 26th. It is hoped that the new pastor, Rev. C. H. Sides can be present on that day to take part in the first assembly program of the school year. Strange as it may seem, most of the children seem to be anxious for school to open. Let us hope that this enthusiasm lasts throughout the year.

The faculty, which has had very few changes from last year is as follows: Miss Theoria Straughn, first grade; Mrs. R. E. Jackins, second grade; Miss Edmonia Blakey, third grade; Miss Cora Westbrook, fourth grade; Miss Sadie Brandon, fifth grade; Miss Ernestine Cullom, sixth grade; Miss Faye Stevenson, seventh grade; Mrs. Lee Spencer, public school music; Miss Margaret Ritchie, piano; Miss Ruth Troutman, French and English; Miss Reba Thompson, English and history; Miss Irene McDade mathematics; Miss Cloyce Moose, home economics and science; Mr. A. M. Calhoun, Bible and Physical education; and Mr. Wm. A. Hethcox, principal.

Two badly needed items of repairs and improvement that have been made this summer are a new roof on the elementary building, and rubber tile floor covering in the high school library.

Look

Yes that is just what we mean. Come and take a look at our two new rooms. One a reading room and the other a music room. Where did we get the new things for these two rooms? You will look twice and still won't believe us when we tell you that those beautiful dark red and green striped covered chairs and couch were about to see their last days when Mrs. Bryant saw them and they were rushed to a furniture hospital to be repaired and covered. Those green flowered drapes look new don't they? Well don't faint when we tell you, but they are about two years old and Mrs. Smith did a beautiful job making them over for us. The only new things you will find in this room are those three green throw rugs.

How do you like our reading room? Those green chairs we painted look pretty with those brown card tables don't they, but if you want to get more comfortable just sit down on that nice couch over by the wall and read your book. If you look at the windows you'll see a pair of made over curtains like those in the music room. There is nothing new in this room, just old furniture fixed over and painted, but you wouldn't know it if you weren't told.

News From Some of the Cottages

INFIRMARY

We have been falling down on our job of writing news each month. Therefore we should have lots to talk about. Whether we do all depends on the working of brains.

It's time for school to open. We're all happy over the fact but just wait until a month or so.

Louise Campbell and Kathleen Monroe seem to have something up their sleeves. They play cards three fourths of the time and they are always anxious to learn new games. Could all this be preparing for their "Old Maid" stage? What about that Kathleen and Louise? We also think Kathleen is going to be a "Professional Cheater." What do you think Mrs. Finley?

Elmina seems to be a little happier than usual. Is a flee biting you or is it that a Lentz boy has hit the campus?

It has been a little lonesome here for awhile. Glad to have Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Hethcox back to keep us company.

We all had nice vacation. I wish Elmina and Kathleen would stop talking about Washington, D. C. They saw a lot, heard a lot and learned a lot. Elsie went to Kanapolis and Asheville. Louise spent her vacation at Salisbury. We all had a wonderful time.

We certainly did miss going to camp this year, but of course we understand the circumstances.

We are proud to say we have had few patients this month.

We are very sorry to lose two of our "little sisters," Betty Ann and Shirley. We hope they will get along fine and be happy at Rumples Hall.

Our upstairs floors have been sanded and do they look good! I should say so. We thank all you good people who were responsible.

— Bye, Bye,
Elsie Vest

SEWING ROOM

Guess we'll cut off our machines just long enough to get you in on all the gossip.

We have been kept quite busy lately making school clothes, along with the excitement of football practice and the grand opening of school next Thursday. Gee, we can hardly wait.

During the month of July many nice things have happened to us. While Mrs. Smith had a short vacation, our floors were sanded and finished. How we do love them! You even have to wipe your shoes off before you enter, then you remove them after you are inside the door.

Mrs. Smith had us down in the big city for a real nice dinner. We never have eaten as much! Afterwards, we went skating and bowling. Also our evening was completed with a watermelon cutting. It was more fun.

The gossip? Here it comes!

What's the song we hear every morning, Orine? Could it be "King Size Papa" or "Maybe you'll be there." Maybe Ernie will be. Who knows.

Its good we're on second floor, now Margaret can see him anywhere on the campus. I wonder why she insists on going to football practice twice a day.

The rest of us, well, let's save it for next month. There will be plenty then, with school and football in full swing. So Long.

— Helen Vinson

PRINTING OFFICE

The printing office is back on the job after a vacation of about two weeks.

We have two new boys on our crew. They are Dean Cottontop Upton and Frankie Ladies' man Lentz. Both of these plus Charlie Printers Devil McArthur are doing a good job of keeping the printing office clean.

Jimmy Henry Lee Van Ty Williams is helping downstairs in the shoe shop and upstairs with the printing too.

Mr. D. D. Mitchell is the third bossman on this big printing crew, he is also holding the honor for the printing shop on the football field.

Dwight Setting Pretty Reid is helping Mr. Twombly run the mailer so we all know everyone will get a Messenger.

Well good people we didn't have much to say this time but maybe we'll have more next time. Thanks for reading.

The Message of the

Valley of Dry Bones. Mankind without the renewing power of the Holy Spirit, without the life that comes from this divine presence, is dead in trespasses and in sins. Take the world of society at large; how evil it is; how indifferent to God, to his word, his work his day; spending more on tobacco than for the spread of his Kingdom; more on liquor that damns and destroys, than on the gospel that gives unto man eternal life. And in many a church where he is preached, and where there is a form of faith, old creeds, old practices, old formulas like inarticulate, dry, scattered bones clutter up the landscape, but life seems to be extinct. I was invited some years ago to a town to preach. I went to this old, historic church. There was a musty smell over all; the light could barely filter through the stain glass windows. Here and there through out the large auditorium was the stiffly upright figures, looking somewhat disinterestedly at the pigmy in the pulpit that was me. Into the consciousness of my sickening loneliness a voice said, "Son of man can these bones live?" And in my bewilderment I could only say "O Lord thou knowest."

The Living Prophet

A prophet is a preacher. He is a man who speaks for God. This prophet's name was Ezekiel which means God strengthens. Ezekiel was prepared for his miracle work as a prophet by having a vision of God, and in that vision of God he was made to eat the scroll on which the word of God was written. Yes Gods word must become a very part of the prophet himself, bone of his bone, and flesh of his flesh, if it is to prevail in his life.

Notice too the faith of Ezekiel. He had faith to believe in God and his power, a faith that was translated into works. He believed God so much that he obeyed his voice. So when God said, 'preach to dead souls,' he did it. God still does the same thing. He led the Apostle Peter to speak to the throng on Pentecost and to address the group in the home of Cornelius. He said to Philip go talk to the Eunuch; and to Jonah, go to Ninevah and preach; and to Isaiah, "who will go for us and whom shall we send "

He preached the message God gave him. I suppose no two prophets have exactly the same message but every one of them has a lesson for us. This prophet's message to the dry bones was a message of life and of knowledge. "Ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the Lord." Yes the miracle of preaching has to do with life from the dead. With man it is impossible but not with God. It has to do with the finite, to a degree, comprehending the infinite; the creature coming to know the creator; man seeing God. Who is sufficient for these things? No mortal man. Hence I speak of the miracle of preaching that from the heart of a human personality there should come a voice that moved upon dry bones to bring them back to symmetry and order and beauty.

But there was still no life in those inert bodies. The final miracle must be wrought by the Holy Spirit. The message is one of life but in the preaching itself there is no life giving power. So the Apostles were told to tarry for the power of God. Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you. So there was no life in these bodies till he prophesied to the wind; that is prayed for the power of the Holy Spirit. Reformmation is wonderful. The social upheavels that have come from the proclamation of the Christian ideals holds promise of freedom and democracy for the world. But those things are not life giving. The church as never before needs to tarry and pray that the Holy Spirit in all his regenerative power may come that in America and Europe, India and China and Japan and Africa the teeming millions of the spiritually dead may stand on their feet an exceeding great army.

I am sure we think too much of the voice and the gesture and the sermon content and neglect to pray for the power of the Holy Spirit. Perhaps it was ever so. In preparing for this sermon I consulted Dr. J. H. Jowett who delivered the Yale lectures on preaching in 1912. He spoke on the perils of the preacher; the minister in his study; his pulpit. But not a word about the Holy Spirit. I turn to the Sacred Rhetoric or lectures on preaching by Dr. Dabney at Union Theological Seminary in 1870. He lectures on the parts of sermon; rules of argument, arts of persuasion; but not a word about the Spirit.

The great book on Homiletics by Dr. Wm. G. T. Shedd, which was first published in 1867 and went through ten editions, takes up style; the text; plan of sermon; but not a word about the Holy Spirit. I turn to the great James Stalker of Glasgow, Scotland, in his lectures on preaching he speaks of the minister as a man of God; a man of the word; a patriot; a man; a christian; a thinker; but the Holy Spirit's power is not referred to. Even old Richard Baxter in his Reformed Pastor, talks of oversight of the flock; oversight of ourselves; personal instruction; but the necessity of the power of the Spirit; our total failure without him, is never alluded to. Turn to the 11th of Acts. There was a great revival in Antioch under the preaching of Barnabas much people were added unto the church. No, unto the Lord, why Because it could be said of Barnabas; "For he was a good man, full of the Holy Ghost and of faith."

"Come Holy Spirit, heavenly dove,
With all thy quickning powers;
Kindle a flame of Sacred love
In these cold hearts of ours."

There is nothing in this miracle of preaching to give pride to the preacher, rather humility, the preaching of cross is to them that perish foolishness.

Yes, when Gods word is preached in its faithfulness, accompanied by the power of the Holy Spirit, Pentecost will come again and miracles of salvation will be wrought.

very nice rooms in a tourist home with one drawback. There were six in our party; there were five in another party and there were three members of the household that we know of - there was one bathroom. No difficulties arose in the afternoon. We got our tickets to the performance at Fort Raleigh and rested awhile and then took in the pageant. It was even better than it was two years ago the first time

We came back to the tourist home and managed to get bedded down very nicely and arranged our schedule for the bathroom the next morning so that we could get away about eight o'clock. That would allow, by starting our getting up at seven o'clock, ten minutes per person and have everybody up by eight, but we had not counted on other members of the family.

I thought I would be smart and start things off at six o'clock, so I slipped out and tiptoed to the bathroom and bumped into a member of another party that had the same idea. We played Gaston and Alphonse in reverse for awhile with my finally giving up my priority because his party wanted to get away early. Three times after that I darted out to the bathroom and each time bumped into another member of this party - all female and all embarrassed and certainly not dressed for the street. I finally retired to the bedroom and read a story in a magazine - almost took a nap - and started our schedule at seven o'clock and managed to get everybody dressed and in their right mind and ready to travel by eight.

Sunday morning, and on our way home. Back up the Banks, speeding up just a little bit when we passed the motor court which we had investigated the day before, on across the Dismal Swamp, through Elizabeth City and on to Edenton for church. The trouble with the Edenton churches is that they are antiques, most of them, and several seemed to be closed for the summer. We worshipped with the Methodist congregation, heard a splendid sermon, joined in their communion, and left in time to have mid-day lunch at Williams-ton. On through the afternoon with supper at Asheboro and home by ten o'clock. Four hundred and eighteen miles on that last day and some of it through rain, but a delightful trip altogether.

The lights of Barium Springs always look good, but when you have been away for a few days they seem to carry an extra greeting and welcome, and the way we slept in our own beds with our own bathroom arrangements is a joy to think about. Maybe the very nicest thing about any sort of vacation is getting back home.

Receipts First Four Months Not So Good

For several years now we have not burdened the columns of the Messenger with financial matters. The support was coming in satisfactorily, so we published the results and gave thanks. We felt if we cried "wolf" when there was no wolf we might not be heeded when we needed help. That time has come, as the following table will indicate.

The combination of the polio epidemic which has depleted our Sunday Schools, and the decreased percentage to the orphanage cause allotted by most of the Presbyteries, has considerable decreased our benevolence income at a time when living costs have reached an all time high.

We give great honor and praise to Kings Mountain and Winston-Salem Presbyteries which still show a plus sign. May their tribe increase!

The receipts from benevolent gifts of Churches, Sunday Schools and Auxiliaries for April through July 1948 are as follows:

	THROUGH JULY 31, '47	THROUGH JULY 31, '48

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., SEPTEMBER 1948

No. 11

Barium's Single Wing In Action

Barium Springs has been accused many times of starting football practice in the Baby Cottage. The picture on this page would seem to bear out this idea.

It is true that whatever the big boys do the little ones try to do, and from the expressions on the faces of these Baby Cottage lads they are destined to become football heroes at Barium sometime in the future. Look out for them. As a matter of fact, at least three of the present Barium varsity started their lives at Barium at about the age of these young hopefuls.

As this article is written Barium has played two games. First with Albemarle on the night of the 13th. This happened to be two days before the Albemarle schools opened, but the team had been practicing for about a month and the two teams were well matched. They showed excellent training. Our recollection is that there were only two fumbles in the entire game and both of them were recovered by the team that did the fumbling. The ball handling was good, and both teams played with the dash and speed that you would expect from later season games. There were times when it appeared that Barium could not stop either Albemarle's running attack or its passing attack, but at no time did this drive continue too far, that is except in one instance and that time Albemarle completed a pass so easily for a touchdown that the wonder was that they did not do more just like that. All of our boys performed well. Little Pinky Hilliard in his first varsity game did exceptionally well - he scored both touchdowns. Paul Barnes was responsible for the safety that added two points to our score. Altogether, it was a good starter and the Albemarle folks stated that it was the biggest crowd they had had for a ball game up to that time. The Albemarle people treated our team and our spectators so cordially that it was just like a homecoming event. They welcomed us back on their schedule so cordially that you might think they let us win that game just to show their pleasure at playing us again. The boys, however, have a different idea.

On Friday night we went to Monroe. Monroe had previously beaten a strong Wadesboro team and they were considered the favorites in that game, but our boys after a rather slow start commenced to click and they ran up six touchdowns before they stopped. Practically everybody who went along in uniform played. There were a few minor accidents that looked bad but turned out to be not too bad. Mason Traywick came out of the game once with a finger so crooked that it pointed every way but the right way; it snapped back into position, however, and Mason got back into the game. Paul Barnes in trying to kick goal kicked the cleats out of a Monroe boy's foot instead and made a very painful bruise on the top of his foot. The Monroe field is new and rather rough. It required a good deal of meurochrome to clear up some of the abrasions, but the team came back home delighted with the treatment that they received at the hands of the Monroe school which included a splendid meal afterwards, and were of course delighted with the score 36-0. By the way, the Albemarle school provided a splendid supper for our team after the game there. On both of these occasions our boys made the trip home on a full stomach and a satisfied mind - a very pleasant experience.

Before you read these lines we will have played Mooresville and China Grove. We will tell you about those games next month.

FRIENDSHIP

by
JAMES W. DAVIS, M. D.
Statesville, N. C.

Editor's Note:- The following article on friendship is from the pen of a man who has certainly practiced the principals expressed in this article through many years. Barium Springs health program and the health of its children has been immeasurably helped by the good deeds of this man and his institution. Surely Barium Springs has no better friend than this man.

What is a Friend? We often speak the word lightly, not realizing how much it means. Few words in our language are so misunderstood, so wrongly defined, and so inappropriately used as the word "friendship."

A friend is one who needs us and one whom we need. Around us may be many whose companionship we enjoy, but were they to suddenly drop out of their places there would be no soreness, no sense of deprivation, no lack of comfort. We do not need them, neither do they need us.

A friend is one to whom we cling, though many leagues of space separate us. Though days pass with no sight of his face or word from him, we know our friend loves us and that when we meet again we will be on the same old terms: we will begin where we left off.

A friend is one in whom we can confide. The worst characters of our race will not touch on the name of a friend. They imagine their hands are numbered by scores, and they would fall into the arms of a friend as a man falls into the arms of a common humanity.

What makes good friends? The answer is found in these words:

"The soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and he loved him as his own soul." The tie that binds hearts together in such fashion cannot be described to others; but it is a real force, nevertheless. It can come from only one motive, Love.

A friend is one who is for you always, under all circumstances. He never investigates you. When charges are made against you, he does not ask proof—he asks the accuser to clear out. He likes you just as you are; he does not want to change you. If all the world is against you he is still your friend.

Whatever kind of coat you are wearing suits him. Whether you have on a dress suit or a hickory shirt with no collar, he thinks it's fine. He likes your moods, and enjoys your pessimism as much as your optimism. He likes your success; and your failures endear you to him the more. He wants nothing from you except that you be yourself. Although you may sometimes seem to neglect him and forget him, he ignores the slight. Nothing can cause his faith in you to waiver.

He keeps alive your faith in human nature. It is he who makes you believe it is a good universe. When you are vigorous and spirited, you like to take your pleasures with him; when you are in trouble, you want to tell him about it; when you are ill, you want him near. You live to him without reluctance, and borrow from him without embarrassment. He is the elixir of life, the antidote for despair, the tonic for depression. The poison heathen doctor's drugs are weak. He is your friend.

The Message of the Month

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

THE BIBLE AND TODAY'S NEED

There is no question but that one of the most urgent needs today is the individual's need for some certainty, some anchor for living in days such as these. For it is surely true that much of the fear and anxiety abroad in the world is a basic uncertainty as to what tomorrow may hold. The Bible, God's Word, is one of the undeniable certainties of life. It is eternal, it has stood and will stand throughout all ages.

Regardless of all attempts to discredit it in modern days, the Word of God stands unmoved, bearing inward witness to its truth, and showing forth its fruits in the changed lives of men and women down through the centuries who have given heed to that truth. And those who would doubt or question the Bible fall into the oblivion which is their due, but the Bible's "thus saith the Lord" remains a vital message for this as for every age.

The world of the Roman Empire was in many ways a replica of our world today. The Apostle Paul in writing to the young man Timothy gave very pertinent advice concerning the way in which the Bible should be used to meet the need. And the need was not that Timothy should be content to the mood of a man, but that he cling to that Word of God which was his heritage. "Continue thou in the things which thou hast learned," he said. The message that for him to hold fast to God's Word as it had been taught to him. For Paul knew, and he would say to us today, that the Bible is a certainty of life to which men may ever cling.

Why was this his advice? He goes on to tell us, because the Holy Scriptures "are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." And there is the purpose of the Bible, of all God's revelation, that men may come to a saving faith in Jesus Christ. That is the message to which men are to cling in times such as these, says Paul. But he doesn't stop there, he goes on to point out a further reason for clinging to the Bible. That reason is its authorship, and its author is none other than God Himself. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God." Thus in message and authorship the Bible reveals itself to be one of life's basic certainties for such uncertain times as these.

We have no reason to doubt the truth of this, but the tragedy of it is that about the world today there is a widespread neglect of the Bible. In the homes it is becoming a dust-catcher and young people are growing up in ignorance of its truth. Time and time again it has been demonstrated that there is an almost universal and alarming ignorance of the Bible. Some time ago a professor in Northwestern University gave a shrewd test of nine questions about the Bible to one hundred students. He asked such questions as these: What is the Pentateuch? Is the book of Genesis in the Old or New Testament? Name one of the Gospels. Out of the six papers returned he had eight who had answered all correctly. One half could not locate the book of Jude. Matthew, Luke, and John were given as prophets. One student says that the Pentateuch was the same as the Gospel. (Continued On Page Three) and most difficult undertakings. Friendship depends not upon fancy, imagination or sentiment, but upon character. There is no man so poor that he is not rich if he have a friend; there is no man so rich that he is not poor without a friend. But friendship is a word made to cover many kindly, impermanent relationships. Real friendship is abiding. Like charity, it suffereth long and is kind. Like love, it vaunteth not itself, but pursues the even tenor of its way, unaffrightened by ill-report, loyal in adversity, the solvent of infelicity, the shining jewel of happy days. Friendship has not the iridescent joys of love, though it is closer than is often known to the highest, truest love. Its heights are ever serene, its valleys know few clouds. To aspire to friendship one must cultivate a capacity for faithful affection, a beautiful disinterestedness, a clear discernment. Friendship is a gift, but it is also an acquirement. It is like the rope with which climbers in the high mountains bind themselves for safety, and only a coward cuts the rope when a comrade is in danger. From Cicero to Emerson, and long before Cicero, and forever after Emerson the praises of friendship have been set forth. Even fragments of friendship are precious and to be treasured. But to have a whole, real friend is the greatest of earth gifts save one. To be a whole, real friend is worthy high endeavor, for faith, truth, courage and loyalty bring one close to the Kingdom of Heaven.

When a navigator plans to make a certain port, he must first place a "point of departure" on his chart. This is most important. For this is where he makes his start. If his reckoning is wrong here, his ship may not reach the haven where he would be.

Every day, it is true, does not show us a desired or destined port ahead. We often aimlessly touch at many ports of call. And often we must take but one step at a time. "Give us this day our daily bread," Jesus said. One thing, one day, at a time. If we are not to get off our course, however—if we are not to be carried away by sudden winds of moods and habits and chances—we need to start our day from a fixed point of departure.

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered, And nobody helped us along, If each, every minute, looked after himself, And the good things all went to the strong; If nobody cared just a little for you, And nobody thought about me; And we stood all alone in the battle of life; What a dreary old world it would be. Life is sweet just because of the friends we have made, And the things which in common we share, We want to live on, not because of ourselves, But because of the people who care; It's giving and doing for somebody else— On that all life's splendor depends; And the joy of the world, when it's all added up, Is found in the making of friends.

Well, here is one way: Take two minutes off. Remember some person whom you reverence and admire. Think of someone near you, someone you care for, someone who cares for you. Think how that person feels toward you and what he would have you be. See if such a start does not help you see the day's duties in a truer perspective and aid you in meeting problems patiently, people with more understanding, interruptions graciously, and new tasks with enthusiasm. For it is relationships that make us over, and such is the power which a friend can give us.

The Spanish say of friendship: To keep with the good is to be one of them; to go with the bad is to soon be one of them.

The Germans have a saying, more beautiful in their own language than in ours: "Mit dem hut in der hand geht man durch das ganze land," which with us is, "With politeness, or with his hat in his hand, man succeeds in any country." The English have a crystallized saying by Carlisle, that success in life in anything depends upon the number of persons that one can make himself agreeable to.

All these are only the fringes of friendship; a very reasonable friendship may exist between persons in many things the opposite of each other. A man may love his dog; a horse may follow his master; a white child may be greatly attached to an old colored nurse, and all these have in them many elements of friendship.

Shakespeare has given us an instructive instance in the case of Timon of Athens, who was a rich lord, had plenty of friends while his money lasted, who made lavish and costly banquets, with splendid dinners, and gave away plenty of money to men in turn, played upon his credulity. If one chanced to give him a cane, he would pay back the gift with a carriage. If one sent him a dog, he would repay it with a horse. If one dedicated a book to his memory he would buy up the whole edition.

But his means soon came to an end, and when his money ran out his head servant was sent out to borrow a little of his former friends. This was a sharp test of their friendship. (Continued On Page Three)

friendship. His friend "A" said, "I'm very sorry, but my present wants are enough to use up quite all the money I can raise." His friend "B" said, "Well, I thought so much. Timon has been living too fast." His friend "C" said, "It has come at last; just as I expected; he was too prodigal of his money." When Timon heard of it he felt greatly hurt; he called his servants together and made a great feast, and invited everybody, including his friends.

As they came in one by one they spoke something like this: "We are glad to dine with our genial friend again; we knew it was a joke; we knew our old friend Timon was well-to-do." Timon remained silent. At a given signal the covers were raised, and only hot water was seen in every dish. "Now," said Timon, "Begone, begone, you false friends; flee out of my sight instantly," and he drove them away. He took to the woods, and lived like a hermit with his dogs. War came on, and Timon, who had been valiant in battle, was needed in Athens, but he would not go back. One day he found a vast deposit of gold and silver, and became very rich again, but even then he would not return, though he could have returned in great splendor and been a ruler and prince in Athens; but he refused saying, "I will not return, for what is money without friendship?"

Let us linger a moment on the theme that comes so close to our homes and our lives; let us hurry not away from it, but go from it thoughtfully. The Chinese have a saying when parting from their friends: "Go away slowly when you must go—go away slowly." The Japanese say, when they separate, "If it must be so." The Germans. "auf wiedersehen," till we meet again; and Confucius, the great Chinese teacher, said, "The archer who misses the target, turns to himself and not to another for the cause of his failure." So with our friends, and our friendly relations—the only possible failure, if failure it be, to win their respect must fall upon ourselves.

Perhaps the most beautiful story of friendship of all was the story of Damon and Pythias. You remember it is in poem form but to shorten it and get the meaning of it, the tyrant first says to Damon, "What means this disguise, and the dagger that gleams in thy breast?" To which Damon answers, "Twas to free this dear land from its chains. 'Free the land, wretched fool; thou shalt die for thy pains.'"

I am ready to die—I ask not to live

Yet three days of respite, perhaps, thou wouldst give,
For tomorrow my sister will wed;
And 'twould damp all her joy were her brother not there.
Then let me, I pray thee, to her nuptials repair,
While a friend remains here in my stead.
Then to Pythias he went and told him his case;
That true friend answered not, but with instant embrace
Hurried forth to be bound in his stead.

You remember on his return three days later, how he met the floods and robbers, and battled his way back, and at last arriving in sight of the scaffold, the poem concludes:

"When, hark! what a sound is muttered around, Saying, hold! it is I, it is Damon, for whom he was bound."

How the King for once felt himself as he ought and commanded that both to his side might be brought. How the King forgave them both on condition that they would make him one of their friends.

You remember another instance of friendship. It is old, it is rare, it is beautiful; it is the little story in the Bible of Ruth, the gleaner, who, when asked by her mother to remain at home while she went out into another country to get grain, the dutiful girl said, "Entreat me not to leave thee, or return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, thy God shall be my God. Where thou livest, I will live. Where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried."

And so in friendship we must stand together, like Damon and Pythias, to the end of life, and not to the end of fortune.

As a man advances in years he is more likely to appreciate his friends. "Is there anything in the world that can take the place of friendship?" asks somebody. "Just knowing that people like you and enjoy your company and want to do things for you, gives you a satisfaction which success or wealth alone can never bring. There is no substitute for friendship. You cannot buy it. It is not for sale. A man may achieve high position, his earnings may be large, but if he has no friends, he has missed one of the finest things in life. In his heart, he is a poor and lonely man." All about you are interesting people, either in your own profession or business, or in entirely different lines. Study them. Most likely you will soon find a number with qualities that you like. Cultivate such people. It pays. Your life will be richer in many ways.

Dr. Johnston often said: "Keep your friendship in constant repair." Many of our old friends are passing on; unless we make new friends to take their places we will eventually find ourselves friendless. "Here's to the hand of friendship, Sincere, twice-tried and true, That smiles in the hour of triumph And laughs at its joy with you, Yet stands in the night of sorrow Close by when the shadows fall, And never turns the picture Of an old friend to the wall."

The Message of the

Admitting then that literal knowledge does not always show a deep understanding of the Bible, there is still an appalling lack of familiarity with the Bible today.

Yet with the evidence of this ignorance, the truth still stands that only the Word of God is able to arm men with a faith by which they can live in days such as these. As the Psalmist said so long ago, it is he "whose delight is the Law of the Lord who shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in season, his leaf also shall not wither, and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

Our Confession of Faith in speaking of the Holy Scriptures, says, "All of these are given by inspiration of God, to be the rule of faith and life." The Bible then gives us the only sure faith in an age that is beset by the various ideologies and "isms" that only confuse, but do not point the way. To a confused world, to a disillusioned world which is groping around in its chaos and hopelessness, the Bible's message of faith in God is the one sure anchor for our souls.

Too long has man trusted in the material things that do not satisfy, in the things that are temporal and all too soon will pass away. Too long has he tried to live within himself in the false assurance of his own self sufficiency. The Bible reproves and corrects that error in revealing the timeless truth that faith in God is the way of salvation, the way of abundant life here and eternal life hereafter.

God's Word too has a message to deliver on godly living in the realm of daily life. Faith must show itself in deeds of righteousness or it reveals itself to be no faith at all. The man who takes that Word as his anchor is committed to a life that seeks ever to follow the teachings of the Master. The Master who said so searchingly, "Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." There is no halfway point to following Christ, either we walk with Him all the way or we walk with Him not at all. Faith and life are one. God's Word alone can be the rule of both.

The Bible is our great heritage, given to us by God Himself who is its author. However uncertain life may seem, whatever changes the future may bring, the Bible has stood and will stand in its ability to meet the need of the world in every age.

HOWARD COTTAGE

School has started and everybody seems to like it. The six grade has a new teacher. Her name is Miss Jean Murphy. We all like her very much.

We have had only one new girl this year and she came in after school started. Her name is Almo Wright and that makes 21 girls in our cottage.

The sewing room matron and some of the high school girls made us some beautiful school dresses. Miss Andrews brought us a new record player last week and we like it so much we play it nearly every night.

Linda Inman's daddy came Sunday and brought her a new watch

Barium Springs at the Crossroads—
 A Little Financial History

They say that history repeats itself. Those of us who have made a study of the finances at Barium Springs are ready to admit the truth of that statement. Let's illustrate: back in the '20s Barium Springs was fairly prosperous. The Orphanage had taken on a lot of new obligations, new buildings had been erected, the population had increased, and it took much more money to operate, but the Church responded nobly, and during the early '20s we were able to go to Synod every year with a statement that all bills were paid and income was sufficient to take care of all of our expenses.

We rather gloried in that condition and maybe bragged on it too much. At the same time that we made our reports to Synod some of the other causes were making their reports and they were not so encouraging. One department of the Synod's work was woefully behind in its finances. Someone came up with the idea that, since Synod owned the Orphanage and these other causes too, they could vote money out of the Orphanage treasury to support the other causes, and by a simple vote this was done.

It was so easy that this was repeated the next year and the next and then another enterprise in which the Synod was interested, one of the Church papers, was in financial difficulties so a sum was voted out of the Orphanage treasury to help that. This continued until the depression was on us and we found ourselves with no surplus and with a fast diminishing income. We went through the depression trying to limp through and do the job that we were called upon to do in those distressing times. In spite of all of our efforts to curtail, we found ourselves tremendously in debt - so much so that the entire Synod was much disturbed about it.

Finally it was decided that the only way to remedy that condition was to raise the money to put Barium Springs back in the black. Albemarle Presbytery was the first one to start out with a plan. It worked so well that the plan was adopted all over the Synod, and as a result additional money was raised, Barium's debt was paid, and she has been kept in the black in spite of the tremendously increased cost of living during the last few years.

Barium's costs have increased - just doubled what it was nine years ago. It is hardly necessary to explain why this is true. Anyone who has maintained a family, who has bought clothes, who has bought food, or who has had to hire anybody to do anything knows that wages and prices have doubled in this period of time.

In addition to that we have had most stringent regulations to work under and have to do things in a different and sometimes more expensive way than we used to. Up to now, however, Synod has contributed enough money to keep us going with a small surplus at the end of the year. During the last year the difference between income and outgo was dangerously small - a very slight change and we would have ended up with a deficit.

We are looking forward to the coming Thanksgiving to help things. We enter this Thanksgiving season already behind. During the summer most of the Sunday Schools in the State were closed on account of the polio epidemic and the ban placed on public gatherings of children. This has meant a decided decrease in income during the summer. Sunday School collections have always been a real part of our living.

Now, as we prepare for the Thanksgiving Offering what do we find? Well, we find in nearly every Presbytery a feeling that we are getting too much money, that we are getting more than we need, that we are impoverishing the other causes by taking more than our share, that we are wasteful and are spoiling the children who are here to be cared for. Some of the Presbyteries are taking active steps to curtail the giving of the people.

In one Presbytery it has been ordered that all special gifts shall be credited against our percentage, with the exception of the Thanksgiving Offering. Now, it is recognized that the budget set up in the various benevolence arrangements in the Church does not pay half of our expenses. We have to live on the special gifts that come to us and the Thanksgiving Offering. When these special gifts are credited against the budget it means a very definite decrease in our income.

In two other Presbyteries we find our percentage cut down more than half. Where just a year or two ago it was 7½ percent in these two Presbyteries it is now 3 percent in one and 3½ percent in another.

In addition to that, money is taken out of this 3½ percent to pay for some other expenses in the Presbytery. We find in other places plans to use the Thanksgiving Offering for other causes than Barium. This Thanksgiving Offering is as old as the Orphanage. It is really our main source of support. If that is eliminated the work at Barium will certainly suffer, and when that does it will not be long until our Church will not be proud of Barium Springs - they will be ashamed of it. This idea of using Thanksgiving to raise the budget for the other causes or to divide it with any other cause is a step toward the eventual death of this wonderful institution.

The intent and purpose of Barium Springs is to serve needy children, to do it in the most economical way, to utilize boarding homes, their own homes, or pay institutions wherever it is possible to work out a plan to use them, to restore to their homes children who can be so restored without hurt to them, to see to it that the Church is not imposed on by caring a useless load, but with all that, the calls on us for help for needy children has increased from all sides.

We believe our people want Barium to continue on the same high standard that it has been maintained for the years past. We believe our people do not want the work lessened. We believe, if they are allowed to, they will contribute the money necessary to do this. We plead with the individual Churches and with the Presbyteries to build no fence around us to keep these gifts from coming to us.

Twenty years ago money was voted out of our treasury for the benefit of other Church causes and it brought about a disastrous situation. Now, fences are being built around to keep money from coming to us so that it may be distributed to other Church causes. The method is different but the end result is the same. We will not have money enough to carry on.

We wish it were possible for every individual person who gives to Barium Springs to answer a questionnaire. The questions would be this. Does your giving to Barium hurt any other cause? Does it cause you to give less to the other Church causes?

A good many years ago we had a meeting with the heads of the Assembly causes. We agreed then that we would plead our cause only on certain occasions, never in conflict with the Assembly causes. We have religiously lived up to that and have confined our appeals to just a small part of the year. We have never tried to shove our cause ahead of other Church causes, and the record of the liberality of our own little community here toward the other causes certainly bears out our friendly feeling to them all.

We readily admit that the Orphanage cause is the more easily understood and possibly the first cause responded to by Church members - those who may not be familiar with the other work of the Church. Maybe those new Church members learn the thrill of giving by first giving to Barium, and then begin to give to other causes. We believe that the Orphanage cause is something that is a good thing to start out with. It is evidenced by the liberality of newly organized mission Churches and Sunday Schools.

About the most hurtful thing that people say in regard to orphanages is this - "That we do not need to do anything for the orphanages, they will be taken care of anyhow." Well, if you care to travel just visit some of the adjoining states and see how untrue that statement is. You can see some of the desperate measures that some of our neighbor orphanages have to take to just keep alive. We do not want Barium to ever get in that condition. We cannot pay bills or salaries with a statement that somebody will take care of the Orphanage.

Of late years we have had very few articles like this in our paper. We have tried to tell you about the children, their activities, their hopes and fears. We do not want our paper to have so much about appeals that it will again have the nickname that it had in years past - "The Squealer." We felt that we must write this article. It is written in desperation, but in the devout hope that you will read it and not let Barium Springs suffer. We believe that this year is the critical year in Barium's history. If someone can show us how to do

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

GOD'S STANDARD OF TRUTH

The true Christian realizes that there are certain Christian virtues that are a part of the life that would follow after Jesus Christ. Those virtues include, of course, love, a sense of fairness to others, honesty in all things, rejoicing at other's good fortune rather than harboring a covetous spirit, and many others. We would like to think just now though about another, God's standard of truth.

The whole fabric of society and civilization rests on truthfulness. In Washington at the Bureau of Standards there are certain standard measurements which the entire country follows. There is a standard foot, a standard pound, and a standard time. We go by them and accept them as being correct.

God has just such a standard of truth for us as Christians. It means the absolute truth, not just what may suit the time or the occasion, but representing things exactly as they are. We think perhaps that this has no meaning for us, but aren't there times when most of us strain the truth to the breaking point simply for our own convenience? Let us look briefly at the ways in which men and nations are evading the truth today.

The truth has been sadly used by nations. We wonder sometime what is the matter with the world, yet the answer, or at least a partial one, is not long in coming. There is today no such thing as honesty and truthfulness between the nations of the world. The past thirty or forty years has been a record of promises continually broken. In 1914 Germany was under promise to respect the neutrality of Belgium. She broke that promise as if it had been only a scrap of paper. Later the League of Nations was founded on the promise of the nations that they would not begin aggressive warfare. Japan broke them in Manchuria, Italy in Abyssinia, and the League was dead. It had rested upon truth and the keeping of promises, and see what happened!

Another world war has since been fought over the ruins of broken promises. Today there is no adequate peace because there is no trust. Pledge after pledge between nations is broken as if it did not exist. Confidence is gone and civilization stands still with bated breath looking for the catastrophe to come. Why? Surely one reason is that God's standard of truth has not been observed between nations.

Among individuals, too, the same unfortunate condition prevails. Business methods seem to rest on a sort of basis that all is fair that works. Trust becomes non-existent between labor and management and all too often a suspicious belligerent mood is created. And the results is lessened efficiency and lessened production and we all suffer for it.

Advertising in our country today has become a gigantic contest to see who can make the most extravagant claims. Listen to your radio, read your newspaper. How much of the advertising can you really believe? Can it be that advertising has become a game to see just how much we are foolish enough to accept?

We are now in the midst of an election year. The political campaigns are upon us. Party platforms have been set up with all their high-sounding phrases. The our work more cheaply with less money, we will welcome those suggestions. If someone can show us how we can do less and still serve our Church we will welcome that suggestion gladly. We may have to ask that person to help us put those plans into effect. We are in your hands and we trust you.

candidates are each one assuring us that if we vote for them all will be well, but if we vote for their rivals we are likely to be plunged into war or depression. Promises are being made that no superman could ever hope to carry out. And where is truth as God set's the standard of truth?

Individuals with their gossip and slander add their bit and the stories are repeated and added to as they go their rounds. None of us are completely immune to it, and yet where is the truth and our adherence to its standard?

Rumors, usually with no foundation in fact, sweep over the country. Some are harmless; some do a great deal of harm. Always we do ourselves and others an injustice by repeating them. Sometimes they are absolutely foolish. As for example the wonderful rumor that anyone sending a 1943 copper penny to the Ford Motor Company would receive immediately a new Ford. What a marvelous opportunity! And probably the company would have done just that. It would have been perfectly safe in making that promise. For in 1943 only pennies with a steel base were coined. Rumors, some foolish, some harmful, but all lacking in verification add to our fund of untruthfulness.

But with all these examples of failures to meet God's standard of absolute truth, perhaps the saddest is the way in which we deceive ourselves. Perhaps we think that we do not ordinarily do that, but how common it is. And the dangerous possibility is that we completely lose the ability to see ourselves as we really are. We live in a sort of moral fog assuring ourselves that we are better than we actually are. And that condition, so typified in Jesus' day among the Pharisees, makes it impossible for a man to see his sin and repent of it.

There is the man who tells himself that he drinks alcoholic beverages to quiet his nerves or for the sake of his health when usually the real reason is his craving for drink. There is the person who prides himself upon his generosity when he is most concerned with his own selfishness. There is the one who makes religion a front for a heart that is neither right with God nor his fellow men. Such are simply deceiving themselves.

The prodigal son who had wasted his substance in riotous living in a far country could only find forgiveness when he came to himself and saw himself in the true light. At last he had to say, "Father, I have sinned." Then he was deceiving himself no more, he was ready for forgiveness.

Among all the deceptions of this present day, among nations, among individuals, in our private lives, God still has a standard of truth. It is for the Christian a sacred duty to follow that standard.

Burglar Cracks Safe In Barium Office

Barium has had a burglary and we are all quite excited about it. The postmaster in delivering the mail to the office early on the morning of October 20th found the doors to the superintendent's office and to the treasurer's office jammed open. They found the safe in the treasurer's office broken open and the contents, so far as money was concerned, gone. It happened that the only money in his particular safe was that in connection with the Barium Savings Department and just a nominal sum is carried in cash, enough to carry on the business of cashing checks and such day by day. It was not a big haul, but still we would not like to lose that much money every day. The amount taken was $154.00.

The robbery evidently followed a pattern. The Kannapolis High School office was broken into folas though Jesse James had paid us a personal visit and so keyed up that I am afraid if a burglar attempted to repeat the job he would find so many people looking over his shoulder as he did it that he would be very embarrassed in his work.

The money that was lost was from the Barium Savings Department - that is where the children keep their savings accounts. We will see to it that these individuals do not suffer and will make up this amount in some way so that their Savings Bank will be solvent. Truly, this burglar, if he had only known it, was stealing money from a baby - a lot of babies, in fact.

HOME-COMING DAY

We have had a wonderful Homecoming Day. Friday, the 15th. was the day. The weather was perfect, the campus was its prettiest, the crowds of returning alumni were the best looking ever, the football game played in the afternoon was just what the doctor ordered - a good game with Barium being the victor.

Many of the alumni stayed for supper and the visiting team was there also and the day ended up with everybody tired, happy and pretty full of Barium rations.

The last two years it has rained, this year it made up for both of those other years. Lack of space keeps us from giving a more detailed account of the Home-coming.

Campus News

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hope you don't think we have forgotten you since school has started but studying and stringing beans has really kept us busy. Now with a little time on our hands we are once again giving you some news.

The leaves are beautiful now since they have begun changing colors. We decided that we would like to have our house looking pretty so with the help of our matron we had leaf chains hanging our walls. The Baby Cottage children thought they were just as pretty as we did.

All of us were looking forward to Homecoming because that is the time when all you see is babies. It really is very interesting and quite amusing to watch them.

Some of us in one way or other have a pet which we love very much. The other day one of the little girls came running up to Mrs. Gentry all out of breath.

"Mrs. Gentry," she said breathing hard, "Virginia has a bug in her box."

"Virginia why have you got a bug in your box?" inquired Mrs. Gentry.

"Why, Mrs. Gentry thats my pet," smiled Virginia.

We all got a good laugh out of that.

Thanks to Mr. Calhoun we enjoy going to the play woods to eat our supper.

This summer quite a few of our little girls went home to stay. Among the ones who went we miss Sue Anne most because Sue had a radio and when she left she took it with her. One reason we miss it so much is that we learned to eat a lot of cereals which we didn't like otherwise by hearing the advertisements over the radio.

Clara and Bonnie haven't started going around saying poetry yet. But one of these days that will be all one can hear.

Look for us next month. Same Cottage, same place.

LOTTIE WALKER BUILDING

School is well under way now and we have had our first reports. We didn't have too many on the honor roll but most of us were kept off only by one S., which wasn't bad for the first time.

All of our "new geniuses" have been initiated into the Beta Club. For one whole week they were subject to horrid punishment from the elder, or should I say, feller members of the club. But all in all I think the whole school enjoyed it.

Some of our girls went on a walk Saturday, to the "famous" Kieslers Bridge. Mr. Sides, our new pastor, went along with us.

The great day has come and gone, our Homecoming is over for this year. But what a wonderful time we had from the first fond hello, to the last good-bye. Our football team was at its best, with many former Barium students there to help pull for them. The boys came through with a 27-6 victory over North Wilkesboro.

The beauty of our campus is at its height, with the leaves of each tree sporting many different autumn shades. This is the time of year when we wish each of you could visit with us.

Until next time.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are back with the cottage news.

We got our report cards and seven girls made the honor roll. They are Betty Anna Blackburn, Phoebe Cochran, Lois Dellinger, Linda Inman, Shirley Shaw, Shirley Johnson and Mildred McFarland.

Thursday the 14th we walked to Troutman to see a picture show. The name of it was "That Lady in Ermine."

Homecoming was a happy day for us. We were glad to see our old friends. The Rhythm Band and Junior Choir gave a program that morning and in the afternoon we had a football game with North Wilkesboro. North Wilkesboro had a band and we enjoyed it as much as the game.

Linda Inman and Shirley Hall have gotten their clothing boxes. They were beautiful clothes. They are anxiously looking forward to visiting Shirley Hall's clothing people at Belmont the last of this month.

We received a nice Thanksgiving gift from The Mary Carson Circle, Fuller Memorial Church, Durham, N. C. It contained white socks enough for each of us to have two pairs.

Miss Carpenter, the leader of our Young People's group took us to town to buy Christmas gifts for the children overseas.

We are busy keeping our campus clean by raking leaves and making play houses with them and at the end of the day we put them in bags.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., NOVEMBER 1948

NO. 1

The Meeting of the Men of the Church

Barium Springs seems to be always the meeting place for the Men of the Church of Concord Presbytery. Mr. Fred Long was the president this past year - he is from Lenoir, Mr. Hethcox of Barium Springs was the secretary, Mr. Cary Lowrance was the Vice-president.

The number attending these meetings has grown so large that very few people can entertain them, so the job came back to Barium Springs. This is a task that is pretty large but the folks at Barium seem to welcome it and thrive on it. This year we were afraid that there would not be room to seat everybody in the big dining room to serve a regular meal, so we put on a barbecue and served it cafeteria style and the entire group of people were served in twenty minutes and they ate for the rest of that hour.

We found out something about the Men of Concord Presbytery this year that we did not know before. We always knew they were generous, and they proved it again this year. There were about 475 present - by actual count 470. There was a voluntary offering after the supper and that added up to $471.00, so that proves that the crowd was extremely generous. Part of this money went to pay the expense of the meal, part of it as a gift to the children who had to give away their supper period, eating a picnic lunch instead, and who had to do a good deal of extra work to put the meal on - part of the money contributed goes to their pleasure - picture shows, picnics, and such.

Now, as stated above, we already knew that the men were generous. We did not know that they had appetites like they have. That is a discovery that we will have to take note of in future suppers.

We did not know beforehand how

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Folks,

We are bringing you the news of Rumble Hall. First we would like to tell you about our trip to Davidson homecoming. We saw a little of the game but couldn't see the rest because it rained and we were soaked to the bone. The little we saw was very interesting.

On Tuesday night we went to Mooresville skating rink. We had a wonderful time and skated a long time. Some of the girls who did not know how to skate when they went down there knew when they got back.

The following Tuesday Shirley Hollifield, Elizabeth Huddleston, Dolores Ramsey, Mary Elizabeth McNeil, Shelby Andrews, Shirley Byrd and Carol Jean Andrews went to Mooresville and gave a short program after which we had tea and the circle gave us vases, scarfs and a huge box of candy, cakes and nuts. We enjoyed it very much and greatly appreciate it.

PRINTING OFFICE

Hello Folks,

Here we are bringing you the latest news from the Printing Office.

Printers Devil Dean Upton has had a little tough luck recently. He accidentally fell and broke his arm, but he is alright and is back working with us again.

Rufus "Shooter" Clark came to Barium to see our homecoming

In a few months we will be printing the individual pictures of the senior class - those who are finishing the high school. In this issue we are printing the pictures of the beginners in the High School - the Ninth Grade. They will look quite different from this three years from now when their pictures appear as seniors. A good many of these faces will be missing then. As a matter of fact, already four are no longer with the Ninth Grade. They will look a heap more grown up when you see their pictures as seniors, but from now until then they are very important members of the Barium School and community.

Mr. James Sloan of Redlands, California

On Saturday morning, October 30th, we received a message telling us of the death of Mr. James Sloan, one of the best friends that Barium Springs ever had.

We do not remember that Mr. Sloan ever made a visit to Barium, but his kindness to this institution began away back in the early twenties and his helpfulness has been of the kind that has done Barium the most good.

Never was there a time when Mr. Sloan seemed to want to do something just to please a whim of his. It was always to meet a real need at Barium. The first thing was our printing office, and later additions to the printing office, and today our up-to-date print shop is, as far as the equipment is concerned, entirely the gift of Mr. Sloan. Sloan Field, our athletic center is possibly the most popular place on the whole Barium campus. It was made possible by a gift from Mr. Sloan.

Now, here is an interesting thing. Mr. Sloan was not interested in athletics. When a suggestion was made that he help us to get started on a field, his reply was that he was not interested in athletics, but that if we thought that was the thing we needed most right then he would help us to get it. That is the kind of a friend he has been all along. His contributions and encouragement have come right at the time and in the way that did us the most good.

Mr. Sloan has helped us over many a hurdle - the enlargement of the office, helping us to get out of debt, a generous check every year toward the running expenses of the Orphanage - all of these were things that he did. Barium truly has lost a friend. The name Sloan has meant so much to every child who has grown up at Barium during the last twenty-five years that wherever they go they will feel kindly toward a person bearing that name. Sloan Field has

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

THE GREATEST BLESSING

As we approach the season of Thanksgiving we seldom fail to come with grateful hearts. For all of us are thankful for something and can rejoice that our early forbears were moved to set apart this day in late autumn for joyful thanksgiving unto God. Surely it is fitting that we should observe such a day, and just as surely it is true that every day ought to be a day of thanksgiving. We come on Thanksgiving being grateful for many things, and yet so often they are the material things of life, money, comfort, possessions, health. We must be thankful for these things, but for the Christian there is not a much greater blessing to which none of these other things are able to measure up? For our greatest blessing, and that for which we should be most thankful, is our relationship to Jesus Christ.

In this season of thanksgiving it would be well for us to pause and consider just what this relationship means to us. What have we gained, after all, in giving ourselves unto Christ?

It is human nature to count results. When we make any outlay of energy or time or money we want to see what the results are, what we have gained by that action. Suppose you buy a piece of property. You improve it; you build a house on it. And you want to see results, you want to see it increase in value. Perhaps you farm. Then you expect that the cost of the seed and the fertilizer and the value of harvest. If you work for an employer, you surely expect that the energy expended shall be met with a reasonable compensation. Now that is human and natural, that tendency to count results.

In a somewhat different sense

Deceased

Mrs. Mary McNatt

On November 1st 1948 Mrs. Mary McNatt died in Fayetteville, N. C. at the age of seventy years. Mrs. McNatt was the beloved matron of our infirmary for the years 1937 - 1947.

Mrs. McNatt was born in Thomasville, Ga. the daughter of John Hancock the inventor of Hancock plows.

She was married to Mr. J. B. McNatt and came to North Carolina and lived in Parkton, N. C.

She came to Barium in July 1937 at first as a substitute matron, and later as the trained nurse in charge of the infirmary.

Several years ago the Superintendent, Mr. Johnston, wrote of Mrs. McNatt as follows:

"She has carried on most acceptably during the years. A daily procession goes to the infirmary. Real pains and imaginary pains; symptoms that seem commonplace and are dangerous; symptoms that seem dangerous and are not; all come under her attention. She has a most amazing faculty of being able to distinguish the serious from the trivial, and to take the

Football Doings Around Barium

We have not told you about our football doings since our Monroe game. On September 25th we played Mooresville at Mooresville. The week before we had beaten Monroe so easily that maybe we took Mooresville too cheaply, and as a result the first half ended 6-6. We got busy in the second half, however, and scored two more touchdowns, winning 19-6, and were mighty glad to come away from Mooresville with that game salted away.

The next week was our first home game. We played China Grove - a non-conference team - and a team not quite up to the other teams that we had been playing. The final score was 61-0, and all of the substitutes got a chance to play. Joe Savage, an old Barium boy, is coaching at China Grove and he is doing the best he can under pretty hard conditions. China Grove has suffered two tragedies in former years and the town does not take too enthusiastically to the game.

On October 8th we journeyed to Spencer, playing an afternoon game on the Spencer field. We did not play as good a game as we usually do, and Spencer was at their top form. The final results was Barium 6 - Spencer 6. Barium had to come from behind to tie that one. The Spencer folks entertained us royally, giving us supper after the game so we came home feeling not too badly about being held to a tie.

On the 15th, Homecoming Day we had North Wilkesboro here. The weather was beautiful and the game was all that could be desired. Barium won 27-6 and avenged an almost similar defeat at the hands of North Wilkesboro a year ago. There was brilliant playing on both teams. Barium had several good backfield men to rely on and North Wilkesboro had to put most of their

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the REGENTS OF THE ORPHANS' HOME OF THE PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (HERE NAME THE BEQUEST).

Large Thanksgiving Offering Needed

When this copy of the Messenger reaches you, you will be making your contributions to Presbyterian Orphan's Home for the Thanksgiving Offering. Soon also the Presbyteries and churches will be preparing budgets for the year 1949-'50. There are some things we hope will be borne in mind.

In the year nineteen and forty we published a few figures in the Messenger showing the cost of certain items per day at the Home. In that year it cost $101.62 a day for food; this past year it cost $151.91. That year clothing cost $29.04 per day; now it costs $45.50.

In the year 1939-'40 we spent for fuel and lights $7,884.00. This past year because of the great increase in price of coal and freight rates we spent for fuel and lights $20,398.87. Because of the increase value of buildings, which has more than doubled in these eight years, our insurance bill has advanced from $1900.00 per year to $5,000.00 per year. These are but outstanding examples of an advance in costs which has been in evidence throughout the budget.

In the face of this advance we have experienced a decrease in income in several sources. In 1941 Synod recommended to the Presbyteries that Presbyterian Orphan's Home be put in the budget for 9 per cent. This year Synod reduces that percentage to 5 per cent. Some Presbyteries have gone even farther. One gives 3½ per cent, one 3 per cent and one 4 per cent. One Presbytery gives 6½ per cent for which we are thankful.

During the war we had some children of soldiers who made an allotment to us. We no longer have that income.

Though there has been some increase in our endowment funds, income from investments have been reduced more rapidly. The mistaken idea has gone abroad that the Home has been receiving more money than it needs. The fact is that only a very generous Thanksgiving Offering and a liberal response from the churches during the rest of the church year can avert a deficit.

necessary steps.

It is nice to have a person in charge of an important department that you can feel about as we do about the infirmary and Mrs. McNatt. We do not need to wake up in the middle of the night and wonder if that job is being taken care of. We know it is. We delight to do honor to this fine member of our staff."

Mrs. McNatt is survived by her children, four girls and four boys who are as follows: Mrs. Nanette Buckley, New York City; Mrs. Anita Smith, Fayetteville, N. C.; Mrs. Rachel McDougald, Fort Bliss, Texas; Mrs. Virginia March, Fayetteville, N. C.; James Taylor McNatt, New Jersey; Neill McNatt, Florida and Charles McNatt, Winston-Salem, and Rev. J. P. H. McNatt of High Point, and 15 grand children who along with a host of friends mourn her loss.

game, which we won 27-6. Rufus is going to school at Columbia, S. C. now. We miss him and his "Tall Tales" about whales a lot. He used to be one of our boys.

We haven't been seeing much of "Shooter Bum" Dwight Reid, another one of our tall tale tellers, much anymore at night. Wonder where he is. I bet he is down at the Infirmary shooting Elminia some of his tall tales.

Donald Mitchell who is on our crew is personally upset about the Carolina - William & Mary game.

Football season is coming to a close which we have done very well in our games. We still have to face two strong teams, Salisbury and Statesville. We sure do hope to beat them both.

Well folks, we hope to bring you more news next month, so until that time, so long.

LOTTIE WALKER BUILDING

Hi Folks,

A month seems a long time when it is only once in a month that I have the opportunity of telling you what is happening on our campus.

Our football team has been doing very well this month, only last week we had a win over Thomasville, 12-6. This week they play Salisbury on our own field and next week they go to Statesville for the game we girls have been looking forward to all season. We will be there pulling for you boys!

Margaret Bullard, one of the girls from our cottage, has entered the county beauty contest for "Miss Merry Christmas." Good luck Margaret!

Speaking of beauty we hear our pastor, Mr. Sides, has become formally engaged to Miss Virginia Smith of Monroe. Congratulations.

"Into each life some rain must fall." Yes, even at Barium there comes moments of great sadness.

We have just learned that Mrs. Mary McNatt, who was our nurse for many years and had just been gone from our home a year, has died. She was dear to us and will be missed by everyone.

It isn't long until Thanksgiving and Barium has much to be thankful for, mainly you, our friends.

Goodbye for now, and be with us again next month.

— Anne Wicker

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

We have been out of the news for a month or so, but we are a lively bunch around the cottage.

We have enjoyed the football games here and at Davidson. We want to thank our friends at Davidson for being so good to us.

We went to town the other day to get our winter shoes and we are proud of them. It hasn't been so very cold so we are still bare footed. Some frosty morning we will put on our shoes. We are tough guys.

We have been planting some bulbs around our house, hope to have some pretty flowers in the spring.

Two of our boys went to the birthday dinner this month, Bobby Ray Bailey and Le Nair Burns.

We have been helping on the truck farm after school picking up potatoes and apples.

It won't be long until Christmas, we have been writing to Santa Claus to tell him what we want. We have worn out Sears catalog looking through it to see what to ask for.

We are going to have a football game here Thanksgiving afternoon.

Miss Carpenter took the Juniors to town Halloween night and we got in the parade. We had a good time.

At this Thanksgiving season, we want to thank all our friends for being so good to us.

— The Lees Boys

A WISH IS NOT A WILL

Many people in Oklahoma have spent all their time and energy in accumulating wealth of one kind or another, land, royalties, cattle, real estate, stocks and bonds. These same people have given little thought as to how they will perpetuate their energies for the good of mankind. In their hearts they want to help and not hinder. It is harder to invest an estate wisely than to make it. Great character is not revealed in the making of money but in the use of it. This requires no small amount of time, thought and consideration.

Hundreds of friends have already settled the decision in their own minds as to what they will do, and have good intentions but through procrastination never do it. A man may wish a hundred times concerning his estate, but a wish is not a will. A wish denotes a feeling of need, yet this is not sufficient. Unless you wish and actually do something your wishes are in vain. A wish should lead to a will.

If you want worthwhile religious institutions to benefit from your lifetime of labor, make your will immediately. Most people who have died without a will had expressed to intimate friends that they wished to remember a certain institution, organization but were so busy they kept postponing the making of their will. Make a will regardless of the size of your estate.

Project your life through your will—make it now!

— Baptist Messenger

On a dark and stormy night the trainman was signaling to the engineer when he dropped his lantern to the ground. Another man passing by tossed it back to him on top of a boxcar. In a few minutes the engineer came rushing up.

"Let's see you do that again!"

"Do what?"

"Jump from the ground to the top of that boxcar!"

The Meeting of the

many were coming. There were guesses of everything from 400 to 600. To be on the safe side we prepared enough barbecue for 600 people, after consulting experienced barbecue dispensers, so we felt that if all of this was not eaten up we would have something to go on in next day's regular meals. We did not give the men a very big helping when they first lined up and told them that they could come back for second helpings. Did they respond to that invitation? Well, before the evening was over every scrap of the barbecue was gone, so those 470 men ate up what was a normal allotment for 600.

All glory to the men of Concord Presbytery. Anybody who can eat like that can do a lot of work, and we believe that the effort to make the Program of Progress real will be carried out by these men.

Reverend Ben Rose made the principal address, and the neat way he acknowledged his introduction captured the interest of the men listening to him and helped to make his speech well received and inspiring. Dr. McLean of Lenoir introduced Mr. Rose as the son of a famous lawyer, the grandson of a State treasurer, the nephew of the president of the Union Seminary, and the son-in-law of a distinguished professor, Dr. Thompson. Mr. Rose, in acknowledging this introduction, stated that he took no credit for being the son of his father or the grandson of his grandfather or the nephew of his uncle, but he claimed all of the credit for being the son-in-law of Dr. W. T. Thompson, which evidently meant that his wife did not give him a bit of encouragement in that line at all. Mr. Rose's address was one that inspired us, and we believe Concord Presbytery is going to do better things because of it.

The new officers elected were Mr. J. A. Sloan, of Salisbury, President; Judge Wilson Warlick of Newton, Vice-President, and Mr. Archie Calhoun of Barium, Secretary.

It is very likely that the meeting next year will again be held at Barium. If, however, it should be held somewhere else, please take note of the item about the barbecue. The men of Concord Presbytery are real men.

we might carry that over to our spiritual lives. What have we gained? Certainly we ought to say that not by any efforts of ours do we receive the myriad blessings of Christ. But we do have something that we must do before these blessings can be ours. We give ourselves to Him. We offer ourselves in full surrender. We say, if we come sincerely, "Here is my life; take it, Lord, and let it be consecrated unto Thee. I hold back nothing, all my talents, all my time, my heart and soul are given unto Thee. Take and use me as thou wilt."

If then we have made that full surrender, what does it mean to us? What have we gained? well, the Apostle Paul mentions very clearly in the fifth chapter of Romans some of those blessings that are assuredly ours in Jesus Christ. He says, "Therefore being justified by faith, we have . . ." And then he goes on to point out certain things that very definitely accompany being justified.

First of all, being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. That is to say, we are reconciled with God. We are no longer the subjects of God's displeasure, His wrath against sin will not be shown toward us.

The world cries out today for peace, peace between men and nations. But here is a peace that is available for all and yet how many are refusing it! How many today are living miserable lives because they have not come to peace with God. And yet here it is for all, just as free as the sunlight or the air we breathe - peace that comes as the greatest blessing to the soul, peace with God.

With that peace we no longer have to dread God's wrath, for we are no longer enemies, we are sons. We are brought as sons to the Father by Him who is our elder Brother, the Lord Jesus Christ. And why? Because of nothing we have done? Never! But because we believe God's Word that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanse us from all sin. Peace is the result. God is at peace with us and we have nothing to fear. "Through Christ on the cross peace was made, my debt by his death was all paid. No other foundation is laid for peace the gift of God's love."

The second blessing is that we rejoice in the hope of the glory of God. The lot of the saved person is joy. Actually it is more than joy that Paul had in mind. He liked to use this word that we translate "rejoice in hope." It was a central part of his creed. It is glorying, it is exultation for the blessings which Christ has bought for us.

It is rejoicing in the hope and the blessed assurance that we shall be saved to fellowship with God in heaven. How is it that if we ask some if they are saved, they will reply, "I don't know. I hope that I am saved. I believe I am saved but I am not sure." Why these weak words? There is no place here for uncertainty. Do we believe God's promises? Hasn't he said that those who come unto Him he will in no wise cast out? We have God's Word for it, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

It is that assurance that gives us joy. It is that assurance that should put the glow of rejoicing on the face of every Christian. And that joy that we gain is only the beginning, the sample of the joy that shall be ours at last in the place that Christ has gone to prepare for us.

And then, finally, Paul would tell us here of a third blessing that might be described as patience in tribulation. And how we do require this blessing! For nowhere perhaps there more wonder and questioning in the mind of the Christian because of tribulation.

Paul makes no attempt to say why good people suffer, and yet he says something far more important. And that is that tribulation may also be made a blessing for the one who truly trusts in Christ. Because the Christian knows that suffering is "often the stuff of life that makes them strong." Steel is to be passed through the fire before it is strong. Tribulation is a character builder. Does that seem hard? It is God's word and it is a word of comfort. "For tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope." And that hope is found in absolute dedication to Christ and to His will for our lives.

In this season of thanksgiving let us be most thankful for the marvelous blessings of Jesus Christ; peace with God, hope of the glory of God, patience in tribulation. All of us are seeking peace, joy, contentment. We may be thankful that they are found in Him.

dependence on one. On October 22nd, Barium suffered their first defeat, losing to Lexington 21-13. It was a drizzly night, spoiling to some extent the homecoming festivities of the Lexington school. The Lenoir High School band was there to put on a performance but did not get to put it on until after the game had finished because the whole first half was played in a drizzle. You would think that since the game was played in the rain no one would have tried any forward passes. Well there were the most forward passes in that game of any we have seen this year. On the third play from scrimmage Barium scored by a long pass, Mangum to Young. About five plays later Lexington scored by a pass. Then later on there was another score by a pass. Two touchdowns were made on running plays, Barium's second touchdown culminated in a drive down the field with Hillard finally going over for the score. Eanes, the passer for Lexington, showed plenty of class on that particular night. On October 29th Barium went to Davidson and entertained the Davidson Freshmen. The final score was Davidson 20 - Barium 6. Barium's touchdown was on a beautiful pass, Barnes to Mangum. Two of Davidson's scores were made by the same man - another one of those Wade boys from Charlotte. This one is named Ham, and they say he got that name from the size of his hands. Anyhow early in the game he took a forward pass going for a touchdown and then in the second half he intercepted a pass with one hand, just as though it were a baseball, and then went for the second touchdown.

On November 5th Barium played Thomasville at Barium - a big, tough team. The final score was Barium 13 - Thomasville 6.

As this is written two games are still on the schedule - Salisbury and Statesville - two of the hardest and most interesting games on the entire program. Statesville has so far gone undefeated. If she can manage Spencer and Barium she will be the conference champion. Salisbury is a non-conference school but her games with Barium have always been interesting.

While the big boys were doing all of this, the Juniors have played several games. The first was the B-team playing Statesville and winning 7-0. Then the 110-pound team defeated Statesville 26-0: the 85-pound team lost to Davidson 12-6, the B team winning from Davidson 55-0. Then the 85-pound team tied Concord 0-0: the 110-pound team lost to Concord 20-12, and the B team defeated Concord 12-0. The 110-pound team defeated Newton 26-6 and the B team defeated Newton 13-0. The 110-pound team defeated China Grove 41-6.

Miss Virginia Smith Wed To Rev. Mr. Sides

From The Charlotte Observer
Monroe, Dec. 7—Miss Virginia Hill Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Alexander Smith of Unionville, became the bride of Rev. Charles Hobart Sides, Jr., of Barium Springs, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Sides of Statesville in a beautiful ceremony solemnized Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Baptist church. Rev. Jack T. Akin, pastor, officiated.

Wedding music was rendered by Mrs. H. H. Wilson, organist, and Mrs. Ted O. Morgan, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a wedding gown of white slipper satin fashioned with fitted bodice, leg-o-mutton sleeves, Queen Anne collar, and full skirt which ended in a train. She wore a chapel-length veil of imported bridal illusion fastened to the head with a sweet-heart halo of seed pearls, and carried a white satin prayerbook topped with a white, purple-throated orchid. Her only ornament was a fleur-de-lis pin that belonged to her paternal grandmother.

Mrs. Kenneth S. Welch of Unionville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Anne Smith, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They wore dresses of cherry red moire taffeta

And They Lived Happily Ever After

The above picture shows our pastor and his bride strolling down the aisle - or up the aisle maybe - would be better . . . on a recent afternoon, and from the decorations you know what has just happened. The stroll is the beginning of a lifetime walk which we hope will last many, many years. They are going a roundabout way but will eventually land in the manse at Barium Springs where Mr. Sides has already become a most popular member of our community. You cannot look at this picture without falling in love with this young couple. Barium Springs welcomes them with open arms.

Elsewhere in this paper you will find the detailed account of the wedding.

The Message of the Morning

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

WHAT DOES CHRISTMAS MEAN TO YOU?

In answering that question do not pause for reflection just now as to what it ought to mean. Instead answer it quite truthfully with the first thing that comes to mind. Does it mean a vacation from work? Does it mean perhaps a time of exchanging gifts, with all the worries that are entailed in making sure that the exchange comes out even and no one is slighted? Is it the holiday spirit and parties and gaiety that appeals most? Might it be the singing of carols, the old and ever new portrayal in our churches of the first Christmas? Perhaps our answer as to what Christmas means to us would include many of these.

And yet most of our answers would sadly reflect the obvious truth that in our modern age Christmas has become a huge festival, a time of unrestrained spending that has grown to such proportions that we can no longer control it. Christmas - an almost frenzied effort to make merry in the time allotted the season. And the day itself is now indeed a holiday and no longer for many a holy day. All of which is but to say that we are taking Christ out of Christmas.

Even in much of our correspondence the word becomes Xmas, and Christ, whose birthday we celebrate, is reduced to the algebraic quantity of X. Were it a cross it might well represent the Lord who died that we might live, but it is not a cross. And Christ is the forgotten element of many a Christmas day as celebrated by the average American.

This not said to lessen our joy. It is said in the hope that ours may be a greater joy and a saner joy this Christmas season. If it is centered in Christ, it will be a joy

The Liniment Bowl Game

A Beautiful Game On A Beautiful Day

By An Interested Bystander

The big Iredell county game annually staged on Thanksgiving Day is now history. The Mitchell college "Fighting Wildcats" were downed by the Barium Alumni in one of the most interesting and spectacular games ever staged in this neighborhood.

The ordinary football fan would imagine that a game between two teams, one a college team with no previous experience and the other a team of boys who had most of them never played together and without any preliminary practice, would not be a very creditable exhibition. Well, it just goes to show that the experts don't know their stuff. The game was thrilling, it was an exhibition of good football, most excellent defensive work on the part of Mitchell, and some of the most intricate forward and lateral passing by Barium that you will see on any football team.

The statistics of the game are interesting. Barium made three touchdowns and 10 first downs. Mitchell made no touchdowns and two first downs, and yet all through the game Mitchell was threatening. Their forward passing attack seemed to be the strongest weapon

Mr. Fred W. Sherrill

Mr. Fred Sherrill died very suddenly on Friday afternoon, December 3rd. He was buried on Sunday, the 5th. He appeared to be in good health up until the time of his death. He died in his car while waiting on a traffic light.

Mr. Sherrill was a bachelor. The many kind things that he did were done quietly and very few people knew about them. For a number of years he has been the inspiration of the boys and girls at the High School at Barium. It has been his custom to give cash prizes to the ones showing the most improvement during the year. He had started this out with ten dollars, and built it up to forty dollars, and that had become the main inspiration for the students in the High School during the year. They wanted to be in on Mr. Sherrill's prizes, not for just the amount of money involved but because of the honor and prestige of reaching that goal.

In many other ways Mr. Sherrill was kind to us at Barium.

Mrs. Bessie D. Elliott

Death has again touched our family at Barium and this time taken one of the most beloved members of our community. Mrs. Exam Elliott, the wife of our postmaster and the sister of Mrs. J. B. Johnston, has been in declining health for more than a year. She passed away quietly on the night of November 16th. After a brief service at a funeral home in Statesville the body was taken to Birmingham to be buried in the family plot with her three children. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott have lived at Barium Springs for about four years. During that time Mrs. Elliott was never strong enough to take a very active part in our community life, and yet her kindness and thoughtfulness touched every life at Barium. Everyone here knew her and loved her. There is hardly a cottage or a building on the campus that has not felt the touch of her hand. Flowers somehow grew more luxuriantly under her touch. Potted

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,

Don't be unhappy 'cause we didn't get our news in last time but we will try to make you happy by having it in now.

We have been to lots of movies thanks to our wonderful friends at the Playhouse and at the State in Statesville. Some of the movies we have seen are: "A Southern Yankee" and "My Pal Trigger". We also visited the State to see another Roy Rogers movie.

There are some friends in Morganton and Raleigh who we would like to thank for the candy, games and the radio. On rainy days it is nice to play with our games and listen to the radio. We are hoping to hear a lot of Christmas music as the season draws nearer.

Speaking of Christmas, Santa Claus is all you can hear from us. We know our matron and big sisters could throw us out sometimes. Our Santa Claus letters have gone off and we surely hope we don't get a bag of switches as the old saying goes, "you better watch out 'cause Christmas is right around the corner." All of us are trying to be little "angels" but we find it hard to do so.

Nearly all of our little first grade girls are losing their teeth. What in the world will they do when Christmas comes and they won't be able to eat any candy or nuts?

One of the little girls asked our matron if Santa could come and spend a week-end with us before Christmas. She must want to make sure she isn't left out of things. We don't blame her at all.

Having had some good laughs on some of our smallest girls we want to pass some on to you.

One night we were playing "Knock at the Door" with one of our big sisters when Mary McEwen came to the chair and knocked. The person in the chair said, "who is there." Mary stood there a little while and then said, "your Fuller Brush Man." Well, all we can say is that we hope the roof is still on.

We also delight in imitating the various people on the campus. If they knew this we don't think they would show their faces on the place. Some of the girls can imitate just like the real characters. They really do look funny.

We'll be back again next month with all the Christmas news, and telling what we received for Christmas. You will hear from us next month.

— Annie Louise Girls

fashioned with basque waist buttoned in front, low rounded neckline, cap sleeves, and bouffant skirt. They wore matching mitts, and carried nosegays of gold chrysanthemums and red snapdragons.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were the Rev. William H. Kryder of Athens, Ga., and the Rev. H. Edwin Pickard of Richmond, Va.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Florida, after which they will be at home in the manse at Barium Springs.

The bride graduated from Fairview High school. At the time of her marriage she was employed in the office of the Union County Board of Education.

The bridegroom graduated cum laude from Davidson College in 1943 with the B. A. degree, finished Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., in 1946, receiving the B.D. degree. He served as assistant pastor of First Presbyterian church, Kannapolis, was pastor of Benton Heights Presbyterian church in Monroe for two years before going to his present pastorate at the Presbyterian church at Barium Springs.

Among the out-of-town guests present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Galbraith, the latter the sister of the bridegroom, Statesville.

Those who attended the wedding from Barium Springs were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lowrance, Rev. and Mrs. R. S. Arrowood, Bobby Arrowood, Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Donaldson, Hilda Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Twombly, Ralph Spencer, W. A. Hethcox, Roscoe Smith, Helen Vinson, Mrs. E. K. Kyles, Miss Flora Overcash, Clyde Reid, Jerry Williams, Paul Dellinger, and Donald Mitchell.

The Liniment Bowl

they had, but too often a Barium red shirt was in the way and intercepted the passes.

The referee carried the ball for a total of 70 yards. Barium was penalized 60 yards; Mitchell 10.

Twenty-two men were dressed out for Barium and they all played. Here is a list of them: There were two players from last year's Barium varsity, Jack Clark and Buddy Lippard. There were two from Barium's '46 team, Gregory and Allen, one from the team of '45, Smith, the center; one from the team of '44, Ammons; one from the '41 team, Pleas Norman. Two played their first varsity for Barium in 1940—the McCall twins, Jack and Tom. Two started on the varsity at Barium in '39, Gibbs and Bolton. Two of the team of '38, Cole and Roach; one from '37, Lee Spencer; two from '36, Joe Savage and John Donaldson; Two from '33, Ralph Spencer and Ed Oliver; one from '31, Charlie Sears, there were three members of our national midget champion teams of the early thirties, Newton Brown, Ed Oliver, Charlie Sears; one whose football career covered from '26 to '30, Lafayette Donaldson and one prize package whose football career at Barium was from '23 to '27, Buck Jackins.

By the way, Buck filled his football uniform so completely that some of the spectators were under the suspicion that he was carrying somebody else under his jersey—he seemed just too big for one man.

All of these 22 men saw action, about evenly divided. Gibbs furnished most of the backfield fireworks, ably abetted by Sears, Cole, Roach and Oliver. Those oldtimers in the line, like Donaldson, Savage, Smith and company, also strutted their stuff. The Barium first touchdown was a pass from Gibbs to Roach to Bolton; the second touchdown was on a run by Gibbs; the third on a run by Jack Clark.

One play that appeared interesting on the surface but turned out to be a complete dud was when Lafayette Donaldson picked up a Mitchell fumble and ran for what he thought was a touchdown—nobody cheered and the referee calmly brought it back and put it where he picked up the ball. Back when Donaldson played ball you could run with fumbles or anything else.

A Good crowd of spectators were out to see the game. The Barium senior class ran the concession stand and the weatherman furnished ideal weather. It's a fine way to wind up the football season. Apparently these two teams will make this an annual event, and Sloan Field is already reserved for the 1949 game.

plants and other flowers that might have withered away under the care of other hands seemed to flourish when she tended them. Her delight was to send flowers and plants to her friends over the campus.

Mrs. Elliott was a sufferer. The doctors who attended her were amazed that she did not show more evidence of suffering than she did.

No one will ever know just how much she did suffer, because she did it in silence and cheerfulness. For some time she had known that she did not have long to live, and those last months instead of being filled with evidence of suffering were filled with additional deeds of kindness to her loved ones. Barium Springs is a better place for having had Mrs. Elliott as one of its citizens. We will long miss her.

The Message of the

that knows no bounds.

There is little that is small or humble about the way we normally celebrate the birthday of our Lord. And yet let us for a moment harken back to that day almost two thousand years ago when the little Christ child made his entrance into human life. God worked that day, as he so often does, in a mysterious way. For it is often his way to begin small. We might have supposed that when He sought to save the world He would rend the heavens open with a single stroke, that He would so astound mankind with His majesty and power that even now 1900 years later we could not begin to forget. That would have doubtless been man's way, but it was not God's way.

Instead there was a lowly stable, an abode which none could envy Him. The cattles' lowing provided the only music there. True, the angel voices were united in singing His praise, but as for men he came almost unheralded. The outside world did not pause to note his coming. An ordinary thing, an humble thing, the birth of a little babe. And yet how it changes the course of history. In the year 1809 Napoleon was in his period of power and success. But in that year there came to bless the world tiny babes who later would far overshadow the name of Napoleon. For there were born that year Darwin, Gladstone, Lincoln, Tennyson, Poe, Holmes. The Christ child too came unheralded but our season of Christmas is, or should be, ample evidence that He lives in our hearts.

For Christmas, if we see it aright, is first of all a time of humble thanksgiving for the coming of Jesus Christ. Thanksgiving with joy that God has provided for us a Saviour to redeem us from our sins.

Does Christmas mean that to you? It should! May God help us to see the true meaning of Christmas, a time of universal joy. For Christmas represents good tidings of great joy to all people. It came first of all to the shepherds, lowly men, men of no repute, held by the kings and princes in contempt, and yet the message came first to them.

It was a message that said, "fear not," and that blessed message runs all through God's Word. That men need not fear, not for anything, not since a Saviour comes from God.

It was a message of good tidings and it was to all men, for all men need Christ. It was good news about God. It said, and it could never be contradicted, that God is merciful, that God is love, that He cares enough to send His own Son. It was good news about man. For it pointed out that God believed that man was worth saving, and that God wants us, you and me, all of us to belong to Him. And it was good news about life. Eternal life? Yes, and also a richer and more abundant life to be lived here and now in Christ Jesus.

Christmas means all of that because it makes evident that God has spoken to man. If He had remained silent, we might have reason to despair, but He has spoken. He spoke in times past unto the prophets and fathers, but in these latter days through Jesus Christ.

The Christmas season is evidence of that. That God chose to speak to the heart of man through the birth of the babe of Bethlehem. Let us not lose sight of Jesus in this gay festival season. We look upon it as a season of giving, and well we may. For the divinest gifts of all can only be God's gift of Jesus Christ to a world that needs Him so. And when we give this Christmas season, may our chief gift be this—that we give our own selves unto the Lord.

Barium Football Team

doings up to the two final games. Well, Barium lost both of those games but we don't feel too badly about it. Salisbury, much stronger than usual, defeated us 25-7, our lone touchdown coming from a run on a forward pass by Hillard. Salisbury is one of the best-looking teams we have played in quite some time. The final and all-important game with Statesville was in the mud. It was due to have been played on the 19th but it rained; it was put off until the 22nd, and again it rained and the Statesville football field in some places was thick mud and in other places was thin mud—you either slipped or splashed on pretty near every play. Statesville defeated us by 14-0 on a touchdown pass and on an intercepted pass. Barium threatened twice, taking the ball to the 15-yard line when the first half ended and carrying it to the one-yard line in the second half. This particular game gave Statesville the championship of the South Piedmont and they wore their honors appropriately by defeating Lenoir at Hickory the same week by 14-6.

While all of this was going on our Junior teams played several games, the 110-pound team defeating Davidson High Midgets 47-14. And then a little bit later in two games with Newton-Conover our 110-pound team defeated Newton-Conover 19-12 and the B team defeated them 12-0. This wound up the action on the field. The football banquet was held on the night of December 3rd, and the following boys received letters:

Varsity: J. D. Everett, Mason Traywick, Terrell Hall, Herbert Good, Curtis Baldwin, Jerry Young Johnny Meroney, Jack Mangum Paul Barnes, Billy Lybrand, Norvin Hillard, Ricky Lippard, Rufus Bullard, Charles Stevens.

The feature of our banquet this year was a visit from Gwyn Fletcher and Harold Saunders of Stat College. Gwyn is an old Barium boy and belonged to that unbeatable team of 1941. There were four other members of his team present Ernest Stricklin, Joe Ben Gibb Arthur Roach and Donny Bolto Gwyn presented the B team letter and after the regular supper showed the film on the Duke-State game which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the guests. Charlie Sears, the star of our midget and varsity (Continued On Page Three) teams back in the early thirties, delivered the letters to the 85-pound team. Arthur Roach delivered the letters to the 100-pound team.

Jack Mangum was voted captain for the 1948 season and also was voted the most valuable player. Jerry Young was awarded the best blocking trophy; J. D. Everett, the trophy for the best tackler.
Mr. Jackins presided most efficiently as toastmaster.

The eating season is not over yet as this is written. The team is invited to a banquet at the Vance Hotel in Statesville given by the Touchdown Club of that city. Also, they have an invitation from the Lions Club of Troutman, and if they can get this worked in between basketball games they will certainly consume a lot of food in celebration of the football season.

It has been a nice year. We have not won all the games we have played but we have won the respect of every team that we went up against and won our share of the games. A lot of praise and credit is due the boys in this picture. The others coming along will have an extra load to carry next year filling the gaps left by these nine good seniors.

The Message of the Month

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

SERVING BY SENDING

"For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?" Romans 10:13-15.

A criticism often heard, and sadly enough, often justified, of preaching today is that it fails to be practical. It is quite true that ministers frequently stand before their people and present perhaps very beautiful and moving sermons. They are spiritual truth, but they aren't practical. They describe what we ought to be, but they fail somehow to point the way. They fail to answer the question, "How?"

People are asking some serious questions today because they are doing serious thinking. They are asking, "What can I do?" "How can I serve in a more real way?" Some time ago a minister wrote in to one of our church papers and asked the question, "What is the real frontier today?" In other words, if I am to serve the Master in the best possible way, where will I go, what will I do? I believe that many people truly want to know the answer to that question.

I do not claim to know the complete answer, but I do know one answer. Certainly the clarion call for a Christian in any age and in any situation is for him to share his faith with others. Of course the most obvious way is through our own personal evangelistic efforts. And it is a heartening fact that throughout our church today emphasis is being placed upon just that effort in the form of visitation evangelism.

Personal evangelism is basic, but we cannot stop there. The average Christian is of necessity limited in this work to those associations that he is able to cultivate in his own community. But the fact is self evident that there can be no limit placed upon the crying need of all people for Jesus Christ. Our responsibility is not and cannot be limited to those nearby. And it is right here that the Foreign Mission enterprise confronts us. Foreign Missions is concerned with the essential fundamental task of bringing men to Christ and as such is the responsibility of every true Christian. It is a most important part of what I consider the real frontier for each one of us, sharing our faith with others. And it is a field in which all may serve.

In the verses of our text there is a message that must come home to all of us as we face just now the call of Foreign Missions. In these words of Paul we find a promise, a question, and a challenge.

The promise is this - "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

God's Word abounds in precious promises. There was the promise to Abraham, "Go into a land that I will show thee." That promise was gloriously fulfilled. There was the promise to the children of Israel in Egypt that they would be delivered from bondage. And they were! The promise to the people who were captives in Babylon that a remnant should return to the land of their fathers. And God kept His promise!

God, too, made promises to individuals, promises of help and guidance and his blessed presence. Moses heard them, Paul heard them, and more. Each one lived to have those promises fulfilled. We cannot then doubt God's word, for His promises are good.

But of all God's promises, none exceed the glorious promise of our text. The promise of that which is dearest and best of all, the promise of salvation. "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." God wants men to be saved. There is no life apart from Him. Men are lost without Him, and what a world of suffering and sadness is represented by that word, "lost." But no one need be lost, for God's promise concerns a gift, a free gift, of salvation to all who will call upon Him.

And yet in the very saying of that we come to our second thought, the question. Suppose men don't call upon Him? What then? The answer is and can only be, separation from God. And that brings us face to face with the question of our text. "How shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?"

Does that stir your soul? It should! Does it fill you with an unquenchable desire to do something about it? God help us if it does not! For that is the question before the church today and in all ages. God has promised salvation

Christmas At Barium Springs

* * * Christmas Peaks — Santa Claus At Work — The Miraculous Epidemic of Giving.

Anyone who has lived through a Christmas at Barium Springs will have memories to carry with them for the rest of their lives. It is like Christmas at other places just magnified, with many other special features. Of course, the idea of Christmas commences to build up from Thanksgiving right on. We are hardly through talking about the big football games that take place on Thanksgiving Day and our wonderful Alumni game at Barium on that day before the talk of Christmas drowns it out. To help it along is the flood of Christmas cards that commence to come in very soon after Thanksgiving. By the time the November bills have all gotten in, the mail is getting heavier every day and our postmaster develops a squint from reading the names on so many Christmas cards. They come to us from all over the world - most of them without return addresses. Most of them are from people whom we know, some are from people whom we think we know, and some leave us completely bewildered. For instance we may get a post card from Cincinnati signed "with love, Mary," and we try to think of all the Marys we have known and loved who might be living in Cincinnati! Then there are so many that are signed with the husband's name "Mrs. Whosis." We know that when a girl marries, the name of the man whom she marries is the most important name in the world, and she is perfectly justified in feeling that all the world should know who she is by that name, but we do not know.

For many years we tried to acknowledge all the cards that came in to us, but for the last five years we have given it up as a completely hopeless job and have simply extended our thanks through the columns of The Messenger which we are doing this time. We want to thank everybody - and this means at least five hundred people - who were kind enough to send us Christmas cards. Thanks a million. It warmed our hearts and made us feel really important that so many people thought of us at Christmas. We wanted to just call you up and thank you every time a card was received. Now, we look at the pile on our living room table and gloat when anybody comes in and we tell them that that many people remembered us at Christmas. They came from nearby and from far distant points and all are greatly appreciated.

The mails were full of other things besides Christmas cards - Christmas letters. There were the letters going out from our big family of children to the people who had asked for their Christmas letters, and then there were letters to relatives and to clothing people, and before long the returns on these letters commenced to show up. We have a big conference room at Barium where the Board of Regents meet and where the staff meet occasionally, and this is the Christmas room. Christmas presents are brought in and listed with the name of the donor and the name of the child for whom it is intended and a record is carefully kept. A postal card is immediately mailed to the person sending the gift to let them know of its safe arrival. These presents are all kept together until the day before Christmas when they are sent out to the various cottages, and you would not believe the number that are in that pile of gifts - beautiful gifts, an amazing variety. It makes you take off your hat in awe and gratitude to see the magnificent response of the people who love to do things for the children at Barium Springs to make their Christmas a happy one.

We are getting ahead of the story, however. Long before these packages are opened we have the "Give To" Christmas Tree. We have described this in former years and now it is one of the most delightful occasions that we have. We always have it before school closes while the teachers are still here. The whole Barium community - teachers and nearby neighbors and the children gather in our dining room and there to an accompaniment of Christmas Carols as we decorate a Christmas tree. We start with the bare tree and as we make our gift we pin a decoration on the tree and end up with a most beautifully decorated tree and a substantial gift for some worthy cause. This year it went to the Home Mission enterprises under the direction of Reverend John W. Luke of Glendale Springs, N. C. We know Mr. Luke and we know the grand work that he has been doing for so many years and we enthusiastically made his work the object of our gift this year.

After this big occasion, the various grades in school usually have a little program or party or something and many gifts are exchanged. Through the kindness of several friends the children are provided with some Christmas money - not all of the children - just those who do not otherwise have any money, and there is a hilarious shopping day for each of them. You ought to see what happens to a five and ten-cent store when some forty children invade it each with a dollar or a dollar and a half to spend. Things really happen.

A special friend sends in a pretty sizable check to be divided among the late comers - those who have been at Barium only a short time when Christmas arrives. This is more than the ordinary child receives, but the idea back of it is to let that first Christmas be so impressive that the child will never forget it. Well, the idea works. One of the boys who was the recipient of this money this year apparently had never heard of Santa Claus. He had certainly never enjoyed a Christmas that made it stand out as any different from any other day. He was rather skeptical - he did not believe that things were going to happen like the other boys told him they were. Well, when he got through with his spending spree and with the Christmas distribution of gifts he was ready to tell the world there is such a person as Santa Claus.

Well, Christmas Day finally arrived. By this time the teachers have gone; some of the workers have gone, but most of them hang around until about ten o'clock Christmas morning. By that time the various Christmas trees have taken place. In fact, this business starts

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE
Hello Friends,
The time we have been waiting for has finally come and gone. Thanks to all our many Friends, Christmas here at Barium was just wonderful.

All the nice toys we received were just the thing for playing indoors on rainy days. If you come by our house all you will be able to hear is the lovely music of our xylophones and pianos. Christmas wouldn't be Christmas if we didn't get Old Maid Cards to play with. Our big sisters and matron like to play this game with us too.

Also we want to thank all our friends for the candy and nuts. We will still be eating candy and nuts for a long time to come.

When the weather is pretty we are going to dress up our dolls in all their pretty clothes and take them for a nice long walk.

Many of our girls got beautiful pocketbooks for Christmas. If any of you see us come sporting out in our new dresses, socks, handkerchiefs and pocketbooks, you'll know where they came from. All of these new clothes combined make a dazzling outfit.

One night one of our little girls was awakened out of a deep sleep by a shrill whistle. Not knowing what it was she decided she would wait for a repeated whistle. Sure enough a repeated whistle was fast and loud in coming. What she heard sounded like a quartet tuning up for their concert. One girl was snoring bass, another alto, another tenor and the last soprano which was the shrill whistle that she had heard previously.

One morning, not having any heat, all of us gathered in one room to play games, listen to the radio, and to eat a snack now and then. All the games you sent us came in very handy during this occasion and many more since then when we couldn't get out in the yard to play.

We are looking forward to a lot of snow this winter. It has snowed only once here at Barium, but that wasn't enough to brag about.

Basketball has started and we are hoping that our boys and girls will win the conference.

Again let us thank all our many friends for the lovely gifts which we received from them.

Until next month, we remain yours.

—The Annie Louise Girls.

GLEE CLUB

After the seniors graduate, we nearly always feel that certain school organizations have been ruined beyond repair by their loss. This is about the way we felt about the Glee Club, after losing almost one third of last year's membership by graduation. However, others always come along to take their places, and this year the Glee Club has more members than last year, and is probably just as good. Last year our music director was Miss Rachel Hickman. This year it is Mrs. Lee Spencer. Still the same person, though. She just changed her name during the summer.

Before Christmas the Glee Club prepared a program of Christmas music which was presented to the Iredell County Unit of the North Carolina Teachers' Association, the Campus Club of Davidson College, the Rotary Club of Statesville, and the Second Presbyterian Church of Mooresville.

At present, the Glee Club is working on a program of sacred music, anticipating that invitations will be received from a number of nearby churches to present this program anytime between February 20th and May 1st. Last year, one overnight trip was made by the Glee Club to Covington, Va., the home of the director; which was thoroughly enjoyed by the group, and was a kind of reward for the hard work it had done. This year the club is looking forward to another such trip, and a repeat invitation has been received from the people at Covington; but in order not to show partiality, some other invitation might be accepted this spring, if such an invitation were received.

The membership of the Glee Club is as follows: Sopranos: Anne Wicker, Lavona Morrison, Bernice Thoutman, Melva Powell, Jean Turlington, Peggy Neel, Lucille Stinson, Frances Stricklin, Anna Wil-late Christmas Eve night. The girls at Rumble Hall have to serve breakfast and we have found that appetites never take a holiday, so regardless of the fact that it is Christmas, breakfast has to be gotten ready and these girls have to pile out of bed earlier than the others and have breakfast on the table, so to keep them from simply dying of nervousness and too eager anticipation, their gifts are distributed to them the last thing before bedtime on Christmas Eve night. They started out singing Christmas carols, and while they were gone their gifts were put - not in their stockings, for these are bobby-soxers, but on the chairs that they had designated. When they returned from their singing there the gifts were. You never saw such an unwrapping procedure in your life as took place in the next thirty minutes. Some were simply overcome by the multitude and quality of gifts that they received. All were delighted. Then to bed for them. We do not know how many presents they took to bed with them, but it was a happy crowd that served breakfast the next morning. At six o'clock the next morning Lees Cottage broke the ice. This is a group of some twenty-four boys from eight to twelve years of age. Their gifts were piled around their Christmas tree. They were given out and in a very short time there were twenty-four supremely happy boys in that cottage. Each of them had some candy that they wanted everybody else to share with them; there were horns that needed tooting by everybody; there were mechanical gadgets world without end, and bows and arrows that somehow seemed to be just itching to hit somebody on an exposed part of their body. As this is written, however, some five days after Christmas nobody has been seriously wounded.

From Lees Cottage we go to the Baby Cottage, and if you don't know what pandemonium is come around some Christmas morning at 6:15 to the Baby Cottage. Such a profusion of gifts beyond imagination! This year one little girl was just overcome. She sat down and quietly fainted. We found out later, however, that it was not entirely due to delight, - she had eaten just a little bit unwisely the night before.

From the Baby Cottage we go to Howard where there are twenty-four girls eight to twelve years old - a very dignified group who had already opened their presents and had them laid out ready for visitors to see. This is the group that are beginning to forget to ask for dolls but never forget to ask for a vanity case - you see what we mean. Their presents were beautiful and thoroughly appreciated.

In the meantime, the girls at the Infirmary had their Christmas and had invited their friends to see their gifts after breakfast. At this point everybody took a recess for breakfast, and immediately after breakfast journeyed to Jennie Gilmer Cottage where some thirty boys received their gifts. These boys are from twelve to fourteen. It seemed like footballs, basketballs, and skates predominated over everything else, although there were plenty of bows and arrows and sleds.

After this the journey was to the Quads where the big boys live and there the gifts were distributed for the last Christmas tree of the day, and you would not believe what all those boys got - sweaters, lumberjacks. One boy came up with a pair of child's boots number 10, and what he wears is a man size 10, and did the boys have a time teasing him. He had failed to put his age and size in the letter that he wrote asking for the boots and simply put the number and the people thought he was a little orphan boy with a number 10 child's foot when he is a big old football player with a number 10 man's foot. He got as much fun out of the mistake as anyone else so no harm was done. Occasionally we have girls named Jackie, Johnny, etc. and they sometimes get pocket knives and cow-boy suits. This is never very tragic, but occasionally we have boys with names like Hester, Hazel and Winifred and when they get a compact in their presents then there is trouble, but none of that happened this year.

After the Christmas trees were over we were all invited to Annie Louise, to Synods and to Lottie Walker Building to see the gifts of the little girls, the little boys and the big girls. In fact, the big girls held open house. They had their gifts displayed in their rooms and the number of "Ohs" and "Ahs" that were heard in that building would fill several spelling books. All in all, this Christmas was the best ever.

Now, here are some of the things that helped to liven up Christmas at Barium this year. Just before Christmas we were allotted some Brazil nuts. We did not know just how many but there turned out to be 2800 pounds, and believe it or not, you can chomp a lot on that many Brazil nuts. Then a good friend down in Fayetteville manufactured a six-foot stick of peppermint candy and brought that to us - it arrived here at noon on Christmas Day. We had other gifts in bulk of candy and nuts and things like that. The Recreation Center in Statesville had prepared a lot of gifts for a party that they had and sent us the surplus, it was a grand time.

And now Christmas is over and a lot of jobs have to be done. Thank you letters have to be written, and that is when the headaches commence to appear. Sometimes a present comes in without any return address; sometimes a store where a present is bought sends it to us. We acknowledge receipt of it to the store and then maybe a month or two later we will get a rather indignant letter from the person who sent the gift saying that they have not heard a word about it, and we try to run it down to see what child got that particular present so the people can be properly thanked. Right now there are about 50 such presents. The children are eager to write their letters of thanks, but many times the address is lost in the scuffle of Christmas Day and the address may have been on the inside of the package and we have no record of it at the office.

We wish every donor could just be present on Christmas Day to see what a grand time they have and how deeply grateful the children are for their many remembrances. The children at Barium Springs are mighty proud of their folks, and the folks are all you who make our Christmas and other days possible.

If we attempted to list every present and every address of the donors and gifts in our Messenger we believe that it would take an extra edition to handle it.

What happens during the week of the holidays? Well, the picture shows come in for a big part of our entertainment. The Statesville to all through Jesus Christ, but what of those who have not heard?

And surely there are none in our churches today who are not informed of the millions who live and die and never hear the name of Christ. China, Korea, Japan, Mexico, Brazil, Africa. Simply to list the countries in which we as a church have mission stations is to bring before our eyes a vast multitude of people struggling down the roadway of life, never knowing, never hearing that a Saviour has died for them.

Do we care? Can we dare to be complacent with that picture ever before us? How can they call on Him in whom they have not believed? How can they believe in Him of whom they have not heard. The call of Christ has never been presented to them, in all its beauty, in all its urgency. How can they hear unless there is someone to tell them of the Saviour? May God forbid that this unbelief should rest on us, that their piteous cries should ring unheeded in our ears because we have failed to do all in our power that they might believe.

And that brings us to the overwhelming challenge of the text. "How shall they preach except they be sent?"

That is the challenge the church must always face today. The ministry in earliest times was self-supporting. Ministers and evangelists had their trades, and worked at them, and were financially independent. But now today, because of the very fabric of society, that is no longer possible. By supporting our mission workers all their time may be given to their task of leading the unsaved to Jesus Christ.

There are those willing to go, if they can be sent. For those who have felt this all important call there must be support. Unless they are supported, they cannot go. It is as simple as that. That is the challenge of Foreign Missions. It is our challenge. How shall they go except they be sent. We can serve by sending.

The cause of Foreign Missions is before our church today. The time to act is now. We have had many times periods of so called self denial. But what a misnomer that has been! For we have not denied ourselves even the luxuries we count so important. May we this year, with a prayer to God to forgive us our complacency in the past, resolve that we shall give to our very utmost to this cause of bringing Christ to those who are perishing without Him.

How shall they believe? How shall they hear? The answer depends upon our willingness to help. The promise is good, it has not changed. For the Lord Jesus stands ready to save all who will believe. And looking down upon those who know him not, looking with infinite tenderness and infinite love, we hear Him saying, "These also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd."

Theatre Corporation always present every child at Barium with tickets, at least one each to the two main theatres. Then other tickets are given so that there is plenty of picture show seeing. Then there are parties and a continuous basketball games. The gymnasium opens at 8:30 in the morning and sometimes as many as 80 children are romping up and down that basketball floor shooting goals and having a grand time. During the day there are usually one or two games and this lasts right up until supper time. Mr. Jackins, the football coach and basketball official, has this in charge. Maybe he does it to keep down his weight, or maybe it is because he just loves to see kids have a good time, anyway he is worth his weight in gold - and he weighs a lot - during the Christmas holidays. His family is right here at Barium and since he was raised here himself maybe it is easier for him to stay here all during the holidays.

One of the nicest things about our Christmases are the visits from boys and girls who have finished at Barium. This year there are Ernestine Baldwin, Bradley Manus, Dewie and Sadie Buie from Flora Macdonald College, there are Charles Barrett, Paul Horne, Amos Hardy, and Ernest Stricklin from Davidson, John Ammons, Charles O'Kelly, Tom McCall, Dave Spencer and many others from bygone days.

So many people did so many things for so many of us that we feel like erecting a banner across the highway with a big "Thank you" on it for everybody to see.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., FEBRUARY 1949

NO. 4

The Mid-Piedmont Tournament

Barium Springs held the eighteenth Mid-Piedmont Tournament in February from the 16th through the 21st. This is something that started at Barium in a very small way in 1932. It was popular from the very first. It invited the best consolidated school teams from the adjoining counties. We attempted to discontinue it during the war years, but the nearby schools just wouldn't have it. They insisted that it continue, and it has continued and grown. Originally designed for 32 teams, it now enters over 40, requiring an extra day of play. This year there were 40 teams entered. The weather was good and bad - it rained just half the time, and yet the attendance was literally overwhelming. At least half of the spectators had to stand in the semi-finals and the finals. The players at times had to share the court with spectators, and the officiating was done under difficulties, but everybody was in a good humor, the players took their defeats gracefully, and the whole thing ended up with everybody apparently happy.

There was something that transpired during the final games that Ripley ought to hear about. Berryhill school entered both boys' and girls' teams and these teams reached the finals. The girls' team was defeated decisively and the boys were in the midst of their game, when during a lull the cheer leaders took over. Now Berryhill school had one of the best group of cheer leaders we have seen. They put on a floor show that was as entertaining as the ball games. Naturally, their cheers, for the most part, were for their teams but right in the midst of the thickest of the fight for the final championship the cheer leaders gave 15

HOPES FOR THE FUTURE

The picture we are featuring in this month's Messenger is a group of junior basketballers. This is not all of our juniors - it is not even half of them. As a matter of fact, there are forty-eight who rate the uniform, 24 blues and 24 greens. There is enough of pep and enthusiasm in this group to power a medium-sized atomic bomb.

In our limited gymnasium space they do not get to practice nearly as much as they would like. Tuesdays and Fridays are their practice days while the members of the Varsity teams are resting up for their regular games on those nights. They play one game a week on Wednesday afternoon. They have to share their practice time with the junior boys so they do not get nearly enough basketball according to their way of thinking.

There is a tournament in the middle of March to feature these junior teams from a number of schools near Barium. That is their big day. Last year Barium entered three girls' and two boys' teams. We do not know how it will turn out this year.

Many a boy and girl gets to play in these junior tournaments who never make the grade in varsity competition, so they have to have their fun while they have a chance.

Those who are skillful enough make the varsity teams and then they play before crowds all the time and usually give a good account of themselves. Last year our varsity girls were conference champions, then at the end of the season they lost out in a tournament, but a beautiful trophy is in our trophy case for the conference championship. We might have repeated this year but for, not a slip of the wrist, but a slip of the ankle. One of our main dependencies on the girls' team sprained her ankle just two days before a crucial game. We lost that game and the next game to the same team and by the same ankle.

At the end of the season there will be a tournament for the conference teams and maybe our girls will make up for their two defeats by coming through in the tournament.

Our boys also have a very strong team. The fact that five in the squad are seniors may account for it, and may cause us to have some misgivings about our team for next year, but there is an enthusiastic bunch of juniors coming up and they may have something to say about it. Anyhow, we are not weeping over next year's chances yet. We know from the size of the crowds that attend our games and tournaments that a lot of people are interested in basketball, so we are giving something of this year's record for our teams.

Before Christmas we played some games with some stronger county teams, and they turned out this way: The very first games were with Celeste Henkel, our nearby neighbors. Our girls won 35-22 and the boys won 36-26. In the return game with the same school Barium was again victorious, the girls 42-25 and the boys 42-22. Then against the strong Cool Springs girls, our girls took their first defeat, losing 29-17 and our boys winning 38-18. Against the always strong Scotts teams, Scotts defeated our girls 41-23 and our boys won 40-29. In a second game with Cool Springs our girls won 32-26 and our boys 44-9, and then the conference season started. Our opening game was with Kannapolis at Kannapolis and our girls won 32-23, our boys 40-37, two red-hot well played games. Then followed games at Barium with Lexington. Our girls won that one 36-19, but our boys lost 35-29. This boys' game was really a heartbreaker. It was just one of those nights when Barium could not make her foul shots. Barium led Lexington all through the game but with Lexington narrowing the margin and just before the whistle blew for the end they tied the score at 28-28. In the extra period Lexington went ahead to win 35-29.

Then Barium journeyed to Mooresville. Neither one of the Mooresville teams had hit their stride and Barium played unusually fine ball, winning the girls' game 34-10, the boys' 47-29.

Back at Barium entertaining Spencer, Barium defeated the Spencer girls 44-10. This was an amazing victory, and at this writing is the only game that the Spencer girls have lost in the conference. They are the runners-up to the championship Statesville team. Barium defeated the Spencer boys 33-17.

Then came the big pair of games with Statesville played on the Barium court and Statesville took a double-header, the girls winning 30-26 and the boys 29-25. This double loss to our neighbors really meant something. It followed a decisive defeat in football by Statesville and constituted quite a record in a second defeat by our neighbors. Our boys and girls both determined to do something about it.

Then, to the Children's Home - another team that always gives every team a hard battle and saves their best for Barium. Our girls won easily, 32-17, but our boys had to come from way behind to win company in Winston-Salem. Our part of the income from this trust is about $4,000.00 per year. This has been a great help to us for it took up a part of the reduction in income for our endowment which because of the decreased earnings of investments of late years has been gradually reduced.

We are grateful for the generous support of the people of North Carolina, but the truth of the matter is that we will come very close to a deficit in our income this year. In fact, we will have difficulty in avoiding one. The orphanage has always been and will always be dependent upon the gifts of the churches large and small in the Synod of North Carolina. The income from them constitutes more than three-fourths of our needed yearly income.

How Rumors Do Grow

Recently we received a letter from a friend which explains itself. Since the same misleading ideas may be prevalent in other parts of the state, we are publishing his letter, after deleting names which would identify:

Rev. R. S. Arrowood, Treas.
Barium Springs, N. C.

Dear Mr. Arrowood:

I write to you to seek a direct answer to gossip that is prevalent in some parts of North Carolina. It goes something like this.

"Two or more years ago the Reynolds family of Winston-Salem made a large bequest (1½ million dollars) to Barium Springs. It is now one of the richest institutions in North Carolina and the support of the churches in annual Thanksgiving Offerings, especially of small churches, is scarcely needed."

I have not been in this presbytery or section of the country long enough to know the facts. I believe Barium does need the money and we have sent substantial gifts since I have been here. Since I meet this objection yearly, I would like the facts.

Sincerely,

We are grateful for the above letter for it enables us to explain the exact situation with reference to the orphanage.

THE MESSAGE OF FALSE IDEALS

The prophet Isaiah opens with the automatic use of a very spectacular device. It is a description of a great court of law. Isaiah says that God himself has a suit at law against His people. They are tried before the high jury of the heavens and earth and are found guilty. Yet that sentence is not final. For God ceases to be the harsh judge and becomes instead the loving, forgiving father who is pleading for the return of His children.

Isaiah wrote when Judah was being crushed under the heel of the conqueror, ruined, desolate. The land was a picture of destruction and waste. Why? Why did this happen to God's people? Isaiah answers that sin was the reason, as shown in their turning away from God. And that had resulted in a set of false ideals, of wrong ideas and attitudes toward each other and toward God.

And this sad condition into which the people had fallen was certainly not due to the fact that they had not been warned. Powerful and convincing messages from God through the prophets had fallen on their ears, but they had not heeded. Surely they deserved the rebuke of Isaiah, that "the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of man shall be made low, and the Lord alone shall be exalted." For their pride had so engulfed them that they had left God out of their lives and had come to feel completely self sufficient.

When a people become blinded by their own self-conceit, that condition invariably shows itself in

School News

Each year several fund raising campaigns are conducted by the school. The one that seems to meet with the most favor is the Polio fund, or "March of Dimes." This year the school collected $102.65 for this cause. This was more than twice the amount contributed any previous year. A good part of this amount was contributed by the children themselves. The rest by the matrons, teachers, and other workers. The eighth grade contributed $12.50, which was the largest amount given by any one grade; although the first, second, third, and tenth grades, and Baby Cottage, each contributed ten dollars or more.

New desks which were ordered almost two years ago arrived last week and have been placed in the Seniors' home room. It is hoped that the desks in some of the other rooms can be replaced soon. Many have been in use thirty years, or more, and are in very bad condition.

May 16th is commencement day, and plans for this important occasion are already being made. Pictures for the Spotlight have been made, commencement announcements have arrived, Senior rings came some time ago, plans are going forward for the Junior-Senior their false ideals. That is just as true with us today as it was between two and three thousand years ago in the time of Isaiah. Those people learned that it was indeed a perilous thing for a great punishment had come upon them.

Let us look briefly at some of these false ideals and open our minds to the sad truth that they are quite prevalent today. For false ideals are tremendously dangerous.

These people had first of all a false ideal of man. Their pride was at the root of it, this idea that man was self-sufficient. It was man trying to be God that called down the wrath of God upon Judah. And I wonder if it isn't the same thing that has brought the world today into its perilous state.

It is a solemn and awful power that is man's possession that he is capable of resisting the command of God. Man is exercising that power today, it seems, as never before. Man saying, "I am enough, my broadening intelligence, my acquisition of knowledge before only dreamed of, my energy, my will, my power is enough. I have no need for a God I have never seen, for a God I have to accept on faith, for a God who would limit my self-expression. I alone am sufficient." Well, that is a terrifying attitude, is it not? But who can deny that it expresses a widespread feeling abroad today. And that is our false ideal of man.

There was in Judah long ago and is in our world today a false ideal of things. So dependent had they become in Isaiah's day on things that the result was the worst sort of materialism. Which is but to say that they were so interested in the things they could make, and buy, and eat, and wear, and decorate their houses with, and ride in, that they had no time for God.

But if that serves to describe their condition, how much better does it describe our condition today! For we in America have material blessings to an extent never known before in all the history of the world. What is the view of the average American? Are these things gifts of God to be used in His service, or are we claiming credit for them and seeing them as things to be used only for our own pleasure?

Isaiah's people seemingly had lost all their sense of dependence upon God. They had looked at their wealth and come to the conclusion that they lacked for nothing. They had made gold and silver their hope. They had collected horses and chariots and relied upon them for safety.

And America is following along that very same way. Perhaps we need prophets today such as Isaiah to warn us that we are inviting catastrophe. For here is America, basing her hope and her confidence on the atomic bomb, the mighty two-ocean fleet, the jet planes and the long range bombers. And God is well nigh forgotten. A false ideal of things is perilous indeed.

It was such attitudes as these that had made the people of Judah feel that the man who was wealthy, who possessed the luxuries of life, who was powerful enough to do what he pleased - that here was a man blessed beyond measure.

Jesus showed us how false such an ideal of blessedness really is in his parable of the foolish rich man. For this man built new barns into which to store his wealth, rejoicing at the while in his own security. But when his soul was required of him, then he found how little these mattered after all.

And all these wrong ideals, about man, about things, about blessedness, all were the result of a false ideal of God. The people of Judah had actually forsaken God while still going through all the forms and ritual of their religion. In every age there is always the danger that religion shall degenerate into a mere lip-service worship. It happened in Judah; it is happening now in our own land. And I wonder sometime why the people bother with God at all when they have such an attitude.

The reason must be this, that they are thinking as some have always thought that there is something a bit magical about God. That man needs not to bother with God too much when all goes well, but when danger threatens then God is there for magical deliverance. Surely the first need of many today is that they rid themselves of the notion that in exchange for an hour or two on Sunday that they are immediately shielded from all danger and automatically heirs to all the promises of God. For that is a false and most dangerous ideal of God.

The Bible gives us the true ideal. Jesus said, "Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me." It is Christ, then, who gives the true ideal of God, Christ as revealed in God's Word, Christ the Son of God, Christ coming to show what God is like.

We can think of no greater God than a God like Jesus, loving, kind, sympathetic with human need, Seeing Jesus, we see God. For Jesus willing to do all and give all for us, said, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father."

May we then rid ourselves of all false ideals and come just as we are to Jesus, for He is ever ready to receive. May God help us to put aside our false ideals of ourselves that results in pride, our false ideal of things that results in materialism, our false ideal of blessedness that results in selfishness, and our false ideal of God that shows itself in superstition. And so may we come humbly to God, only trusting in Him who died for us, even Jesus Christ our Lord.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

It has been a long time since you have heard from us, but we are still alive and wiggling. Santa Claus was so good to us that we are just getting over it. We are still very interested in our toys. Eight of us received wagons and as soon as it gets warmer we are going to have a real race with them.

The honor roll students were really surprised about the party we had. Mrs. Bowling had promised us something and we thought we were going to have hamburgers at Gray's in Statesville instead we were entertained by a sumptuous chicken dinner at the Vance Hotel and afterwards we saw a wonderful western movie.

We are all trying to learn now to play basketball on our court in the backyard of our home. Our big sister, Anne, is teaching us to be All-Stars at an early age.

The Jr. League of Statesville gave us a wonderful time seeing Pinocchio at the high school auditorium.

Elsie Grier Circle met at Synods and some of us sang for them. They were Nat Craig, Richard Blackburn, Charles Ward and Tommy Taylor.

We'll be seeing you again next month.

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,

It has been several months since you have heard from us.

Right now we are interested in kites. Mr. Johnston gave us some twine and we make the kites out of news papers.

Some friends in Kenansville sent us some money for valentine. We had a party and went to the show. We want to thank you.

We have been enjoying the basketball games.

We are glad to have Donald Fraizer come to live with us, and we know he will love Barium as much as we do.

We have been trying to keep the campus clean, we can find plenty of paper and trash this windy weather.

Some of our boys are going to the birthday dinner to-day, we all look forward to our turn.

Our bulbs are beginning to bloom, we want our yard to look pretty and we keep the weeds pulled up.

So long till next time.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Fate has been with us all winter. Pretty days have been with us for so long, that when we did have a little snow and sleet we could hardly believe that it was true. Here in North Carolina, we are expecting any day now for the people in Los Angeles to come to spend the winter in our fair state.

Through the influence of Mr. Calhoun, our long awaited dream has been made possible. We have looked forward to having a basketball court for ages, that we could hardly believe our eyes when we came home from school and saw the court awaiting our approval. Our big sisters will be the captains of the teams. Not to be conceited, but we might have the Piedmont Conference Championship before its over with! Don't be surprised if one of these fair days you'll see Mrs. Bowling, Mrs. Finley and Miss Richards running and trying to make a "few" goals.

A few of our smallest girls are almost ready to recite the Child's Catechism. We wish them lots of luck because we know just what they are going through.

A number of our girls have received new dresses, which they are very proud of. The ballerina skirts have them all excited. They whirl around with such gracefulness that they come to a dead stop with their skirts falling loosely about them.

Miss Blakeney, the teacher who lives in our cottage, has been so busy in her flower garden that we are afraid she is losing a little weight from want of eating except for her coffee.

Valentine's day is a very happy one for all of us. The first day of February finds all of us making Valentines for the whole house.

We half expect to wake up one of these nights and see Valentines floating around in the air with cupid's shooting arrows into them.

Until next month folks.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

We have been having a wonderful time playing on the carom board, that the circle from Morganton gave us Christmas.

We have a good time taking pictures with the camera Betty Blackburn and Shirley Shaw got for Christmas.

Several of our girls had their eyes examined. They are Linda Inman, Laura Jane Craig, Florrie Garris and Alma Wright.

Gay Church has gone to the hospital to have her tonsils out. Now she can have all the ice cream she wants to eat.

We have had little David Lee Spencer with us for several days. We have been having a good time reading fairy tale books to him.

Three girls led the cheering section at two of our basketball games. They were Betty Lou Johnson, Linda Inman, and Shirley Hall, and three more are going to lead next time. We are doing a lot of cheering on the side, so we will not be embarrassed at the game.

We had a basketball tournament here, but we did not get to go to any of those games. We stayed home so there would be enough seats for visitors. When we go out for basketball maybe we will get to sponsor a team, then we will get to see a game.

—The Howard Girls.

BABY COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again bringing you our news for this month.

To start off we would like to tell you what our big sisters and our matrons have been doing. We are planning to have a garden this summer so they have set out four rose bushes and each one of us have set out a tulip which are already peeping through the ground. The garden has been dug and smoothed out. We are going to plant more flowers.

We don't think we have written you since Christmas but all of us had a big time and got more toys than we could carry at once. We enjoy playing with our toys very much.

Every day we go to kindergarten and have a lot of fun. When it rains we stay indoors and cut out things and color, but on pretty days we get outdoors and play games or go on walks. So you see we have fun most all the day.

We'll guess we had better say so-long til next month.

— The Babies

P. S. If anybody has any extra bulbs that they are going to dispose just send them to Baby Cottage.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

Although you don't see us at work or hear a big noise coming from our building, we're still sewing up dresses. Right now, we're trying to make every girl on the campus a new dress.

We've been short of help for a little while but we're keeping up along the progressive line. Two of our girls slipped out with appendicitis this month. One of them, Anne Wicker, was a member of the local ball team and the other, Star Langley, was missed due to the fact that she is one of our most efficient workers here in the sewing room.

By the way folks! We have a young grandmother with us now. New? Oh no, she has been with us some time. Its the granddaughter who is so - o new. She is only about a week old. Mrs. Winecoff is really proud of her and we girls hope she will hurry and grow some so all of us can hop down to see her.

Sewing isn't every thing we can do here. Right now we can hear Margaret Bullard, above the noise from the machines, reciting the Shorter Catechism. Good work gal. Thats something new for us up here. We all do something while we work, but she is the first to try memorizing the Catechism.

We'll tell you something else next month.

LOTTIE WALKER

Hi Folks,

Though this weather we have been having is delightful, I am afraid it has given us all a touch of spring fever. However there is one thing that can always put us on the run, that is our annual Mid-Piedmont Tournament. Almost all the girls had some part in helping to make the tournament a success. Since we all hand such a grand time meeting people and helping with this tournament we are looking forward with eagerness to the junior tournament which takes place next month.

Several of our girls will play in this tournament.

We get our report cards tomorrow and we all have our fingers crossed for luck!

See you next month.

Then we have our three printer's devils, Dean Upton, Edsel McArthur, and Frankie Lentz who are sweeping the floor right now.

Bobby (Doc) Whiting is a new boy on our group taking the place off Jimmy Williams who transferred to the truck farm group. Doc works mostly in the shoe shop. Well so long until next time.

RAHS and that WHO DO WE APPRECIATE technique for the officials! Now, you tell one. That was so unusual that we had to write about it and we think it illustrates the fine feeling that prevailed in this tournament.

We don't attempt to give the full details of all the games. There was the usual run of close games, particularly on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and then strange to say on the final night the scores were not close. The Union Grove girls dominated their game, defeating the Berryhill girls by 48-31. Then the Berryhill boys took over and defeated Stanley by 52-41. The Stanley team, by the way, were the champions of several years ago, three times in succession as we remember it.

Mecklenburg had the largest representation in this tournament - seven schools, against six from Iredell and a scattering from Catawba, Gaston, Alexander, and Lincoln. The Oxford School girls won the Best-Dressed Trophy and the Foul-Shooting was won by Peggy Sharer of Long Creek and Vernon Hedrick of Oxford. The losers in the semi-finals received trophies, these were the Sherrills Ford and Harmony boys and the Scotts and Laramont girls. Then, of course, on Monday night the losers in the finals received trophies and individual silver gifts for the players. The champions received the champion trophy and gold ornaments. In addition there will be special ornaments sent to those selected for all-tournament honors.

The officiating was handled most efficiently by Mr. Jim Gram of Laurel Springs, Mr. Cloyd Jager of Hickory, Mr. Fred Daniels of Statesville, and Mr. Ervin Atkins of Barium.

The only headache in the whole tournament was the limited space at the Barium playing court. It is estimated that as many people were denied admission on two nights as entered.

Hopes For the Future

4-30. The Children's Home led through practically the entire game and in the last quarter Barium came through with a rush to win. Over at Concord next and Barium took the girls' game 33-17 and in the boys' game played extraordinarily well to win 38-31. This was the first defeat administered to the Concord boys on their home court for the season. Then Barium journeyed to Lexington trying to redeem themselves for their earlier defeat by Lexington, but it could not happen that way. Our girls won 31-16, but our boys again lost 46-35. This is the only team that beat our boys twice during the season. Then the big return game with Statesville, and what a battle that was. The girls game wound up with Statesville winning 22-21, but our boys would not be denied and won this game 41-35. Then to North Wilkesboro. North Wilkesboro had a team which we had not heard anything about, but we knew they loved their basketball. Our teams had a showdown following the Statesville games and for a time it looked like North Wilkesboro would take both of these games. Our girls got a good lead to start with and then North Wilkesboro outplayed us, and the lead became smaller and smaller and when the whistle blew Barium was a very much relieved team to have that victory 32-28. Another quarter might have turned the tables. In the boys' game the North Wilkesboro team stayed in the lead with Barium coming through at the last to win 38-30. Then the Children's Home came to Barium. Barium won these two victories rather easily, girls 28-19, boys 38-19, and this established somewhat of a record. This is the first time in so many years that we have almost forgotten that Barium made a clean sweep of all basketball games with the Children's Home. It is not apt to happen again.

Then the last game before this writing Concord came to Barium and Barium again won a double victory, the girls 40-23 and the boys 36-30. Don't let anyone get the idea that Concord is weak - they have two strong teams and Barium was extended both times to beat this team.

Barium still has four games yet on her conference schedule. She entertains Mooresville here on Tuesday, the 22nd, and North Wilkesboro on the 25th (Friday). They go to Spencer on March 1st and end the season March 4th, entertaining Kannapolis at Barium. You will have to consult the daily papers to find out how these games come out. There will be a brief account of them in the next issue of the Messenger, but most of the news in that will be about the Junior Tournament.

We are proud of our teams, not only of the way they have played ball, but the way they have conducted themselves on the court. They play hard but still manage to stay good friends with their opponents. Right now we are in the midst of a tournament and we again have it brought home to us the desperate need for a gymnasium at Barium. Twenty-three years ago we started using our present school auditorium for a basketball court. It was such a big advance over what we had always had (an outdoor court) that we thought we had entered heaven when we entered that nice building, but a lot of things have happened since then. At that time we just had one basketball team - a girls' team - possibly 20 girls played some basketball and that did not interfere with our school work. Now we have more than 30 girls out for varsity ball; we have about 60 out for junior ball, and an equal number of boys in both divisions, and in addition to that every youngster below these groups is itching to get his hands on a ball to play. There have been on Saturdays that as many as 90 youngsters would be on that basketball court, tossing balls around, and a game going on at the same time. It is hard for you to believe this: we did not believe it until we saw it with our own eyes. Somehow they never run into each other and never interfere with the shooting of a goal. Just as soon as the ball changes hands the non-players change courts and commence to shoot at the goal which is not being threatened.

Maybe it is just a dream, but our desires and dreams about a new gymnasium become acute at this time of the year. We believe that Barium Springs is missing some big opportunity by failing to do something about it now.

There is no doubt about it but that the Barium tournaments are the most popular high school affairs in this part of North Carolina. People love to come to them and they love to play in them, and we have to say no to so many people who want to see these games. One of our dreams is that sometime two people may come to this tournament, a rich man and a contractor and that they will be sitting near each other, that they will be nudged in the back by people on our too-narrow seats and that they will have their feet trampled on because they are sitting too close to the court. There will, no doubt, be people standing in front of them and players and officials bumping into them. They won't see much ball game. We hope the rich man will turn to the contractor and say, "This is silly; let's build Barium Springs a decent gymnasium where the kids can play and where the people can see them play. I will furnish the money if you will do the work."

Now, our original dream was to have an architect sitting right behind them listening to the conversation and volunteering to draw the plans, but we already have the plan: we already have the ground, and all we need is the money and the contractor. We can almost forget the contractor part, because one has attended these games and been through just the experience that we have mentioned, and he has agreed to build this thing at such a reasonable price that all we need to make our dream complete is the man with the check-book.

Elsewhere in this issue we are giving an account of the basketball tournament. You can see how widespread this tournament is. From the number of Mecklenburg entries you could almost call it a Mecklenburg tournament - they even have more than our home county of Iredell - and they bring in mighty good teams.

Barium Messenger

VOL. 26

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., MARCH 1949

NO. 5

Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, Member of Board of Regents Passes

(From The Farmville Enterprise)

Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, a talented and capable administrator who dedicated her organizational ability and qualities for leadership to beautifying her home, increasing the influence of her church and improving her community, succumbed at 6:40 Monday morning, in a Wilson hospital, to an illness with which she was stricken several months ago.

Endowed with the charming characteristic of being able to guide and direct while remaining in the background and with no penchant for personal gain or glory, Mrs. Hobgood during her life-time was the recipient of many honors, ranging in importance from college medals to the presidency of the North Carolina Federation of Women's clubs.

Describing herself as "having been born in a Presbyterian manse" and "marrying into another," Mrs. Hobgood was the daughter of the Rev. Andrew Morrison and Sarah Rebekah Taylor Hassell, a family that was established in the Colonies by James Hassell who came from England in 1752 and settled in Bertie county, North Carolina. Her father enlisted, at the age of 16, in the Confederate Army and after the Civil War was ordained a minister of the Southern Presbyterian church. Mrs. Hobgood was born August 7, 1888, in Cross Hill, S. C., and was christened Elizabeth Lucile.

After receiving her education in the public schools of North Carolina and spending one year at Flora Macdonald college, she entered Fredericksburg college in Fredericksburg, Va., and was graduated in 1910 with the degree of Bachelor of Music. In 1908 she was awarded a medal for proficiency in public speaking and in 1909 was awarded another medal by the college, this one for proficiency in piano. Following her graduation she taught music at the college until her marriage.

The Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament

This tournament winds up the basketball season. We will have to give you a little news about the varsity before going into this. Since the last issue of our Messenger our big girls and boys were in a tournament at Mooresville and our girls came through as Champions bringing home a beautiful trophy. In the finals they defeated Statesville, a team which had twice defeated Barium during the season. The boys looked like they were headed for honors also, but they were defeated in the quarter-finals by Concord, a team which Barium had twice defeated during the season. So that's the way things go.

As soon as that tournament was off the board we all got busy to make our Junior Tournament the best ever. Thirty-two teams entered this tournament - 16 boys and 16 girls - and they played 46 games, a little shorter than the regular high school games, 6 minute quarters they were, but packing as much action as the usual eight minutes.

Barium entered a team of girls and a team of boys, but just before the tournament commenced one of the schools dropped out so two other teams had to be put in. These teams were not supposed to be very good; in fact, they were not supposed to last out the first two days, and the girls, meeting rather strong opponents, lost their first two games and were out of the tournament. In their first game they lost to the Mountain Orphanage girls 32-18. They lost their second game to Scotts 22-12. The second team of boys, however, did not submit quite so easily. They defeated the Wiley School of Salisbury 34-21 in their first game and in their second game beat Cool Spring 22-16. In their third game they were defeated by the Troutman team 27-22.

Our first team of girls, called the Barium Blues, defeated Wine-coff in their first game 30-8; they defeated Troutman in their second

We are decorating our Messenger this month with a bouquet of pictures. These pictures are just taken at random from those made last spring of all of the students here. The young people pictured here just happen to be photogenic. They make nice pictures, they also make nice company, and we are glad to introduce them to you.

The boy in the middle is Jimmy Bunnell from down Fayetteville way. The grin he is wearing in this picture is what he usually wears. He has been at Barium about a year. The girl in the upper bracket is Phoebe Cochran from Rutherfordton. Those eyes are brown and she is a nice somebody to know. She has been at Barium four years. The young gentleman in the top bracket is Archie McMannen from Durham, and he has been at Barium for eight years. The young lady in the bottom row is Shelby Peake. She is from Elizabethtown and has been at Barium two years. The young man in the bottom row is Richard McArthur from Carthage. Richard has one brother at Barium, so does Archie, and so does Phoebe. Jimmy is the only member of his family here and Shelby is the only member of her family. This is a nice bouquet to adorn anyone's desk.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hi Friends,

Before you quite get over valentine its almost time for Easter. Our new outfits are coming along just fine. We see also that Mother Nature is giving the trees their buds in time for Easter.

Thanks to Mr. Johnston, we have gotten a new R C A Victor record player. He also gave us some records which are almost worn thin from playing them so much. Our favorite is Rumpelstilkin.

Mr. Calhoun has done it again. What? He gave us a new basketball for our court. We shall take good care of it. Thanks so much, Mr. Calhoun.

Our News just wouldn't be right without some news from our teacher, Miss Blakney. Flash! Miss Blakney has been seen talking to some of the boys around here. What's the deep dark secret? Bet we can guess. Miss Blakney has gotten her a new spade and is trying

GIVING IS LIVING

At this particular season of our church year we are all thinking of the financial obligations of our church's work and how those obligations may best be met. It is, of course, a principle of the church that it subsists upon that which we voluntarily give for its support. The condition and future of the church therefore always is strongly affected by the liberality of our giving.

Many people are inclined to feel that there is often too much emphasis upon this very thing. And yet the fact is plain that giving often reflects the spiritual health of any church. We want to think just now of some simple principles

P Situation

This paper reaches your hands the various organizations of our Church, of the Boy Scouts, of the Girl Scouts, of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., and others will be making plans for summer activities. Many of these activities center around a camp and all of these plans have to be made just tentatively, because nobody yet knows how scared we are going to be about polio. Just one case of polio may start an hysteria that will close all camps, all picture shows, all swimming pools, all Sunday Schools, and everything that you can imagine which would be of interest and pleasure to young people. That is the way it was in 1948.

Let's hark back and think just a little bit about last year and what happened. North Carolina got the reputation of being one of the rotten spots of America, dangerous even to look at the name in a geography. All gatherings of children were stopped. People from North Carolina found themselves embarrassed. A young doctor and his wife had secured reservations for a vacation at one of the South Carolina beaches. When they arrived they found that their reservation had been cancelled and they were not allowed to stop. They were from the plague State of North Carolina. There were many other instances of people from North Carolina being denied hotel accommodations because they were from North Carolina. There were instances, many of them, where people were afraid to cross the State for fear of contamination.

This seems unbelievable even now just a year later. Someday our children will look back on this situation and compare it with the witch hunt of colonial days. We attended a funeral last summer and the mourners were more concerned about their children because some people came from a town where there were one or two cases of polio than they were over the death of their loved one. Why do we do such foolish things? What was the reason? We are publishing in full a pamphlet that was gotten out with much care by a man who was in charge of a camp. His camp was put out of business completely by the polio ban on camps. During his idleness he took pains to investigate to find out just how serious polio was in comparison with other diseases and in comparison here with other states. It may help you to control yourself during the summer of 1949.

By all the laws of averages we will have some cases of polio during this year. Whether we shall treat it reasonably or whether we shall get tremendously excited remains to be seen. We believe that we can hurt our children far more by simple fear than we can by the disease itself. Every year the March of Dimes brings the polio situation before us clearly, and we heartily subscribe to all efforts made to eradicate the disease and to find its cause and cure, but we do not think the cause is advanced by senseless orders such as stopping Sunday School. Whoever caught anything in a Sunday School? The Sunday Schools are not crowded, the children are clean, the place they are in is clean and they are only there a few minutes. One rather pessimistic minister remarked as an additional argument that nobody who ever had the least pain ever went to church - it was too easy to use that headache, or whatever it might be as an excuse to stay at home, so you may depend on it that those who go to Church and Sunday School are perfectly healthy.

There is one other thing to think about. When we tell a child that he cannot go to Sunday School, he can't go to picture shows, he can't go to camp, he can't go to swimming pools, we fail to tell him what he can do. He has to keep on living. He wakes up in the morning with the spirit of adventure and he must do something to amuse himself and all around him he sees nothing but "Dont's" - just what shall he do. We wish someone had the time to check up on the number of accidents which happened to children when all these other wholesome diversions are denied them. We could very quickly give some information about our family of children, the number of broken arms, broken legs, and nearly cracked skulls multiplying because our mild admonition not to climb trees does not seem to apply when all other forms of amusement are definitely denied. There is one tree at Barium which houses a family of flying squirrels and this accounted for three broken arms during the past summer. We have a sigh of relief when organized athletics take over and the children's play is supervised. Last year even getting together for football practice was denied the younger students in some areas. This practice is in the open and if anything is healthy it surely is, and yet the bans to prevent polio stopped even that.

We join in with every effort to control and prevent this terrible disease, but we do not go along with senseless prohibitions that even the doctors themselves do not think help one little bit. It seems that they must do something to convince the public that they are concerned about the situation. At one time we suggested, after a doctor had made an admission like that, that they just get a hammer and go around and hit the parents of children on their bunsions - this would make them uncomfortable and painful and know that something was wrong with the world at large, and it would do just as much good toward stopping polio as stopping children from going to Sunday School would.

Let's take it easy this summer and be sensible. Read the following article carefully.

TOWARD A BALANCED PERSPECTIVE

From a pamphlet prepared by FRANK BELL, Chairman A. C. A. Research Committee Mondamin-Green Cove Tuxedo, N. C. October 10, 1948.

The incidence of poliomyelitis in North Carolina during 1948, and the attendant hysteria, threw some perspectives out of balance, and indicate the possible wisdom of a second, calm, factual look. Does North Carolina deserve the reputation that some of its own press and citizens have helped it acquire, of being the polio state? Is the disease more prevalent in North Carolina than elsewhere? Comparatively speaking, how serious is polio? These are questions to which we shall seek authoritative answers.

First, let us get a factual picture of what has happened in North Carolina and elsewhere in the United States from 1916 through 1946, inclusive (the last year tabulated in a publication by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, "Facts and Figures about Infantile Paralysis," publication 59, revised December, 1947). Table III, page 25, shows that—

The United States averaged 7.3 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 to 1946 inclusive.

North Carolina averaged 3.5 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 to 1946 inclusive.

A condensation of figures from that authority, showing relative cases rates for all states, District of Columbia, and the United States, follows:

AVERAGE CASE RATES, 1916-1946, PER 100.00 POPULATION
1. Minnesota	14.0
2. New York	12.9
3. Vermont	12.1
4. California	10.9

9. New Jersey	9.6
10. Kansas	9.1
11. Montana	9.1
12. North Dakota	8.4
13. Utah	7.7
14. Wisconsin	7.7
15. South Dakota	7.4
16. Michigan	7.4
Avg. United States	7.3
17. Oregon	7.2
18. Nebraska	6.9
19. Colorado	6.9
20. Arizona	6.8
21. Maine	6.8
22. Wyoming	6.7
23. Illinois	6.7
24. Virginia	6.6
25. Iowa	6.6
26. New Mexico	6.5
27. Rhode Island	6.3
28. Maryland	6.2
29. New Hampshire	5.9
30. West Virginia	5.5
Dist. of Columbia	5.5
31. Idaho	5.5
32. Ohio	5.2
33. Kentucky	4.8
34. Oklahoma	4.4
35. Pennsylvania	4.2
36. Mississippi	4.1
37. Missouri	4.1

39. Delaware	3.9
40. Indiana	3.6
41. South Carolina	3.6
42. Tennessee	3.6
43. Texas	3.51
44. North Carolina	3.50
45. Louisiana	3.4
46. Arkansas	3.2
47. Florida	3.2
48. Georgia	2.4

It is interesting to note that the three highest occurrences, and four of the five highest occurrences are in states bordering Canada. The eight lowest rates occur in Southern States. While it is possible that some part of this apparently good record is due to under-reporting in normal years, that possibility tends to be offset by the fact that in periods of abnormally high occurrences over-reporting is apt to take place.

We know little of recurrence cycles. In my 27 years of camping in North Carolina, we have had three so-called epidemics. There is some support for the theory of an approximate nine-year cycle—though I have seen it recur within four years.

Pages 10-23 in this same publication 59, carry some very enlightening charts on distribution, indicating visually North Carolina's comparatively favorable position.

Attempting to bring these comparisons to October 2, 1948, including the first nine months, and worst recorded period of North Carolina's worst year, I get this report from the North Carolina Board of Health.

United States averaged 7.4 cases per 100,000 population in 1947.

United States averaged 13.1 cases per 100,000 population to October 2, 1948.

North Carolina averaged 8.1 cases per 100,000 population in 1947.

North Carolina averaged 60.2 cases per 100,000 population to October 2, 1948.

Combining these with the above figures, we find that the United States averaged 7.56 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 through October 2, 1948.

North Carolina averaged 5.4 cases per 100,000 population from 1916 through October 2, 1948.

North Carolina's worst attack left the state comfortably below national averages. Generously assuming the other states figures static as of the end of 1946, North Carolina would now rate thirty-second.

Corroborating the fact of North Carolina's sub United States average case rate is Reprint Number 2848 from Public Health Reports, Public Health Service—"Poliomyelitis in the United States, England, and Wales in 1947." This study, by C. C. Dauer, W. H. Bradley, and A. H. Gale, shows the morbidity rate for the years 1944-1947 inclusive, and North Carolina's rate is again below the United States average—and below most of the other states, individually. Reprint Number 2630, also by C. C. Dauer, and from Public Health Service in Washington, studying the 1944 epidemic, locates the worst area that year "in a solid block of counties in western and southern New York State, and in a single tier of counties in northern Pennsylvania, bordering on New York. The western part of Massachusetts where the incidence was high, should also be included as part of this outbreak. One-third of all the cases reported in the United States in 1944 occurred in this area . . . The highest rate of incidence, 381 per 100,000 population, occurred in Steuben County, New York." Compare that with North Carolina's rate for 1948 to October 2, its worst occurrence, of 60.2 per 100,000 population.

We scarcely need pursue such figures any further to see that North Carolina's sometimes predominant reputation as the polio state is undeserved; was probably acquired by unwise publicity, exaggerated interpretation, hysterical reaction.

Now, let us look for a moment at the comparative importance of poliomyelitis. U. S. News and World Report, September 17, 1948, page 22, "Polio: Facts vs. Fears," is responsible for the statement that polio "is killing far fewer persons that whooping cough, crippling fewer than rheumatic fever." The same article carries a chart showing that the Chances of infection for polio are 1 in 1,000; for rheumatic fever 1 in 100.

Chances of being crippled by polio, 1 in 5 victims; by rheumatic fever 1 in 2 victims.

Chances of death from polio are 1 in 20 victims; by rheumatic fever 1 in 5 victims.

Chances of recovery from polio are 3 in 4 victims; from rheumatic fever 3 in 10 victims.

Automobiles do many times the damage to life and limb that polio does. While polio was accounting for 120 deaths in North Carolina in its worst outbreak on record,

1. Heart disease killed in the same state	4,953
2. Apoplexy killed in the same state	2,098
3. Cancer killed in the same state	1,643
4. Influenza and Pneumonia killed in the same state	1,038
5. other accidents killed in the same state	894
6. Automobiles killed in the same state	411
7. Diabetes killed in the same state	340

Polio can be a terrible thing to its victims; but when we look at it among man's other enemies, its comparative importance shrinks. Occurrence of the disease seems highly improbable; recovery probable.

Age susceptibilities can be important and interesting, especially to those of us dealing with groups of children. The North Carolina Board of Health is the source of these figures, taking August 1948 as a sample month. Of the polio cases reported, 46% were from 1 to 4 years old.

27% were from 5 to 9 years old.

13% were from 10 to 14 years old.

14% were 15 years old and over.

This indicates that well over half the cases occur before school age and that approximately three-fourths before the usual age for beginning camp. Does it not follow that some three-fourths of the chances of occurrence is therefore past by camp time?

The question of whether or not group living increases incidence has come up. The following is a condensed report based upon information received from four children's institutions in North Carolina. This information was given in answer to an inquiry as to how many cases of polio per year they have experienced over a period of years.

The Baptist Orphanage of North Carolina, Thomasville, N. C., reports in 1935, one case from a group of 500, or two-tenths of one percent occurrence. Since then they report no cases to August 9, 1948, the date of their reply. The capacity now averages 400 per year. 1935-1948 morbidity rate was two one-hundredths of one percent.

The Methodist Orphanage, Raleigh, N. C., reports never a case of polio to date of writing, August 10, 1948.

From an average annual capacity of 400 plus, the Children's Home, Inc., Winston-Salem, N. C., had two cases in 1944, an incidence of five-tenths of one percent for that year. Neither of those cases resulted in permanently adverse effects. In 1948, one case occurred, an incidence of twenty-five-hundredths of one percent; no paralysis resulted in this case. 1944-1948 morbidity rate (through mid-August 1948) fifteen-hundredths of one percent.

The Presbyterian Orphan's Home, with a capacity of 300 annually, reports two cases for 1948; one fatal, the other very mild. This is an incidence of sixty-seven-hundredths of one percent for 1948. No other cases at this institution are known of since its beginning in 1891; since that time some 2500 children have been there for varying lengths of time. Overall morbidity rate (mid-August) eight-hundredths of one percent.

In 1948, only one private camp in North Carolina had any poliomyelitis, according to the Board of Health. One other case occurred in a short term 4-H camp—that was the camp total.

We have at least two obligations where our children's health is concerned. One is to protect them and help them learn to protect themselves against real and avoidable dangers. Another is help them avoid physical or emotional damage from unnecessary fear and fear reaction. We should be sure our goblins are real. The species has been known to vanish under good light. Probably polio's priority as the top child enemy, and North Carolina's as a polio center, will do likewise!

The Message of the

of giving that may prove helpful.

Our subject is "Giving Is Living." And it is! For following Christ at all means just that, it means giving our all to Christ. It means seeing through the eyes of Christ to the extent that we realize that all that we are and have belong after all to God. That our blessings are simply held in trust for God, and our task is to prove ourselves good stewards of His gifts. It is then that life becomes truly abundant and worthwhile. For when we live for Christ, we give our hearts, our time, our talents, our money in His service. For giving is living!

Paul in speaking to the church at Corinth mentions some principles that might well characterize our stewardship of possessions. First, there is a need for liberal giving. Paul refers to a collection that he is taking in Macedonia and Greece for the poverty stricken Christians of Jerusalem. As a rule these people came from the poorer classes. The opposition of the time made it almost impossible for them to secure work for their support. A severe famine had added to their woes, and it was just at this time that Jerusalem was in a very unstable and troubled condition. Surely no one could doubt the people's need for help and help that must not be long delayed.

Just as surely no thinking person today can deny the need for Christian liberality. It is true that government agencies have been set up to alleviate suffering, but they will not be able to carry the burden alone. Nor can such agencies possibly meet all the needs of suffering mankind. For it is the Christian Church alone that is able to minister to the world's spiritual needs. Most of our contributions go directly or indirectly to the cause of winning men for Jesus Christ. Such a high purpose merits our most liberal support.

There is a second principle that Paul might give us, that there is always a need to plan our giving. In his first letter to the church at Corinth he had urged the people to give systematically. He had proposed that the people should try to give at certain specified periods. So you see when we plan a budget and try to urge each person in our churches to give to the church at weekly intervals we are not injecting modern ideas. This method of planned giving is almost as old as the gospel itself. It is not a departure from the gospel, it is a return to it. Surely Paul would approve and heartily support the idea of the budget and the every member canvass.

When we give only occasionally, or just on impulse, we are likely to think that we are giving a great deal more than we actually are. We see those gifts perhaps in our imagination and they are likely to loom pretty large. But when we are able to make a pledge and fulfill that pledge from week to week, then we have the satisfaction of knowing exactly what we are doing for the Lord. Planned giving, then, is Biblical, and it has the blessing of God.

A third principle that Paul would give us is that there is a need for cheerful giving. It is a matter for the heart to decide what we shall give. And I am convinced that he who gives from a heart warmed by love for others and concerned by the need of others is likely to give all that he is able.

Paul's advice is this, "Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver." Perhaps no other verse in all the Bible is quoted half so much as this in regard to giving. Think of that word, "cheerful," for a moment. The Greek word, hilaron, carries an even stronger meaning than cheerful. What does it suggest to you? What English word? Perhaps I might be fairly cheerful about giving to the Lord something I would rather keep for myself. But I could not be hilariously joyful about. There, isn't that the word? Hilarious. God loves, then, a hilarious giver. One who gives happily and joyfully from a heart that is simply overflowing with love and good will. We may give from a sense of duty and the gift be eminently worthwhile. But how much better it is to give with boundless joy that we are able to share in the work of God.

Finally, Paul gives us the principle that there are rewards for liberal giving. "And God is able to make all grace abound toward you, that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work." The reference in that statement seems to be toward earthly goods. And actually no one can deny that liberal giving is often followed by an even greater outpouring of God's blessings upon us.

Yet actually the true spirit of giving is not to give just to receive more. The surest fact is that zealous giving to God's work is one of His surest methods for training loyal men and women to follow Him. Giving to God binds us to Him, it gives us a feeling of participation in His work, it gives us higher and nobler goals in life, it gives us a more lasting consecration to Him. And that is the true worth and the true reward for liberal giving. For giving is living!

riage in Richmond, Va., on January 2, 1913, to the Rev. H. Flournoy Morton, a Presbyterian minister who died of influenza in 1920.
Mrs. Hobgood came to Farmville as the wife of the promising young minister, who succeeded, before his untimely death, in securing the construction of the church still used by the congregation. To this union was born one son, William Dennis Morton, a student at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond. Her marriage to Mr. Hobgood, a well-known tobaccoist who died April 29, 1940, was solemnized in Battle Creek, Mich., June 7, 1921.
Although her home had always been her major interest, Mrs. Hobgood found increasing opportunity to participate in civic and religious affairs. In cooperation with Mrs. Sallie Southall Cotten, a close friend who lived in an adjoining community, she organized the Farmville Woman's club in the early 1920's. She served as president for three years, resigning to accept the chairmanship of the 15th district, an office she held until 1926. A year later, she was State Chairman of the Federation's division of public welfare and at the state convention in Charlotte in 1929 she was elected second vice-president, a position which automatically placed her at the head of the districts. At the state convention in Greensboro in 1931, she was elected president of the N. C. Federation.
She served as president of the Farmville Parent-Teacher association in 1922.
In addition to these connections, Mrs. Hobgood became vice-president of the North Carolina United Dry Forces in 1933. She was affiliated with the Order of Eastern Star, was one-time organist of the Fredericksburg chapter. She was a member of the Colonel Alexander McAllister chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, and belonged to the Merry Matrons and Literary club.
In 1932, through her efforts, the Farmville Junior Woman's club was organized.
It was to her church work, however, that Mrs. Hobgood devoted a majority of her time and it was in this field that she gained additional respect and love. She was historian of the Albemarle Presbyterian from 1927 until her election as president for a three-year term in 1945. In 1933 she served as synodical secretary of orphanages, and at the time of her death was a member of the Board of Regents of Barium Springs orphanage. In 1934 she served as chairman of the Presbyterian nominating committee. In 1945 she was presented an honorary life membership in the Presbyterian by the local auxiliary. For many years she served as organist and director of music in the local church. She taught in the Sunday school and, until her illness-forced absence, she had an unbroken attendance record that extended over a period of more than a dozen years. More than any other individual, she was responsible for keeping alive and developing Caraway's Chapel, an outpost which several weeks ago assumed its full status as a church.
For 10 years prior to her death, Mrs. Hobgood had served as chairman of Sallie Southall Cotten loan fund, set up by the State Federation to make loans to worthy young ladies who, without them, would be unable to receive a higher education.
For 15 years, Mrs. Hobgood had been a member of the Pitt county welfare board.
Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon in Farmville Presbyterian church, the tie which most bound her to the community and which she loved as she did her home. The rites were in keeping with the life she led, simple and dignified. Rev. Edwin S. Coates, pastor, officiated. In the church were read portions of scripture and offered two prayers. Services were terminated at the graveside with another scripture selection and a prayer by the pastor.
The following elders and deacons of the Presbyterian church served as active pallbearers: G. R. Smith, E. Beckman, Jr., J. C. Corbitt, Leslie Smith, Will Moore, Fred Gore, John B. Lewis and Charlie Curray.
Augmented by the voices of Mrs. Elton Bobbitt and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Holmes, the Presbyterian choir sang "How Firm a Foundation" and "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."
Burial was in Forest Hill cemetery.
Survivors include the son; one daughter, Mrs. Kate Reynolds, Greenville; three brothers, the Rev. J. V. Hassell, Th.D., of Greenville, executive secretary of Albemarle Presbytery, C. M. Hassell, Charlotte, and J. F. Hassell, Atlanta, Ga.

ing to lure the boys in to working for her. We think she is doing it so she won't have to wear it out herself.
Five of our little girls have received their new Testaments for reciting the Child's Catechism. Their names are Rachel Bass, Shelby Jean Peak, Carol Harwell, Dean Kiser, and Mary Glenn. In addition to their Testaments they also received three dollars. We are very proud of these girls and hope to see them with a Bible pretty soon.
While studying the Catechism one Sunday afternoon we ran across a question concerning temptation. Our Matron told us that when the Devil tempted us to say, "Get behind me Satan." Mary McEwen had been given specific orders not to climb in the chair to get the crayons from off the high wardrobe. She decided she would do it anyway but while her hand was just about touching the crayon she remembered what she had been told. She stood there a minute longer and then saying, "Get behind me Satan," get down from the chair without the crayons.
This is a lesson we should always remember.
We have been having some wonderful apples this winter. We surely hope the weather hasn't killed any of the fruit for pleasant eating this summer.
We won't call any names, but a certain big girl at our cottage was telling us about kidding one of the colored persons on the campus. While telling about it, she was describing the persons face and let it slip out that the persons turned as red as a beet. Can you imagine it turning red? Well! Neither can we.
Good luck until next month.
—The Annie Louise Girls.

HOWARD COTTAGE
Hi Folks,
Here we are again with the news of our cottage.
We are all having fun at our Junior Tournament. We are still taking turns leading the cheering section at the games.
This month we had two of our girls to go to the birthday table. They were Shirley Hall and Evelyn Cox.
We are going to have our piano recital the twenty ninth of this month. Nine of our girls are going to play in it. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Winecoff are making lovely dresses for the recital. They are scalloped and ruffled around the bottom and have little bows on them. Colors aqua, blue, pink, and yellow.
Peggy Byrd, Katherine Kuykendall and Alma Wright recited the Child's Catechism this month. Those three and Betty Anna Blackburn who had recited it several months ago were rewarded by going to see a show "When the Sun Comes up."
Betty Anna Blackburn and Shirley Shaw had their films developed and we have had fun looking at the pictures.
Circle number 8, First Presbyterian Auxiliary of Wilmington sent us each a beautiful hand made slip. Each one of them had a different design.
Well so long till next month.
—The Howard Girls.

BABY COTTAGE
Hello Friends,
Here's "Rainbow Cottage" greeting you with a head full of ideas to tell you. But first of all I guess I had better explain to you our new name, "Rainbow Cottage". Well, it's this way. The Baby Cottage workers are planting a garden which will have flowers of all the colors of the rainbow, and also our garden plot is curved like a rainbow. Our big sister, Doty, is going to christen it by picking the first flower that blooms.
We've really had an epidemic of mumps and tonsils! It seems that the ones that can't have tonsilectomy are going to catch the mumps. Charlie Greene, Lucille Rich and Patsy Ross are at the Infirmary now with them. The ones that have had their tonsils out so far are Tyresa Taylor, Jackie Taylor, Virginia Dare Lane, Patsy Porter, and Margaret Ramsey. We are expecting to have a few more removed. While Tyresa and Margaret were down at the Infirmary Linda Lee Byrd took her doll down to have its tonsils out too. So you see, humans aren't the only ones that can get sick.
Mr. Weatherman certainly has been nice to us. At first we thought we could go in swimming one afternoon it was so warm, but Mr. Weatherman changed his mind about 5 o'clock. (It turned cooler).
Well folks, we'll have to say so-long until April. Tune in then same time same place.

Best wishes,
— "Rainbow Babies."

The Junior

game 17-13. They lost their third game to Lincolnton 22-20. By the way, this Lincolnton team came through to win the championship.
The first team of boys, called the Barium Greens, defeated Oxford in their first game 29-16. They defeated Winecoff in their second game 28-18, defeated Lincolnton in their third game 29-20 and defeated Troutman in the final game 30-15 to be the champions of the boys' division.
It is hard to describe this mid-get tournament. You would have to come to see it to really soak up the spirit of it. About 500 people can be seated in our gymnasium which, by the way, is just the auditorium of the grammar school. Of these 500 about 100 of them sit on the stage on bleachers. The players who are not participating in the games are supposed to sit there, so at any time during the tournament you can see on the stage fragments of possibly twenty ball teams. Many of them have never met each other before. From the looks of things they are delighted over becoming acquainted with other young people from other schools. If you get tired at any time of watching the progress of the games you can revive yourself by watching the play of emotion in this group of young people on the stage. Some cheer for one team and some cheer for another, some apparently forget that there is such a thing as a ball game in their conversation with each other. Some are eating peanuts, candy, etc. or just having a good time.
The disappointments of defeat are quickly forgotten and so many of the teams go away with a trophy that everybody feels at though they were victors. 32 teams enter this tournament, and 24 of them receive trophies. In fact, every team that wins as much as one game carries home with them a very nice trophy with two especially desirable ones for the champions and the runners-up.
Of all the events staged at Barium during the year, and there are many, we believe the Junior Mid-Piedmont Tournament brings more pleasure to more people than any other one thing. The officials help to make it that way. They take their job seriously and handle these junior games just as carefully as though the national championship depended on it. The students who have duties connected with it help to make it a pleasant occasion - there are the time-keepers, the scorekeepers, the ones who handle the refreshment stand, the clean-up boys who gather up the bottles and clean up the debris after each game, the traffic squad and above all the sponsors who look after each individual team and see that they are made comfortable.
This year we had the additional pleasure of having the girls from The Mountain Orphanage at Black Mountain as participants. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barkley, the superintendent and his wife, who used to be most beloved members of our own family here at Barium brought the team down. They were our guests for supper on two nights and spent Friday night with us. We fell in love with the whole lot of them. We hope there will be many occasions for them to repeat their visit to us. And now it is goodbye basketball until next year. All we have to do from now on is to enjoy a banquet in just a few days to celebrate.

We are herewith presenting the pictures of our 1949 Graduating Class. There are thirteen Barium Springs young people presented here and two from the neighborhood: At the Mills Home they call these "scrub orphans", but we want to think up a nicer name for them because all that we have in our school are mighty nice people. The two presented here are Dickie Arrowood and Ricky Lippard. Here are the statistics on the other thirteen: Herbert Good has been in the orphanage longer than any other member of the class. He entered July 1st, 1935. All in all the thirteen members of this class have been living 245 years. 144 of these years have been at Barium Springs. We are going to miss this class for a long time. Every one of the boys played on our football team, seven of them were starters. Seven boys played basketball, four in the starting lineup. Four are in the Glee Club. Among the girls three are basketball players; two are members of the Glee Club, and all of them have done their assignments in school and in work most acceptably. They are going to make good citizens wherever they go. They can do a surprising number of things well. Three of the girls are headed to W. C. U. N. C. Four of the boys are headed to Appalachian. If you run across one of these young people as your neighbor we think you will find that he or she is a good neighbor. We wish them Godspeed.

The Johnstons On The Prowl Again

By Jos. B. Johnston

A few years ago there was a very popular song, "Stars fell on Alabama". Well, during the last twelve months the Johnstons could have a song something like this, "Girl Babies Fell on the Johnston Family." Three grandchildren of the female variety arrived within the twelve months. On June 10, 1948, Elizabeth Dickey Johnston was born to Joe and Peggy. On October 13th, little Jane Ann was born to Bill and Nell Johnston. On January 15th, little Nancy Horne was born to Bob and Marjorie Johnston, and all of this entails a lot of responsibility to the grandparents.

It takes just a day to visit the Joe Johnstons in Concord and to check up on their two little girls. It takes a week-end to visit the Bob Johnstons in Charleston to see little Nancy and step-son, Joel. Then it takes a whole week to visit the Bill Johnstons and little Jane Ann because they live in New Albany, Indiana, and it takes quite a bit of arranging for a whole week. As a matter of fact, that does not happen once a year even, but on April 6th we started out for that visit. We left Barium at nine o'clock in the morning on a beautiful but windy April day. The previous day's rain had swept all the dust and smoke out of the nearby Blue Ridge and the trip up to Asheville was one of delight. The fact that we had made that trip many a time before did not lessen the pleasure of seeing it all again. A mid-day lunch in Asheville and then out through the Great Smokies. A new road had been built since our last trip that way, missing Waynesville by a few miles and taking us through Soco Gap. This was some added scenery which we had not expected and it was worth traveling over a second time, but we were on our way to New Found Gap and Clingman's Dome before the evening wore away. On Clingman's Dome we found plenty of snow and ice and we found that we could see part of Fontana Lake from that spot. It looked mighty far down. Before it was too late we drove down off the mountain and spent the night in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. It was quite warm there and that helped to make us realize that Gatlinburg is just a mile lower than Clingman's Dome where we were earlier in the afternoon. We had supper at a little cafe which was over the Little Pigeon River. The food was fair - the price was strictly for the tourist trade, but that of course goes with the trip. We spent the night at a Motor Court, run by a woman whose hobby is African Violets, and I had a lot of trouble on my hands the next morning getting Mrs. Johnston to leave without getting the personal history of every individual plant. However, we did manage to get away rather early. We stopped by Knoxville to get breakfast, and then on to Oak Ridge, that wonderful secret city which has just been opened to the public.

We spent several hours driving through the residential part of this place and another hour in the museum, but we never did see any of the plants where the miracles are being performed. We found out a lot of things about this city of about 35,000 people, something less than half its size at the peak of the war activities. There are city - trading centers with drug stores, grocery stores, dry goods stores, picture shows, etc. The houses are of a very temporary nature but are now being converted to more permanent structures. Their schools, athletic fields, places for games, park and everything but graveyards. After driving through that place and finally leaving this was the thing that struck me most forcibly - not an old person and not a graveyard in a city of 35,000 people. Would it not be wonderful if it could be like that all the time - if people did not get old and have to have special provision made for them and if no ground had to be set aside for graveyards. We do not want to spend too much time talking about Oak Ridge - just enough to whet your appetite so that you will take in this wonderful place the next time you are out near it.

After leaving Oak Ridge, we journeyed north and stopped for a few minutes at the Norris Dam, the first of the big storage dams of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Of course, the water was very low at this time, purposely so in order to hold back the Spring floods which have so often proved disastrous. The Tennessee is now under control and you can plant your garden right down to the edge of it without fear that it will be overrun - that is the river below the storage dam. Just to show that we know what we are talking about, these storage dams are, in addition to the Norris, the Cherokee on the Holston River, the Douglas on the French Broad, and Fontana on the Little Tennessee.

We had budgeted our time very carefully in order to arrive at New Albany at six P. M. We understood that something was cooking in preparation for our arrival. We also realized that we had picked up an extra hour going from Eastern to Central Standard Time, so we were drifting along without being in too much of a hurry, and then something happened. We had a flat. It was the left rear tire, and it happened where the road is very narrow, but very heavily traveled. We could just barely get off the highway to change that tire, and it seemed that right then all the trucks and busses in Kentucky started coming our way. I had to get down on my knees to take that tire off. That meant that my heels were pretty far out on the highway, and for the first time in my life I wished that I was a very short man, because it seemed to me that every car that passed was at least going to knock the heels off my shoes.

Mrs. Johnston had gotten herself all fixed up for our trip and that included a manicure and her nails were polished up so prettily that it would have been a crime to have marred their shining surface with anything like Tennessee dust, and our car and wheel were prettily heavily coated. She wanted to help change that tire, but I would not let her do anything but hold the bolts when I took them out. It did not take us but fifteen minutes to make the change, but it took us more than thirty minutes to recover our composure afterwards, and all of that caused us to be a little late in reaching our destination. We were thirty minutes late for that supper, which meant that we had just that much extra appetite to satisfy, but Nellie had anticipated something like that and had an extra supply of food to take care of the occasion. Bill had to wake up little Jane Ann who had gone to bed by the time we arrived, just to show us that all the things he had said about this little girl were not exaggerations nor flattery, but just the modest truth. Little Jane Ann looked a little bewildered but was willing to accept us as belonging to the family, although she did not quite know how.

On Friday Bill took the two of us on a tour down through Shelbyville, Frankfort, Versailles, Lawrenceburg, and Tyronne, and we saw something for the first time that we did not even know existed, the Grand Canyon of the Kentucky River. Now, don't go trying to compare the Grand Canyon of the Kentucky with the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The Colorado has been at the job for about two billion years we understand, starting out by cutting its Canyon through the Kaibab limestone and then on down for another mile. Well, the Kentucky River has cut down through limestone strata and created quite a gorge. The city of Frankfort is in that gorge and the Tyronne Power Company up the river from Frankfort is in that gorge. Bill took us there. It is a steam electric plant operated by the Kentucky Utilities Company, an immense affair, generating steam at 900 pounds pressure and that steam turning turbines to generate electricity to send all over the state. Well, we were prepared to enjoy seeing this miracle of turning 15 carloads of coal into electricity (its daily quota), and while we were in there something happened. It seems that one of the men turned a valve to pack the stem of the valve in order to stop a leak. That valve happened to have something to do with the feed water supply to one of the boilers, and in just no time at all the alarm whistles on that boiler commenced to play a tune and by the time they found out what the trouble was something else turned loose, and we thought an explosion was starting. In just a few minutes everything was under control again and going as before, but we were told that the effects of that few minutes' shut-down of one boiler was felt all over northern Kentucky in lowered voltage. Don't ask me to explain: I am just telling you what they told me.

The Southern Railroad crosses the Kentucky River at Tyronne on a bridge that was built sixty years ago. It is a beautiful thing: from a distance it looks like a spider's web, but it is not rugged enough to carry the heavy tonnage of today's big trains, but it is still used on this branch line under strict limitations. It is a pity that such a beautiful structure could not be preserved as an antique for future generations to see and admire. The general manager of the Tyronne Power Company is named Bunch - a name that sounded very much like Iredell County. His energy and resourcefulness would indicate that he must be kin to the Bunches who have had so much to do with the development of Iredell County.

The return trip was through Louisville where we were shown the results of the 1937 Ohio flood. The effects of that flood are still visible in places. It is unbelievable to think that a city could stand a catastrophe like that and survive. The pictures still on display as to the height of the water are unbelievable. Today, not only Louisville but the cities across the way, are building flood walls to prevent anything like this happening to them again. Maybe they will never have to use that flood wall. It is to be hoped that before such a catastrophe strikes again the Ohio River will be under somewhat the same control that the Tennessee is today.

Saturday was spent visiting places of interest in Louisville in connection with Bill's work. I found that he did have to show up at his office once in awhile to let the railroad know that he was still working for it.

Bill took me to the railway yards. I had to climb over a train and climb up into the tower in the freight yards, but I saw what happened to the freight trains when they came in and were broken up and made into new trains to leave. A lot of figures were fed to me - the only one I seem to remember is that something like 5,000 cars are processed through that yard every day, and one man seemed to have his finger on the whole transaction - the man in the tower. He had equipment before him enabling him to talk to any place on the yard. One moment an incoming conductor would ask him a question and he would locate the man at the other end of the yard to answer it. One train was getting ready to leave and they could not find the conductor. This man in the tower began calling for the conductor, up through the yard went the loud speakers as he would tune in one after another. Finally the conductor was located and in less than five minutes was on his train which was moving out. As a train would come into the yard (sometimes at a pretty fair rate of speed) every car number would be recorded and in just a few minutes, not only the car numbers but the destination of each car would be in the hands of the man in the tower.

I could have spent many days watching this performance without losing interest.

Sunday morning the important event of the whole visit took place. Little Jane Ann was baptized and the pastor of the Church insisted that the grandparents have a hand in it, so there was quite a procession that went down the aisle for the baptism of this one little mite. Bill sang in the choir, so he came down to meet the party in front of the pulpit. I carried the baby. Nell and Mrs. Johnston came along. The minister asked me to hold the Baptismal Font, and then he baptized the baby. I do not know whether he did it purposely or not, but when he caught sight of my height he stopped on the last step of the pulpit steps rather than coming down to the floor. That made him just my height. Little Jane Ann behaved beautifully and the ceremony to us was a wonderful one.

Sunday afternoon was the time for visiting friends and getting ready for an early start home on Monday morning. Well, we pulled out at twenty minutes before eight, and coming east as we were, we lost an hour so that made it twenty minutes to nine, Barium Springs time.

We journeyed down through Shelbyville, Frankfort, Georgetown, Paris, and on through the part of Kentucky and Virginia where the principal industry is coal mining. We will not try to describe that. You would not believe it. One time we passed a string of empty coal cars that must have been five miles long. They were new cars, and we found out that they were simply parked there for the next days business.

Later on we passed through a valley and met three trains leaving that valley with loaded coal cars. We counted the cars in the first train and there were up in ninety. The other two were just as long. These were just on one railroad from one mining enterprise or valley. It makes you wonder what becomes of all of that coal, but when you visit a power plant like that one at Tyronne you wonder where all the coal comes from.

It began to rain on us late Monday afternoon so we did not try to make it on home, but stopped for the night at a little place on the top of the mountain near Richlands, Virginia. This is where highway 460 meets highway 19. It is right on top of a mountain and it is a place where the trucks make their stops. It is called Farmer's Inn. An all-night restaurant is run and it has a juke-box maybe two juke boxes, and our room for the night was squarely over this. Well, you would think that it would have disturbed us. Somehow it did not. I do not believe anybody could drive the trip that we did and fail to sleep at night, regardless of what sort of noises might be about.

We got up for an early start and what appeared to be a beautiful day. Down through the valley to Lebanon, Virginia, across the mountains to Abingdon, and across some more mountains to Damascus, and then we slipped into North Carolina through Boone and on down through North Wilkesboro and home, arriving home at eleven o'clock on Tuesday morning. It was foggy when we came through the gap into Boone, so foggy in fact that we had to keep our lights on and we could not see any of the magnificent scenery around Low Gap and the other places in the mountains coming down to North Wilkesboro, but the fog had dissipated by the time we came through Statesville, and Barium Springs was there before us. We had only been away six days, but we both can truthfully say that that was the most wonderful scenery of all. It seemed to us that the flowers had grown, the grass was greener and everything was more beautiful than when we left, and the greetings from our big family at Barium made it all perfect. The nicest thing about going away is coming back.

CAMPUS NEWS

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi Friends,
Just think, six more weeks of school and then summer vacations. We have gotten our report cards for the past six weeks but some of us didn't do so well. The girls that got bad conduct cuts saw rulers floating around in the air coming home from school.

Sylvia and Shelia Wilson, who left us this summer, came by to see us the other Sunday. They have grown so much we hardly knew them.

Three new girls have been added to our family but we lost two of our older girls who moved to Howard. We received from Baby Cottage, Jackie Taylor, Virginia Kiser and a new child, Nancy Mobley. We are happy to have these girls added to our family.

We have been to see "Eggs from Texas" with Roy Rogers playing.

We have been to see a few good plays with some of our girls taking part in them. The fifth and second gave "Jack and the Magic Beanstalk". We also got to go to Cool Springs to see Cinderella. This was given by the Cool Springs high school.

Some one told us the other day that worms work a garden. Well all we can say is that we are the worms that work our garden.

We are planing a big Easter egg hunt Easter if the weather is good. We wish all our many friends could be with us but we will be thinking of you.

One of our little girls can't tell the difference between pigeons and geese. The other day she saw some pigeons out side and said, "I didn't know we had any geese around Barium. We soon got her straight on that subject.

We are going to have to lay off saying anything about our teachers because we couldn't find enough hiding places to hide in last time.

Addie McEwen saw one of our big girls yawning real big one day and with out thinking said, "Don't you know when you "Yap" you are supposed to put your hand over your mouth?" She didn't relize what she had said until every one laughed.

We sincerely hope all of you will have a wonderful Easter.

Until next month.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are back again bringing the cottage news.

We have had two more girls to move in our cottage. They are Virginia Baucom and Bernice Kuykendall. They both take piano which makes us eleven piano students. Now we have a cottage of twenty-six girls.

Mr. Grier has come back from Florida. When he came he brought a real lot of sea shells. We are having a lot of fun playing with them.

We are proud to say that Laura Jane Craig, Lois Dellinger and Linda Inman have recited the Shorter Catechism. Miss Taylor and Miss Jackson took them to Charlotte. When they came back they told us what a good time they had. Now everybody is studying the Catechism so they will get to go to Charlotte.

When we got our report cards we were happy to find out that twelve girls had made the honor roll. We are hoping to keep the good work up.

Some people from Fuller Memorial Presbyterian Church sent each of us a corsage, a pair of socks, and hair ribbons. The socks and hair ribbons are sorted colors.

We will have another piano recital the twenty-sixth of this month. We will each play a solo.

Shirley Hall, Shirley Johnson, and Linda Inman got their clothing box this month. They were thrilled with them. They had some very pretty dresses.

Miss Brandon took her Sunday school class and her school class to camp Saturday. Sixteen of us went. We had a weiner roast and we went on a walk to Long Island and bought us some candy there. Everyone enjoyed the trip very much.

Commencement Activities

Barium's 1949 commencement program began Friday evening, May 13th, with an interesting program by the glee club. In the first part of the program, the stage was set to represent a sidewalk cafe. The varied colored lights and girls in evening dresses made a beautiful background for the singing by the members of the glee club as they sat around the tables. The second part of the program consisted of songs by a male quartet consisting of Herbert Good, Ricky Lippard, Billy Lybrand, and Jerry Young. The audience would not let them leave without an encore. The program was concluded with the singing, in a more formal manner, of a number of songs by the entire glee club.

The Baccalaureate service was held in the elementary auditorium Sunday morning, May 15th. The members of the graduating class entered to the playing of the traditional processional, "For All the Saints." The anthem, "The Earth Is the Lord's" was sung by the choir, and Dr. Charles E. S. Kraemer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Charlotte, preached a challenging sermon on the text, "That Those Things Which Cannot Be Shaken May Remain."

At the service for The Youth Fellowship, held Sunday evening, Rev. John L. Fain, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Kannapolis, brought a fine, spiritual message, using as his text, "Behold the Lamb of God." At this service the glee club sang as a special number, the anthem, "How Lovely Are Thy Messengers."

Monday morning, May 16th, the graduating class presented its Class Day program, using as its theme, a class reunion fifteen years later. One of the features of this reunion was the reading of the class history, will, and prophecy. The class gift to the school, a beautiful reading stand, was presented at this time.

The graduating exercises were held in the elementary auditorium Monday evening, May 16th. Addresses were given by the salutatorian, Mary Dickson Arrowood, and Valedictorian, J. D. Everett. The commencement address was delivered by Dr. J. O. Mann, of Charlotte. In his address, Dr. Mann reminded the graduates of the many opportunities that had been afforded them at Barium, warned them against ever being ashamed of their school and home, and challenged them to make good use of (Continued On Page Three)

Mr. J. B. Johnston Resigns

The resignation of Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home since 1922, came as a distinct surprise to the Barium Community. Although Mr. Johnston appears to us in the full vigor of his strength, he expressed the desire to open the way for the election of a younger man on whom the many burdens incident to the work of the home might be laid.

BEFORE

When Mr. Johnston came to Barium the athletic program had not been developed in any of the orphanages of the state. It was all work and very little play. The building of the swimming pool; the development of Sloan Field; the erection of the Grammar School Building, with its indoor basketball court and gymnasium has made possible a well rounded athletic program. One great need still exists at Barium, to have a well equipped recreational building. No more fitting monument to the life and work of Mr. Johnston could be erected. Mr. Johnston's interest in young people and his enthusiasm for sports has made him active in the athletic programs of high schools and colleges. He has done much to foster clean and wholesome sportmanship in the state.

No review of the life and work of Mr. Johnston here would be complete without some account of the development of the health program at Barium. Mr. Johnston gives full credit for the fine work to Dr. Adams; who was our physician for years, to Dr. Davis and his staff; to the public health doctors and many others who have most generously and skillfully given their services. Two figures tell something of the success of this program; the rejections of our boys in the draft during the last war was less than 5 percent while rejections at the high school level in the state was 25 percent. Attendance in our school during the past year was approximately 99 percent. To Mr. Johnston goes a large share in integrating and leading in this program.

Mr. Johnston has seen many changes under which aid to dependent children is being rendered. Most of these changes have been of benefit, but they have brought their problems.

I but mention two of these. The public school now carries much of the load in paying the salaries of teachers. This gives a measure of control to the state and makes a change in the daily schedule. The payment of mother's aid has taken care of quite a large group of children and has opened other fields for orphanage service. It has been well that the orphanage had a wise and capable administrator in these days of adjustment.

The most fundamental part of the work of the superintendent is that of being Father to the large family here. The first task in bringing in new children, is to make them feel at home, get them over the home sickness which is natural, and get them adjusted to life in an institution. From the day a child enters the Home he is assured of the personal interest and care of Mr. Johnston who personally understands and knows each child. As a father to the children, Mr. Johnston has made his influence felt most wisely in the guidance, encouragement, and discipline of the Home, developing well rounded character, and preparing for life in the world at large. Some of the projects instituted by Mr. Johnston toward those ends have been, the establishment of a children's bank; children's pay; and the introduction of a measure of self government with a forum from the children for suggested improvements. As the Master puts the child in the midst, so Mr. Johnston has always made the welfare of the children the criterion for resolving any question at Barium.

The religious program has always had a large place in the life at Barium, and in that program Mr. Johnston has always had a very important and vital part. He has served as an Elder of Little Joe's church since coming to Barium. He has led the chapel services in the dining room on Sunday mornings. He has been the teacher of the Senior Boys Bible Class. When the church was vacant or when the pastor was away he had led the services. No matter how often he comes before them he is always interesting and helpful in his talks to the children. Though his many calls for services elsewhere occasionally take him away, he is usually to be seen in his accustomed place when the church doors are open.

Mr. Johnston's outstanding work as an orphanage superintendent has been widely recognized. He has been president of the Tri-State, now Southeastern Conference, for three terms, and also president of the North Carolina Conference several times. Twice he has attended the White House Conference on Child Care. Davidson College awarded him the Algernon Sidney Sullivan Award for Unselfish Service. The Synod of North Carolina took note of his twenty fifth anniversary of service by electing him to the Moderatorship.

The inscription over the tomb of the great architect, Sir Christopher Wren in St. Pauls Cathedral in London, which Sir Christopher Wren had designed, is a fitting tribute to the life and work of Mr. Joseph B. Johnston at Presbyterian Orphans' Home:

"If you would see his monument look around."

R. S. ARROWOOD.

Vaccinations, Vacations, the Scenic and Wildcat Rocks

The Barium Springs school wound up its year's work on the night of Monday, May 16th. The account of our commencement exercises is elsewhere in this paper. Then things commenced to happen. The first week following commencement is usually taken up in getting the house in order, catching up on inoculations, vaccinations, and what-have-you, and getting all set for the summer hazards.

Well, during this first week we have had 286 inoculations for typhoid fever, about 20 for diphtheria and whooping cough, a round dozen vaccinations for smallpox, and as this is written it is best not to squeeze anybody's left arm. It is liable to bring on a physical calamity. However, nobody is very unhappy about it.

The next week will be taken up with Daily Vacation Bible School and everybody seems to be looking forward with keen anticipation to that; and then vacation time will follow, and already requests are coming in like rain on the roof.

But then there is another thing that we are counting on for lots of pleasure during the month of June and July. We do not know whether the United States Park Service had Barium Springs in mind when they built the scenic highway from Roaring Gap on toward Boone and located a delightful picnic ground just about halfway - Wild Cat Rocks is the official name for it. Anyhow, it is perfect for Barium outings. It is just 75 miles from Barium, about a two and one-half hour ride in a bus. That trip goes up through Elkin and the new highway which has just been built up the mountain and finally to the highway. This is such a delightful trip and the scenery along the way not only delights the mind but seems to create an astounding appetite, so much so that somebody has to go a little ahead and get the fires lit up at the picnic ground so that very little time is spent in getting ready for the weine roast and the other things that are always on the schedule for a picnic in this neighborhood. Two or three hours of eating and tramping and sightseeing at the picnic grounds, and then the journey home, this time down through Mulberry Gap and North Wilkesboro with the most beautiful scenery of all on that part of the trip.

We can leave Barium Springs in parties of 50 or 60 at ten o'clock (Continued On Page Two)

ANNIE LOUISE

This is our last week of school and although we are happy for summer Vacations to begin we aren't too glad to have the doors closed on us.

Last Saturday, our Matron and two big sisters took us to the spring for supper. We played around for about an hour and then we ate supper. After we got back from the spring our Matron gave us some delicious ice cream. We ate so much its' a wonder we didn't die, but as luck would have it we are still living.

We want to thank the people at Mooresville for letting us come down to the circus. It rained and some of us got pretty wet but we didn't mind because we had so much fun. For some of us this was our first Circus and we enjoyed all the animals very much!

We had about eight girls on the Honor Roll last time. These girls got to take a trip to Statesville to see a movie at the Playhouse they saw, "Tarzan and the Magic Fountain." They enjoyed the Movie very much and if they study real hard next Month maybe they will get to go again.

We have received two more girls to make our family happier. They are Lois and Mary Ramsey. Our house is about full up but as the old saying goes "there is always room for one more." We will have a lot more room in about two more weeks because some of our little girls will be moving to Howard Cottage. We will surely miss these girls but after all they are growing into nice young ladies.

One thing we always hate about school closing is that our beloved teacher, Miss Blakeney will be leaving us for her summer vacation. We know she will be dreaming about all her beautiful flowers and its' a shame she won't be here to enjoy them like we will. But if any of you see Miss Blakeney coming just get out all your flower instruments you can find and give them to her. We are sure she will be right at home.

The swimming pool will soon be open and on hot days we are surely going to enjoy the luxury of the nice cool water.

Barefoot time is almost here and can't you just hear all the screams floating around in the air because of bee stings? It is wonderful to catch the bees but oh boy it isn't wonderful to get stung by them.

In case we didn't get to thank all of our many friend for making our Easter so pleasant we would like to thank all of you from the bottom of our hearts.

We would like to thank especially the Gleaners Class at High Point for the lovely boxes they sent us. One of our big sisters Mother is in the class.

The people at Warsaw were very nice to us also. Thanks very much for the nice box of candy.

Until next month.

QUADS

This is the first time we have written you in a long, long time. Not so much has happened since then.

This is our last week of school and we are glad. We hope all of our boys pass their grades.

Mrs. J. G. Jackins our Matron mother went on a vacation about a month ago, and we are expecting her soon.

We have been playing softball for a while and we sure enjoy it. We played Statesville 3 or 4 times, and we won all of the games.

Some of our boys went to the Circus last week and we enjoyed it very much.

We all look forward to vacation time. So until next time, good bye, and good luck.

HOWARD COTTAGE

We received a surprise invitation Wednesday from our Junior League leaders, telling us to meet them Thursday afternoon at 4:45. Then when the time came, we got in the bus and went to Statesville's railroad station. When we got there Miss Carpenter told us we were going to ride on the train to Mooresville. We rode on the train to Barber Junction. We changed trains there and rode to Mooresville. We stopped at Mooresville and got something to eat. The bus met us there and we drove back to Barium. We all had a wonderful time. The majority of us had never ridden on a train.

School is out and we have had our commencement program. Betty Anna Blackburn, sixth grade and Laura Jane Craig, fifth grade received the scholarship for leading their class.

This month Phoebe Cochran and Shirley Shaw recited the Shorter Catechism. They went to Charlotte last Tuesday and came back telling us what a wonderful time they had going through the big stores and riding the escalators. They dressed alike and everybody thought they were twins.

We had the birthday table this month, the day the Board of Regents met. Lois Dellinger and Peggy Privette went to the birthday table. We were so thrilled when we found that one of the ladies on the board was from the circle in Wilmington that sent us our slips.

By the time you read this most of us will be Rumpel Hall girls. Betty Anna Blackburn, Mary Bowles, Peggy Byrd, Phoebe Cochran, Lois Dellinger, Linda Inman, Betty Lou Johnson, Shirley Johnson, Katherine Kuykendall, Carolyn Lane, Peggy Privette, Nellie Rae Sellers, Shirley Shaw, Johnnie Terry, Mildred McFarland, Shirley Hall, and Reolia Wells are going to move to Rumpel Hall.

The Howard Girls

BABY COTTAGE

Jeepers! We just don't know where to begin. We've had so many nice things happen to us! You know we always like things we can eat especially Popcorn so we'll start off by thanking Mrs. Johnston for the delicious Popcorn she gave us Wednesday when we went to see "So Dear To My Heart." We just can't get over that little black lamb that said "Baa-Baa." (Have you ever heard one that said anything else? We haven't either.) But we enjoyed all the other little animals too. We think it was so nice of our two mommys (Miss Richards and Mrs. Nelson) to take us. We know they enjoyed it as much as we did.

We couldn't get by without a line or two about our garden its' coming along beautifully and every morning we go out to take a look at it to see how many new flowers have "Come forth." The Tulips have bloomed and are all so pretty. We planted most of them one afternoon and that night it rained. Wasn't that just dandy though? The Glad-iolus that were sent to Tommy Joyner are popping right out of the ground. We are expecting our rose bush to be blooming pretty soon. We are going to have a very beautiful garden and we are going to be so proud of it because we helped fix it. We want each of our friends to come down to see it soon, but no "Peeking" until every little flower has put on its own little new dress and is ready to lead the "Flower Parade!"

Speaking of parades we really had one Easter Sunday. Each little girl had on a new dress, new, bright, shiny Patent leather shoes, and a bow in her hair. We thought we looked perfectly beautiful (Conceited aren't we?) The little boys, too had on new shoes, new shirts and the nicest short pants. We were just "plum-out good looking!" (As one person described us.) Dressing up wasn't the only thing we looked forward to during the Easter season. Friday we had a party and an Easter Egg hunt. All of the eggs had our names and designs on them. We don't know how our "big sisters" put them on there, but they did it somehow! It's all Greek to us!

Many of us had our friends and relatives visit us Easter. Patsy Ross's "Daddy Joe" came and brought her a Easter basket of which we all enjoyed. Linda Byrd's friend, Tyresa Taylor's "Grand-mama," Lucille's mother, Patsy Porters Mother, Margaret Ramsey's Mother, Donny and Freddie Gillespie's Mother, and Charlie and Philip Greene's Daddy. Last but definitely not least, Louise, our big sister's Daddy came. Whee! We did have company didn't we!

"Oh how sweet!" "Oh Darling!" That's practically all you hear now since Patricia and Dianne Mobley have come to live with us. They really are sweet and we are so glad they can become members of our little family here at "Rainbow Cottage." We have a tough time trying to understand Patricia's two year old language such as Da-Da, Wee-Wonnie Wide. (That's a song she sings when she swings, and so on, but one thing she does make clear is her sister name! The minute Dianne gets out of her sight she yells, (We mean she yells too!) "Where's Dianne?" She usually finds hers. Miss Richards can understand her better than anybody. Patricia will be mumbling something not understandable and Miss Richards will reply, "Yes Dear" or "I think so, too, Dear." She really has a way with babies! Though "Rainbow Babies" may come your way, They bring the gladness that sure must stay. We hope that you have enjoyed this news, and now, with the last farewell news.

Bye-Bye (quote from Patricia.)
"Rainbow Babies"

Vaccinations,

in the morning, have lunch at 12:30 and be back home in time for supper without hurrying at all, and in that interval see some of the most magnificent scenery anywhere in America. Could anything be more perfect. Well, the babies bid for the first trip this year and even before the vaccinations a trip was made over this exact route with the children who have not yet started to school. Eighteen of them made the trip with three larger girls and two matrons. A car went along too, just in case of emergency if someone became ill, or if a rattlesnake joined the party, or if any of the thousand and one contingencies should arise, the car might be there handy for a quick get-away.

On this particular trip, however, nobody seemed to be the least bit sick or tired. One little girl was sleepy on the road up and for fear she might not be able to digest her food too well on the trip home, she came back in the car. Instead of being sick she was the liveliest member of that particular group.

The Day was perfect, the trip was perfect, and every member of the party came back wildly enthusiastic. For many of the children this was their first view of the mountains.

During the month of June every child at Barium will get a chance to make that trip. The cost to the institution is just the gas consumed on the trip, and we do not know how anyone could get so much for so little.

Years ago we used to run an excursion to Montreat every year. The children saved up all year so that they would be able to buy their own tickets - $2.00 if you were over twelve; $1.00 if you were between six and twelve. The railroad had to be guaranteed 400.00 for the trip. We stopped those as a matter of policy, but we have been homesick for them and these one-day trips to the mountains in our buses are such a fine substitute.

We know that any North Carolinian who sees this part of the mountains cannot help but be more patriotic. We know that anyone from outside of North Carolina who sees it wants to move in and become a permanent resident.

If you have not made this trip, be sure to do so this summer. If it is a pretty day during the week you might find a big yellow bus at the picnic grounds with a bunch of hilarious children all over the place, having the time of their lives. That would be part of our family.

The Message of the Month

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

GROWING A CHRISTIAN CHARACTER

"Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ." II Peter 3:18.

To live at all is to grow. There is no life apart from growth. When growth is at an end, life is at an end. That truth is evident in every phase of life including the spiritual. Perhaps you say, "how can that be?" "It is foolish to say that all of us are growing physically, for example." And yet we are told by medical men that in a period of years the cells of our bodies are continually renewed. Our size may remain the same but we continue to grow.

Surely it is even more true in our spiritual lives and must be that we continue to grow. To grow means to increase, to make progress, and to develop toward maturity. The Apostle Paul spoke of people as being babes in Christ. The Christian who accepts the Lord Jesus must expect continually to grow if he is to remain in the fellowship of God.

To make this completely intelligible we might compare the Christian life to a boy riding a bicycle. He rides that bicycle successfully, it remains upright, only so long as he moves forward. When he stops, it falls to the ground immediately. Stand still in the Christian life and we fall. Go forward and we live in Christ forevermore. Peter knew this essential truth. Therefore his word was this, "Grow in peace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."

Paul in Philippians tells us quite clearly what it is to grow in the Christian life. "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Our lives have every possibility of being like that, a great effort of pressing on toward greater love and service of the Master. But are they, or are we usually content to remain as "babes" in Christ?

A young mother was awakened out of a restful sleep one night by the frightened screams of her little boy. She ran at once to his bed to see what was the matter. She found that the little fellow had fallen to the floor after rolling off his little bed. After seeing that he was not injured and quieting his screams, the mother asked, "Why did you fall out of bed?" The little lad must have thought it a rather foolish question, but he answered through his tears, "I guess it's (Continued On Page Three) use I stayed too close to the setting-in place." Aren't we as Christians sometime guilty of complacency, of being content to remain too close to the getting-in are?

The development of a Christian character is definitely a matter of growth. We do not spring forth full grown in the Christian life, just as a tiny babe does not enter the world full grown. Christ himself did not expect the Christian character to come to perfection in a day. Whenever he finds a receptive soul, he gives it time to grow. Sometimes our worst mistake is to feel that conversion is the beginning and end of all our efforts as Christians. It is just as thrilling an experience to grow into a better Christian as first become a Christian.

How do we grow a Christian character? Well, our forefathers used to talk a great deal about means of grace. Sometimes it seems that in the modern church at phrase has been half forgotten, or so many Christians today do not seem to make personal prayer habit and a definite part of their lives. So many fail to give any time to quiet periods of reading and meditation to strengthen their spiritual lives.

We are a people who have made physical fitness a sort of cult. We have a great deal of time to education. We certainly do not often omit our social activities. But growth applies to the spirit as well as the physical and mental and social aspects of life. And here we have sadly failed. We are all too often in the sad condition of being failures in growing a Christian character when we are eminently successful in about everything else. Growth in Christian character certainly will require periods of quietness with God, communion with God in prayer, daily Bible reading and meditation on its truths, and fellowship through the church with other Christians. Simple things, but O so important! For these are some of the means by which we are enabled to follow the advice of Peter that we should grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To follow them will mean to develop a true Christian character.

Commencement

their talents, their training, and their heritage. At the conclusion of his address, Dr. Mann was presented the Alumni Ace Medal. This is the fourth year that this medal has been presented to an illustrious alumnus of the Barium Springs School. Others who have received this honor are Miss Irene Dade, Dr. Sam. Howie, and Mr. Walter Fraley.

Other traditional features of this program were the presentation of roles to the members of the graduating class by the pastor of Little's Church, Rev. Chas. H. Sides, a farewell song by the Junior class, and the awarding of medals and prizes by Mr. Jos. B. Johnson. In addition to the Alumni Ace Medal to Jerry Young, the Music Improvement medal to Irene Hall, and medals to the valedictorian and salutatorian. A present was given by the piano teacher, Mrs. Stafford, to Laura Craig for winning a piano contest conducted among the grammar grade students. Joe Barkley received a present from his teacher, Miss Stevenson, for his wholehearted co-operation in helping to the care of the school building. Cash prizes were given to Curtis Edwin and Billy McAllister for meeting all the memory work requirements for the Bible medal. The following pupils received cash prizes for making the highest grades in his or her grade for the year: Nancy Kyles, Laura Jane Cig, Betty Anna Blackburn, Col. Jean Andrews, Hilda Donaldson, Louise Campbell, Shirley Inman, Bernice Troutman, and Herbert Good.

Cash prizes for improvement were given Barbara Johnson, Clay-ton Miller, Edna Baucum, Florence Andrews, Helen Baucum, Elmina Johnson, Joyce Katen, Mack Berryhill and Billy McAllister. These prizes were given annually by Mr. Fred Sherrill of Statesville, and since his death they are being continued by his brother, Mr. Carl Sherrill.

Diplomas were presented by the principal, Mr. Hethcox, to the following graduates: Mary Dickson, Norwood, Curtis Baldwin, Margaret Bullard, J. D. Everett, Herbert Good, Virginia Hendrix, Star Bagley, Fred H. Lippard, Billy Good, and Jack Mangum, Billy Mc-Allister, Helen Vinson, Anne Wick-er, Jerry Young, and Johnny Mero-ney.

During the several weeks prior to the commencement week-end, interesting programs had been given, either at the chapel hour or in the evening, by all the elementary grades. Each child had a chance to participate in these programs. Also, three piano recitals were given during the last few weeks by the forty piano pupils of Mrs. Wilbur Stafford.

These exercises brought to a close another very successful school year, but the school buildings are not vacant as they are being used at the present for classes of the Daily Vacation Bible School.

Barium Messenger

VOL. 27

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JUNE 1949

NO. 8

A Sample of Barium Springs' "Bad Luck"

In a former issue of The Messenger we described a trip to the mountains when we took all of the Baby Cottage for a day's outing in the mountains with a picnic dinner at the Wildcat Rocks picnic grounds. Since that time we have had several trips. One time we took the Jennie Gilmer Boys and the Rumble Hall girls, about 60 altogether and requiring both of our buses to transport the crowd. Then Lees Cottage and Howard Cottage made the trip - some 60 of them, and finally two big bus loads of the larger boys and girls.

On every one of these trips the weather was delightful. Sometimes it was cloudy when we left Barium but by the time we got to the mountains the sun was out and we could see tremendous distances. In fact, it looked like the weatherman smiled on us and made each of these days perfect - until the last day - then everything seemed to go wrong. It rained hard before they left Barium but it looked just as it had one other day when it cleared up, and just as soon as the party left Barium at ten o'clock it did clear up at Barium, but they tell us that the rain just followed them as though they were under the end of a sprinkling pot and when they started up the mountain they got in the clouds which shut off scenery completely. However, this did not dampen the spirits of the crowd because these boys and girls enjoy each other tremendously. Just after they got to the top of the mountain, however, one of the buses commenced to act up and finally stopped. Something had gone wrong with the engine and from the noise it made it seemed to be something very serious. Well, it was only four miles from Wildcat Rocks so the other bus went back and picked up the load of this bus and everybody got to the picnic grounds in time to eat, but the rain arrived there at the same time. They were supposed to have hot dogs and cold milk, but somehow the weather changed things around and they had cold dogs and hot milk; or at least that is what was reported to us. There was not enough space for everybody to get in the dry so instead of soaking up sunshine they soaked up showers while the older people worried about that broken down bus. Telephones are rather scarce up in that part of the mountains and the station wagon that accompanied this mountain trip carrying the surplus had to go to Laurel Springs to use the telephone and there they found that the nearest place to get attention for their ailing bus was at Sparta. They contacted the Choate Motor Company there and they sent their wrecker and hauled this ailing bus about 18 miles to their shop. The other bus had to make two trips to bring the crowd home. The first load brought the girls, slightly damp but still enthusiastic. The boys had to sit on top of the mountain until the bus could return. They got home about 8:30 - not quite as enthusiastic as the girls. The older people were not only damp but somewhat depressed. They were dampened by the rain and depressed by the thought of a great big repair bill on that bus which would cut so deep into our recreational Hey, everybody! Read this. Since the last issue of THE MESSENGER we have received so many letters addressed to different members of the staff commencing like this "Since Mr. Johnston has left Barium we do not know to whom we should write about this and that." Well, the purpose of this particular notice is to inform everybody that I have not left Barium. I have resigned, the resignation to take effect when my successor has been named and is firmly seated on the job. Until then I will continue to do business at the same old stand.

The Music Department at Barium Springs

The Voice Club

The Glee Club

The Junior Choir

The pictures we are displaying this month are not athletic teams, strange to say, the groups presented here very seldom get any notice in the newspaper - nothing like as much publicity as the athletic teams get. And yet, we are just as proud of them - maybe more - as the best of our teams. These pictures represent the activities in the music department. If you don't believe they are good, drop around some time and hear for yourself. The senior Glee Club is in great demand and they make good music, if we do say it ourselves. Individual members of the Glee Club form the bulk of our choir, and our good music for church services is the result of their effort.

Occasionally the Junior Choir takes over, and they do a workman-like job, too.

The delightful thing about both of these organizations is the enthusiasm with which they throw themselves into their work. For this, we give a lot of credit to Mrs. Lee Spencer, who is voice teacher. She not only teaches well, but she has the ability to keep the enthusiasm of her classes at a high pitch.

Mrs. Spencer has been at Barium only a few years, and yet her original Junior Choir is now the Glee Club.

Those of you who have followed our athletics will find practically all of our girls' basketball team in the Glee Club. An while we are talking about these girls, we'd like to mention also that they can not only sing, and play basketball, they also wield a mean skillet. They know how to cook.

One of these days we will write up the Home Economics Department and speak of their accomplishments in the cooking and clothing line. In fact, we might write a song about this group and start it out something like this: (Continued On Page Two)

Some More Barium Luck

From the middle of May until the first of July is the very busiest time at Barium Springs. It starts with the very first cutting of the alfalfa, corn planting, harvest, the second cutting of alfalfa and the cultivation of corn. Some of these things pile on top of each other. This year we got the first cutting of alfalfa all put up and were in the midst of corn cultivating and harvesting when the second cutting fell due.

Some of this hay had to be baled because there was not room to put it all in the barns. We either had to bale what we already had in the barn or to bale this

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Graduation is over and we are now settling down to our normal routine.

The days have been very hot and the sight of the swimming pool is a welcome joy to all of us. We have lost most of our larger girls, but we are still a family wherein much happiness presides. We are to have two other new children to help make our family even more happy.

Bible School has come and gone, and we had lots of fun attending classes every morning from 9:00 to 11:30. We made booklets and also books with prayers in them. At the end of the week, each class gave a program and had on display the many things which we made previously. We are looking forward to Bible School again next year with much eagerness.

We had an awful storm one night and three of our trees in our back yard fell down. The next morning when we had just walked into a forest. One tree that shaded our flower garden was knocked down, but our flowers are coming along just fine. If you could see some of the flowers you would never know that a tree fell right on top of them.

Speaking of flowers; I suppose some of you great lover of flowers have seen a stranger walking around your flower gardens taking notes on what is growing in your beds. If you have seen such a stranger you will know right off, that it is a dear friend of ours. Pay no attention to her, she is quite harmless. Just protect your flowers!

Yesterday, we had the time of our lives! Mr. Johnston took the Synod boy's and us to the Mountains. We left Barium at 10:00 o'clock and arrived at our destination about 1:00 o'clock. We were all asking questions and talking at the same time it's a wonder our Matron stood us for so long a time. When we got to "Wild Cat Rock," the place were to eat, and scouted around while the big folks got lunch ready. We ate about four "hot dogs" apiece and drank lots of cold milk. We finished eating about 1:30 o'clock and then we got up to another place on "Wild Cat Rock," where we could see a very small house down in the valley. Of course, we could hardly believe that sixteen children had been raised in such a small house. It looked like a dogs' house to us. But one of the patrolmen told us it was true, and we took his word.

We started back home about 2:00 o'clock, and got back around 4:30. We were all tired, but we we finally got into our nice soft beds, and dreamed about mountains, bears, small houses, and so on.

We had a wonderful time and our hardy thanks go to all the people on the campus for making it possible for us to enjoy our trip as much as we did.

Some of our Children are going on vacations. We miss them lots, but we know they will have a very nice time..

Until next month

—The Annie Louise Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Folks,

Here we are bringing you the news from the big girls.

Everyone in their new bathing suit is keeping the path to the swimming pool hot here lately.

Mrs. Gresham and we girls are really keeping the flower garden in bloom. Only three of our girls have left for their vacations, but by the end of the month many will be gone. "Have a good time girls."

We have a new Matron with us, Mrs. Hayes who is taking the place of Mrs. Williams this month.

It seems wonderful to have new wall sockets so as we don't have to have drop cords all over the rooms.

We are happy to have Mrs. Allison with us in the kitchen while Mrs. Hobgood is away on her vacation.

The younger children have already taken their trip to the mountains, and we are eagerly waiting our time, which with weather permitting will be Thursday.

So long folks, we hope to let you hear from us again next month.

—Marie and Ethel

LAUNDRY NEWS

Hello Folks,

You haven't heard from us in so long you have probably forgotten us, but we are still thinking of you. Only one of our girls has gone on her vacation, but quite a few will leave around the last of the month.

We have Helen Vinson helping us in the mornings. The younger girls have an hour set aside to go swimming in the evenings. "Don't drown girls."

We finish work on Thursday morning and Thursday evening is scrub time. We have started a small flower garden in the front yard. We hope to improve and enlarge it in the near future.

The water in the swimming pool feels wonderful after a day of hot ironing.

We are now enjoying having our Sunday evening worship services at the football field where it is cool. Come up and join us sometime.

Well goodbye folks.

—Marie and Ethel

SEWING ROOM

Hello there!

Now that school is out we have been kept-busy sewing and ripping.

There are only five seniors to work in the sewing room this year. Let me introduce them. Betty Lou Williams, is our pretty redhead. Brownette Lorene Hall, is the most sensible of the group, which I regret to say isn't much. Brown heads Helen Morgan and Kathleen Monroe are the best seamstress and also the most romantic. Blond Jeane Steppe is the thinnest and heavy weight champion.

We also have two college sophomores working with us, Mildred Monroe and Sadie Buie.

Miss Smith is still suffering from our inexperience, but I think we are doing better. We made seventy-five bathing suits, while keeping up with our regular work of dresses "As we sew; so shall we rip."

BABY COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Geel! We've had a lot of nice things happen to us. Not so long ago we went to see "Lassie" in "When the Sun Comes Up." We were so excited when Lassie was trying to save the little orphan boy from being burned in the fire that our hair almost stood straight up!

Miss Carpenter and Mr. Johnston took us to see the circus. It was the first time many of us had ever seen Elephants so we had lots of questions to ask about their noses. We finally found out that some water animal pulled it. We can't spell its name.

Now for the best and most exciting news of all which came as a very happy surprise to us. Our matrons Mrs. Nelson and Miss Richards told us that we were— Hey! wait a minute, we're going to let you guess. The mountains? That's right! (Who answered?) It all started on a nice sunny Thursday morning. Oh! What an exciting morning that was. We were so delighted that we almost flew up into the air. However we did stay on the ground long enough to pack a very delicious lunch consisting of "Stomach filling", sandwiches, chocolate cake, and Barium's special milk. On our way to Statesville, Roscoe Smith our very efficient driver stopped long enough for our matrons to buy two watermelons. After we arrived at the Blue Ridge Mountains and had eaten our lunch we played awhile. Before we relized it, it was time to go. The Blue Ridge Mountains so perfect in beauty will long be remembered by we, the Babies.

Every month we always have something to say about our garden. This month we are especially proud of it. Every flower has put on its most beautiful dress whether it is red, white, or lavender. Those of you who haven't seen it's beauty and smelled the fragrance of its flowers come down and take a peek.

We had a very nice guest visit us over the weekend. We hope Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Nelson's sister, enjoyed being with us as much as we enjoyed having her. She is going to stay with Mrs. Nelson in Statesville this summer, so maybe we will see her again.

Did someone mention summer? So far the summer events are "Going to the mountains", and "Our inoculations." You have read about our trip to the mountains, so let us tell about our "Shots." One little boy after he had recieved his shot went up to another little boy and said, "I got shot." The other boy asked him, "Why aren't you dead then?" They weren't that effective, but we suppose that's the way a number of people felt afterwards.

— The Babies

PRINTING OFFICE

Hi,

Here we are once more, to tell you the happenings at the printing office.

Since you last heard from us we have lost Bobby (Doc) Whiting, he was transferred to the carpenters group. Before he went on the carpenter group he was assistant shoe man of Mr. Twombly.

This might come as a shock but our head man, Donald Mitchell, is a senior. He will be with us for another year then Dwight Reid will take over the press, and head man among the boys.

Vacation has started and Frank Lentz has already gone on his three week vacation. Donald is going to Flora Macdonald to a conference for a week. Edsel McArthur is going on his vacation this week. He will reside in the big town of Carthage, N. C.

Dwight and myself aren't going until a little later in the summer.

As you know we are not going to have a July messenger, so you probably won't hear from us until August.

—Dean Upton

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again with the news of our cottage. We have so much to say that we hardly know where to begin.

Vacations have started and we are all so happy. We have two girls on their vacations now. They are Evelyn Cox who is visiting her grandfather in Sanford and Jean Carol Harrison who is visiting in Charlotte. We expect to have four or five more to leave this week.

The majority of the girls at our cottage are new ones. We have eight who moved from Annie Louise. Their names are Mary Glenn, Jean Carol Harrison, Barbara Johnson, Dian Kyser, Addie and Shelby McEwen, Jewel McFarland, and Marie McNeill. We also have two new girls who have come to live with us. They are Madeline and Elizabeth Byrd from Faison, N. C. We are glad to have them. Now we have nineteen in our cottage.

Yes the swimming pool is open and we are having the best time. Our swimming hour is from 2:00 to 3:00 every day.

Our housemother has gone on her vacation and we all miss her. Dewie Buie is taking her place.

We went to the mountains June the third. We had lots of fun. For our picnic lunch we had weiners, slaw, mustard, pickles, cake, and milk. We had the grandest time playing. This was the frist trip for many of us and it was a real treat. Come see us.

Your friends,
—The Beanstringers

LEE'S COTTAGE

Hello Everybody,

We are right in the middle of our summer. Some of our boys have gone home for their vacations. Ralph, Jimmy, Laughton, Sidney, Fred, Memory, and LaNair have gone, more will go next week.

We are now cleaning the campus. The church needs cleaning around it and we are making it look good. We have been picking a lot of black berries and making money and pies. Everyone is having a grand time. We swim every day except Sunday.

Miss Ford has gone home for her vacation. Poppy Ray is taking care of us while she is away. We enjoy having him very much.

Walter, Bobby Ray, Gray, Ferrel, and the Cannon boys are going home soon. Ernest, Ray, and Johnny will go soon.

We have to get our play in each day. Amos was our boss last week. Ernest came back today. We finished trimming the bushes at the football field. We keep the campus clean by picking up glass, paper, and sticks. The winds have been causing a lot of sticks to fall.

That is all for this month, but we must tell you about our victory over the dairy boys in baseball.

See you next month.

—The Lee's Boys

RUMPLE HALL

Hi Folks,

Here we are with news from Rumble Hall. Since school has closed we have been moving from one cottage to another. We have 17 new girls. We all enjoy our swimming pool very much. Each one has a nice new bathing suit. Vacations are here and some of us are leaving everyday and you can imagine how thrilled we are at helping pack and getting girls on busses. Ours will all come someday. Then Hurrah! A change, and seeing old friends and loved ones. Meeting new friends builds our morale for returning ready for school in the fall.

"They're easy to look at, Delightful to hear, And make good company all around."

For fear we have over-emphasized the female contingent, we suggest you look carefully at these pictures and you will see a lot of rugged individuals of the male sex. They also contribute most delightfully to our music accomplishments.

budget that we might have to do without some other very important things during the summer. It looked like all the bad luck of our good times in the mountains had accumulated in that one trip.

Well, the sun came out and we all dried out our clothes and began to be moderately happy again, and after several days we had a call from the Choate Motor Company in Sparta saying that our bus was ready to come home. The same man who had driven it up the mountain went after it. He brought back a message from Mr. Wade Choate. We had expected a message saying that we could pay the first two or three hundred dollars now, and make the next payment around Christmas, but the note he sent us was different. There Was No Charge Whatever. Mr. Choate actually seemed happy over the circumstances: he said that he had always wanted to do something for an orphanage and was delighted to have this opportunity, and that he had gotten so much pleasure out of it that he hoped to be able to do something else for us. He told the man who went up to get the bus to drive it around and see if it ran all right. Well, that driver had driven this bus a good many hundred miles and his verdict when he came home was that thing ran slicker than he had ever thought it could run, that he did not even know he had an engine under the hood. Now, you tell us, what do you think about that bus going to the bad on that mountain trip. Was it bad luck or good luck? Suppose it had not happened, that the weather had stayed pretty and everybody had come back home. Well, it would have been just another pleasant day. Now as it is, everybody is back home, they have something unusual to talk about and we have discovered another most enthusiastic friend, one whom we discovered on a rainy day. Just another assurance that the finest thing in the world, better than money in the bank or brand new buses that just won't break down, is the thought that all about us are kind people who are eager to do a generous thing for a good cause. All the children involved thank Mr. Choate for making a most pleasant sequel to what looked liked a bad day.

We grown people thank Mr. Choate for giving our spirits a lift and strengthening our faith. We have always believed in the goodness of God, but occasionally we need something to strengthen our faith in our fellowman.

Oh, yes one other touch. The tank on that bus was practically empty when the trouble started. Mr. Choate filled it lipping full of good gasoline. Now, that is just like putting the icing on the cake!

Some More Barium

new stuff. How to manage it? The combine was busy in the oats and wheat and our baler was busy picking up straw after the combine and could not be spared for the alfalfa. Our tractors were busy cutting alfalfa and cultivating corn, how to get in that hay making was the job that faced us when we had a telephone call. It was from the Turner Manufacturing Company in Statesville asking us if we had any hay in which they might demonstrate their pick-up balers. That little telephone conversation started it. We had hay ready for them that very afternoon and they stayed with us until every bit of the second cutting of our alfalfa, nearly 100 acres, was baled and ready for the barn, and when they got through the Turner Manufacturing folks thanked us for giving them the opportunity. Imagine that! Imagine anybody thanking you for eating up their ice cream.

By the way, we will have to talk about this company a little bit. The head of it now is Jack Wagner, the nephew of the founder, Charlie Turner, who has now passed on. Jack is a young man and is certainly a go-getter. He still finds time to do other things and run his business. He is a member of the School Board and is head of the present Mitchell campaign. He seems to like us at Barium and we do like him. In his company there are a lot of Barium people - Lafayette Donaldson, Bob Revis, Lee Donaldson, and Charlie Sears are a few of the names on their pay-roll.

We do love to do the Turner Manufacturing Company favors - favors like letting them bale our hay crops!

The Message of the Month

By Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr.

COMING FACE TO FACE WITH CHRIST

"Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am." John 13:13.

Christ is known to us by many names. And yet it matters far less what we call Him as how we respond to Him. Isaiah spoke in glowing and descriptive words. "Wonderful, Counselor, The Mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace." Elsewhere we read of Messiah, Son of God, Son of Man, Rabbi, Master, Lord and Saviour. Those truly are descriptive words. We might profitably derive a sermon from them. But those are names, they have no value. Except for this; that they describe a possible response for us to Christ.

There are countless numbers of people across the world who gladly and willingly give those names to Christ. Yes, they call Him by a variety of names. They claim to march under the far flung glorious banner of Christ. They pay lip service to the claims of Christ on their lives, but they go no further.

Jesus realized it, he saw the tragedy of it - of men saying, Master, Lord, Saviour - yet never responding completely. The disciples were good men at they had their frailties. They could say "Master" and yet fail to respond to a master in the humility and obedience required. They could say Lord and Saviour and yet fail to realize completely the response of love that must naturally be due to a Lord and Saviour.

And that has ever been a tragedy, that men are able to call Christ by His proper names and yet fail to show that their response is equal to their words. And surely without fear of contradiction we may say that here has ever been the weakness of Christ's Church in the world. A great throng of people capable of reaching the world for Christ. But still we go, and still the gospel of Christ has not reached all, and still we are indifferent, and still our faith is less than an all-powerful faith. And all because we call Christ one name and live below that calling.

"Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am." And I detect in those words a sadness that encompasses us all. We who are church members, we who are elders and deacons, we who are in responsible positions, all yes, we too who are ministers. "Ye call me Master and Lord, and ye say well, for so I am."

And I can see those hands, scarred now, stretched out unto us as if in pleading. Yes, you say well, you perhaps can well, but when will you begin to live well? When will ye begin to face me truly as Master and Lord?

And so we lack something. Perhaps it is this - we have not yet come face to face with Christ and His claims on our lives.

The disciples themselves found it necessary. We turn back to the first verses of this 13th chapter of John and find what preceded the Lord's words.

In Palestine the washing of feet was one of the duties of hospitality. There were no carpets, no socks were worn. And on entering a house the sandals which were little protection were left at the door. The hot limestone dust caused the feet to burn painfully. Their cleansing with cooling water was tremendously refreshing as well as needed from a sanitary viewpoint. Usually this washing was performed by servants, or sometimes by one of the sons of the household. It was certainly considered however one of the humblest of services.

On this last evening that Jesus was to spend with the disciples they had come into the room. They were reclining at the table, for they did not sit up as we do today, but rather leaned back on one elbow on couches drawn up to the table. But here they were already there and no one had even so much as offered to perform this humble task of washing their feet. So Jesus, without making any fanfare or commotion about it, washed their feet. None of the others had been willing to humble himself enough to do it.

And now Jesus had washed their feet. They had come face to face with another aspect of Christ's personality. It was then that he said, "Ye call me Master and Lord." Yes, you do. But you are proud, you want to be looked up to, you want no little place in my kingdom. Come face to face with me as I am, and respond to me as you ought to do if I am really your Master and Lord.

Facing Christ as Master

Who is our Master? It would be rather difficult to say I suppose. Someone has said that the American people seem to be a master.

We are proud of this age of democracy. Men speak of personal liberty, women of this "new freedom," a great deal is said of the rebellion of young people against authority. But we all have a master.

The man who labors hard all day, the woman who gives herself unselfishly for her family, the man who marches to his death on the battlefield, the football player who plays to exhaustion on the gridiron -- all these are mastered and driven by something. Deep down in the human heart something is master. It is said that the soldiers of Napoleon carried in their knapsacks a map of the world in the tricolor of France. They were mastered by the idea of the world for France.

And Jesus knew this, and he knew too that if the world would ever be brought to His feet, that he would have a own a greater devotion and loyalty on the part of his followers than anything else. He knew that He must be the Master.

It was this mastery of the lives of his disciples that made the early church what it was. That church seemed to lack everything to make it strong-wealth, social position, political prestige. But it went forth to shake the world. We seem today to be midgets beside those early giants of Christ. Well, today we have the wealth, the social position, the political prestige. But we have not the very thing that made the early church strong- the mastery of Christ over our lives.

Dwight L. Moody once said, "Give me ten men men fully consecrated to Christ, and I will shake any city for God." Christ found eleven such men and the world still feels their influence after nearly two thousand years.

Have we seen Christ face to face as Master? Have we come to the point of acknowledging that Christ has the

Broken Homes

One morning the office girl ushered in a young father, whose every feature indicated distress and grief, and who approached the Children's Worker in a weary, frenzied manner. Without any explanation or introduction and before he was invited to be seated, he began his story thus: "Something's just got to be done about my kids. I love 'em and intend to pay their board. My wife and I are just about to separate and the kids 'gotter have somewhere to stay."

His hair was disheveled. His swollen eyes indicated that he had perhaps wept most of the night. He was terribly perturbed and disturbed. Withal, he recognized his personal responsibility for his children and seemed unwilling to shirk his paternal duty.

"What of the mother of the children?" asked the Worker.

"She's out in the car . . . we are fixing to quit . . . I just can't live with her any longer . . . I work at night and get no rest during the day . . . I don't want to say anything about her . . . but I'm quitting."

"Are you willing for her to take the children?" Worker queried.

"Yes, if she wants them, and will make a decent place for them to live."

"What about your church connections?" asked the Worker. "Do you and the mother of the children belong to any church?"

"Yes," he replied, "we both joined the church (not Methodist) several years ago but I am ashamed to say I haven't been inside a church in six years."

When his story was ended, Worker explained to him the reasons why Epworth Orphanage could not take his children. She proffered help in working out a plan for him, suggesting that he apply to the denominational home of his own right to rule over all of life? A master requires obedience. We recognize that in every other walk of life, but do we recognize it here? Perhaps we say, I want to obey, but his demands are too great. I do not have the power. Depend on Christ. Try his way, and the power to follow will be yours. Come face to face with Christ as Master!

Facing Christ as Savior and Lord

For it is here that Christian experience reaches the ultimate heights. Here in our response to Christ as Saviour.

Dr. Jamie Fowle of Chattanooga told this story several years ago at Red Springs at a meeting of Synod. A chieftain made war once on a neighboring chieftain. In time he conquered and took many captives. Among them were a young man and his recent bride. They were brought before the chieftain to see what would be their fate. He turned to the young man and said, "What would you do if I spared your life?" "Sire, I would be grateful to you all my days." "And," the chieftain asked again, "what would you do if I spared the life of your young wife?" "Sire," the man answered, "I would die for you."

Later, the two young people were freed. They were talking about the experience. The man asked his wife if she had noticed the beautiful drapes and finery in the palace. "No." He asked if she had seen the wonderful size of the enormous throne room. "No." Well, he asked, surely you saw the kings precious stones and his golden scepter? "No, I didn't," she said. Well, what did you see? "I could only see the face of the man who was willing to die for me."

God grant that we may be so be mastered by Christ and so responsive to His love that we shall not see the things that would draw us away from complete obedience, that we shall not see the claims and demands of the world, that we shall only be able to see the face of the one who was willing to die for us.

church. A better plan perhaps would be for him to contact the Children's Bureau of South Carolina regarding the placement of his little son and daughter in a boarding home, and he be responsible for the payment of their board. A feeling of relief came over him when he was advised to the cost of the board per month for each child and that the home would be investigated and visited by one of the members of the Children's Bureau staff.

To make a long story short, Worker phoned the supervisor of said Bureau for an appointment next day when this young father, his wife, and two children would call to discuss the matter with her.

A broken home? Yes, and such a tragedy! This represents only one of many such cases which have come to our attention within the past few years.

Epworth Orphanage for fifty-three years has heard the cry of the little child that is orphaned or deserted or unwanted. We understand the language of every dependent child who enters our gates the one language that is the same in all lands and among all peoples. There are some languages, however, we do not understand. For instance, we do not understand the language of some fathers and mothers who permit their children, not orphaned, to be torn from the home ties and placed in an institution. Such children are victims of circumstances worse than orphanhood . . . victims of desertion, mental cruelty, incompatibility, non-support . . . children called upon to pay the penalty of having been born in a home where the rearing of children is an avocation instead of a vocation . . . where the child is a burden instead of an asset . . . where the child is in the way instead of being the center around which all "ways" are built.

A home is more than a place in which children eat and sleep . . . more than a "stopping off" place in the course of activities. A home should be the fountain from which flows the inspiration for all good activities and undertakings. It should be the one place where love and understanding are centered. It should be the place where children really want to begin their day and the place where they look forward to ending the same day. Home should be to them life, with all that a good life embraces.

One of our "pet peeves," relatively speaking, is the lavish bestowal of affection and gastronomic treats upon children from a broken home when their parents visit them. Sometimes they chance to hit up at the same time . . . perhaps the mother coming via taxi; the father in his old jalopy perchance . . . the mother dressed to the "nth degree" in a brand new outfit, including a permanent and 51-gauge nylons, and along whose trail arises the aroma of a mixture of cheap talcum and cigarette smoke. Thus it is with these parents who have deserted or separated or divorced or who are living immorally otherwise. They gladly turn over their little broods to Epworth Orphanage while they sit complacently along the sidelines loudly singing:

"Praise God for Epworth Orphanage so fair,
Which clothes, feeds, and trains our children so dear,
To whom we're indebted not even a penny,
And as for responsibility, indeed we haven't any!!!!"

The times are really out of joint. Telescopic changes are taking place in our institution as well as in the world in general. Things truly are in reverse. For instance, in 1934 Epworth's admissions were 58, seven of whom had both parents living. Nineteen forty-five, 46 children out of 78 admitted were not orphaned . . . approximately 59%. Today, out of 260 children in residence there are 104 having both parents living . . . 40%. Just here we should like to quote Dr. Karl P. Meister, executive secretary of the Board of Hospitals and Homes of the Methodist Church, in his Eighth Annual Report for 1949:

"Conditions from which children come to church homes have been almost completely reversed during the last three decades. Thirty years ago practically every children's home provided long time or permanent care for children. Last year there were 2,954 (out of a total capacity of 4,093) children in our homes having both parents living, while the total number of full orphans cared for was 1,581. Most homes began by taking care of orphans only. Today in one home of 63 children there is not one orphan. These children have one or both parents living. The principal causes for children needing the services of these homes, as given to us in the reports of the institutions, are broken homes, drunkenness, mental illness, desertion, immorality, neglect, unwholesome surroundings, housing, lack of care, financial difficulty, illness, etc., etc. All of these vitally affect the intake policies."

The child is the victim of the broken home . . . the home where there has been no liberty in small things . . . no unity in large things . . . no charity in anything. Those things which he has seen and heard leave a lasting imprint upon his mind. Regardless of where he goes or how long he stays, he will display the pattern of his old home--many of which patterns would require several psychiatrists and psychologists to unravel. Take for instance the case of Ann, 14, who had been at Epworth for seven years--ample time in which to forget and forgive. Without rhyme or reason one morning in school she hlew the top, claiming no one loved nor cared for her . . . that she had two mothers and two daddies and nowhere to go!!!

In another case, Tom, 13, ran to the home of one of the workers, hanged rapidly upon the door and impatiently called, "Come quick! My second daddy is out yonder with a gun and he's about to kill my mamma and my third daddy!"

On her return from her vacation, Nell, one of the college girls, came to the office for a chat. "Did you have a nice stay with your mother?" I asked. "Yes," she replied, "but I am always glad to come back to Epworth." "If I asked you something, will you tell me the truth?" I asked. "Sure. What is it?" "I have often wondered how you girls feel about your mothers, you having been away from them since you were small children. Just how do you feel about your own mother?" "That is easy to answer," she said. "I have great respect for her but I do not love her."

Now the case of Jane is different . . . The mother in this case did the laying out of the home-pattern in "black and white"--a distinct pattern of Jane's early home life. Jane had come to Epworth in early childhood. She came from a home of poverty, ignorance and sin. Sometimes at Epworth it is astounding to hear the children "mirate" over their home castles . . . the accumulation and display of wealth . . . the extent of perfection and honors attained by their relatives. Perhaps it is a defense mechanism they build up, knowing it would never do to let the other children know just what their home situations are. Jane doubtless had been playing the game of make-believe during the nine years she had been at Epworth. She evidently had created mental pictures of sugar plums hanging from her family tree . . . and had built up high hopes of falling heir to some of the precious family heirlooms and jewels. She was in her senior year of high school at the time she received the following letter from her mother, evidently in answer to some question she had asked her. Imagine Jane's terrible disillusionment on reading:

"Why did you ask me about your daddy's rings, he didn't have any rings or any thing else and didn't try to get anything only his wiskie and Let me and you children do without food. I had to work and manage the best I could I am Proud of you children (Jane and her two brothers)--You all have dun wonderful considering you didn't get Smartness from him for there wasent any about him and if he had of lived to raised you all you shure would of had a tough time and no education. I could start Jim and John off to school in the mornings and he would make them come Back to the house for spite to me he was Just as worrisome as any man could be I would like for you all to Just forget him and all his people. I have had more and have at this time got more money and more around me this yeare than I had the 20 years I lived with him, he didn't want any thing but his drink."

Let's not leave Billy out. He was a small red-headed little fellow. One day the head matron (who censored the mail) asked him if he did not have a new daddy (a step-father). Billy replied, "I've had a heap of them."

Something definitely is out of joint. What is the remedy? Now, for the sixty-four dollar question: To what extent should the ropes be lengthened and how deep should the stakes be driven in rescuing the child who was deliberately placed by his father and mother upon a dangerous precipice? And after said child has been rescued by Epworth Orphanage, to what effective use should other agencies concerned . . . the state, the community, the Church . . . employ said ropes and stakes in bringing the parents into a realization of their duty and obligation to the child . . . their reconciliation with each other . . . their re-establishment of the home to which the child can safely be returned?

Johnny's home had been broken by the infidelity of his mother. He, 13, and Sarah, his sister, were in residence at Epworth at the time he wrote his father:
"Dad, I'm going to ask a favor of you. Today is Christmas and next Sunday I'm going to go to the preacher and give my heart to Jesus and I want you to do the same thing. I know it will be hard to go up to the preacher and ask him to ask the Lord to forgive you of your sins but if Sis and I can do it surely you can." (A little child shall lead them.)

Barium Welcomes Synod

Synod of North Carolina To Meet At Presbyterian Orphans Home September 19-20

Rev. Charles H. Sides, Pastor of Little Joe's Church, To Preach Opening Sermon

Again Presbyterian Orphans' Home entertains the Mother Synod. This is the seventh time that the Synod has met here. Its coming is eagerly awaited. We always get a lift from the presence of so many interested friends.

The Synod has raised up the orphanage from the baby it was when the Home opened in 1891 with twenty children, in an old Hotel, with a few acres of land; to the present, with our large number of buildings, set in a fine property of over a thousand acres. While no new buildings have been erected since the Synod met here before, we are glad for them to come to see us and to check on the progress of the children from time to time.

Between meetings of Synod here, the Synod has its governing body for the orphanage in the person of the Regents of the Orphans' Home. This is composed of twenty members, ten men and ten women. One man and one woman are elected from each Presbytery; and a man and a woman are elected at large. Mr. J. Archie Cannon of Concord has been the President of the Board for five years and has given a great deal of his time and ability to this strenuous task. He will make the report of the Regents to the Synod when it meets. Other members of the Board are Mrs. Coit Robinson of Lowell who is the efficient secretary; Mr. N. H. Edgerton from Rocky Mount, Rev. Sam Howie of Fayetteville who was brought up at the Home and is now pastor of the Highland Church of Fayetteville; Mr. W. E. Price of Charlotte, now Moderator of the General Assembly; Rev. Ben F. Brown of Wallace; Mrs. E. C. Beatty of Mooresville; Mrs. Percy R. Smith of Wilmington; Mrs. C. E. Kerchner of Greensboro; Mrs. P. P. McCain of Southern Pines; Rev. M. S. Huske, of Reidsville; Mrs. W. C. Alexander of Durham; Mrs. R. W. Bruin of Henderson; Mrs. Fred L. Smyre of Gastonia; Mrs. R. A. Young of Charlotte; Mr. J. H. Thompson of Kings Mountain, and Mrs. H. S. Kirk of Winston-Salem.

Four new Regents will be elected at the next meeting of Synod. Rev. M. S. Huske has completed his second term as Regent; Dr. George Mauze has left the Synod to take work in Texas, Mr. R. W. Bruin has requested he not be re-elected; and Mrs. J. M. Hobgood has died, so their places will have to be filled. They have all done much for the Home and will be greatly missed.

Another group, that means much to the Home, compose the Permanent Committee on Orphans' Home. This Committee is very active in helping us promote the Thanksgiving Offering. The Committee has for its Chairman Mr.

Home Mission Conference To Precede Opening of Synod Here On September 19

Rev. R. H. Stone, secretary of the Presynod Home Mission conference, has announced that the 12th annual meeting will be held at Barium Springs September 19 and 20, just preceding the annual Presbyterian synod of North Carolina. This conference calls together home mission workers, pastors, members of the woman's organization, Women of the Church, and young people of the synod who are guests of the executive committee of home missions of the synod for two days.

Mr. Stone said the theme of the conference will be "Our Task For Our Day." The meeting will begin at 2:30 p. m. Monday, September 19, and will continue until noon Tuesday, September 20. Rev. P. D. Patrick, chairman of the synod's committee, will preside, and a devotional service will be conducted by Rev. John McKinnon of Concord.

W. E. Price of Charlotte, moderator of the general assembly, will make the opening address on "The Imperial Task of Home Missions." Dr. J. M. Carr, Atlanta, Ga, new director of country church work, will speak on "The Town and Country Church." The closing address for the afternoon will be by Dr. R. S. Snyder of Charlotte.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock Rev. L. A. Taylor of Wilmington will preside and devotional exercises will be led by Dr. R. C. Long of Charlotte. New workers in home mission fields in the synod will be introduced. The premiere showing of a sound-movie prepared by the Home Mission committee in Atlanta will be shown, entitled, "Our Highland Heritage in Our Mountain Missions." Rev. O. V. Caudill of Salisbury, director of church construction, will speak on "Building Churches and Manses in the Synod." Dr. C. E. S. Kraemer of Charlotte will close with an address on the new study book, "Lift Up Your Eyes."

On Tuesday morning, September 20, Dr. Harold Dudley of Wilson will preside and Rev. Hardin King of Second Church, Lexington, will lead the devotions. This will be followed by an address by Dr. O. C. Williamson of Charlotte on "Recruiting for the Ministry."

Five speakers will make four minute addresses on the work in their presbytery. These speakers will be selected from Albemarle, Wilmington, Winston-Salem, Orange, and Mecklenburg Presbyteries.

Dr. C. Darby Fulton of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of foreign missions, will bring the conference to a close with a talk on the world situation.

Mrs. Rosa W. Allison Died Suddenly Here On August 22nd

Mrs. Rosa Waugh Allison who has been substituting as dietitian while our regular dietitian, Mrs. B. B. Hobgood is on vacation, died suddenly here on Aug. 22nd. Mrs. Allison fell on the steps of Rumble hall. As we go to press it has not been decided by the doctors whether she died from natural causes or was fatally injured in the fall.

Synod's First Child

Presbyterian Orphan's Home was the first and for a long time was the only Synodical Institution. For many years our colleges were owned and controlled by one or more Presbyteries. Now the Home shares

Mr. C. Spears Hicks, Chairman Permanent Committee on Orphans' Home.

the distinction of Synodical Control with Presbyterian Junior College and Queen's College

It was from a report of the agent of Education given at the Synod in October 1888 that the following resolution was adopted, "Resolved, That, in the judgment of Synod the time has come to take steps looking to the establishment of an Orphans' Home within our bounds and that a committee be appointed to take the matter in charge to consider and execute whatever may seem wise and practical in putting such an enterprise on a permanent basis."

There was also before the Synod a memorial from the "Home and Hospital" a private institution which had been maintained in Charlotte for several years to care for children. A commission with Dr. Jethro Rumble as chairman was appointed by the Synod and the resolution and the memorial were referred to them.

This commission sent out a circular to each Presbytery asking for its opinion. The project was approved unanimously and offers began coming in of sites in various parts of the state. Synod met in Charlotte in 1889 and approved the idea of establishing a Home. They elected the following Board of Regents to direct the affairs of the Home:

Mecklenburg Presbytery— Reverend Wm. McIlwaine, George Wilson, Esq., Mr. John E. Oats.

Concord Presbytery— Reverend J. Rumble, Mr. G. M. Love.

Orange Presbytery —Reverend D. I. Craig, Hon. A. M. Scales.

Wilmington Presbytery— Geo. Chadbourne, Esq.

Fayetteville Presbytery— Rev. erend D. D. McBride.

Albemarle Presbytery— Hon. D. G. Fowle.

This Board of Regents was directed to take over the group being maintained in Charlotte and to purchase ten acres of land near Charlotte and there open the Presbyterian Orphan's Home. Although a tract of land was bought near Charlotte the Home was not established there and the land was sold. But in 1891 the Regents bought the old hotel property here at Barium from Davidson College together with thirty-two acres of land for the price of $1,000.00. The old hotel was repaired and furnished for $1,222.58. So when the Home opened for its twenty children, 16 girls and 4 boys, the total investment was $2,222.58.

Reverend R. W. Boyd was the first superintendent here at Barium. His salary was $750.00 per year, Mrs. Boyd was employed as matron on a salary of $150.00 a (Continued On Page Two)

The Message of the Month

IS CHRIST ADEQUATE?

"Art thou he that should come, or look we for another?" Luke 7:19

In a day when many are inclined to scoff at religion and to demean the claims of Christianity it is essential that we as Christian people meet this question without hesitancy. Is Christ adequate? Is he the one for whom the world waited during the passage of many centuries. Or should we be looking for another?

It is all too true that today there are those who are rejecting the claims of Jesus Christ. There are those who do not see in Jesus the answer to all life's problems. This is evidenced by the willingness of so many people to follow after peculiar religious groups which exclude Christ. It is shown by the dangerous and growing acceptance of Communism, which has showed that it not only has no place for Christ but it also definitely opposes Christ and his teachings. This modern refusal to accept Jesus shows itself further in those who call themselves followers of Jesus without once exhibiting the discipleship that Jesus must command if we be true followers of Him.

And so by word and action there are great hordes of the world's people who apparently do not believe that Christ is adequate. Let us consider this question in the light of this chapter from Luke's Gospel.

Jesus had just performed two amazing miracles. In Capernaum he had healed the centurion's servant who was near death. And in Nain he had raised from the dead the widow of Nain's son. Surely now all would know that this was indeed the Christ the Son of God. Else how could He do such wonderful things?

Well, reports of the miracles had spread quickly. Those who had witnessed them were filled with awe. The whole countryside was excited at the wonderful things Jesus had done. But was he adequate to meet all their needs?

I. There was still an unwelcome doubt

The people had praised God for these wonders and surely they were filled with awe that any mere man could accomplish them, and yet they were not quite ready to go all the way in their acceptance of Christ.

They at once recalled Elijah and Elisha and declared that a great prophet like them had arisen in their midst. Surely, they said, God hath visited His people. For he has raised up such a man as this right here among us in Galilee. The whole country was ringing with the exploits of this new prophet. All Galilee and Samaria and Judea were talking of him and of his wonderful power.

And yet there was still a great lack in their response to Jesus. The prophets of old had been mighty men of God, they had thundered out God's hatred of sin and the necessity of man's repentance, they had pointed the way home to God, they had begged for renewed consecration and for true and spiritual worship of God. But mighty men of God though they were, they were still men!

It revealed certainly that these people had been thinking for them to call Jesus a prophet, but it showed too that they had not been thinking clearly. Perhaps the words and actions of the Lord had reminded them of the prophets, but it was not the plan of Jesus that men should look upon Him as a mere man. The whole success of His mission depended upon men's response to Him as the Son of God.

And so even yet there was this unwelcome doubt- yes, he is a great prophet, a mighty man of God, but no more. And this attitude (Continued On Page Two)

Mrs. J. B. Johnston

When the resignation of Mr. Johnston came it was doubly regretted because of Mrs. Johnston whom we all know and love and will miss very much as we will Mr. Johnston.

She has meant so much to the Orphanage family and has endeared herself to all visitors as well. She always has a smile and helping hand for everyone she meets, and has always opened her home to all the Barium children and to visitors that come for a short or a long visit.

Mr. Johnston could not have been the success that he has been if it had not been for Mrs. Johnston with her helpfulness and lovable spirit.

As he has been a Father to the children she has been a Mother and it is with double regret that Mr. Johnston has resigned. We hope that they will stay right on among our family here.

Mrs. Johnston has always been a great help and inspiration spiritually and her influence has been felt on the campus. All who know her appreciate her beautiful christian character and no word of criticism has ever been heard from a worker or a child.

Mrs. Johnston and her family have taken second place to the orphanage family all during the time that Mr. Johnston has been associated with Barium.

She visits everyone on the campus, attends all programs that concern the children and enjoys and appreciates even the smallest and seemingly unimportant.

Mrs. Johnston is a sincere friend, a lovable Christian and an inspiration to all.

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the Regents of the Orphans' Home of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (here name the bequest).

Nathan Neely Fleming

By Robert S. Arrowood

But for the intervention of Providence Rev. N. N. Fleming would have presided at the opening of the Synod of North Carolina and would have preached the opening sermon.

The writer was a life time friend of Neely Fleming. During childhood we went to the same school at Woodleaf; fished and swam in Third Creek together; and joined Old Unity Church and attended there as members, and sat together in a Sunday School Class. We were in College and Seminary together, rooming together one year.

I might tell a number of anecdotes showing his smart mind and quick wit. In College he used his time in a remarkable way. With the aid of some scholarships and his own efforts he paid his way and had a little money to lend. His mind worked when he was asleep. One night he had failed to solve a problem in higher mathematics, but when eleven o'clock came he went to bed as always. In the small hours of the morning he came suddenly and completely awake with a formula for the solution of the problem in the top of his mind. He switched on the light, reached out for his pencil, and wrote a few figures on the plastered wall. Next morning the complete solution was easily arrived at.

In the fifty years of our friendship I never knew him to do a mean or sinful thing; I never heard him say an untrue, or profane or unkind word; he was a man of God.

The following is the Memorial to Mr. Fleming written by Rev. W. M. Baker and adopted by Orange Presbytery.

Nathan Neely Fleming was born at Mt. Vernon in Rowan County, North Carolina, October 7, 1889.

He received his early education in the schools of Rowan County and in obedience to the call of God to preach the Gospel, he entered Davidson College in the Fall of 1908 and was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in June 1912. After teaching school for two years, he entered Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, Virginia, September 1914 and graduated in the Spring of 1917 with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

Concord Presbytery licensed him to preach in June 1917 and later in the same month Albemarle Presbytery ordained him to the full Gospel Ministry and installed him as assistant pastor in the Tarboro Presbyterian Church. While assistant pastor at Tarboro, he supplied Nahalah and Scotland Neck Presbyterian churches. After a year's happy work as assistant pastor at Tarboro, he was called to serve Pinetops and Enfield for a year's pastorate, and then Pinetops and Falkland for another year. He became pastor of the Delgado and Winter Park Presbyterian churches in Wilmington, North Carolina, in 1921 and served till 1924, when he was called to the Farmville Presbyterian Church or a two years' fruitful pastorate.

In 1926 the Hawfields and Bethlehem Presbyterian churches in Orange Presbytery called him. While serving these churches he was Stated Supply of a small group at Saxapahaw and later at Efland, North Carolina. In 1931 Hawfields Church called him for his full time. His ministry in this large country field had been richly blessed but upon his entering a full time ministry, the work developed greatly, and the membership grew rapidly.

Mr. Fleming married Miss Jessamine Roberts Booth, August 29, 1918. To this marriage were born six children: Three daughters, Mary Rosa, of Fuquay Springs and the home, Jessamine Roberts (Mrs. Victor P. Owens,) Emporia, Va., and Lucy Lowman, of the home; three sons, Nathan Neely, Jr., of Hawfields Community, and the Rev. Russell Flemings, pastor of St. Andrews and Buffalo Presbyterian Churches in Lee County, North Carolina, and Willis, who died at the age of four.

Mr. Fleming was a loyal and devoted pastor. His large congregation was scattered over a wide community and overflowed into other communities, but none lived too far away to receive his personal systematic oversight and ministry. He loved his young people and devoted his fine gifts and graces to counselling and serving them. It was his dream to see a proposed Fellowship Building to serve the varied needs of his young people completed. All groups among his congregation received their full share in his ministering.

He was a sincere preacher of the Word of God and divided it rightly and faithfully to his people. He made the truth so plain that the large group of children, who always filled several pews in the front, could understand. He was a watcher for souls and expected a harvest from the seed sown. He led his people in Bible Study and helped them in spiritual growth.

Mr. Fleming was a faithful Presbyterian. He was always in attendance upon the meetings of the church courts. This faithfulness was rewarded by appointments upon many important committees and Commissions. His brethren trusted and honored him. He was Moderator of Presbytery, represented his Presbytery at the General Assembly on numerous occasions, and in September 1948 the Synod of North Carolina, at its meeting in Montreat, North Carolina, elected him Moderator. He was Stated Clerk of Orange Presbytery from 1930 to 1948. He was a Trustee of Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs, North Carolina, for sixteen years.

He was active in the civic life of his community and county. He served a number of terms as Chaplain of the State Grange and was Chairman for the Christian Rural Overseas Relief Program for North Carolina, under the North Carolina Council of Churches. He was President of the Congress of Parents and Teachers of Alexander-Wilson School in his home community.

He was an active leader and wise counselor in the Young People's Work of Orange Presbytery and the Synod of North Carolina. In all of their Council Meetings, Rallies, Conferences, and Camps, he was a wise teacher, a sympathetic counselor, a trusted friend and a faithful guide.

Mr. Fleming had an optimistic outlook on life that revealed an inner calm, a quiet faith in God and his fellowmen that enabled him to see real good in mankind and believe that God's truth would triumph in this world.

He trusted implicitly in Christ as Saviour and Lord and walked humbly in the light of that faith. He was an inspiring friend, an entertaining companion and a tireless worker in the vineyard of our Lord.

Having run his course and finished his work he slipped quietly away in the early hours of October 7, 1948. It was his birthday, a glorious going home.

We laid him to rest in the quiet cemetery of the historical old church, where he had served for twenty-two fruitful, happy years, amid a grateful and devoted people who will keep green the memories of their genial pastor.

'Well done thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.'

The Message of the

tude was wide-spread, it was the common public opinion of Him.

Today there would be very few who would disclaim that Christ was a great prophet. The Mohammedan faith ascribes that to Him. All the world's unbelievers would probably agree that he was a matchless teacher, a seer into difficult and unknown things. Perhaps even the Communist could say that. But we say that that is not enough, that it can never be enough. That unless Jesus Christ is the Son of God he can never prove adequate to meet our needs.

If God was in Christ, and if he loved me and gave himself for me, then all problems are solved and all wants are satisfied.

"Thou, O Christ, art all I want; More than all in Thee I find."

We have seen that public opinion doubted Christ to be the promised of God. There was another phase of that unwelcome doubt in the life of John the Baptist. The whole country was in a state of excitement about Jesus. Somehow the followers of John had brought word of these things to John in prison at Macharea.

And now perhaps he was wondering, "Here I am in prison, and Jesus isn't doing anything about it." He had been put in prison by Herod, and now he was depressed and discouraged by this long imprisonment. What could it mean? If Jesus were truly adequate could he not do something about it? And so he sent two of his followers to ask Jesus plainly, "Art thou he that should come, or look we for another?"

And I wonder if that cry hasn't been echoed countless times when people find themselves in the grip of some personal tragedy. If Christ is really adequate, then why, O why has this tragedy befallen me? And yet doesn't the very question suggest a lack of understanding of Christ's real mission. That His real purpose is the salvation of our souls, that sometimes our own personal comfort and safety has to be subjected to that larger and divine purpose.

To these doubts Jesus has an answer in the form of a - -

II. Welcome reassurance

His first word of reassurance is directed to John. "Go tell John what things ye have seen and heard, how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached." This was the answer. There are eye-witnesses to all these things. People have seen them, they cannot be doubted. Now let your faith tell you what these things mean. Surely it must have been answer enough for John the Baptist. For here are evidences beyond doubt that Jesus Christ is more than a man, more than a prophet.

Then Jesus goes to point out that the prophecies of Scripture are fulfilled in John, in that he was a forerunner, a messenger, to prepare the way for Him. And now He has come, and He has vin-icated his mission by the wonderful work that have been performed. So how is it possible for them to doubt further. When these things are seen through the eyes of faith, it cannot be doubted that He is indeed the one for whom they were looking. Nor could it be doubted that he was indeed adequate for them in that he was able to meet all their needs.

Nor in the light of this Scripture can we deny that Jesus Christ is adequate for us. We look further through in the chapter and see two responses to Jesus that seem representative of people in every age. There was the response of Simon and there was the response of the wicked woman.

Simon was a Pharisee who asked Jesus to dine at his house. Why he did it we can't see, for his reception of Jesus was certainly not very cordial. It wasn't even courteous. First he failed to meet Jesus at the door with water for His feet which was one of the common courtesies. He did not greet him with a kiss as was the custom, and he did not provide oil to anoint his head. And it all reveals that there must have been hostility to Jesus on the part of Simon.

The woman, who is described as a "wicked woman" in other words, a woman of the street, could not have been invited to the house of Simon. She had come in uninvited, ready to be treated rudely as she was sure to be, simply because she felt that in Jesus was the answer to all her need. The simple courtesies that Simon had failed to perform, she did. She washed his feet with her tears, and wiped them with her hair. She poured costly ointment on them that she doubtless could hardly afford. She showed the love and respect for Jesus that in Simon seemed so sadly lacking.

And it was in this that the meanness of Simon's soul shows itself. "Why," he said to himself, "This man, if he were a prophet, would have perceived what manner of woman this is, which toucheth him, that she is a sinner." And in those words Simon reveals his own response to Jesus. Simon was self-centered, arrogant in his beliefs, and quite sure that if Jesus had any special relationship to God that He would never associate with such a sinful woman. Simon had no idea of the compassion, or the mercy, or the love of God.

Well, certainly Christ can never be adequate for such a soul as that. For any such attitude shows plainly that the person has not any conception of God as He really is. Christ, the Son of God? Why Simon could not even believe Him a prophet of God, and do the things that he was constantly doing.

And so can't we see that for Christ to be adequate for us requires first of all something of us? It requires that we first of all realize that God is primarily a God of love and mercy.

And it further requires that we see clearly our own sinfulness and our own lack in the sight of God. Simon is his self-sufficiency could not even see a glimmer of that basic truth.

The woman, on the other hand, knew her own sin and she realized God's love. And that was the basis of her right response to Jesus. To her Jesus was adequate, he was able to meet all her need.

And Jesus accepted her love, and he told those who were present the reason for it. This woman had repented of her misdeeds, her soul had been cleansed. And Jesus said to her very simply, "Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace." Or better, we might translate it, "go into peace." She was bidden to go forth into life in peace, peace with God, peace within her own soul.

Is Jesus adequate? Yes. Yes, there can be no doubt that Jesus is adequate. For the life of this woman proves it. Is it sin that spoils life, it in sin that makes it sometimes mean and hateful, it is sin that stands between us and our God. And when that sin is removed, then life may be lived in happiness and satisfaction and peace. And it is Jesus alone who can remove sin and make that wonderful life possible for us all.

We need never look for another. For this is the one that should come even as the angel promised, "And thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save the people from their sins."

The first time Synod ever met at Barium was in 1897. The meeting was convened at Salisbury. Dr. Rumble, pastor at Salisbury, had been chairman of the Board of Regents from the beginning. So Synod came over from Salisbury on November 5, 1897 to Barium that they might dedicate a new building which on the program was called "Center Building." This was done to give the chairman the delightful surprise which came when the name was announced as "Rumble Hall." Distinguished men on that program were Dr. J. M. Rose, Dr. J. B. Shearer and Dr. Thornwell Jacobs.

Again the Synod visited Barium in 1911. Synod had met in Charlotte. One day was set aside and by means of a special train the delegates came to Center Church for an historical program and the unveiling of a tablet commemorating the founding of the Synod of the Carolinas in Center Church in 1788. Synod then took the train to Barium Springs, inspected the Home and returned to Charlotte.

In 1926 and in 1936 Synod was jointly entertained by Statesville, Mitchell College, and Presbyterian Orphan's Home. In 1941 for the first time all the sessions of Synod were held on the grounds of the Home. Three hundred and fifty-six ministers and elders were registered for that meeting of Synod.

Again in 1944 the Synod met at Presbyterian Orphans' Home. There was a record attendance of 371; 230 ministers and 141 ruling elders. There were four visiting brethren and many outside speakers.

If every Presbyterian minister in the Synod were to attend that would be 416. And every church were represented that would be 581, that would be a total of 997. Those are the figures of 1947-'48. The number of ministers has increased and churches have been organized. The possible enrollment is now well over a thousand. Well come on! The more the merrier.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE
Hi Friends,

Once again we bring you our little bit of gossip and news from the best cottage on the campus, "The Annie Louise."

Everyone has finally skipped and hopped back from their vacations now, and we are once again a big family. We are sure that everyone that went away had a wonderful time, including the nine that went from our cottage. Only one out of the nine that went home to say. We truly hope she finds as many friends there, as she had here. We are looking forward to the day when she will come back to visit us.

Since we last wrote to you, we have received two new girls at our air cottage. They are shiny new, and their names are Carol Moore, and Sue Moore, 6. We are trying with all our hearts to make them lappy, and no "Homesickness." We are sure they will love dear Barium as we do.

The first week in August held a new and different thrill for all of us. We are sure you have heard of our beloved, "Camp Fellowship," at one time or another. We, the Annie Louise girls, and the Synod boys, spent a whole week down here. You can rest assured we had a wonderful time. That week we looked like, "Sneaks"! Lipstick, rouge, powder (of any kind), bubble gum, and fingernail polish took the place of our skin. What a time our matron and big sisters had at the weeks end! We are now beginning to show signs of cleanliness, once more.

There seems to be coming to Barium, another dry spell. We do hope our flowers don't dry up and die. We have put out a great deal of effort with our flowers this summer, with the aid of our matron. She, of course, is a flower lover, much to our advantage. The cottage stays decorated all the time. Our lovely flowers and shiny floor, make a wonderful combination, don't you think?

During the latter part of July both of our big sisters were away on vacation. The matron has been everywhere bragging on how we took over their work. This makes us feel proud, and we shall be glad to do it again sometime.

One of our big sisters is away to camp. I guess we'll be able to pull her through. If we aren't able to, then awful things may happen at our cottage.

Our precious teacher, Miss Blakney, is on the campus. However, she isn't living with us. She is substituting for one of the matrons while she is gone on vacation. She had better come and live with us again, for our cottage, classroom, and cottage news won't be much of anything without her.

Two or more weeks until school starts. Vacations end and homework begins. Being together with our friends is something we all look forward to with great enthusiasm. Wish us luck on our first report cards.

Until September.

—The Annie Louise Girls

RUMPLE HALL

Hi There,
 Vacation is almost over and most of us are back home again. All of us had a wonderful time. Miss Ellis our matron has gone on her vacation and we all hope she has a very nice time. Miss Blakney is our matron while she is gone.

Camp has already started and the Synod boys and Annie Louise girls are at camp now. The Howard girls and the Lees boys are going next week. The ones that did not get a vacation at Rumble Hall, Woman's Building, Jennie Gilmer and Quads get to go the third week.

We have all been having a nice time in swimming. Most of us have learned how to swim or dive.

We will have our June, July, and August Birthday table on August 25th. We have about five girls to go from Rumble Hall.

We are anxiously looking forward to the opening of school. Most of us are in the sixth or seventh grades.

So long until next time.

—The Rumble Hall

INFIRMARY NEWS

Dear Friends,
 Since you last heard from our crowd we have received into our crowd Jeanne Turlington. She fits right in with the rest of us.

Lately all that we "Nurses" have been hearing is I have an ear ache. We've had quite a few patients lately having ear-aches, stomach aches, and etc.

We have been on vacations and had wonderful times. All of us were glad to get back though.

School is almost here and everyone seems to be looking forward to it.

Now that Herbert Good has left us, we feel sure that Terrell Hall will take his place at the Infirmary. (That is in the living room of course, on date nite.)

The two Buie sisters, Sadie and Dewie have been substitute matrons at the Infirmary this summer. We certainly have enjoyed them being our matrons. Wish they could stay longer with us, it's good to have them around.

 Mrs. Finley hasn't been on her vacation yet. She is looking forward to hers still. Hope she will be able to go home soon.

Mrs. Harwell is on her vacation now. We're so sorry to hear that her brother has died during this time. I'm afraid it won't be much of a vacation. We're looking forward to her return. Hurry back Mrs. Annie.

Charles Green is the Infirmary's mascot. He stays down here as much as anyone else on the campus does, therefore we're going to adopt him as our mascot. He's a darling, you ought to see him. Don't be surprised when you ask him something if he says, "I don't know."

I'll say now, "I don't know" any more news.

—The Infirmary,

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again with the news of our cottage.

Camp has started and Lee's cottage and our cottage go August the 8th, and come back the 13th. During our five days at camp we get to wear fingernail polish, lipstick, and rouge. We also have bubble gum contests, jump rope contests, and hop scotch contests.

We have been getting beans lately. One Monday we got 7 crates of string beans and later on that day we got 7 crates of butterbeans. After working all day with very little success, we invited the Lees boys to come over after supper to help us finish. With their help we finished the butterbeans in an hour then we played a game. We only had 2 crates of string beans left to do the next morning.

We had a watermelon feast on Friday July 29th. Everyone of us enjoyed it. Some of us ate as much as 5 or 6 peices.

All of us are back from vacations except Mary Glenn.

Good bye now.

Barium Messenger

VOL. 27

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., SEPTEMBER 1949

NO. 11

To the Members of Synod and
The Board of Regents of
The Orphans' Home:

During the meeting of Synod it is difficult to get to speak to everyone and when the opportunity comes for one to express his sentiments on the floor of Synod there never is a full house. For that reason, I did not attempt to express my feelings over the recent action of the Board of Regents and of the Synod to you while you were here. I wanted it to reach all of you and am using the columns of The Messenger as the medium to accomplish this.

I was overwhelmed by the generous action on the part of the Synod in recognizing my services here. I have felt all during the years of my stay here that I have been well paid for whatever effort I might have put out, the pay being in the affection of the children here and of the ever growing number of the alumni, in the loyal and hearty cooperation of the men and women who work at Barium, in the friendly understanding of the members of the Synod with whom we have had so many contacts. My life here at Barium has been most pleasant. My family grew up here. I think they are better men and women because they did, and their love for Barium is second only to mine.

I feel that the Synod in its action and through the Board of Regents has treated me generously and kindly, and I hope that somehow and in some way in the years to come I may continue to help to keep Barium Springs a place that can serve childhood adequately, and that our Church may continue to be proud of it.

Sincerely,

JOS. B. JOHNSTON.

Elected Moderator

REV. PAUL DICKSON PATRICK

Rev. Paul Dickson Patrick was elected Moderator of the One Hundred and Thirty-sixth Stated Session of the Synod of North Carolina of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

For fourteen years Mr. Patrick has been the beloved and effective pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Kings Mountain.

Since 1944 Mr. Patrick has been chairman of Synod's Executive Committee of Home Missions. He has distinguished himself in that office.

He made an excellent presiding officer. While ever alert and prompt in his decisions he was always patient, considerate, and jovial. He did much to make this a delightful meeting of Synod.

Four New Members of The Board of Regents

At the meeting of Synod just closed four new members were elected to the Board of Regents.

Rev. M. S. Huske has completed two full terms. In his place was elected Mr. J. Archie Cannon, Jr. son of our President of the Board. Mr. R. W. Bruin found that for business reasons he was unable to serve. In his place Rev. Kelsey Regen, D. D. adds a "T" and becomes a Regent. Dr. Regen is Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Durham. Mrs. J. M. Hobgood who served for six years on the Board of Regents and who passed away early in the year was a most useful and beloved member of the Board from Albemarle Presbytery. Mrs. J. H. Brown of Tarboro has been elected to succeed her.

Rev. George Mauze, D. D. Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church Winston-Salem was chairman of our Finance Committee and a very useful and active member of the Board. Dr. Mauze having removed to Texas, an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Winston-Salem Mr. W. Tully Blair was elected to succeed him.

Home-coming Day Set For October 14th

We have been so busy getting ready for Synod and entertaining Synod that we have not had time to talk much about Home-Coming Day, and here it is just a little while ahead.

It is on October 14th that the big event will take place. The maples on the campus are beginning to turn in preparation for that event so that the campus will be most beautiful when you arrive. We have had a big meeting of Synod. More and more, Barium alumni are showing up as preachers and elders in these meetings. I am sure that if there were a gathering of deacons there would be a most gratifying portion of them claiming Barium as their home. These fragmentary home-comings are delightful. Everywhere we play a football game there is an hilarious section of oldtimers present. Just a short time ago we helped dedicate the new stadium at Thomasville. The

Superintendent of Home Missions

The first delegate to arrive at Synod was the much beloved Supt. of Home Missions, Dr. E. E. Gillespie, who is still going strong in his eightieth year.

Dr. Gillespie came in on Saturday with a couple of loads of books for his Home Mission workers. He came back early Monday morning to arrange and package them.

The Pre-Synod Home Mission Conference is a product of Dr. Gillespie's fertile mind and useful hands. It has grown through the years and now has an attendance of over two hundred. An excellent program this year carried stirring addresses by the Moderator of the General Assembly, Mr. W. E. Price of Charlotte; Dr. Darby Fulton, Executive Secretary of Foreign Missions and a past Moderator of the Assembly; Dr. J. M. Carr, recently elected Director of Town and Country work; Rev. O. V. Caudell of Salisbury, Director of Church Construction; Dr. C. E. S. Kraemer of the First Presbyterian Church of Charlotte, and others.

The Pre-Synod Conference was a great success because it reflected the enthusiasm for Home Missions in North Carolina under the leadership of Dr. Gillespie.

Here at Presbyterian Orphan's Home we have long known of the vigor of Dr. Gillespie's personality and the wide scope of his interest. The excellent brick house in which the writer lives was built by money raised by Dr. Gillespie in 1901. This was the first Superintendent's Home. Dr. Gillespie saw the need of such a house because Rev. R. W. Boyd and his family were living in the dormitory. He and Mr. Boyd estimated the cost at $2,000.00. Dr. Gillespie went to Mr. (Continued On Page Two)

Rev. C. H. Sides' Message to Synod

A RESPECTABLE RELIGION

It was several years ago that I had a conversation with a young deacon in one of our churches that has remained very clear in my memory. On that occasion I had been asked to teach the S. S. lesson which happened to be on the subject of relations with other races. In it I attempted as best I could to point out the Christian attitude. Afterward, the young man came up in a friendly manner to discuss the lesson. As he turned away, he said a thing that I shall not forget. He said, "I'm a Christian, but . . . I can't go along with you there." I'm a Christian, but . . .

That man was a church officer, he attended services regularly, he was a tither, a man of exemplary character. The issue at stake need not necessarily have been what it was. Nor was that an isolated incident. Perhaps all of you have had such experiences. But to me it was typical of a glaring weakness in the church today, of Christian people who say, "I'm a Christian, but there are areas of life where Christ cannot lead the way."

Can it be that our times have fallen heir to a respectable religion, comfortable and comforting, so long as it is in its place. And if such an attitude be widespread, doesn't religion come perilously near to being what Communism calls it - the opiate of the people.

Early Christianity was no opiate. The Christians of the first century did not know the meaning of a respectable religion. Elton Trueblood has said that "We must not forget that in the Roman Empire, Christ won, and won against tremendous odds. He won because faith in Christ really changed the lives of countless weak men and made them bold as lions. 'Yes, they were bold, and they took Christ and his gospel into every avenue of life. Wherever there were conditions that were contrary to that gospel, those men and women with self-sacrificing courage proclaimed the truth of God. It was dangerous, they lived daily in peril of their lives, but the gospel touched human affairs at every

The Meeting of Synod At Barium Springs

Again the Synod of North Carolina has come and gone. We were glad to see them come and sorry that their visit was so short.

Rev. O. C. Williamson, the last Moderator who was a representative to Synod, presided at the opening sessions. This was made necessary by the untimely death of the Moderator Rev. N. N. Fleming. Rev. C. H. Sides preached the opening sermon which will be found elsewhere in this issue.

In introducing Mr. Sides, Dr. Williamson paid a tribute to our deceased moderator and read from a letter from Governor W. Kerr Scott who was for many years a member of the Church of which Mr. Fleming was pastor at the time of his death. Two paragraphs from Mr. Scott's eloquent tribute are as follows:

"His congregation was stunned and shaken by the suddenness of his passing. As he lay in the last great sleep an old man said, 'It seems he must rise and speak to us.' How short-sighted we are! He speaks and will speak on in the lives he has influenced. God called him in the glory of the Autumn of his life. He was spared the winter of old age. There was never any weakening of his physical or mental powers. His life was full to the brim with joyous service.

As a member of his church for twenty two years, I realize that God loaned us one of his great ones for a time. Words are inadequate to express our sense of loss. To those who served with him, as well as to other thousands who knew him, must come the memory of the example he set in putting aside personal sorrow for the task ahead. In the words he liked to quote, 'We are not here to dream, to drift. There is hard work to do and loads to life.' May God give us strength and courage to live up to that."

Among the many fine addresses heard by the Synod were those by Dr. J. R. McGregor of Montreal at the Bible Hour; Rev. I. S. McElroy of the American Bible Society; Dr. J. R. Cunningham, President speaking on Davidson College; Dr. Samuel E. Howie in his resolutions on Mr. Joseph B. Johnston; Dr. Darby

Getting Ready to Entertain Synod

Many of the visitors on our campus during the meeting of Synod congratulated a few of the grown people on their thoughtfulness in providing so many courtesies for the visiting guests.

Perhaps we should give you a glimpse behind the scenes to let you know how this worked out. No one person or group of persons is responsible for the many things that were done to make the stay of the Synod pleasant. Here is how it works. We know that probably Synod will return to Barium about 1953, so a few days after the meeting of Synod everybody will be asked to make suggestion for the next meeting. Those of the children who served you this time will be gone in 1953, and the little chaps that were somewhat under foot while you were here will be the ones who will serve you. Well, everybody will have suggestions. The children will have heard you speak of certain things and maybe will have heard you suggest a better plan. They will come up with suggestions about the next meeting.

For instance, in 1941 we served you tomato juice in your rooms. A boy would go in and wake you and hand you a glass of tomato juice and a newspaper, and there you were in bed and you had to do something about it. Maybe you had wanted to sleep thirty minutes longer. Well there were enough people who mildly objected to that for the boys to pick it up and suggest that in the future we serve the tomato juice outside of the bedrooms.

Another suggestion was made that we serve breakfast in a different way, since some wanted it early and some could not get there early. So this year the time of eating breakfast was extended over a period of an hour and a half. This and many other things will be discussed and when you return to Barium in 1953 or thereabouts you will find that your treatment will be smoothed out and the things that might have been a little inconvenient this time will not be so next time.

We sincerely hope that you will meet in our new church. It is now just a plan - not even on paper - but it will be in brick and stone certainly within four years.

It happened this year that having a football game on the last day of Synod was an accident. We moved it up from Friday to accommodate our visiting team. So many of the commissioners stayed to enjoy that game that we may make that a feature the next time you come and notify you about it in advance so that you can more conveniently stay over to see it.

We hope to have a better office and telephone arrangement when you come again. Maybe we can have a telephone in the Church so that this arrangement will be more convenient. However, when you come again do not think that the head man or the head group of people are responsible for the many things done for your comfort. It is something that we all think about all year. When some especially nice fruit or vegetable is being processed for canning some person will remark that it had better be set aside for Synod. It seems that our orchard has gotten the habit and the most delightful apples mature right at that time.

Now, in the name of the children, we want to thank you. In 1944 when Synod met here the commissioners made a contribution on Wednesday of Synod. Over 500 ate at that time. The contribution was over three hundred dollars and that was used for the pleasure of the children and lasted nearly two years. There is no telling how many delightful picture-shows, picnics, and other pleasures were wrapped up in that money. This year you were even more generous, and the final count shows $473.00 contributed. This, together with the profits on the refreshment stand that served you and which amounted to over $20.00, brings the total to practically $500.00. Now, the children who will get the most pleasure out of this gift are the younger ones and it will last them at least two years and when you come again the gleam in their eyes when they greet you will be partly in memory of the fine times that they have enjoyed at your hands.

During the meeting Reverend Carl Craig spoke just before you made your contributions. He said he saw a dime in one of the bowls in which you put your money. He did not know how that dime happened to be there. It came from

(FORM OF BEQUEST)

"I give and bequeath to the Regents of the Orphans' Home of the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina, Incorporated under the laws of the state of North Carolina, (here name the bequest).

RESOLUTION OF SYNOD HONORING JOS. B. JOHNSTON

On July 1, 1922 a young man named Joe Johnston became the Superintendent of Barium Springs Orphanage. The 27 years that have elapsed since that day have witnessed as fine an achievement as can be shown by any institution under the care and direction of the Presbyterian Church. During this quarter of a century there has been carried on here a project in human relations that has transformed the lives of more than 1500 boys and girls. The physical plant of the orphanage has been tremendously improved and many additions have been made. The Orphanage has become known, not only throughout the Synod of North Carolina, but all over the south as one of the finest institutions for the care of children in the nation. Little children have learned to love and laugh again, and they have found not only a place of refuge, but friends in whom they could put their trust. They have left this place and have gone up and down the length and breadth of the land, honest, upright, God-fearing, useful Christian men and women. The churches of the Synod have learned to look to this place, not only as a place of refuge, but as a Christian home for those homes had been taken from them. And the people of the Synod of North Carolina have placed their confidence in the man who was responsible for the conduct of the affairs of the Home, and they have given generously of their means for the support of the Orphanage.

These things have been possible because a young man named Joe Johnston wanted his life to count for something worthwhile in the world. With utter devotion to his task, with unbounded energy, with a faith that challenged the people of this Synod, and with a heart big enough to love 300 children at a time, he has achieved his goal; he has done something worthwhile. He has made the world of 1500 boys and girls a better place to live in. He has enriched their lives immeasurably. He has been a good servant of Jesus Christ. If any man among us deserves the approbation of his Master, Joe Johnston deserves it; "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The Synod of North Carolina, in session at Barium Springs Orphanage, in recognition of the life and work of this servant of Jesus Christ, and upon the occasion of his retirement, tenders to him and to his helpmeet, Mrs. Johnston whose labors have been equally untiring and interest just as deep, its heart felt appreciation, and prays that a portion of the spirit that has gone into their life and work may be visited upon all those who shall attempt to carry on the work they have performed

It is dangerous today, We stand not in peril of our lives, but perhaps it is a commentary upon our times that we are more careful of maintaining our respectability in the eyes of the world than those early Christians were careful of their lives. Of course there are hindrances in our modern environment. It seems increasingly difficult to obey Christ's teachings in business affairs. The atmosphere of selfishness and materialism has made it so. It is difficult in social activities, for how easy it is for the Christian to conform to the acceptable practices about them. And for the young there is always the crowd-complex, the unwillingness to separate their behavior from that of their associates. The Apostle Paul had a word for it, as he wrote to the church at Rome, "Be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

But if somehow the church find transformation merging into conformity, then a respectable religion has been born. Respectable not so much in the sense of being worthy of respect, but more in the sense of being conventionally correct. A religion that makes no great demands, is not too disturbing, but allows its adherents to view themselves and the world quite comfortably, making allowance of course for human weakness - that is a respectable religion. Well, perhaps it is until we see its inevitable results.

I. A Respectable Religion Lulls The Conscience

"We, as a people, individually and collectively, have an easy conscience. Involved in foreign hostilities, torn by social hysterias, imperiled by the menace of atomic war, the American nevertheless clings to his good opinion of himself." Such was the significant and profoundly alarming conclusion of a nation wide survey reported by the Ladies' Home Journal in the November issue of last year.

How did the survey reach such a conclusion? By asking such questions as these of a cross-section of the American people. Do you honestly think that you obey the commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," when your fellow man is a business competitor? 78% answered "yes." When your fellow man is a member of another race? 80% answered "yes." When your fellow man belongs to a different religion from yours? 90% answered "yes." When your fellow man is an enemy of your country? 25% answered "yes."

Remarkably, one-fourth of those questioned actually seemed to believe that they practiced the highest form of love, love for one's enemy. But the other answers demonstrated too an easy conscience that is certainly incompatible with actual behavior. For the report asked significantly, "If nine-tenths of our people love those of another religion, how can one explain the exclusion of Jews from certain colleges and professional schools, residential and resort communities, business and social organizations? And if four-fifths of our people love members of another race, how explain the humiliation that is visited on the American Negro?"

How explain it? Well, the only explanation is that a profound gulf lies between what our people think they do and what they actually do. Eight out of ten questioned thought that most of America's problems could be solved by adherence to the law of love as taught by Christ. And eight out of ten said that as far as they could tell they were practicing themselves that same law of love. Thus the feeling that not they but someone else is at fault. "Here indeed," says the survey, "is a revelation of man's final sin, which Luther defined as his unwillingness to admit that he is a sinner."

Can we fail to be appalled at such a demonstrable indication of self-satisfaction and ease of conscience? And with the knowledge that of our total population in America, over 46,000,000 are affiliated with Protestant Churches, can we disassociate ourselves from concern over such an attitude? Truly, America's conscience has been lulled to sleep. A respectable religion lulls the conscience.

II. A Respectable Religion Compromises Christ

It requires no extraordinary intelligence nor any profound depth of knowledge to cite areas in which the principles of Christ are being compromised today. Millions of words have been spoken and written with such humility, devotion and success.

ten to describe the growing decadence of life in our land today. Perhaps it might be more understandable if this were a heathen nation. But this we are told is Christian America! According to recent figures on church membership in 1948 there were approximately 73,000,000 Christians, over 50% of the total population. At no time in history has religion claimed a larger proportion of America's people. And yet through that optimistic appraisal the specter of decadence looms, and not all the blame may be placed on that other 48 or 49% of our people.

In a recent year Americans paid about eight billion dollars for liquor, wine, and beer. In the same year it was estimated that about fifty millions Americans use alcoholic beverages, three million become excessive drinkers, and about 750,000 of these become chronic alcoholics. Advertising designed to entice others into the habit totalled in the neighborhood of seventy five million dollars. This in Christian America! where the majority stand for temperance.

It was also that year that a billion, three hundred million dollars was squandered away gambling on horse racing alone. And this in Christian America where the majority stand for a godly stewardship of God-given possessions!

During my college days a sociology professor declaimed at length upon the unholy divorce rate of one to every five marriages. What is it today? One in four or one in three? Since 1945 the number of divorces has increased at the rate of about one million every year. During the last ten years almost eight million people in America have been granted divorces. And this in Christian America where the majority stand for the stability of the Christian home!

Well, these are statistics, and we have become perhaps somewhat immune to statistics. Last week I picked up a paper and saw in glaring headlines, 146 DIE IN FLAMING SHIP. A statistic, a number, but behind it the heartbreak of untold suffering. Look behind the statistics we've quoted and see the incalculable result of souls tarnished by drunkenness and gambling, of homes broken by divorce, of children struggling in the maze of fear and insecurity. And in so far as the people of our churches have fallen victim to or condone these practices so far has Christ been compromised.

But it is perhaps in the realm of human brotherhood that He has been compromised most, and that in a realm where we might expect His influence most to apply. Another denomination last year in a meeting similar to this confessed their prejudice and confessed too that they were fearful, afraid, for political or ecclesiastical or social reasons to follow the way of Christ. They sounded the need for repentance and the need to be more Christ-like in relations with other races. Then the next day they deleted the paragraph upon the insistence of some who declared that it would do no good since nobody believed that anybody else was ready to do anything to correct the situation.

Before we become too critical of such an attitude, it might be well to ask ourselves if we have even gone that far. Well, there are other ways of course, but these are the glaring examples of the way a respectable religion compromises its Christ.

III. A Respectable Religion Stifles Its Message

For when a respectable religion has lulled its conscience and compromised its Christ, it is an inevitable result that its message shall be in acute danger. And the message itself becomes the battleground. Some time ago one of our ministers wrote in to a church paper saying that he was looking for the front-line of service of Christ. His letter provoked quite an interesting discussion through the medium of that paper. Those who contributed to it almost to a man believed that the front line was the local pastorate for the minister and the local church for the officer and member.

In a conventional religion the message of Christ becomes dangerous for the minister. It might easily be demonstrated that our modern freedom from worldly cares and avocations is not an unmixed blessing. The early church of the first century was not so progressive perhaps, but neither was there the anomalous situation of a ministry dependent upon the laity. And too, perhaps their freedom in applying the Spirit of Christ to all of life hinged at least partly upon that very freedom.

Dr. Foreman in of his thoughtful articles pointed out that the minister was supposedly set free from worldly cares in order that his time might be used on his own individual front line. But he went on to suggest that many churches, instead of doing that, set themselves up as a sort of collective censor for its minister. And when the minister makes a few hints that Christianity must go beyond respectability, then the censorship is applied.

I know personally that such is true of some churches. And yet might not the church welcome a free and fearless application of the principles of Christ to all of life? Some would doubtless be offended, but they might also be stirred out of the complacency of a conventional religion.

Back in the early twenties Dr. James Vance in delivering the Sprunt Lectures at Union Seminary had this to say, and it still holds good. "All that the church has today is its message. Silence that, and the Christian Church goes out of business. Let that ring clear and true, and you may burn down every church and wipe out all the elaborate machinery that has been built about it. You may strip it of its wealth and numbers and influence, but if it still have left a voice to tell the old, old story of Jesus and his love, it remains in possession of all that it ever had and of all that it needs to bring the lost world back to God."

That message, applied in all its vitality and power to every area of life, still is the church's sole possession and the world's only hope. It was, I believe, that proclamation and that application that the aged apostle John had in mind when he wrote, "This is the victory that hath overcome the world, even our faith."

"Our fathers, chained in prisons dark, were still in heart and conscience free; Faith of our fathers, holy faith! We will be true to thee till death."

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again with the news of our cottage.

We have two new children added to our family now. They are Geraldine Hinnant of Kenley, N. C. She is eight years old and is in the third grade. The other one is Carolyn Holt of Burlington, N. C. She is nine years old and is in the fourth grade. The rest of us are in the third, fifth, and sixth.

If you were to ask us what we have been doing nearly everyday you would get an answer something like this "Beans and homework." We have been stringing a lot of beans lately. But soon bean season will soon be over and we will be making huts out of leaves and and raking leaves.

We had seven children to go to the birthday table last time. They are: Shelby McEwen, Jewel McFarland, Florrie Garris, Mary Glen, Virginia Baucom, Elizabeth and Madeline Byrd. We only have two to go this month. They are: Carolyn Holt and Geraldine Hinnant. Look for us next month.

Your friends,
The Bean Stringers

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi There,

We surely hope you still have your fingers crossed for our first report cards this all. School is one thing that can really keep our brains busy and playing is not connected with school so much as it is in the summer time.

One thing that makes us look forward to school is our football games. All of us one day hope to be Cheer leaders and root Barium now to victory as do our older girls now. It is much fun to watch the girls cheer and then come home try to imitate them. We have about six games here at Barium this year and we are sure that we can get a few pointers on cheering before the end of the year.

About the last of August the girls and boys whose birthdays were in June, July and August had a most wonderful birthday dinner in the dinning room. Some of our little girls really went to town on that dinner. They had a beautiful cake in the middle of the table with "Happy Birthday" on it. Some of us almost lated to eat the cake it looked so good.

One of our girls, Barbara Porter fell and broke her leg about the sixth of September. She is in the infirmary with a cast on her leg. We are all sorry that this happen but we surely hope Barbara can hurry and come up.

The past few weeks we have really enjoyed playing in our play woods. The flowers that we planted this summer look so nice but Winter is almost here and it will soon take all the flowers away.

Next week the Synod of North Carolina will meet here at Barium. That means we will be out of school about two and a half days. Our brains need a little relaxation after all the hard work we have been giving it at the first of school and this is just as good a time we think to give it a much needed rest as any other time.

This old house has really picked up since our beloved teacher, Miss Blakeney has returned to live with us again. One thing about Miss Blakeney is that she is always talking about doing something. Man! she has really done something this time. You ask what? Well! The other day what should we see on our front porch but a "New Westinghouse refrigerator! Now we can live in solid comfort for the rest of our days.

Carol and Sue Morris father brought us some delicious apples the other day. Each bite was a tempting mouthfull within its self.

Another nice thing Mr. Moore did for us was to treat all of us to ice cream on his daughters birthday. We stuffed ourselves to perfection. Its' really a wonder that we survived the undertaking of so much ice cream especially all at once.

Remember to keep your fingers crossed for our first report cards and we quote- "Parting is such sweet sorrow." But we'll be with all of you next month at the same time.

Dr. Gillespie officially retired last year and was reelected Superintendent on a month to month basis till a successor can be found.

only ones who went along with the team were the cheer leaders, but they had a respectable crowd of folks (most of them old Barium boys and girls) for a cheering section. By the way, the first football captain of a Barium team was there Peter Wade. All of these things are delightful, but it is the big day on the regular Home-coming that we really enjoy.

We do not know how we will feed you - we may tear loose and have another barbecue. It worked so well with Synod that we may use it for you. If any of you have ideas on the subject write in. We want to make it your day.

a little fellow who had carried a package for one of you when you arrived at the office.

On the Sunday morning previous to your coming here, we spoke to the children asking them not to accept tips for their services to you. When this little boy carried in the package the man gave him a dime. The boy protested but the man did not listen but just put the dime in his hand, and the boy walked around with that dime in his hand until he found me and that was the dime that started things off. This is just one of the things that goes on behind the scenes, that you may occasionally get a glimpse of. If you saw all the things that go on behind the scenes you would be so in love with Barium you would never leave, so maybe it is just as well that we can only give you a glimpse of the way it works.

The Meeting of Synod

Fulton Executive Secretary of Foreign Missions.

Among important matters before the Synod were the report on Orphan's Home, given by Mr. J. A. Cannon; Home Missions, given by Rev. P. D. Patrick; The Home for the Aged by Mr. R. A. McPheeters; Religious Education by Dr. E. D. Witherspoon; and the Stewardship Committee, Dr. I. M. Ellis, Chairman.

A Committee was appointed to work out a plan of reorganization along the lines of adopted by the General Assembly at its last meeting. However the report of this committee was not adopted. An ad interim Committee was appointed to study the matter of reorganization and bring in a report at the meeting in 1950.

As there was no invitation forthcoming for the next meeting of Synod, the Moderator and Stated Clerk were appointed to arrange for the meeting.

While most of the delegates were housed at Barium in the dormitories for older children, all of the homes of the workers were opened to receive visitors. The city of Troutman went all out to help us. Sixty-five homes with accommodations for over a hundred delegates were offered. As usual our loyal friends in Statesville also tendered their homes but because of very dusty detours very few were assigned to Statesville.

Here at Presbyterian Orphan's Home we are grateful to all who helped in the large undertaking of caring for this, the largest Synod in our Assembly.

led him to Jesus. The speaker said he would learn the identity of the donor when he got to Heaven. Who can tell what God can do with a barefooted country boy who puts his life upon the altar?

Who can tell what God can do with anything else, small or great, that is dedicated to Him? It isn't the size that counts with God. It is the surrender.

MICHIGANDER ACCEPTS "YOU ALL"

By Louis T. Moore

Several weeks ago I was talking with an intelligent and well-educated officer from the Marine Base at Camp Lejeune. As it happens he is a native of Michigan. Just as happens to a great many other visitors, he is much interested in the ways, customs and general methods of procedure of those of us who live "down South."

After discussing various subjects the conversation drifted toward ideas of what constitutes correct usage of English forms and phrases. "This business you people down here engage in, in saying 'you all' is just a lot of foolishness," my military friend remarked. "Positively there is no acceptable authority for it so far as proper use of English is concerned. For the life of me I don't see why you folks down here keep on using it!"

"What do you consider the best and most authoritative source of pure and acceptable expression, and language?" I asked.

"The Bible, above any other reference which might be cited," was his reply.

"Do you really and conscientiously mean what you say," was my rejoinder. "I most certainly do," was his quick and definite answer.

"That is all I want to know," I said, handing the gentleman a Bible. "Now will you please turn to Acts 3:16."

Quickly he turned over the pages of the Good Book and then said, "O K., if you will permit a slang expression, I've got it."

"Well, then will you please go ahead and read it out loud."

He recited somewhat as he read as follows: "And his name through faith in his name hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given perfect soundness in the presence of you all."

In the knowledge that he might doubt the realness of the situation if he were given only one illustration, I then told the soldier: "Now turn to I Corinthians, 2:3."

With slow and measured deliberation he complied and appeared rather astonished as he slowly read aloud the following verse: "And I wrote this same unto you, lest when I came, I should have sorrow from them whom I ought to rejoice; having confidence in you all that my joy is the joy of you all."

"Well, I just can't understand it," he exclaimed.

With no special effort to make the soldier "eat crow" but merely to emphasize the fact that he was far in the wrong in his conception of the usage of the two words in question, I then said to him, "Now will you kindly read just the fifth verse from the same chapter?"

With voice now sounding rather down-cast and disheartened, he read: "But if any have caused grief; he hath not grieved me, but in part; that I may not overcharge you all."

Then, merely to convince one who was wrong even before he started the conversation, and on top of all the preceding citations, I called his attention to Philippians, 1:25. "And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all for your furtherance and joy of faith."

Also Philippians 2:17. "Yea, and if I be offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy, and rejoice with you all."

I then concluded, by reminding my friend that the Benediction from the Bible, which we always hear at the conclusion of every church service is, "The Grace of our Lord, Jesus Christ, be with you all, now and forever, Amen."

The soldier closed the Book and said: "That's all I want to hear and to read. From now on, I'll have no criticism to make when I hear 'you all' again."

GIFTS OF POVERTY

God wants gifts of money, to be sure, because He wants His part of the returns from our partnership with Him. If the returns are large, He wants large dividends. If the returns are small, He is content with small dividends. He does not want to break up a good business, except when it is breaking up a good man. He told the rich young ruler to sell out. He was making too much money, and losing too much religion.

But God wants the gifts of poverty also. Jeremy Taylor, the great preacher was the son of a poor barber. George Fox, founder of the "Society of Friends," popularly called Quakers, was the son of a weaver. Haydn, master musician and Christian, was the son of a carpenter. John Bunyan was poverty's gift to all Christendom.

Most of our preachers came out of humble homes. The majority of them climbed the ladder of achievement with little in their pockets. Lincoln said God must love poor people, because he made so many of them.

Yes, God wants the gifts of poverty, also. We once heard a native Japanese say some Americans gave the twenty-five cents which bought the New Testament which

With the many resolutions that church groups have been passing, and especially with the statement of the Canadian Council of Churches urging that no church organization "should raise money by raffles, games of chance, lotteries or other gambling methods," we are in hearty agreement. But it seems to us that it remained for the Methodists of the Jacksonville (Fla.) district to put their finger on the real problem when they condemned the easy-money way of life. "Christian vocation," they said, "is too sacred to be jeopardized by an easy-money way of life." Loss of time and money, insecurity in the job and instability in the home, curtailment of industrial output and even dishonesty in public office may be traced to the gambling habit, but none of these evil effects matches the deplorable growth of the idea that (on a give-away program or elsewhere) it is ever possible to put one over on life. That kind of teaching and giving will soon undermine all that the Christian centuries have built into character.

GOD'S BROWN CHILDREN

In his memorable appearance before the North Carolina Rural Church Institute during the Christian Convocation at Duke, June, 1947, Russell Lord, editor of "The Land" and the "Country Voices" department in "The Progressive Farmer," read this touching poem by Vaughn White Holoman, Northhampton County, N. C.:

Earth of God's earth, brown of His brown:
These are His children scattering down
The country road, released from school—
Kicking the dust, splashing in pool,
Snatching at caps, calling in glee:
"I've got yo' tag! You can't git' me."
Misshapen old shoes — battered in play,
Facing the west painted with light,
Hiding the cabins at fall of night.
Theirs are the sun and renewing of rain,
Theirs are the stars shining again.
Riches of man by men denied,
Bounty of heaven by God supplied.

BEATITUDES FOR CHILDREN

Blessed is the child who has someone who believes in him, to whom he can carry his problems unafraid.

Blessed is the child who is allowed to pursue his curiosity into every worthwhile field of information.

Blessed is the child who has someone who understands that childhood's griefs are real, and call for understanding and sympathy.

Blessed is the child who has about him those who believe in his divinity and not his depravity.

Blessed is the child whose love of the true, the beautiful and the good has been nourished through the years.

Blessed is that child whose innate imagination has been turned into channels of creative effort.

Blessed is the child whose efforts to achieve have found encouragement and kindly commendation.

Blessed is the child who has learned freedom from selfishness through responsibility and cooperation with others.

A LAYMAN DISCUSSES FAITH

It is not news when an officer of the law talks about crime. Perhaps it is not news when he recommends religion as a cure for crime. It is news, however, when an officer of the law talks about faith and prayer and the Holy Spirit and the love of Christ from personal experience. Well, that is exactly what Walter F. Anderson, director of the State Bureau of Investigation and active Methodist Layman, did last Friday evening when he addressed 200 laymen and preachers at the annual stewards' dinner sponsored by the Durham Methodist Society. Mr. Anderson did not talk about abstract faith or academic religion. He talked about a personal experience with Christ. He told how a small group of Christians in Raleigh had banded themselves together to pray for one another, for their church and community, and for lost people. He talked about witnessing for Christ. "Juvenile delinquency," he declared, "would almost be solved if mothers and fathers had the love of Christ in their hearts."

Perhaps the worldly wise and the sophisticated will snicker at Mr. Anderson's simple faith. But we believe that if we had more officers of the law and more laymen in the church and more preachers talking about things Mr. Anderson talked about in the warm, personal, earnest, first-hand manner in which he discussed them, there would be more people won to Christ. First Half of Barium's Football Season

We have heard it rumored that there are readers of The Messenger who eagerly look forward to athletic news and are grievously disappointed when any issue fails to have an account of the current athletic doings.

Barium Springs has an up and coming football team this year. She also has basketball teams, both boys and girls, that stay in the upper bracket. Those who have played on these teams and those who have seen them play are always interested in the doings of the teams, so this article is going to bring you up to date on the first half of Barium's football season. It began back yonder on September 15th when Barium helped to dedicate another stadium. This is about six of these athletic arenas that Barium has helped to dedicate. This time it was Thomasville, and while the seating arrangements are still somewhat crude, the playing field is perfect. Barium had to dissappoint the Thomasville crowd by taking that game 12-0. The game started out as though it was going to be all Thomasville. Barium kicked off and in the first play from scrimmage on a wide end sweep a thomasville boy almost got away for a touchdown. He made about a 60-yard run, but Barium held and was lucky enough to recover a fumble at that critical stage of the game and went on to score but was unable to complete the point after touchdown. We breathed a little easier after that game and came back home and prepared for our next game, the opening home game for Barium Springs.

Well, maybe our boys breathed a little too easy after the Thomasville game because they did not wake up until after half of our first home game had been played and in that half, Children's Home, our opponent made 20 points. In fact, they made two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play. That Big Red Smith was the boy who did the damage. We were all very proud of the Barium team, however, in refusing to become demoralized. They pitched in and played a whale of a game from that time on, and really outplayed Children's Home in the second half and the Children's Home team was still at full strength. Children's Home scored in the third quarter: Barium scored in the fourth, with the final score being 26-6, for Barium's only defeat of the season.

On September 30th Mooresville came to Barium and Mooresville has a much heavier team than Barium. They have one excellent backfield man - Liner. Barium succeeded in holding this team one time within the ten-yard line. Mooresville had the ball first and ten on Barium's ten-yard line. Five plays, which included a five-yard penalty against Barium, they failed to score and we felt rather proud about that. The final score was Barium 27, Mooresville 0.

On October 7th Spencer came to Barium. Spencer was the team that tied Barium in 1948. We knew (Continued On Page Two)

Large Crowd Here For Homecoming Event

The Homecoming Day which has just passed was in many respects the best ever. To begin with, the weather was perfect and the old-timers commenced to arrive even the night before and by pep meeting time there was quite a block of seats in the auditorium taken up by the homecomers. More and more children are appearing on the scene, and it may be necessary sometime in the future to set aside a day just for Barium grandchildren to congregate. They seem to get a great kick out of visiting the place they have heard their parents talk so much about.

Dinner this year was a barbecue, served cafeteria style and it took just 25 minutes for everybody to be served. They were still coming back for refills, however, an hour later.

The meeting of the Alumni Association was held immediately after this mid-day lunch and it lasted longer than it ever has; in fact right up to game time.

The football game was between Barium and Albemarle and is described elsewhere in this issue.

We wish it were possible to have the names of all of the ones who came back - about twice as many came for the dinner as came to the morning meeting - more than twice as many came to the ball game as were at dinner, and quite a number stayed for supper and were still at Barium for the mid-game which took place on Saturday morning.

This midgame was played by a mixture of the 110 and the 125-pound teams. The opponent was the O'Donoghue school in Charlotte. The final score was 27-6. The playing of James Wheeler, Charles Faircloth, Dean Upton and Jimmy Johnson was outstanding, all of the team playing fine ball.

Cottage News

HOWARD COTTAGE

Here we are again with the news of our cottage.

We got report cards yesterday. Geraldine Hinant, Virginia Baucom, and Laura Jane Craig made the honor roll.

We went to Davidson to a football game. We saw them play Presbyterian College. There were eleven bands there. Although Davidson lost we had a wonderful time.

We went to see a show entitled: "Father was a Fullback." It was wonderful. Some of us even thought that it was better than "Mickey" a show we saw last year.

We got a box of assorted candy from the Sadie Blacknell Circle at Durham. We all enjoyed eating it during rest periods while we were stringing beans.

We have three new piano students at our cottage. They are: Mona Blake, Sylvia Wells, and Geraldine Hinant.

One of our family left us. Her name is Carolyn Holt, but we got another one in her place. Her name is Nancy Ferill of Charlotte, N. C. She is ten years old and is in the third grade. We all enjoy her being with us.

We all are excited, we are getting a new porch. Mr. Ervin and his helpers have been working on it for two days. We will be glad when they finish.

Look for us next month.

Your friends,
The Bean Stringers

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

The first six weeks of school has drawn to an end, and report cards will be coming into view before long. All of you can keep your fingers crossed in hopes that not "too" many of us get bad grades.

Synod has come and gone but we surely did have a nice time while they were here. One afternoon we had a wonderful time at the movies. We went to the Playhouse to see "Sorrowful Jones." This picture was very good and we especially liked the little girl in the picture. A very nice thing that the men of Synod did for us was to give us all free show tickets. We enjoyed another very funny picture at the State. The name of it was "Ma and Pa" Kettle." We would like to thank the men for this wonderful thing they did for us. By the time Synod comes again to Barium many of us will be larger and we are really looking forward to this.

While Synod was here we had two girls from Woman's building (Continued On Page Two)

The Message of the Month

By
REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

LEANING ON GOD

Self-sufficiency seems to be one of the primary mistakes, even sins, of our present day - man's trusting in himself alone and in his own powers. But listen to the word of Jeremiah. "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man. . . . But Jeremiah doesn't stop there, he goes on to paint a word picture of the life that is not founded on hope and trust in God.

Jeremiah would carry us in our imagination to a scene of desolation, a hot, dusty desert stretching on every side, fierce and unrelenting sunbeams bear down to destroy every green thing. Not a living animal is to be seen. Here and there a stunted, prickly little shrub struggles with the heat and barely manages to keep alive. On them are no leaves and no fruit. They only serve to make the desolation more desolate.

That, says Jeremiah, is a picture of a life that does not hope and trust in God. That life is blighted, it provides no fruits of service. There are many lives today like that, lives that are small and stunted without the life-giving grace of God shed upon them.

I. The Need For Trust In God. The need was evident in Jeremiah's day, for he lived in a day of war and suffering. His people were anxious for the future, and the future seemed dark indeed. It was his people's need for God that prompted Jeremiah to write these challenging words.

Our own day has seen many of the experiences that were common to the time of the prophet. An uneasy peace has been substituted for war. About the world suffering has been abated somewhat but has not been dismissed. After the holocaust of war nations still have not learned to get along with nations. And all this does little to contribute to peace of mind. Fear and dread are still with us in such measure that we can safely say that the majority of people have learned little yet of the true way of inward peace, the way of leaning on God.

Possibly there will always be (Continued On Page Two) things to disturb and distress us in our personal lives. And it is also for this reason that we may profitably review the words of this great prophet in so far as he would teach us how to lean on God at all times.

New temptations and fewer restraints are meeting our boys and girls as they grow into manhood and womanhood. And life for young and old is not easy and I suppose that it has never been easy. In large degree it is not possible for us to alter life as we would like to do. But we can always alter our own approach to life. For what life means to us depends in the final analysis upon our own inward response to it.

We can go on in an attitude of self-sufficiency as so many are doing today. Yet that is the way of ultimate breakdown and despair. Or we can follow the advice of Jeremiah and other men of God. And that advice is ever to make God the anchor for our lives, in other words, to learn how to lean on God.

Perhaps the American people are as guilty of this attitude of self-sufficiency as any other people, unless it might be completely pagan nations. We have thought of our strength; we have heard again and again that we are the most ingenious people on earth. We feel that what we do not have we immediately invent, and that our material goods, our wealth and power, are the greatest in the world's history. Certainly we should be patriotic, but not to the extent that we see our people and our land of plenty as all that we shall ever need.

II. The Source of Trust.

The answer of course is, and can only be, God. Jeremiah expresses it this way, "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is." There is the source of our true confidence. Though there be evil in the world; though there be sorrow and suffering, yet blessed is the man who through it all trusts in God. James Russell Lowell put it this way:

"Though the cause of evil prosper;
Yet 'tis truth alone is strong:
Though her portions be the scaffold,
And upon the throne be wrong.
Yet that scaffold sways the future,
And behold the dim unknown,
Standeth God within the shadow,

"Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is." It is God who is our true source of hope and trust. We may hope in the power of His might. The psalmist witnesses to this truth. "The Lord reigneth, he is clothed with majesty, the Lord is clothed with strength." The great 121st. psalm rings out as a song of confidence, "my help cometh from the Lord" and "the Lord is my keeper." And then there is that great confession of faith in God, my strength, in whom I will trust; my buckler, and the horn of my salvation, and my high tower." Yes, we can trust in a God of might.

We may trust in the wonderful promises of God and his presence. All down through the ages the Word of God has rung with those promises of God's nearness. "Fear not, I am with thee." "Certainly I shall be with thee." And that promise of the Master, "Lo, I am with thee alway, even unto the end of the world."

And the Master's voice calms our fears with the words, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." And again, "These things have I spoken unto you, that in men ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." There are the sources of our trust, in the power of God, in his unflinching presence, in the tender love and companionship of His Son, Jesus Christ.

III. The Reward of Trust.

"Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is." There is our reward, we shall be blessed. We shall be blessed by the removal of fear. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help, in time of trouble, therefore will not we fear though the earth be removed and the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea." "The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?"

Not fear, but courage and confidence will be our lot when we trust in God. We are all familiar with Paul's experience when he was shipwrecked. He was being carried a prisoner to Rome. The ships of that day were tiny boats, they couldn't venture far out on the sea, but had to skirt along the shore. Any trip on the water was a dangerous undertaking. But the ship Paul was on somehow was caught out on the open Mediterranean in a frightful storm. All were afraid and despairing for their lives. All? Well, not all, not Paul. He, the prisoner, was the one to comfort and encourage those men accustomed to the sea. For Paul knew the courage and the confidence of one who trusts in God.

We began with one picture, a picture of desolation. We end with another. This time we see a green and living scene, a brimming river flows between meadows of waving grass. Healthy and flourishing trees stand firmly planted on the banks. Their roots are set deep in the moist and life-giving soil. Their boughs dip in the sparkling current, their branches are green with beautiful foliage. It is a living scene, a scene of beauty and life.

And that, says Jeremiah, is a picture of a life that hopes and trusts in God. And the one whose hope the Lord is "shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season, his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper."

First Half of Barium's

they were a big team and we were really afraid of them and right at first we acted as though we were afraid of them by hurrying over a touchdown in just four plays. Barium received a short kickoff and started from her own 45-yard line. There were four plays. Maples carried the ball ten yards in two downs. Hillard carried it 45 yards in two downs, and during the first half Barium ran wild. In the second half Spencer settled down and finally scored, with the final score being 46 to 6, in Barium's favor.

Then came Homecoming Day, October 14th, and what a day that was. The largest crowd ever to gather for Homecoming was present. Albemarle was the team that was playing Barium. Albemarle was evidently pointing for this game; after a rather slow start she had improved and after a week's rest came in the pink of condition to entertain our Homecoming crowd. The game was broadcast, by the way. That was an innovation which added quite a bit of interest. Many of the Barium children were more interested in the broadcasting activities than they were in the game. I think if they had had portable radios they possibly would have set down somewhere behind a tree and listened to the game rather than watching it. The game started out nip and tuck, with Albemarle being a little more successful in stopping Barium runners than Barium was in stopping the big Albemarle runners. Things rocked along this way until about the middle of the second quarter when a punt landed in the arms of Hillard and Hillard lit out down the sidelines 53 yards for a touchdown. The placement was good, and Barium led 7-0. Time was running out in the half but Albemarle paid no attention to the clock - she kept on driving and plugging away and finally a beautiful pass landed in the arms of Helms who raced over for a touchdown. The attempt at pass for the extra point was not good and Barium led 7-6. During this half there was a blocked punt, there was a fumbled punt, there were two pass interference penalties, one against each team, and so many hairbreadth pass catches that one spectator just could not take it any more. Both teams evidently had pep talks from their coaches at the half, and they started in at the second half like two brand new teams. Albemarle was determined to make another touchdown: Barium was determined to add to the margin. They threw passes like wild men and finally following another touchdown and completed the extra point, making the score 14-6. Maybe they should have taken things easy after than, but no, they evidently wanted to entertain everybody, not only the ones who were watching the game but the ones who were listening to it over the radio, so after the kickoff there was another flurry of passes and Barium again scored and failed to kick the extra point, and then Barium relaxed just a little bit and it was just too bad because Albemarle came back and by some beautiful passes they scored again. This time the pass went to Kluttz who raced about 25 yards for the final touchdown of the day. The final score was 20-12.

There never has been a dull game between Barium and Albemarle. This was the thirteenth in the series. The Homecoming crowd were all quite interested in modern football at Barium. They noted that Barium now uses the platoon system. She changes centers whenever the ball changes. It takes both of these centers locked together to weigh as much as one full grown man. The one of them snaps the ball and the other tries to intercept the passes. That is the nearest that Barium has ever come to a platoon system and probably the nearest it will ever come to it. The two centers are Bob Whiting who weighs 140 pounds who is the offensive center and Donald Mitchell weighing 122 is the big brusing defensive center. After the game the Albemarle team took supper with us and went home as happy as a defeated team could be. There was nothing in their game with Barium to be ashamed of. Maybe luck was shining on the Homecoming entertainers as it generally does. The visiting old-time football players give the team on the field a lift that may be the difference between defeat and victory.

lanterns. Mr. Calhoun and the babies came over to see it and they thought it was very pretty of course, we were very happy that they liked it.

The leaves on the Campus are just beautiful. If you pass by our Campus come in and drive under our trees. We guarantee that you will think they are as beautiful as we do.

To make our house even happier we have received a little new girl. Her name is Nancy Joyner. We know and feel quite sure that she will love Barium as we do the more she stays here.

The football games on Friday are very thrilling to watch especially when we are winning. The other day while our smaller boys were playing football we got to cheerlead. This is a lot of fun as all of you know who participate in the sport. We are trying to get into practice so that when we do get bigger we will know a little something about cheer leading.

Today was Barbara Porter's birthday. You remember the little girl that got her leg broken? All of us tried to do a little something to make her day happier. She was so surprised when she saw all of her gifts. We sincerely hope she will hurry back to us here at Annie Louise.

Our beautiful flower garden that we have had all summer is almost gone but under the loving hands of our matron we know that we shall have more beautiful flowers again next year.

Look for our news again next month.

VOL. 28 BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., NOVEMBER 1949 NO. 1

Men of Presbytery Met At Barium

The Men of Concord Presbytery met in their annual fall meeting at Barium Springs on the evening of October twenty-fifth. This was the largest group ever to assemble for this meeting of the men of our Presbytery. There were in round numbers five hundred and fifty present. Mr. Johnston says they ate all of the barbecue and there was enough prepared for seven hundred people; this is an indication of how well they thought of the fine food prepared by the host group at the orphanage. The large dining room at Barium was completely filled — A thrilling sight when one considers the potentiality of such a group all working for the advancement of the Kingdom in Concord Presbytery.

In addition to the fine food, Barium Springs provided some splendid music by the Glee Club of the Orphanage. Mr. James Sloan, of the Thyatira Church, President of the Men of the Presbytery, presided during the meeting and deserves a great deal of the credit for the large number in attendance.

The invocation was led by Mr. W. C. Houck, and Elder in the First Church, Salisbury. The Devotional was led by Rev. Milton B. Faust, Pastor of the Franklin Church. The principal speaker was Dr. Edward D. Grant, Executive Secretary of the Board of Christian Education of our Church, Richmond, Va. Dr. Grant brought a most challenging message based largely on the Re-Study Report, the condensation of which we hope you have read in the book "Lift Up Your Eyes". Dr. Grant emphasized the importance of the findings of the Re-Study group and the importance of all Church (Continued On Page Three)

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi friends,
A good many things have taken place during the later part of October and the early part of November.

We're just raring to tell you the outcome of Halloween night.

We had lots and lots of "visitors" to come and scare us to death. A few of the younger ones were really scared too! Big old boys would come toward us all "blacked up" and in ragged clothes. Many of them had on false faces, which were really horrible looking! To top the night off, one of our big sisters told us a ghost story. It was awful too. The worse part of all though was when she kept on telling us it was true! A few of us cried and shivered on our way to bed. All in all it was an eventful Halloween.

We've been raking leaves and really making the money too. We have found that this is a good way to spend our spare time, and also a good way to make some extra money. The money usually goes for (Continued On Page Two)

Regular Income Less Than In 1948

Mecklenburg and Wilmington show increases.

Possibly because of some slight recession in business, or because of some reductions in Barium's percentage in the regular budget, our income from the churches for the first seven months of the church year is $2,788.52 less than for the same period last year. However two of the Presbyteries, Mecklenburg and Wilmington show an increase of $322.36 and $381.41 respectively. The tabulation is as follows:

	1948	1949
Presbytery
Albemarle	$1,580.86	$1,574.78	—$ 608.00

Progress Made Toward New Church.- Building Fund Now $90,000.00

Progress is being made toward the building of the first unit of our church.

The amount in bonds and cash for the church having reached about $90,000.00 the Building and Grounds Committee felt it time to begin definite planning to erect the new church. So an architect was elected. The firm of Thomas and Waggoner who are now the architects for the new church at Davidson College was selected.

Mr. Thomas has visited the campus and has studied the proposed site for the church. He has also sent down several preliminary studies to be considered by the Building and Grounds Committee and the Committee of the Church. The plans contemplate an expenditure of $125,000.00 for each unit of the church.

All gifts that are designated for the new church and all undesignated memorials go into this fund. We receive as memorials for the church about $1,000.00 per month. There are some friends and supporters who prefer for their memorial gifts to go to the operation of the Home and the care of the Children. Such preferences we are glad to carry out.

Home-coming Days

Without meaning to, I have sat in on four Home-coming Days in succession. You, of course, know the prime objectives of Home-coming Days. The idea is to attract all the alumni back for a feast. There are a lot of good things to eat and a good football team to beat - all of that is on the program. It would not do to have a weak sister as an opponent, so every school and college usually picks out a worthy opponent so that their victory will be a cause for celebration.

Well, at Barium Springs' Home-coming on October 14th it worked out just that way. There was plenty to eat and a most hilarious group of oldtimers assembled at Barium. The opposing team was Albemarle and Barium won its victory, so that was the perfect Home-coming Day.

The following Saturday it was Home-Coming at Davidson - plenty to eat, plenty to see, and a grand game with Davidson having a mighty good chance to win a victory, but it did not turn out that way - - the Richmond team just refused to cooperate and wound up by beating Davidson rather badly. That was all that kept that from being a perfect day.

The following Saturday it was at Chapel Hill. The Monogram Cluo at Carolina invited 35 of our students to come down and see the Tennessee-Carolina game, so we with some 40,000 other folks assembled at Kenan Stadium for the last event of the Home-Coming Day. Everything else had gone off in fine style. There had been so much food prepared that they say that chickens, turkeys and pigs within a radius of fifty miles were so scarce that they had to be protected by game laws for some time after that Home-Coming Day. But in the football game everything exploded in Carolina's face. We don't know yet whether Carolina has the superior team. The Charlie Justice team was on the field for such a little time that they hardly had a chance to warm up. The defensive team was on the field practically all the time, and they did not do so well. Tennessee very rudely slapped Carolina down by an unbelievable score.

The following week Mrs. Johnston and I journeyed to Clemson and participated in another Home-Coming Day. There is a whole lot

New Comers at Barium Springs

Geraldine and Peggy Hinnant

The picture at which you are looking is a sample of the new children who have come in during recent months. They came from Johnston County. Geraldine is almost nine years old and Peggy is five. There is nothing special about them except that they are just nice, lovable little girls. They came to Barium just as the Fall term of school was beginning. They are not the newest comers. There is Shelby Smith, ten-year old boy from Kinston; Melvin Sanders, seven years old, from Charlotte; Nancy Joyner, six years old, and Larry Joyner, three years old, from Charlotte; Katherine Ferrell, twelve years old, John Calvin Ferrell, eleven years old, and Nancy Ferrell, ten years old, from Charlotte; Nelson Anderson, ten years old, Betty Ruth Anderson, eight years old, and Jack Anderson, four years old, from Mt. Olive; Judith Bolton, eight years old, John Bolton, six years old, and Mary Jane Bolton, five years old, from Gastonia. And others are due to arrive between now and Christmas. Maybe we can get them all together for a group picture. If not, we will display a sample or two as we go along.

Mr. McClure to Assume Duties On January 15th

The new Superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home, Rev. Albert B. McClure, will assume his duties on January 15, 1950. Our last Messenger went to press a few minutes after Mr. McClure accepted the position, so at that time it had not been announced when he would come.

more to this than can be told in a paragraph. First, as to why. Well, a number of years ago a little widow came to Barium Springs with two little boys. She was not very strong, but she was determined to take the matron training course and to make a living for her two sons. Riding on courage alone, she made the grade. For a time she was a matron at Barium and then taught in our school. Later on in life she married a Clemson professor, Mr. A. G. Holmes, and they live at Clemson and lead a most active life. When the time came for Mr. Holmes' retirement, they built them a lovely home near enough in to the center of things to still be part of the Clemson community. This couple invited Mrs. Johnston and myself to spend the week-end of November 5th with them. This invitation came early in the summer, so it necessitated drawing a red ring around that date so that nothing could interfere with it. So on Saturday morning, November 5th, we two started out for Clemson. We went through Lincolnton, Shelby, and Gaffney and it seemed that the trees had put on their prettiest clothes in celebration of this event. The sun was just bright enough to bring out all of their beauty without any glare.

The Windup of the Football Season

Barium's final game was played Friday, November, 18th. The weather was cold but dry. A fine crowd came out to see it, and while the crowd shivered the teams did some outstanding playing. The game ended in a scoreless tie, but you would not believe it until the final whistle. Barium started early in the game and drove down to the ten-yard line and fumbled. Later on an intercepted pass placed the ball again on the fifteen-yard line. Barium again failed to make good on that chance. Then Statesville threatened. A blocked punt and a couple of first downs and Statesville had the ball first and goal to go on Barium's two-yard line. On the first play Statesville fumbled and Barium recovered in the end zone - a touchback. One time Hillard returning a punt got by every man but one, and he had Hillard by the sleeve of his jersey. They have torn up several jerseys for Hillard this year and the one he had on was new (more's the pity) and it would not tear - - this delayed Hillard until the roof fell on him - - all the other players of the Statesville team arrived in time to pull him down. All of these things made for a very exciting game. The complete scores for all Barium teams are put down below. We wish we had space and time to tell of the doings of the other teams. The B team played its final game on Saturday, November 19th, defeating a team from the Junior Optimists of Charlotte. The score was 36-0, but don't think from that that it was not a good game to watch. Barium started out with their B Team boys and gradually substituted down to where there were a good many 110 pound boys playing.

On Monday, the 14th, the 110 pound team played its final game, defeating a Mooresville team 18-14. The 85-pound team did not play such a big schedule, but they are coming along, and they will be the 100-pound team next year.

The B team will help to strengthen the varsity next year. Only three senior boys will be lost, and one other player who has tarried too long in the high school. You have to finish in four years to play your football in the South Piedmont and Western Conference.

The varsity scores were:

Barium 12, Thomasville 0.
Barium 6, Children's Home 26.
Barium 27, Mooresville 0.
Barium 40, Spencer 6.
Barium 20, Albemarle 12.
Barium 6, Lexington 14.
Barium 6, Davidson B 19.
Barium 0, Salisbury 32.
Barium 0, Statesville 0.

We will not attempt to separate the scores of the 125 and the B teams, because they were practically the same team:

Barium 27, Conover 0.
Barium 26, Mount Airy 0.
Barium 27, O'Donoghue School 6.
Barium 27, Charlotte Day School 0.
Barium 39, Statesville 13.
Barium 31, Newton-Conover 6.
Barium 0, Mount Airy 20.
Barium 36, Charlotte Junior Optimists 0.

Presbyterian of 1892

The masons began laying bricks on Thursday and the walls of the Synod's cottage are rising. Five masons at work. The foundation for the "Annie Louise Cottage" has been dug, and brick laying on it will begin Monday, I suppose. The force of masons is to be increased. For the past two weeks the brick making has been much hindered by the rainy weather. The bricks already burned are excellent.

Tuesday the 21st has been named as the day for the laying of the corner-stones. The address will be made by Dr. W. S. Currell of Davidson College, and we can safely promise all who may attend something admirable. The hour for the address will be 2:30 p. m. giving friends from Charlotte and beyond an opportunity of reaching Barium Springs by the 12:30 train, and of returning by the 4:30 train, allowing four hours on the ground of the Home. As it is only half a mile to the mineral springs, a delightful place for picnicing, all may spend a happy hour before the speaking begins if they bring heavy baskets with them. The public and especially all friends of the Home are invited.

Yours truly

THE ORPHANS' HOME CORNER
STONE TO BE LAID

The corner-stone of the two cottages of the Orphans' Home at Barium Springs are to be laid on Tuesday, June 21st, at 2:30 P. M. Prof. Currell of Davidson College will deliver the address upon the occasion, and there will be songs and recitations by the orphans. Visitors are expected to bring baskets of eatables, and have an extempore picnic. The train from Charlotte will reach Barium Springs about noon, and leave at 4:30 P. M. thus making it very convenient of access from that direction. Brick and lumber are on the ground, the foundations are being laid and the work is going rapidly on. It will be pleasant for the friends of the home to meet together for a few hours, and see what the Lord has enabled us to do. It is confidently expected that both cottages will be ready for inspection at the coming meeting of Synod. Friends will please hurry in the funds necessary to pay for the completed buildings.

THE THANKSGIVING SPIRIT
Kathleen Monroe

Thanksgiving is a day on which we should all think of the things that God has given us. It should mean something special to us here at Barium for we have so very much for which to be thankful. People have always been generous to us. It is only through the generosity of people and God's help that we have such a wonderful home here at Barium.

I especially like the time of year when we celebrate thanksgiving. It reminds me of Millay's poem—"Lord, I do fear, thou'st made the World too beautiful this year."

When the Pilgrims first came to America in October, 1621, a barren land faced them. A land, which would probably seem hopeless to us today, held many prospects and promises for the future. Here in this land they could worship God without fear. This country, started by these Pilgrims working constantly to make a home in a new world, is now the greatest country on the globe. They were thankful for their blessings. Have you ever stopped to think how much more we have than those people had? Indeed! Haven't we things to be thankful for!

When I was a child, Thanksgiving had a very different meaning to me from what it has today. I always liked for Thanksgiving to come because it meant a holiday from an afternoon at school. We always went to church on Thanksgiving morning and to a football game in the afternoon. Then at night when I went to bed, I would thank God that we had a day like Thanksgiving when there were so many things to do.

As I grew older I began to wonder where all these things came from - things that we took so much for granted. The food, the clothing, the shelter were all being provided by someone. It was then that I found out they came from other people who were doing without so that we might have the proper training and care. Again I had something to add to my Thanksgiving prayer - I could thank God for taking care of us through His people.

Still later, I learned about the Pilgrims and the first Thanksgiving, and how God has helped us in making America, the beautiful. I also had this to add to my prayer of Thanksgiving- This country our country, is the freest country in the world.

Thanksgiving means much more to me today as a senior in high school with a future before me. One who has never been in an orphanage high school will not understand what I mean when I say that I have my education to be thankful for. Perhaps it sounds odd, since most people take their high school and college education as a matter of course, but as Thanksgiving comes again, I thank God for giving me such a wonderful opportunity to "increase in wisdom."

Everyday to us should be Thanksgiving, but we should be especially thankful on Thanksgiving day, since it is a day set aside by our forefathers as a day on which to thank God for His goodness. Indeed we should think of the words of this beautiful hymn as we sing:

"God, our maker, doth provide
For our wants to be supplied
Come to God's own temple, come
Praise the Song of Harvest Home."

We should all think Thanksgiving as more than turkey, cranberries, and mince pie. Thanksgiving is an attitude. Thanksgiving and appreciation should not be feelings that come once a year. It must be a part of our everyday living, and should begin in the home. Jan Struthers has said, "Home is where you hang your heart", and real thanksgiving starts in the heart. The only way we can show our appreciation to Him is to share that goodness with others.

Thanksgiving starts in the mind, it flows from the heart in appreciation and love for others, it reveals itself in deeds of kindness and unselfishness, and reaches its climax in praise and thankfulness to the Giver of every good and perfect gift- God.

On Thanksgiving, too, we should give of what we have to people less fortunate than we. Sometimes we are inclined to believe that since we are orphans, people should always be doing things for us, but it is my opinion that we are really more fortunate than a great many people to whom we should give just as people give to us. We can probably best put our money to the most worthy cause by giving to the church. A good example of this, I think, is at Christmas when we all contribute to the Christmas tree in the dining room. By doing this we help other people to enjoy Christmas. People might remark, "It's the Christmas spirit", but it might well be called the "Thanksgiving spirit."

Thanksgiving in the good old days is remembered for its bountiful dinners, the big turkey, and the cranberry sauce. We still have those big dinners, but are we sincerely as appreciative and thankful as they used to be? Let's get the Thanksgiving spirit!

LITTLE BEGINNINGS

At no point do we betray our human modes of thought more quickly than at the point of starting some new enterprise. We want a big beginning and immediate success. But God evidently likes little beginnings. There was the mustard seed of Jesus' parable, the smallest of all seeds. Its commencement was hidden in the ground. Growth was inconspicuous and slow. Only after some time did it become an enormous shrub or tree. Abram, when first told of a posterity as numerous as the shining stars and the myriad sands, probably assumed that he would have a large family. He would leave many stalwart sons. But there was only one son of promise and he did not come until 25 years after the promise was first given. Not even in the next generation was there a prolific reproduction. Isaac had twin boys, Esau and Jacob. After Jacob came the great increase.

So it is in Christian work. We will be great soul-winners. We will have tremendous revivals. We will develop mammoth Sunday schools. We will establish a record number of outposts. Thus we dream. But usually God is concerned that we become soul-winners by doing a good job with one. He promises to give life for death when a Christian takes one backslider into his prayers for revival. He blesses when we get down-to-earth enough to pick up one family on the way to Sunday school. He smiles with favor upon a single outpost where years of prayers, tears and hard work result in a sturdy little chapel or church. A good prayer for most of us is: "O Lord God, help me to be satisfied with little beginnings, for Jesus' sake. Amen." —The Southern Presbyterian Journal.

MAN AND THE CHURCH

The layman, too many times, does not stop to consider his importance to the church, the pastor and the community—in an altogether different category than the church—because the very heart and soul of the community is based upon the conditions existing within the church.

A sound, progressive church, with an energetic pastor, is the backbone of any community.

And a sound Christian layman is a part of the backbone of the church.

The two are inseparable and important cogs in the life of man, his home, his town and his church.

Too many men are interested in their lodge and club affairs. They come first; their church second and third, or perhaps somewhere else down the line. They take their lodges and clubs religiously, but not their church.

Each man has a certain amount of influence with other men. As a layman of God, this influence could be applied to good use for the church. How many men have actually talked to other men about the church, inviting them to attend, or making an effort to have them become interested in church affairs? The percentage of this type of man is far too low.

Interest in men who are lost on the wayside may mean the saving of another soul. Each layman has within his power this opportunity. Too often he neglects such opportunities with the thought in mind that it is the pastor's job, and not his, to try to redeem a wayward person.

Jesus' Great Commission was for man to help man, and where necessary to attempt to save others for His Father's Kingdom.

The pastor—every pastor—needs the help of good Christian men to assist him in carrying on the work of God. It is part of the layman's responsibility to give this assistance when called upon.

There are many departments of the church that need men in them. Sunday schools and Baptist Training Unions often call out for assistance. Their calls echo back on them, unanswered. Excuses are too easy to make. But how are these excuses received before the Father on His Throne

A pastor receives an unlimited amount of inspiration from the men in his congregation. The more willing servants he can muster together, the greater his inspiration, the greater the effect of his work for the church. As the work of the church grows it radiates out into the community with far-reaching effects.

The church needs the layman's attention, his interest and his tithe. No church can prosper without the layman, the man who sometimes mistakenly thinks he is just a small fellow and could do little good for his church.

But he is an important part in the operations of the church, which goes to make better men, better homes and better communities.

He is the salt of the earth.
—By Mark Pace, Editor, Dalton News and The Citizen.

For sometime the Danish airlines had given their passengers sticks of chewing gum labeled, "To prevent unpleasant pressure in your ears during starting and landing."

It just had to happen: A lady passenger plaintively appealed to the Stewardess, "Help me get this stuff out of my ears. It doesn't help, anyway."

"I'm sorry madam," said the attendant at the movie, "but you can't take that dog into the theater."

"How absurd," protested the woman. "What harm can pictures do a little dog like this."

WHAT I OWE TO MY PASTOR

I owe him respect as the ambassador of God, sent to teach me a better way of living than the selfish sordid existence I might be guilty of, but for his guidance.

I owe his trust, that he may be free to serve the church unhampered by criticism and fault-finding.

I owe my pastor the protection of kindly silence by refraining from repeating, in his presence, the slander of unkind gossip that would worry him and prevent him from doing his best.

I owe him prayer, that God may make his service a blessing to everyone with whom he comes in contact.

I owe him enough of my time to help him in his work, wherever he may need me.

I owe him encouragement, when vexations and annoyances make his work difficult.

I owe my pastor consideration not to interrupt and hinder his work by financial worry.

I owe my pastor attention when I go to church, that he may not be annoyed by seeing my careless inattention.

show tickets or treats of ice cream much to our joy and pleasure.

Recently we received two new girls and had to send two of our older girls to Howard cottage. The two new ones names are Betty Ruth Anderson, and Judy Bolton both of the third grade. We surely hope that Peggy Jean Sellers and Sally Ruth Carbett will be happy at their new cottage.

Seven of our little girls are going to Mooresville to give a short program. Also one of the big sisters is going to make a talk. They are also going to eat dinner with the ladies. "Hummm," sure would like to be in their shoes!

Usually in our news we try to always say something about our teacher, Miss Blakney. The other day, Miss Blakney came walking in with a guilty grin on her face. We had an idea that she was thinking up something to do. We weren't far from wrong either! She comes in bringing all twenty-five of us a tulip bulb apiece, to plant in our garden. We really think she did it so we wouldn't pull up her own bulbs.

Now for a little bit of humor on the part of one of the little girls. Our matron asked Donnie where was her thinking cap? Little Donnie looked up at her with an innocent grin, and said, "Well, you know, I think I forgot where I put the thing." Of course, some of us often wonder where we leave ours too.

Barbara Porter, the little girl who broke her leg, has finally returned to our happy home. We certainly are glad to get her back after a long stay at the Infirmary.

We all hope that you nice people will have a wonderful Thanksgiving. We sign off now with best wishes.

BABY COTTAGE

Well Hello Dear Friends,

Here we come again 20 strong from the Baby Cottage.

We have had several new comers to our house to stay with us awhile since we last wrote you. We are so glad to have all these little ones to come to the Baby Cottage in time for Christmas as we have such a jolly good time.

Old Santa never forgets the Baby Cottage. I wish you all could be here on Christmas morning and see what a big time we have.

We get up at 6:00 o'clock to see what Santa Claus has brought us. We have already written our Christmas letters so we are expecting him to come this time loaded down for we have asked for lots of things and we most always get what we ask for.

Well, it is getting too cold for us to play outside so we will have to look for something to do indoors.

We go to Kindergarten every morning. Next year lots of us will go out to school.

We hope you all have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

We will stop here for this time with lots of love.

— The Babies.

JENNIE GILMER

Remember us? We're still around even if you haven't heard from us in such a long while.

We have had a hard football schedule this month. During the season we have won one game and tied one. The last one was the end of our little games.

Some of us have recently joined the Scouts. Most of us haven't passed the Tenderfoot yet, but we hope to pass by December 6, in order to go to the Court of Honor.

We are looking forward already to Christmas and have written our Santa Claus letters.

We went to the big parade in Charlotte the other day and we really did enjoy it. It was about two miles long and lasted about two hours. Thank you Daddy Johnston for letting us go.

We will write you again next month so good-bye for now.

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hello, Folks,

It has been quite some time since you have heard any news from us wigglers.

We have two new members now. They are Melvin Sanders and John Bolton. We are really glad to have these new brothers.

Our good friend from Charlotte, Dr. D. H. Nesbit, came to see us and brought us each a lollipop. We got nice and sticky but we enjoyed them. (Our big girls didn't.)

Santa Claus is quite a popular figure around our house these days. We have been writing our Santa Claus letters in school this week.

We were very glad to hear that Rev. A. B. McClure was going to be our new superintendent. He has been one of our favorites for a long time.

Just any day if you pass by, you would see us outside raking leaves. We get a nickle a sack but just raking them is fun by itself.

One of our boys went to Morganton to sing for the Ladies of the Church. He also said the 100th Psalm.

You'll be hearing from us next month.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi There,

Sorry you didn't hear from us last month, but you'll be hearing plenty from us this time.

We owe part of this article to our faithful "Daddy" Johnston. We have enjoyed every minute of our time here with him. We would like to thank him from the bottom of our hearts for all he has done for us, and hope he will be able to come back to see us often. We are so sorry he has decided to leave. Here's hoping our hearts will grow towards Mr. McClure as it has towards him.

We wish to thank Mrs. Thompson and the auxiliary from Norwood for the lovely shrubs they sent us. We can visualize what a beautiful background they are going to make for our garden that we have been so happy to work in. We would like to thank Miss Zeta Davidson too for the beautiful pitcher she sent us. The holidays will be here soon and we hope to be using it a lot at that time. Also we would like to thank Mr. Archie Cannon for the nice radio he sent us. Our leisure time is usually spent listening to it.

The Dentist got here too late, because we have lost some teeth trying to crack pecans. We really have an awfully lot this year. Betsy Paige and Jackie Kuykendall are our "star" eaters. They really do pile 'em in!

We would like also to tell the Glee Club members what an enjoyable time we had at the Halloween Carnival they gave. One of the many entertainments for the evening was a scavenger hunt. The winners were Marie Andrews and Ethel Brotherton. Give 'em a hand!

We would like to congratulate the boys on the fine football they have been playing. Keep the good work up, we still have the most important game ahead. Hit 'em hard!

Everyone seems to have some aching or soreness lately. Wonder why? Basketball has started, of course!

We enjoyed the movie, "Christopher Columbus" since we did not have to rob our piggy banks, to pay our own way.

Our High School gave a radio program on the subject "Citizenship," November 8th. We are sure everyone enjoyed it.

It's about time to start writing our Christmas letters. You know the old saying, "You'd better be good!"

Well folks, this calls for a closing. We hate to hold you in suspense, but wait until next month for the Woman's Building.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again with the news of our cottage.

We had our Monthly birthday table November 10th. Only two of our girls went. They are: Marie McNeill and Nancy Ferrell.

We are writing our Santa Claus letters now. We hope Santa will be as good to us as he was last year.

One of our dearest friends Mr. Grier took us to a show. He took two groups. The first group was made up of our smallest girls. They went to see "Mr. Frog and Icky Bod." The second group was made up of our largest girls. They went to see "Everybody Does It."

Last week Peggy Jean Sellers and Sally Corbitt moved to our cottage from Annie Louise. We are glad to have them and hope they like being with us.

Look for us next month.

INFIRMARY NEWS

Hello Friends,

Here we are again, the five little nurses. Football season is almost over, the big game of the season is Friday with Statesville. Basketball has begun for four of us.

Our matron, Mrs. Finley, known to all of us as (Ma), has been on a short visit to Greenville, S. C. (We missed you "Ma"). Miss Annie had an unsuccessful week-end at Charlotte, she didn't even bring us a piece of bubble gum. (Boo hoo!)

We can't get by without the gossip in our column. "Hold your ears!" Wonder why "Paul" makes it a point to get hurt in every game, it must be to see "Elsie". Elmina certainly has been lively lately, some tall boy seems to be turning her heart over. Stony Point boys see something of special interest here at the Infirmary, "Louise are you sure you're not involved?" Two college boys seem to be having a little competition now days. We wonder if there will be "words" between them Thanksgiving. Hey Jeanne who's gonna win?

Well folks, our brains are getting dry, see you next month.

Elsie and Louise.

RUMPLE HALL

Well!

Here we are again, bringing the news from the Waitresses.

Since school has started we have been having a wonderful time. We have been to several movies and football games.

The leaves on the Campus are all beautiful colors. We have been raking them up to make the Campus pretty for Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Some of our girls went to Mooresville to circle six to give a Thanksgiving program, they sent a treat of candy and cookies to the other girls.

The Howard, Jenny Gilmer, and about fourteen Rumble Hall girls went to Charlotte Wednesday, sixteenth, to see the Christmas parade. We left about 3:30 and didn't get back until about 9:30, the Parade was two hours long. We had a good time and enjoyed it very much.

Our last football game was with Statesville, November eighteenth. It was the most exciting game of the season the score was 0-0.

We are now having visitors most everyday and hope to continue having them until Christmas.

We are going to have the football banquet December second, we are expecting about 175 people.

See you again next month,
—Shirley Ann Cannon

Officers for the Men of the Presbytery were elected and installed to take office next April first. These were: President, Mr. S. P. The service of installation for the new officers was conducted by Rev. Oren Moore of the McKinnon Church in Concord.

Home-coming Days

beauty of the day so that we were ready to enjoy anything, but the entertainment that we received was ahead of anything that we had ever experienced. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes took us to the Alumni luncheon.

Now, that Alumni luncheon is something that has to be described to be believed. Here at Barium we pride ourselves on our ability to feed a lot of folks promptly and satisfactorily. We have served 600 people at a barbecue in twenty minutes, but that does not touch the way they did it at Clemson. They had eight tables and were serving from both sides of each table, which made sixteen lines and our estimate of the crowd was that they served about 3,000 people just as fast as they could crowd in a great big double door, and nowhere along the line was there any evidence of crowding or standing on first one foot and then the other, but everything moved along smoothly. The food was good and plentiful. The ham that was served must have been special. We ate our lunch in the indoor basketball court and heard a few words from the Governor, the college president, etc., and then we went to the ball game.

We sat in the president's box, and it seemed to me that every person in it was a person of distinction, so much so that the Governor and his wife did not even create a ripple when they came in. There were some old-time football players and many present-day football enthusiasts. I happened to be sitting next to Dave Clark during the first half, and we decided a great many important football matters to our satisfaction if not to anybody else's. We agreed on our disapproval of the platoon system, and were pretty well agreed on the all-time-all-North Carolina football selections.

The Clemson stadium is just a little smaller than Keman stadium. They have cleared off the hills at the end and at one side. There was plenty of parking space for the 20,000 spectators who came. The band, the majorettes, and the drilling of the cadets was up to the highest standard which Clemson usually maintains. The weather was perfect, so much so that those who sat in the sun removed their coats; those who sat in the shade were not uncomfortable without their overcoats, and to cap it all, the two teams put on a display of football to beat all football games. The final score was 40-27, and you can very well forget which team won - it happened to be Boston. Every kind of a play seemed to be put on especially for our entertainment. There were intercepted passes for touchdowns; there were hidden ball plays for touchdowns; there were pass plays resulting in touchdowns. There was one case where a player was bottled up, reversed his field twice, losing 20 yards before he really started toward the goal and then ran 40 yards for a touchdown. High School stuff you might say, anyhow it left everybody breathless and exhausted when the game was over.

We stayed at Clemson long enough to see many old friends and to meet many new friends, leaving the delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes after lunch on Sunday, and arriving home before suppertime.

We took lunch on Sunday with the 2500 cadets or students, depending on whether they are in uniform or not, and the meal we ate something special - country style steak - so tender that you could cut it with your fork and enough to get a second and third refill if you wanted it, and with the gravy like you dream about it is a wonder I did not go to sleep on the way home.

Mrs. Holmes' name was Mrs. Pennell when she was at Barium and there are many on our staff and in our neighborhood who still remember her. She is still the lovable, energetic little woman that she was when she belonged to us here. She says that she has never been completely weaned from Barium; although she is now a member of the Episcopal Church with her husband, she is still Presbyterian whenever she thinks of Barium Springs.

And so end the round of Home-Comings Days. In the three college Home-Comings Days the visiting teams refused to be beaten. Maybe that is all right too. Maybe Davidson, Carolina and Clemson will get satisfaction next year in mopping up the host teams when they play at somebody else's Home-Coming. As for Barium Springs she usually is Home-Coming entertainment for several high schools during the fall. We do love to upset their plans and to win those games. So it all evens up. So many good things happen in the Fall that it makes one wonder how anyone can find fault with this old world at that time. It makes us understand how fitting it is that the latter part of November should be Thanksgiving Day all over the world. It is good just to be alive, to have eyes to see, ears to hear, and hearts to throb with it all.

The Windup of

The 100-pound team sometimes played under the 100 pound limit, and sometimes under 110. There were a few boys who played with the latter weight limit who were too heavy for the 100. Here is the record:

Barium 13, Mount Airy 14.
Barium 34, Mooresville Recreation Center 0.
Barium 6, Mount Airy 2.
Barium 18, Mooresville Recreation Center 14.

The 85-pound team:
Barium 13, Mount Airy 0.
Barium 0, Mount Airy 0.

It looks like the 85-pounders had a very short season, but they were the substitutes for the 100-pound team and most of the players saw a lot of action.

The standing of the South Piedmont Conference also follows - - It shows how Barium's varsity stacks up with the other teams which they played this season:

Football Banquet Was Enjoyed By Barium Family December 2nd

Barium Springs football banquet was held on the night of December 2nd, and was like Homecoming Day as there were so many of the old-time Barium athletes present. A total of 170 sat down to a supper of regular old country steak and gravy, mashed potatoes, peas, scalloped oysters, topped off with ice cream.

Mr. Archie Calhoun presided as toastmaster and did it most effectively. He did not bring in too many jokes and all of his jokes were in perfectly good taste, not too old and not too new. Every guest had a very intimate tie-up with Barium Springs. They either lived here, worked here, had been to school here, or had done some special thing for us. There were enough boys of the famous 1941 football team to have almost made a team.

The letters were presented to the 90-pound team by Ed Oliver. Ed was famous as a midget and later on as a varsity player and, incidentally, had a big hand in the Barium Alumni victory over Mitchell College on Thanksgiving Day of this year. He is the boy who threw that long pass on the first play from scrimmage that resulted in a touchdown and victory for Barium.

Those receiving letters were: Albert Clough, Boyce Dean Smith, Charles Creech, Ronnie Hudgins, Franklin Lentz, David Morrison, Edsel McArthur, Neil Shaw, Bobby McEwen, David Thomas, and Gray Koontz. This team played two games during the year, both with Mount Airy. They won the first game 13-0 and the other was a scoreless tie. This team substituted liberally in the 100-pound team.

Letters to the 100-pound team were presented by LaFayette Donaldson. Donaldson was quite a football player and wrestler in his day, and still plays on the Alumni team every Thanksgiving. Boys receiving these letters were: James Andrews, Leroy Norman, Albert Clough, Donnie Campbell, Edsel McArthur, Wilbert Frazier, Robert Lee Hall, Charles Hall, Calvin Burleson, Donald Moore, Dwight Reid, Ennis Blackburn, Richard Vest, Jimmy Johnson. This team played four games as follows: Barium 13, Mount Airy 14. Barium 34, Mooresville Recreation Center 0. Barium 6, Mount Airy 2. Barium 18, Mooresville Recreation Center 14.

Letters to the Junior Varsity were presented by Reverend Charles Sides, not exactly an athlete, but most interested in athletics. This team, sometimes called the B team is made up mostly of 125-pound boys. The ones receiving letters were: Alfred Williams, Joe Barclay, Billy Black, Henry Troutman, Palmer Wilcox, James Wheeler, Melvin Morrison, Jerry Williams, Carl Spicer, Mack Wicker, Fred

New Heating Unit to Be Installed Here

However good a product may be it will wear out at last. That has happened to one of the boilers of our heating plant. We still have another one which is now carrying the load. It is greatly overloaded and must have help. Our best boiler has been in use over twenty years and has been overloaded most of that time.

After having consulted a competent engineer we are now making plans to purchase and install a two hundred horse power boiler. This has to be done whether we can afford it or not. The cost will be over $20,000.00.

Our steam lines service sixteen buildings and have been in the ground for thirty years. Extensive changes and repairs are needed and will be done next summer if the money can be found. By so doing we can add greatly to the comfort of some of our buildings and also effect considerable saving in our heating operations.

We call this to the attention of our friends at this season when income tax payments are just coming. Any help you can give us on this project will be greatly appreciated.

New Superintendent to Take Over Jan. 15

REV. ALBERT B. MCCLURE

For many months now, ever since the resignation of Mr. J. B. Johnston was announced, the name of his successor has been anxiously awaited. As soon as the Regents announced that Rev. Albert Bonner McClure had been elected and had accepted the position as Superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home, general approval and delight was manifested here at Presbyterian Orphans' Home and throughout the Synod. It is universally recognized that Mr. McClure is well fitted by experience, temperament, and gifts to fill this exacting office. Those who know Mr. McClure best feel that a wise selection has been made.

Mr. McClure was born in Toccoa, Georgia, forty four years ago. His father was William McClure and his mother Kate Heidt Bonner. He was married to Miss Mary McGehee of Atlanta, Ga., in 1935. The McClures have four children, three girls and one boy.

Mr. McClure graduated at Davidson College in 1931 with the degree of B. C. His theological training was at Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, where he received the degree of B. D.

While he has been greatly beloved by all his people where he has served, his ministry has been particularly successful with young people. For three years he was Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Davidson College, giving all his time to the spiritual needs of

The Message of the Month

By
REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

HOW DOES GOD SPEAK TO ME?

Does He speak to me at all? I know that not a day passes but that I speak to God. It is not always a formal prayer as in our Sunday services. Sometimes it is not even expressed, only an inner whisper of thanksgiving for some blessing. Sometimes a quick "God help me" in an hour of stress or a moment of temptation to be or to do less than God would wish. Yet each day I believe we do talk to God, often perhaps without realizing that that is what we are doing. And there are those special moments in the day that we pause for a word with God, sometimes at the beginning, sometimes at the close of the day.

But does God speak to me? Does it seem oftentimes that talking with God is a one-way conversation? Do we face a serious decision and ask God the way? Do we strain and listen and sometimes wonder if God is making any answer at all? Perhaps we do, and then in some sudden awareness of God's presence, we are startled that we could ever have thought God far away. Trouble had come upon us - a great sorrow, a terrible disappointment. We have felt that the waves of despair would cover us. And then we have whispered "God help me" and a marvelous peace and calm have come flooding over our souls. Maybe we did not hear God speak, maybe we could not make out any words and say, "That was God who spoke." Yet we know it was God, and we know that God is ever near.

Still sometimes we are dissatisfied. We want to hear a voice thunder out from heaven that we cannot doubt that God is speaking. We read often in our Bibles how God spoke to men. They heard His voice clear and plain. There could be no doubt. Abraham was a very ordinary sort of man until that day that he heard God say, "Get thee out of thy country . . . unto a land that I will show thee." It was God who said those words and they remade the life of Abraham. It was that same God who one night appeared unto Isaac with the words, "Fear not, for I am with thee, and will bless thee."

Jacob slept with rocks as his pillow one strange night as in a dream God stood at the top of a great ladder leading into heaven and said in unmistakable tones, "I am the Lord God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Isaac." It was also in a dream that Joseph found God directing his way and his destiny.

Moses paused in awe and trembling before a strange little bush that burned and burned and yet would not be burned up. Until he heard God speak from that burning

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,
Christmas is one of the most enjoyable seasons of the year here at Barium. One of the things that we, here at Annie Louise Cottage, look forward to is going to Davidson College. The boys down there always treat us like little sisters, and it seems to us that they really go out of their way to show us such a wonderful time each year. For many of us, this will be our first trip, however, you can be sure that we will have a very nice time, and feel right at "home."

Many of us spent hours trying to make our "Santa Claus letters" readable. But in case some of our letters are not readable we are sure that you will understand. The first graders especially had a tough time, since very few of them know how to spell their name, much less write it.

The weather here at Barium hasn't as yet showed many signs of snow. Nevertheless, we have high hopes that it will be a "White Christmas." By the way, if any of you see Santa before Christmas please tell him not to get up in the North Pole and get snowed under before Christmas. If such a thing did happen, we are sure that his little "helpers" will take over, and we won't be disappointed.

All this talk about Christmas and not a thing about Thanksgiving! There are so many things a child here at Barium has to be thankful for. For instance, our friends in Belmont never fail to send us something to always make Thanksgiving one of pleasure. This year they sent us a big box of candy and chewing gum. Thanks so very much for it and you just can't imagine how good it is. Also we would like to thank the nice and generous people who sent us some nuts. Everyone at our cottage loves nuts, so our friends can be sure that we deeply appreciated them.

Carol Moore, one of our little girls will soon have a birthday. Her father came recently and left money enough for an ice cream treat to celebrate the occasion. Mr. Moore has two little girls at our cottage. And everytime one of them has a birthday, he leaves money for the whole cottage to celebrate. Mmmmm we surely wish birthdays came more often.

Many of our friends and relations have been to see us during the month of November and December. We are always glad to have them, and wish they could stay and visit longer.

Some of our Durham friends came on Thanksgiving day, and brought the Orphanage sixty-nine cakes. The church that they came from was the church that Clara, one of our big sisters goes to when she is home visiting her mother. Recently Clara and Bonnie went on a week-end and talked to her church about Barium. The girls must have done a good job judging from the cakes that came. We would surely like to thank them for sending the cakes and let us

Trophy Presented to Mr. Jos. B. Johnston

We the members of the 1949 football team would like to present Mr. Johnston with this trophy for his outstanding leadership in sports, not only here at Barium, but all over the state of North Carolina. In presenting this trophy to Mr. Johnston we know that it can not express our full appreciation for his outstanding leadership and active-ness in our sports program here at Barium, but we would like for this to be a small token of our appreciation. With this trophy goes the love and admiration of the members of the entire football squad.

Serving the Child In Need

(From The Connie Maxwell)
"On what basis are children admitted at Connie Maxwell?" is a question frequently asked members of the staff. In view of the heavy demands being made now for the admission of children and the necessity for declining many, many requests for assistance, it is a question which deserves to be answered.

The basic principal underlying our policy of admission is simple and has been stated many times. It is briefly this: We seek to admit the most needy child who can profit by the service we are prepared to render. This is really the only sensible rule and the only thoroughly Christian rule by which to govern a program designed to make the largest permanent contribution to child life. With almost 150 needy children calling to us for assistance, and recognizing that we can accept for care only a very few of these, it is imperative that we make every effort to know thoroughly the exact situation of each one of these children, and then fill the few vacancies which may occur with those children whose situation seems to be the most desperate.

The Social Service Staff is in charge of all of the studies of the home conditions. It takes much time to go all about over the state, and gather, in a thorough manner, all of the information which may be useful in making a decision as to admission and which may be more useful in guiding the child's development after he is placed. But all of the time and bother and expense is justified when we remind ourselves that this is the only way we can be sure that we are giving a needy child what he is in most need of. What untold numbers of children have been placed in institutions who proved to be misfits, and the agony of a wrong placement could have been spared, had all of the facts been known. And doubtless many deserving children have been passed over because on the surface they seemed to be getting along pretty well, whereas a more thoroughly scientific study would have revealed an altogether different situation.

The Baptist people of the state have indicated over and over again that this is the only acceptable basis for policy. Occasionally some brother presents application in behalf of a child and urges favorable ac-child under care from his church or association. We could not be at all sure that we were serving the most deserving children if we accepted them to give geographical balance. Or again, some friend claims preferred attention because his church is a heavy contributor to the children's Home. Here again we would be ashamed to claim leadership in a Christian institution and serve the child from the wealthiest community, while turning a deaf ear to the poor little fellow from some poor section who had no strong church to stand back of him.

Rare indeed have been the cases where strong pressure has been exerted to have some children given special favor or consideration because they had influential friends. Occasionally some person who does not fully understand the policy may organize sentiment and urge community pressure to be exerted in their behalf, but most people are reasonable when the facts are presented, and Connie Maxwell has been fortunate in having supporters who, by and large, trust the administration to be fair and conscientious in so serious a matter as passing on the children who shall be accepted for care. Not all institutions or agencies are so fortunate, and many of them are forced to succumb to pressure of a political type for fear they may lose money or supporters. We are in the business to serve needy children and every care is taken to determine the need on the basis of each individual child, and our action is then based on that fact.

bush, "the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." It was much later that the people gathered along with Moses before Mount Sinai were frightened one early morning as the thunder roared and the lightning flashed from a thick black cloud on the mountain top. And the fire from heaven flared and a thick rolling cloud of smoke enveloped the mountain as God spoke and an unearthly trumpet sounded before him. It was then that God spoke forth his commandments for men to follow.

Elijah heard God speak in a far quieter, simpler way. He had looked for his voice to sound forth in the mighty wind, and in the fire from heaven, and in the earthquake on Mt. Sinai. But instead a still, small voice was to Elijah the voice of God.

Yes, the Bible gives countless examples of God speaking clearly and plainly to men of old. But He seldom speaks that way to us. We have never heard Him thunder forth from the mountaintop. Perhaps few have heard Him in a dream. None have stood before Him face to face and heard His thrilling, "I am the God of Abraham . . ." Not in these days at least have we heard Him so plainly. And yet I think that we cannot conclude from that God no longer speaks to man. For He does, and in terms that all may hear and understand. How does God speak to me? The writer of the 19th Psalm gives us the answer.

I. He speaks to me in all His creation.

It was long, long ago that a man sat in the early grey dawn of a morning perhaps like this one. Maybe he was looking out the window as the darkness faded into the dim light of the early morning. And perhaps he was wondering, "How does God speak to me?" And as the heavens brightened, and a rosy glow began to spread upward into the eastern sky, there came his answer - "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork."

Still he sits there awed by the beauty of it all. The sky brightens, down near the horizon the rose colored haze becomes a more brilliant red. And then the sun, slowly at first, and then it seems more quickly, pushes its way above the trees and sheds its glow upon all the land. And to the man sitting there it is not just the same sun he has seen so often. It is a strong

"his going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it; and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof."

And in it all, God is speaking. He is saying to all who will listen, "This is my creation. This is but a sample of beauty and my grace and my power. Every day the sun witnesses to me, its creator. Every night the million stars proclaim that I am here. "For day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge." And God is saying, "Here is a language all may understand, for in this my creation I am speaking to all men." "There is no speech nor language where there voice is not heard."

How does God speak to me? He speaks to me daily through all the beauty that He has created. Last summer a year ago I stood beneath the Natural Bridge in the Valley of Virginia. I had heard of its beauty. I had seen pictures of it. But when our group entered the gateway for the walk down to the Bridge I was somewhat skeptical. I thought it should be awfully good to be worth the price of the admission fee, which was quite large. None of us were prepared for what we were about to experience.

We walked out into the pathway beside the white, frothy, tumbling stream. Far above us towered the tremendous stone arch of the Natural Bridge. For a long moment no one spoke. And then only in whispering tones. Perhaps there were fifty people present from all over the United States, but all stood there quietly, hardly speaking, looking in awe at one of God's great wonders, sublime in its beauty. We heard no voice, but I know that God spoke to us that day. And as we looked through that stone arch into the brilliant blue heavens, we knew that "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth His handiwork."

II. He speaks to me through His Word.

The writer of the 19th Psalm that early morning ceased to write for a moment and with a long, searching look into the heavens knew surely that God was there and speaking to him. But again he must have asked, "How else does God speak to me? And his eyes wandered away from the scene of morning freshness and beauty outside his window, and perhaps he saw there on a low table beside him the scrolls, the rolls of parchment that contained God's law, his written word. He opened a scroll and began to read here and there. And then he wrote, "The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul, the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple."

And as he thought about God's Word, he thought that here was the way God's truth was made known unto man. He thought how blind he would be and how blind all men would be without the light of God's wonderful Word. And again he wrote, "The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes."

There flooded over his soul in that moment all that God's Word meant to him, and he thought here is the most precious blessing in all the world. "More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb. Moreover by them is thy servant: and in keeping of them there is great reward."

How does God speak to me? He speaks to me through His Word, the Bible. It is a way of speaking that God never forces on us. His voice and His message is there if we really want to hear it. If we are interested enough, if we care enough to open the pages and read, then we know surely that we shall hear the voice of God.

A book was written some years ago that has become familiar to most of us telling the story of the Mutiny on the Bounty. It was made into a thrilling motion picture. The sailors who mutinied sank their ship near Pitcairn Island. They were a rough ungodly crew and in a short time that little island was the scene of unrelieved sin and drunkenness. After a time only one of the white sailors who landed survived, surrounded by the descendants of the natives and the other mutineers. This one sailor though whose name was Alexander Smith discovered in one of the chests that had been taken off the ship years before a copy of the Bible.

He began to teach that Bible to those around him with the result that their lives were changed. Some years later a ship visited Pitcairn Island and found a thriving and prosperous community. There was no whiskey, there was no jail, there was no crime, there was no insane asylum. The Bible had changed the life of that entire island. So it has been down through is perfect, converting the soul . . . the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes."

How does God speak to me? Does He speak to me at all? Yes, God is waiting to speak to us each one if we will but listen. He speaks in every twinkle of a million stars at night. He speaks in the golden glow of every sunrise and the red hue of every sunset. He speaks in every bird that sings, in every refreshing shower that falls, in every beauty that He has created. But more than that He speaks through his Word the old, old story of love and life eternal for all who will believe. Will you listen to hear Him speak?

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi There,
Here during the happiest month of the year we try to bring you up to date on our news.

On December 3 the football boys had their banquet. We would like to congratulate the whole team and especially the ones who received special honors.

This is the time when we want to thank Dr. Scott, from Statesville, for his wonderful work which helped our boys a great deal, and also to let him know how much we are going to appreciate the delicious turkeys he is giving us for Christmas. "Can't wait, Goody!"

So much happens during the month of December that we hardly know what would interest you most.

Recreation of all kinds are on our schedule for fun during the holidays.

The time is drawing near when our dear friends Mr. Johnston and his family will be leaving us. We hope they can come and visit us. Mr. Johnston has already told us he would be here for all our sports.

O Yea, that reminds us we haven't told you about our basketball teams. Haven't played but two games but they were pretty good ones. We are having five practice games before the holidays. Good luck!

We will say so long and wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

LEES COTTAGE

Hello Folks,
We are still on the campus if you haven't heard from us in several months.

We enjoyed the football games and are looking forward to seeing a lot of good basketball games.

Right now we are thinking about Christmas and the nice things we will get to play with. We have so many friends that do so many nice things for us.

We miss little Danny Morris, since he has moved to Chapel Hill.

We have planted flowers around our house. We will enjoy them in the spring and summer.

QUADS

Dear Friends,
It has been quite sometime since you have heard from us.

We have been very busy with our sports lately playing football and basketball. We came out third in football and we're very glad to be there. Next year we hope to be first, we will still have the same team except for one boy, but we have a good replacement.

Basketball started a few weeks ago and we've only lost one game, that was to Celeste Henkel. We play Scotts and Oxford this week and we hope to win them both.

At our banquet we gave Mr. Johnston a trophy for good sportsmanship. Mr. Johnston told us it was his first one. We hate to see Mr. Johnston leave us. We all wish him the Merriest Christmas he's ever had.

Our Seventh and Eighth grades are looking forward to going to Davidson this year.

We want to congratulate Terrell Hall, Paul Barnes, Norvin Hillard, and Mason Traywick for receiving the highest football honors on our team this year. "Congratulations Boys."

This is the time of year all look forward to. Christmas to me is the most joyful time of the year that there is.

We hope that all our readers have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy, Happy New Year.

BABY COTTAGE

Hi Folks,
Here we are again with so much excitement going on we just don't know where to begin.

All you can hear around the Baby Cottage now is, "I love Santa, I love Santa."

Our house mothers took Larry Joyner and Patricia Mobley for a walk as they are the babies who don't go to kindergarten and got two small Christmas trees for our playrooms but we are going to have a big one in our living room for Santa Claus to fill up! On the same day we went to get the small Christmas trees Santa appeared on the housetop. Little Larry went around saying to the boys who were in from kindergarten looking up into their faces saying, "Santa on housetop, Santa on housetop." My how he does love to ride his rocking horse while the other boys are gone. He and Mrs. Nelson went walking the other morning and came back with this big rocking horse. He is one proud baby of that horse.

We are all looking forward to going Christmas shopping which (Continued On Page Three)

THE ROPE OF LOVE

The Indian language is not easily subject to translation, but the following, appearing in the Missionary Review of the World, is the Indian version of the 23rd Psalm. See how human the old Psalm becomes.

The Great Father above is a Shepherd Chief, and I am His, and with Him I want not. He throws out to me a rope, and the name of the rope is Love. He draws me, and He draws me, and He draws me to where the grass is green, and the water is not dangerous, and I eat and lie down satisfied.

Sometimes my heart is very weak, and falls down, but He lifts it up again, and draws me into a good road. His name is wonderful. Sometimes it may be very soon, it may be longer, it may be a long, long time, He will draw me into a place between mountains. It is dark there, but I will not draw back; I will not be afraid, for it is in there between these mountains that the Shepherd Chief will meet me, and the hunger I have felt in my heart all through this life will be satisfied. Sometimes He makes the Love rope a whip, but afterwards He gives me a staff that I may lean on.

He spreads a table before me with all kinds of food. He puts His hand upon my head, and all "tired" is gone. My cup he fills it till it runs over.

What I will tell you is true, I lie not. These roads that are away ahead will stay with me through this life; and afterward I will go to live in the Big Teepee, and sit down with the Shepherd Chief forever. — Along The Way.

we are planning to go next week. It will be lots of fun and we hope to see Santa.

Three of us boys and four of our girls made a trip all the way down to Mooresville to a Circle meeting in November. We really did enjoy being there. And thanks a lot for the fruit and scissors you gave the girls and we have just cut dolls, houses and everything imaginable. You should come up and see us sometime.

The Monday before Thanksgiving three boys and five girls made a trip all the way to Salisbury. We all sang songs and Pat Ross and Margaret Ramsey recited thirty questions of the Catechism and little Peggy Hinnant gave us a song about a wren.

Our Christmas party will beat them all given by the little girls December 14. Miss Richard was successful in planning a little program last year so she thought she would give another try this year. We little girls are so thrilled that we can't wait for our own party because we invited thirty five guests.

We are all waiting for that big morning December 25. We wish you could come to both parties but since you can't all come we wish you a Merry, Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

RUMPLE HALL

Greetings Folks,
Christmas is almost here and we can hardly wait until that day. The weather is getting colder and we are all hoping for a white Christmas.

We are going to Davidson Friday night and the boys there are going to give us a party. We are all excited about it and are very grateful to the Davidson boys for inviting us again this year. We always have such a wonderful time there.

We are going to have our gift tree in the dining room on the night of the 21st, then we are going to the church to see a Christmas program entitled "The Shepherds Story".

Christmas presents are coming in every day now. We get out of school Friday week for our Christmas holidays.

We all got new dresses from the sewing room and they are very pretty. We can hardly wait to wear them.

Basketball season has started and we have played three games so far. After the holidays some of us hope to be on the Junior team.

Due to illness at home, our regular dining room matron, Mrs.

Mitchell has been away from us for several weeks. We are all looking forward to having her back with us again. Helen Morgan, our big girl, is dining room matron while she is away.
Well so long until next time and Merry Christmas.

This team played eight games as follows: Barium 27, Conover 0; Barium 27, O'Donoghue 6; Barium 39, Statesville 13; Barium 26, Mt. Airy 0; Barium 0, Mt. Airy 20; Barium 27, Charlotte Day School 0; Barium 31, Newton-Conover 6; Barium 36, Charlotte Optimists Junior 0.

The varsity letters were presented by Mr. J. B. Johnston and those receiving the letters are as follows: Bobby Whiting, Charles Stevens, Johnny Hudgins, Mason Traywick, J. Terry, Terrell Hall, Jimmy Williams, Mack Berryhill, Cecil Burleson, Paul Dellinger, Paul Barnes, Norvin Hillard, Buddy Maples, John Bullard, Donald Mitchell, Ray Clark.

One of the interesting things in connection with the awarding of letters to the varsity is the announcement of the various honors. These are by vote of the players on the team. Those elected this year are: Captain, Paul Barnes; Best Blocker, Terrell Hall; Best Tackler, Mason Traywick; Most Valuable, Norvin Hillard. The record for the varsity is games won 6. Lost 3. Tied 1.

At the conclusion of the banquet the football team gathered around the head table and presented a trophy to the retiring superintendent. This trophy is a beautiful thing. The presentation speech was made by Mason Traywick and the acceptance speech, of course, by Mr. J. B. Johnston. This was a complete surprise and his remarks were "from the top of his mind but from the bottom of his heart." One of the remarks made during the presentation of the letters was that the reason Mr. Johnston had remained at Barium so many years was that he would see a little boy on the 85-pound team showing so much talent that he could not make up his mind to leave Barium until he saw that boy playing on the varsity, and the process is still going on.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JANUARY 1956

FAREWELL PARTY for Mr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston shows group of children crowding around them after the dinner in their honor.

The Last Fifty

By
JOS. B. JOHNSTON

Several years ago I wrote a book and called it "The First Twenty." It was an account of the first twenty years of athletics at Barium Springs. This article which I am writing today is an account of the unusual things that have taken place during the last fifty days of my stay here as superintendent of the Orphanage at Barium Springs.

This fifty days embraces a period of time that is full of many pleasant things that are on the regular schedule of events: the football banquet where we get together and gloat over our victories, excuse our defeats, and brag on each other and just have a genuine good time. That is always a highlight in the year's schedule of events. Then there is the Davidson party where so many of our young people go and have the time of their lives. Then there is the "Give To" Christmas Tree that somehow just puts us in the right spirit for Christmas. Then there is the party that Mr. Bob Stowe throws every year for more and more of the Children at Barium. And then there are the numberless events of Christmas week to recount all of which would mean that this article would have to be broken down into individual experiences. There is the spending of Mr. Johnston Irwin's gift which he always sends for the newest newcomers at Barium. Then there is the health clinic that always takes place the first week in January.

Now, you would not ordinarily think that a health clinic would be a social event, and yet it is with us. The children are always so delighted to come back and to see how they check up; the doctors get a great deal of pleasure out of seeing the growth and development of the children whom they recognize from year to year, and the members of the staff at Barium are always interested in seeing the result of their efforts toward better health for the big family.

The things I want to write about today, however, are the things that have happened to me and my little white-haired lady during the last fifty days that we lived in the big house. To begin with back in November the Auxiliary at Barium gave a special party for Mrs. Johnston. It turned out to be a sort of a shower as well as a farewell party, and the gifts they gave to Mrs. Johnston made her feel and look like a bride, and made me resolve that the first trip which we made of any length after my retirement would be a second honeymoon.

THANK YOU!

The members of the staff and the children would like to thank each person that had a part in making our Christmas such a happy one. We wish it was possible to thank each one personally and to tell you how very much we appreciated what you did. We do try to acknowledge each package that comes in but often things are mailed from stores or other places and do not have the name of the sender or have no label at all. Many times a number of packages are sent in one large package with only the child's name on it. Many packages are brought here and handled by a number of different people, or taken to the cottage with the child's name and we do not know the individual or organization. Please accept this as a grateful thanks from each of us to each of you.

The next unusual event happened at the football banquet. Ordinarily, the awards and the trophies go to the players, sometimes to the coach. This time to my amazement and delight the boys presented me with a trophy, claiming that I was a good sportsman and all that. I had never looked on myself as being a good sportsman. I have always gotten such a thrill out of athletic contests, especially those in which Barium participated, that I have sometimes wondered (and I am sure my friends have wondered too) if my helping to build up athletics at Barium was from a purely selfish motive - I just wanted to enjoy it myself. Well, however that may be, one thing is certain - I will enjoy the possession of that trophy and the thought of the kindness of the boys who presented it to me all my days.

The next event was a supper party given to Mrs. Johnston and Television Set Given to Mr. and Mrs. Johnston by Alumni Association

The Barium Alumni Association met at the Barium Springs High School building on December 20th for a picnic supper with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston as honored guests. The purpose of this meeting was to present Mr. Johnston with a television set as a token of appreciation for all he had done for them.

Arthur Roach, president of the Alumni Association, called the meeting to order and asked several people to get chapters organized in their area. Cheek Freeman was asked to organize the Charlotte area and Louise Martin Carson the Winston-Salem area. The meeting was short because a delightful picnic supper was spread on the tables before them and everyone was hungry.

After the meal Arthur Roach called for attention and asked Mr. and Mrs. Johnston to come up before the group. Roach made a short speech thanking Mr. Johnston and his faithful helper, Mrs. Johnston, for all they had done for the alumni, and then the television set was uncovered. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were asked to pose for several pictures and Mr. Johnston made a short speech. He spoke of how he had planned to get a two-bed car and travel, but since he had received a trophy at the football banquet and now the television set, he would have to get a place to sit down and watch them.

There were present thirty-eight alumni with their families, making around sixty present. The alumni present were: Joe B. Gibbs, Ed Flowers, Lafayette Donaldson, Herman Clark, Roscoe Smith, Ralph Spencer, Bobby Spencer, Donny Bolton, Paul Horne, Amos Hardy, Wallace Twombly, Nelson Farmer, Ann Fayssoux Johnston

In Lieu of Music

By
JOS. B. JOHNSTON

Do you remember the kind of weather we had in this part of North Carolina on the night of Sunday, December 18th? Just to refresh your memory, it was a drizzly, foggy, depressing sort of a night, a dangerous night to travel in heavy traffic and the traffic is always heavy on Sunday night.

Well on that day Mrs. Johnston, Brother Elliott and I went to Charlotte. In the morning we enjoyed the services at the Myers Park Presbyterian Church, heard a wonderful sermon by Dr. Jones, spent a delightful afternoon with relatives, and then started in a leisurely way to get to Davidson in time for their Christmas musical program. Those who have heard this program know that it is worth traveling miles to hear. We left Charlotte about 6:30 P. M. We were listening to Christmas music over the car radio and at peace with the world, and then just before we got out of Charlotte our radio stopped working. We did not think too much about it, assuming that there was some trouble at the broadcasting station, but after going a few blocks and passing the old Ford plant, our lights went out and the engine began to miss and then we really became alarmed. There is no filling station along there and with traffic solid both ways it gives a driver a mighty bad feeling to have a skipping engine and no lights.

In our desperation we looked around for a place to head in where we might try to find help. On the left of the road we saw what had been a filling station. There were lights in it but not under the shed. We could dimly make out a car and a man there, so we maneuvered our car around and edged into that place. We found that there

THE LURE OF THE UNKNOWN

"Not as though I had already attained . . ." Philippians 3:12.

I would like to be an explorer. So would you. So would we all. For there is a great deal of curiosity in each one of us. We want to know what lies outside our experience, we want to know what fascinating thing may be down the road a piece, in the next county, the next state. And while we may like it well enough where we are, still we wonder what it is like elsewhere.

For that is the lure of the unknown. And as long as we live, I suppose that we shall be just like that, wondering about the things we've never seen, wondering of the people we've never met, wondering about the experiences we have never known. For the unknown is thrilling and endlessly fascinating to us all.

It was in part at least the lure of the unknown that sent Columbus out across thousands of miles of uncharted seas toward the new world that they did not know existed. And yet they went, braving storms and winds, in ships so small and unseaworthy that we today would hardly want to venture out into a lake in such ships. And for them perhaps the thrill of discovery, of seeing new places and new people far outweighed the danger. It is such a spirit that has always pushed on the explorer, Magellan, Cortes, Ponce de Leon, Cabot, Peary, Amundsen, Byrd, and a host of others.

It is that same lure of the unknown that has prompted the discovery of countless new drugs to overcome sickness, that has led men to the invention of all the amazing machines that improve and often threaten the world. The development of new more powerful telescopes has pushed back millions and millions of miles into the heavens the limit of what man has seen. And the lure of the unknown has brought discoveries of atoms and electrons, the smallest things known to man.

And in all this exploration the things that are unknown seem more and more limited. Of course it would be foolish to say that in a few years all the unknown will be explored, but we can't help wondering if we aren't approaching the limit of our minds. But in it all, there is still a great unknown we have never explored. It is time, tomorrow, and all the tomorrows that remain as ever. We have the past, we have the present, but tomorrow is ever stretching out before us in the compelling lure of the unknown.

So let us think of tomorrow for awhile, the New Year, all the days and years that stretch out before us. Some of us have stood beside the shores of the Catawba River out at camp and watched that river flow on under the bridge and out of sight. Perhaps as we watch it we think of where it is going, past Long Island, to the south under the bridge at Mt. Holly, on into South Carolina, past Lancaster and Great Falls, beyond Camden into Lake Marion and Lake Moultrie, on through the Swamps past historic Charleston and at last by Ft. Sumter and on into the Atlantic Ocean. Yes, we stop and think of where it goes, but the river never stops its headlong rush to the sea. And so we think for a little while now about time, about the future, but the river of our lives rushes on. On past yesterday, with its joys and sorrows, on past today with its opportunities, on into the unknown tomorrow and the New Year.

But what of this unknown, this thing called time that lies before us? For the young the river of life seems to flow so slowly as we reach out toward every new day. For those who are older it seems to flow more swiftly and sometimes we would wish to hold it back. Yet for us all it has its lure and its thrill and its endless fascination. For one of life's great unknowns is the future.

I. The lure of unknown excitement and adventure may lead to sin.

were two men working on a car and they very courteously asked us what they could do for us. They said they did not know much about cars, but they would try to find out what the trouble was. They worked in the drizzle for nearly an hour trying to find out the trouble but they could not locate it. They tinkered with this and they tinkered with that and it did not improve things a bit. They decided to push us off to see if the engine would run. There was not enough current in the battery to turn the engine over. Well, they got their car out and pushed us off and, incidentally, tore up their bumper, but this did not seem to upset them. The car did not do any better, so I got in their car, went up to a filling station to inquire about a place to get the car fixed. We located a garage clear on the other side of town.

These two men stuck with me and guided me there riding in that unreliable car through the heaviest of the Charlotte traffic. We arrived at this all-night garage (Keith's) and the man there soon located the trouble and fixed it.

I think the presence of my two congenial friends whose names I had just learned had a lot to do with the very nominal charge which the garage man made for the repairs. Then everything was all right.

We went back, filled up with gas and arrived at the home of these two men. It had been three hours exactly from the time that we pulled in there and now we were ready to travel. The men would not accept any pay for their work and the attention they had given us. They had given up an entire Sunday evening to help an unknown wayfarer. They did not find out who we were until they had worked for nearly two hours on the car.

While we were doing all this Mrs. Johnston went into the home. She found the wives of the men there - one was visiting the other. There were six children from nine years down, eagerly anticipating Christmas. Strange to say, Mrs. Johnston had not noticed the passing of the time and was really reluctant to leave the household when we were ready to move. We said good-bye and started out in the drizzle again for Barium but somehow everything seemed different. We had counted on hearing that wonderful music at Davidson, and yet we were not a bit disappointed over our failure to get there. The experience we had had with these two helpful young men somehow beat any musical program or any other entertainment that you could imagine. We felt better. The night, in spite of its drizzle and fog, was filled with

If these good men had known that we were from Barium Springs we might have called it just another evidence of the Barium luck which is another name for the special care that providence seems to have over the people of this place, but these men did not know who we were at first. They were just willing to help an unknown wayfarer in trouble.

In case you want to know, the name of one of the men is Black. He has a wife and four children. He is a sander. The other man's name is Duncan. He has a wife and two children and he is a plumber and we laugh about plumbers charging overtime. I know whoever they work for get an honest day's job - they are that sort of folks. They live near the foot of the hill just beyond the old Ford plant in what used to be a filling station and they make a mighty good neighborhood of that particular spot. Would you swap a comfortable seat in an auditorium listening to heavenly music for a seat in a broken down car on a drizzly night in heavy traffic? No, you would not, ordinarily, but we did and liked it.

myself by the Barium boys who are now students at Davidson. They dated us up and an the night selected they took us to the Chat 'n Nibble - a most delightful eating place on the Mocksville road and there entertained us. They had a private dining-room - it was decorated with Davidson colors and pennants - the table was beautifully decorated and the food was delightful, and the social time that followed was even more delightful. The management of the eating place was so cooperative that they not only served us an extra fine meal, but they saved the scraps of the chicken for Mrs. Johnston to take home for the cat, and that is tops in hospitality.

We had not had time to get over the thrill of this particular supper when we received another invitation, this time from the Barium Alumni to meet with them in the High School Building for a picnic supper. We thought this was just a gathering of a few of the nearby alumni, but when we arrived at this supper we found old Barium boys and girls from far and wide, two from Southport, one from Burlington, one from Chapel Hill, and just loads from Winston-Salem, Charlotte and other nearby places. Arthur Roach of the Class of '41 presided and did it most gracefully. About an hour was spent in just a big bull session and then Roach called the meeting to order and unveiled a present for us - imagine our amazement and delight to see what that present was - a fine television set. Not just a little cheap affair, but a real cabinet with all sorts of radio both AM and FM, with a record player and a big television screen.

Now, just to let you in on a secret, we had never seen a television set - we had stayed away from it, just like we have stayed away from the game of golf, feeling that we could not afford it and that we had best not expose ourselves to the temptation of wanting one. This particular television set was hooked up and a demonstration was put on right there in the school building. It thrilled the second generation so much (that is the little boys and girls who had accompanied their parents to this meeting) that it reminded you of the way chickens swarm around you at feeding time - they got the first and closest view of the present. Mrs. Johnston and I were overwhelmed - we had not expected anything like that and we the thought of the love and kindness of these former boys and girls who are still members of our family.

Finally, there was a big supper in the dining-room in which everybody participated. Nothing extra was prepared in the way of food - it was just a regular supper but present there were all the workers at Barium, no matter where they lived. The boys and girls who go to our school but are not members of the Orphanage family, the teachers, and every employee, no matter how humble their job may have been. Mrs. Johnston and I were the honor guests. This was the first big meal in Rumble Hall in nearly twenty-eight years which I had not had anything to do with the arrangement. It gave me a very queer feeling to stand out in the lobby waiting for the bell to ring for us to go in the dining room without my running in to see if the arrangements were alright. Well, Mr. Sides presided at this particular supper, and nothing unusual happened until we had eaten our ice cream and cake, and then the Glee Club sang some beautiful numbers. One was my favorite and I have asked for it so many times that the members of the Glee Club smile when I make the request - "I wonder as I wander" and Frances Stricklin sings the solo part. When you hear her and see her in this you can forget that she is a good basketball player too.

After this the colored help took over - some fifteen men and women. They sang two numbers and no choir anywhere could have done better. We have heard the Fiske Jubilee Singers many times over the radio and at one time saw them. They could not beat our band of volunteers who sang apparently without rehearsal. I do not believe there was a dry eye in the whole dining-room: I would not know about this, however, as I was afraid to look around for fear too many tears might come into my own eyes.

After the singing Mr. Arrowood took over and presented me with a bound volume of letters from practically everybody at Barium Springs even down to the little children in the Baby Cottage. The letters were to Mrs. Johnston and me. Some of them were love letters. They addressed us by many names. Some called us "Mom and Pop;" some, "Mr. Joe;" some, "Mr. and Mrs. J. B." Of course, we did not read those letters then but we sat up pretty late that night reading them, and there is this danger about them: if we believed half the nice things that were said about us we would be incurably conceited.

I do not know where we will travel or what we will do or how much baggage we will take along, but that book of letters will go wherever we go. It will be used as a tonic to cure homesickness, loneliness, or any of the ills that might affect us in the years to come. We love every one who has a letter in that book and every one who was in that dining-room when the presentation was made. There were some letters that we especially prize from the "scrub" orphans. Maybe you do not know what a scrub orphan is. Well, they are the children of the people who work at Barium or who attend our schools. Sometimes they are neglected and in our zeal to do for the orphanage family it is possible for them to be forgotten. They gave themselves the name "scrub orphans" and it started in another institution, not this one.

After the presentation of the book Mr. Sides then took over again and presented us with a traveling bag. He assured us that there was no significance attached to the bag and we are glad that he made that statement because it might appear that with all the fine things said and written about us at this meeting that there was a possibility of our changing our minds and just not leaving at all.

With the bag in our hands we could not very well reverse our position. After this two more selections were sung by the Glee Club and the meeting adjourned, but it did not break up. It seemed that every child and every grown up wanted to have a personal word with us, maybe it was a boy or girl who had been here so long that they did not remember any other home, or maybe it was a lad who had only been here a few weeks - they all seemed eager to let us know that they loved us and hated to see us go.

This article is written the day after this all happened, and we feel now that we could not stand another such fifty days - not that we would not enjoy it, but our emotions might give way. We have not mentioned the daily occurrence of some special things - a dinner at the Lowrances, another at the Arrowoods, the special courtesies and attention which we have received at the Infirmary since we have been living there, the eagerness with which we are invited to visit the various cottages, and the pleasure we have gotten from these visits. All in all, even if it were possible for us to forget all of our other experiences at Barium Springs, the memory of the last fifty days would suffice to give us pleasant thoughts for the rest of our lives.

This is the last article I will write as editor of The Messenger but I hope to send in articles from time to time telling of our travels and experiences. We will be away in our bodies but our hearts will still be at Barium.

We do not know who instigated and arranged these various parties, but whoever it was did a perfect job and it gave Mrs. Johnston and me delightful memories to carry with us always. Very few people have our good fortune.

Message of the Month

It is a very common feeling that life is quickly passing us by. Often we think that our lives are dull and drab and commonplace. We yearn for adventure, something to quicken our emotions, and cause us to feel that at last we are really living. And so it is easy to become dissatisfied with what we have and wish so often for the forbidden fruits of pleasure and adventurous living. For some it seems that the only answer is at last to find that what we have is better after all.

One man learned that lesson very young. The life down on the farm was certainly not a very exciting one. There were jobs to do and responsibilities that were the same day after day. The garden had to be cultivated, the vineyard required constant care, the flocks and herds had to be watched so that they would not stray. And through all the days the scenery was the same and the people were the same. And to the young man it all added up to one thing, he was completely bored with life.

Sometimes as he went about his duties, a traveler would stop for a moment to chat. And as he talked of great cities, and forbidden pleasures, the young man's eyes would glow as he lived in his imagination those experiences. At last nothing would do but that he must go and see for himself this wonderfully thrilling outside world. So he went. It took a little while, but at last there came the day when he knew how empty and how sinful such a life really was. And he knew that he would give anything for the simple unexciting life down on the farm. He had learned a costly lesson. Jesus called him the prodigal son.

Let his lesson be our first thought just now. There are things in life better left always to the unknown. And so may we refuse to let the lure of unknown excitement and adventure lead us into sin.

II. Adventuring into the unknown alone may lead to destruction.

The truth of that was proved vividly back in 1925. A man named Floyd Collins had a very interesting and very dangerous hobby. It was to explore parts of caves where no one had ever been before. For years his hobby proved interesting even fascinating as he would push further back into a cave and come upon some beautiful cranny that human eyes had never seen. But one day as he was exploring a narrow passage he carelessly shoved a rock that was jutting out from the wall of the cave. It fell and in falling pinned his legs to the ground. He died there, a victim of his hobby of exploring. For he had violated one of the laws of exploration - never go alone!

Now you and I are exploring, we are exploring a New Year. But we shall make a grave mistake if we enter it alone. There are too many temptations and too many dangers for us to go alone into that unknown. For we have an all-powerful friend who loves us dearly and who wishes to go into that unknown with us. That friend is God.

III. There are certainties even in the unknown future.

One of the fascinating things about the unknown and one of its lures is the fact that we can never be sure what we will find. That is especially true of the New Year and all the future. None of us knows exactly what it shall bring. We have our hopes and our dreams and we live always expecting that they shall come true. But whether they do or not, there are always things that are certain and sure. The first is God Himself.

Whether life brings success or failure, joy or tears, friends or enemies, God's promise stands as the one thing that we may rest on. "Be strong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee nor forsake thee." God is speaking unto us through Jesus Christ, and Christ is the same yesterday, today, and forever. May we remember that as we enter into the unknown, that God will be there too, unchanged and unchanging, the God who loves us.

The other certainty is you. God created you with an ever lasting soul. And that soul that makes you the person you are is going to live on and on into eternity. God has even granted that you can say what that future will be. He has given you the choice between life with Him and life without Him. "See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil, the blessing and the curse; therefore choose life, to love the Lord thy God, to obey His voice and to cleave unto Him, for He is thy life, and the length of thy days." Will you make life with God a certainty as you venture into the unknown of the future.

IV. The lure of the unknown shows dissatisfaction with the present.

Does that sound strange? perhaps it does, since a little while ago we said that sometimes we need to learn to be satisfied with what we have. But we are thinking now of the sort of spirit Paul had when he said, "Not as though I had already attained . . ." He was straining toward the future, toward a day when he would be a better person, when he would know his Saviour better, when he would know all the blessedness of living completely for Jesus. And Paul was in a hurry for that day to dawn. It was the sort of spirit the shepherds had when they went "in haste" to Jerusalem to bow before the Saviour.

I need more of that haste toward being what Christ wants me to be. So do you, so do we all. More of that reaching forth unto a better way of life that Christ promises us. We should be dissatisfied with ourselves. We should reach out to attain that way of life.

There was a man once who dreamed that he was in a meeting of evil spirits. Satan was calling for volunteers to go into the world and ruin men's souls. One said that he would convince men that there was no heaven. Another said that he would convince men that there was no hell. But Satan wasn't satisfied with that. Until one spirit came forth with an idea that Satan thought was best of all. And he was sent forth immediately into the world. What was this spirit's magic formula that so pleased Satan? It was this - the spirit said, "I will tell them not to hurry."

And I think that Satan and all his evil spirits have long been doing just that. Telling us not to hurry, telling us that there is all the time in the world to give our hearts completely to Jesus Christ. Don't believe it. Remember that God tells us that "now is the accepted time." Now is the time to get dissatisfied with our service of Christ, now is the time to resolve on the threshold of this New Year that we will rest all our hopes in God. Now is the time to start venturing into the unknown with God as our leader and our guide.

"Not as though I had already attained . . . but this one thing, do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Reception At The Woman's Building Honoring the New Superintendent and Family

Surely some explanation ought to be given the readers about the picture that has been appearing in the papers and the one that appears in this issue of The Messenger. Well, the Women of the Church are to blame for it. You can always count on them to do the thing up in grand style, and that is what they did here. The Women of the Church thought that the Barium family ought to have an opportunity to meet the McClure family and so they made the arrangements. The living-room of the Woman's Building was decorated almost as if for a wedding reception with candles, flowers, and punch bowls. The ladies were dressed up as pretty as pictures, and then they invited the superintendent and his family in and lined them up. Beginning at 6:30 that Saturday evening the little folk from the Baby Cottage started coming by and the superintendent and his family had the privilege of shaking hands with them. After they were served their refreshments they moved out, making room for another group to come, and so on they came from the Baby Cottage, Annie Louise, Howard, Synod, Lees, Jennie Gilmer, the boys in the Quads and the young women in the Woman's Building. The adults on the campus and the members of the Church in general ended the procession. It was indeed a grand occasion.

Reasons Given For the Recent Mild Weather

Boiler Breakdown And the Weather Man Work Hand In Hand At Barium

You may be wondering why the weather has been so warm for the last few weeks - the explanation can be found down at Barium Springs.

On Sunday afternoon, January 22nd, the supervisor of buildings and grounds discovered that the main boiler in the furnace room was leaking. We went into action to get this repaired. The men came early Monday morning and began their work to rolling tubes in the boiler to get heat right away. This was completed and the water was turned on again about noon on Monday, and then instead of having a slow leak we had a shower bath. The tubes were twenty years old and the rolling made bad matters worse. It meant that a complete set of 86 tubes had to be put in. The small auxiliary furnace is insufficient to carry the load and it is not in good standing with the insurance company, so fast action was necessary to get heat back on the campus before it got too cold.

The next several days were spent trying to locate the 18-foot tubes and have them installed so that we might have hot water for the laundry, for bathing, and for heating purposes. That is all finished now and we are ready to go again, and you may look for cold weather to come just any time now that the Lord has taken care of Barium Springs with this warm spell during the boiler-breakdown.

RUBINOFF GIVES CONCERT AT BARIUM SPRINGS

Sunday, February 5th, was a red-letter day on the campus at Barium Springs for it was on that day that Rubinoff, the world-renowned violinist, came to our campus to give the children a concert. Arriving at four o'clock in the afternoon, he found the church auditorium filled with children and adults to hear him. For nearly forty minutes he thrilled the entire audience with the beauty of his music and with his interesting conversation between the musical numbers. He was at once the great artist and again the warm, lovable personality as he talked to the boys and girls in an informal way from the platform. His words of wisdom and counsel concerning the necessity for education and religion on the part of the children and the great advantages that they have here in America certainly turned their thoughts to seriousness. The melodies from the Stradivarius, about which he told us, thrilled our hearts as we saw what one man could do through the inspiration given him, plus long years of practice and hard work.

This grand occasion was made possible by our friends in Statesville. Mr. James Meacham had called to ask if we would like to have the concert and Mr. Hugh Mitchell and Mr. L. Gordon came with Mr. Rubinoff to the campus, so we are indebted to these our friends, the Lions Club of Statesville, and to Mr. Dave Rubinoff for a beautiful and lovely concert afforded the children here.

After the concert was over the photographer was making a few shots as Mr. Rubinoff came out of the church and there was a mad scramble on the part of all standing nearby to get in the picture.

Newcomers At Barium

Since the last issue of The Messenger we have had three persons to arrive at Barium to take up residence with us - two boys and one girl. Joey Vecchio and Randy Shaw came to us from Fayetteville and Virginia LaFon came from Laurel Fork in John Luke's territory. Joey is four years old and lives at the Baby Cottage while Randy is nine years old and lives in Lees Cottage. Virginia is ten years old, is in the fifth grade, and lives in Howard Cottage.

These three new members of our family are very much at home and we feel like they have been here all the time.

Alumni News

A number of Alumni have been at Barium recently, among them were J. D. Everett, student at State College, Sadie Buie, student at Queens College, Dewie Buie and Mildred Monroe, students at Flora Macdonald College, Herbert Good and Jerry Young, students at A. S. T. C., Boone.

Betty Lou Hooten and Roland Hooten from Alameda, California made a short visit to Barium. Toni DeLancey and George Landrum came the same time. When Betty Lou and Roland returned, Toni went back to California with them where she has taken a job.

Mrs. Thrower, (Ida Bailey) of Robbins, N. C. made a short visit to Barium.

Illness Fatal To Mrs. John Mack Walker

Was Former Member of the Board of Regents of Presbyterian Orphans' Home

Mrs. John Mack Walker, Sr., wife of Dr. J. M. Walker, the former pastor of Steele Creek Presbyterian Church, was stricken in her home at Montreat on Tuesday, February 7th. Suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage she was removed from her home to the hospital in Asheville where she died on Wednesday night at 10:30. The funeral service was conducted in Watts Chapel on the Union Theological Seminary campus in Richmond and the body was laid to rest in the family plot in Richmond.

Mrs. Walker, a daughter of the manse, was born in York, South Carolina, while her father, Reverend T. R. English, was pastor of the church there. Her whole life was to be spent in the same environment for she married a minister and spent long years of service in the manse as a daughter and as a wife and mother.

Upon Dr. Walker's retirement from the pastorate they moved to Montreat and have been living there until the time of her death. Mrs. Walker was for 8 years a member of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home at Barium Springs, serving as chairman of the case work committee, doing a most effective

MESSAGE OF THE MONTH

BY REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

GOD'S ANSWER FOR EXCUSES

"And Moses said unto God, Who am I that I should go . . . ? And He said, Certainly I shall be with thee . . ."

The life of a shepherd might seem exciting. The constant adventure of exploring new scenes and new places as he leads his flock to find water and pasture. The ever-present danger of wild animals lurking near by, watching, waiting with endless patience for one of the flock to wander away from the safety of the shepherd's care. The brief savage struggle to protect the flock. The possibility always of robbers in human form hiding behind the next hill or in yonder clump of bushes. Adventure, danger, excitement - the thrilling life of a shepherd.

But not this shepherd this man called Moses - this roughly dressed, weather-beaten man, already with the lines of age and outdoor life seaming his face. Not adventure, but the monotonous sameness of day after day leading the flock alone. No one to talk to, no one to see, just the sheep and goats for company. And not even for him the pride of ownership, of knowing that these were his, for he was tending the flocks of his father-in-law, Jethro. For weeks and months and years it had been the same. For all he knew it might be that this would be his life for years yet to come.

Across the dry dusty wastes of the deserts he came, silently, except for the occasional bleating of the sheep or the harsher cry of the goats. At last the desert with its clumps of prickly shrubs was behind. He began to climb, as a mountain range loomed up ahead. At least the monotony of the desert was past, now as he climbed, he could look back toward the burning haze where he had been, and ahead to the lofty peaks tumbling upon each other. At last he saw what he had been searching for, a green grassy slope where the flock could rest and graze.

And now he could rest, his body perhaps, but not his mind. For perhaps he was thinking of the years gone by, for the past had been thrilling and romantic. Maybe he was thinking of coming forty years before as a fugitive fleeing out of Egypt. And he thought of the palace, and his life there, and the brilliant prospects he had. But all that had seemingly been thrown away; his education, his own natural gifts were buried in the monotonous existence of a shepherd. Because of a moment's act that had grown out of his anger at seeing his people mistreated, he had come to this. And perhaps for all he knew this would be his life, this life of a shepherd.

But as he sat there, his head bowed in thought, suddenly out of the corner of his eye he saw a fire flame up. He turned and looked at a bush that had without any apparent reason begun to burn brightly. "But then," he thought, "strange things happen sometime in the empty wilderness." But as he looked, expecting the fire to burn out in a moment, the bush burned on and on. Curiosity overcame him, he must see the reason why this bush could burn with a searing flame and yet never burn up. And the voice of God cried out his name, "Moses, Moses." Fearfully, trembling, Moses heard that voice saying, "I will send thee that thou mayest bring forth my people out of Egypt." A clear unmistakable call from God, a task to do, a service to perform.

Now you and I expect no strange and compelling call. But if we are honest with ourselves, we may expect that perhaps today or tomorrow or in the coming years we too shall know without any doubt that God asks us for service. It may be that for some of us God will ask that we devote all our time to him, for others that God will require part time work in the church and Sunday School, for all He will ask and expect love and loyalty to Him in every thing that we do. Usually we will begin to make excuses as Moses did, but let us see just how God answers our excuses.

I. Inferiority

God's words were hardly spoken before Moses blurted out his first excuse, "Why, who am I that I should go?" And no doubt he was thinking, "I'm just a shepherd, I've been buried here out of touch with the world for forty years, I'm not qualified for this great task. Long ago I tried to do something for my people and had to flee as a criminal and a fugitive. Why, who am I to try again? I simply can't do it." But then very simply, God gave the answer to this objection, the only answer really, as he said, "Certainly I shall be with thee."

Even today when God calls us, something like this comes to our minds, the feeling that we are inferior, that we are not able to do the noble work of God. In a way I suppose we should feel that. Certainly we should be humble and know our limitations. But to us God makes that same answer. No, you can't go alone, by yourself you would not be able to do the things I ask, but remember, "I shall be with you."

II. Ignorance

Moses realized that in God's eyes his first excuse was a weak and paltry thing. But he continued, "When I say unto the people that the God of your fathers hath sent me, they shall say, 'What is his name, and what shall I say unto them?'" And he was thinking that as far as he knew the people might in forty years have drifted far away from God. How would he be able to convince them of God's nature. And God answered, "Say unto them that I AM hath sent you." Say that the God who is eternal, the never changing God, the God of every need and problem, the personal God has sent you.

The excuse of ignorance is not a good excuse. Not for Moses, not for you and me. For that same living and loving God has shown himself to us in Jesus Christ His only Son. Do you wonder whether you know enough about God to tell someone else of Him? You know that God loves you, that God has sent His Son to die for you, that through faith in Him you shall live and never die. Do you know that? Then you know the important thing, and with God's help and your efforts, you shall come to know Him better. For God never calls those who think they have nothing more to learn. He calls those who want to learn more of Him.

III. Impossibility

Well, Moses' first two excuses had not worked. So he decided to change his tactics a bit. Instead of talking about himself, he would talk about the people to whom he was to go. "Behold, they will not believe me," he cried out. And now he seemed to be thinking not so much about the cruel tyrant Pharaoh as he was about the people. You see he knew those people, and he had reason to believe that they would be hard to convince. After all he remembered their angry question, forty years before, "Who made thee a prince and a judge over us?" No, the people would not be easy to make believe. But God was ready as ever to overcome that doubt, as he provided Moses with the magic rod that could become a serpent. Certainly this should prove that he was no ordinary man.

Now we aren't given any magical powers in these days to prove that God is behind us, but we are supplied with the power of God to convince people. The excuse is still being made - these are ungodly times, peoples' hearts are hardened, it is impossible to show them the truth of God. Don't let those excuses impair your witness for Him. Remember and rely upon God's presence and power. Certainly we need more of the spirit of the Korean Christian who was asked concerning his church work, 'Can you do it?' about men's work, but not about God's work."

IV. Inability

Moses, seeing that his excuses were getting him nowhere, put forth what he thought was the clincher. "I am not eloquent," he said, "for I am slow of speech and of a slow tongue." And yet there was probably more to it than just an excuse. Moses had lived in the palace, he had gone in and out of the king's courts. He knew how necessary it was to speak quickly and well in those surroundings. He knew too that this work that God would have him to do would lead him inevitably to that court. God understood that too, but he also had the answer. It was simply for Aaron, Moses brother, to go with him and speak for him.

How often is that same excuse used to avoid service of God today. But remember this, there are places to fill that do not require a glib tongue, and ways and ways to show God's love for all people. You can witness for him in whatever you do, and a life of love and service of God is far more important than the most eloquent sermon that was ever preached.

V. Indifference

The last excuse of Moses could hardly be called an excuse. In fact there is some doubt as to what he meant. For he said, "O Lord, send, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou wilt send." He must have meant, send whomever thou wilt. Since you are determined to send me, even if I would rather not do it, and don't feel able to do it, then I will go if I must. There certainly isn't much enthusiasm in that! But he may well have meant something else. You remember that Isaiah said, "Here am I, send me." Moses may have been meaning to say, "Here am I, send somebody else." Whatever he meant, it was an answer of indifference, and God was angered by it and urged him again to accept the challenge.

I am afraid that God is sometimes angered by our indifference. We know these excuses well, we use most of them from time to time. We see work in the church that needs to be done and must be done, and we say, "I'll do it if no one else will, but if you possibly can, God send someone else." May God forgive us that our own indifference often far exceeds that of Moses.

The story of the shepherd who did not want to serve does not end in indifference but it is a very human one. A story that need not have happened thousands of years ago and far across the world. For it can and often does happen here and now. There is the lesson to be learned that excuses in that day or this are not of value in the sight of God. But the truth of most value is that Moses at last went bravely forward to the work with the glad assurance that God went with him.

He undertook that work slowly and almost unwillingly. But he never turned back, for he was a man chosen of God, and he knew it. And God never failed him; He was always adequate in every need. There were difficulties, but there was also God to guide and help.

You will not remember these excuses- inferiority, ignorance, impossibility, inability, indifference. I do not expect that you will remember the story of Moses, and his God who would not accept excuses. For his God is your God. He calls and will call on you each one for service. Accept it willingly and gladly, rest on God through His Son, your Saviour. May your prayer and mine be:

"May thy rich grace impart strength to my fainting heart, my zeal inspire;

As thou hast died for me, O may my love to thee,

Pure, warm, and changeless be, a living fire."

Illness Fatal To Mrs.

piece of work for the church through her services to the Home. Working together with the case worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, many long days and nights were spent in services of the children of the Home. Perhaps no other person who has been a member of the Board of Regents has done any more distinguished work than did Mrs. Walker.

For six decades this lovely lady of the manse lived and served her God and has now gone to be with Him and to receive her reward. All the family at Barium Springs express thanksgiving to God for the beauty and nobility of her life and pray that someone will be raised up to carry on her noble work here in this world.

Leadership

In every field of human endeavor, he that is first must perpetually live in the white light of publicity. Whether the leadership be vested in a man or in a manufactured product, emulation and envy are at work.

In art, in literature, in music, in industry, the reward and the punishment are always the same. The reward is widespread recognition; the punishment, fierce denial and detraction. When a man's work becomes a standard for the whole world, it also becomes a target for the shafts of the envious few. If his work be merely mediocre, he will be left severely alone—if he achieve a masterpiece, it will set a million tongues awagging.

Whatever you write, or paint, or play, or sing, or build, no one will strive to surpass or slander you, unless your work be stamped with the seal of genius. Long, long after a great work or a good work has been done, those who are disappointed or envious continue to cry out that it cannot be done. Spiteful little voices in the domain of art were raised against our own Whistler as a mountebank, long after the big world had acclaimed him its greatest artistic genius.

Multitudes flocked to Bayreuth to worship at the musical shrine of Wagner, while the little group of those whom he had dethroned and displaced argued angrily that he was no musician at all. The little world continued to protest that Fulton could never build a steamboat, while the big world flocked to the river banks to see his boat steam by.

There is nothing new in this. It is as old as the world and as old as the human passions—envy, fear, greed, ambition, and the desire to surpass. And it all avails nothing. If the leader truly leads, he remains the leader. Master-poet, master-painter, master-workman, each in his turn is assailed, and each holds his laurels through the ages. That which is good or great makes itself known, no matter how loud the clamor of denial. That which deserved to live—lives.

Never before has the American dollar had such good-byeing power.

First The Beam

This is a true story: At a Washington, D. C., parent-teacher association meeting, there was a discussion of the character education experiment which is being carried out in the schools of the nation's capital. A father from one of the Government offices spoke against the plan thus: "What they need to do is teach the children common honesty. I bring home pencils from the office for the children to take to school. I don't care, because the pencils don't cost me anything, but my boy no sooner lays a pencil on the desk until someone comes along and steals it from him. Just let the schools teach common honesty and we won't need character education."

—Journal of Education.

A lad from Brooklyn turned up in a mess line in a Texas camp holding the rattles from a rattle snake.

"Where'd you get 'em?" a K. P. asked.

"Off a big woom," answered the big city soldier.

First Little Girl: "Has your sister begun takin' music lessons yet?"

Second Little Girl: "She's takin' something on the piano, but I can't tell yet whether it's music or typewritin'."

A small boy sat in the gallery and watched the preacher read a carefully written sermon. One page after another was laid aside until 30 or 40 of them had been piled up to the left. The youngster had watched the pile to the right decrease.

When, therefore, the last leaf was carefully laid to the left, the minister lifted his face and said, "And so my brethren, on this wonderful theme I could go on and on and on."

It was too much for the impatient little boy, and so he shouted, "No, you couldn't. You are out of stuff and you know it."

"You say you have no distant relatives?"

"Well, not right now. They are all living with us."

Barium victory.

The Barium boys pulled up their percentage to .500 with a 46-35 win over North Wilkesboro on February 13th. Our boys' team is a new bunch this year, since most of last year's team was lost by graduation. Our boys' team is playing good ball now, and with a reasonable amount of luck should end the season with a .500 average. The Barium boys pulled one of the biggest upsets of the season by defeating the high-powered Thomasville team by the score of 60-52. It was one of those nights when every attempt we made for the basket seemed to find the mark. It will be remembered as one of the highlights of the season for the boys' team.

The results of the twelve games played so far in the South Piedmont Conference are as follows:

- GIRLS
- Barium 61, Lexington 39.
 - Barium 61, Spencer 24.

We have a new boy to come to live with us. His name is Joey, we are so glad to have him. It will not be long before we will loose several brothers and sisters as they will be going out to go to school.

Vacations will soon be coming up, also the swimming pool will open. We always have so much to look forward to we never have a dull moment.

Well, we will have to stop here. Wishing you all the very best luck and a pleasant Valentine.

RUMPLE HALL

Hi There,

Since you last heard from us we've got a new superintendent he is very nice and we like him very much. He has four children and we enjoy playing with them. The oldest girl is in the seventh grade, we sure enjoy her being in the grade with us. The baby is very cute and she is 21 months old.

We had a wedding up here last Saturday, Helen Vinson and Rosco Smith, it sure was beautiful. They went on their honeymoon right after the wedding and are coming back this Saturday.

We have had a nice Valentin today. We had a party in school and we sure do thank Miss Stevenso for it. The babies made some cut little Valentines in kindergarten they wanted them to go on the tables in the dining room. Ever one sure enjoyed them.

The last picture show we saw was "Ride Them Cowboy" and we hope to go again soon.

The varsity basketball tournament starts today and will last through Monday.

We played Lexington last night and our girls won and our boys lost.

We got our report cards about two weeks ago. We had about 50 to make the honor roll.

So long until next month.

WOMANS' BUILDING

Big There, Basketball! Basketball! Basketball! Almost all of our time is spent playing, seeing or hearing about basketball. Our varsity has only four games left. "Let's see you put them in the bag, "Big Teams."

The exciting event has rolled around again, that which we all enjoy. The Mid-Piedmont Tournament. Here's to you folks, may the best team win.

Although Mr. and Mrs. McClure and family have been here a little over a month, we can truthfully say, we think they are wonderful. We know as time passes we will like them even more.

The Seniors are really putting "Ammons' Studio" into business, we will let you see what we mean in a month or two.

LEES

Hi Folks,
Here we are with the news again. Three boys over at Lees recited the Child's Catechism. They are Walter Plyler, Lawton Rice and Sydney Morrison. Miss Ford went off and Ray Clark stayed with us for a week-end. Ray played with us a lot.

A lot of the boys got Valentines from their mothers. We went to a lot of basketball games. We are going to play Lexington Tuesday.

Lawton Rice is back from the hospital and feeling fine. He had an operation.

I guess it is time to close now. See you all next time. By now.

SYNODS

Hello Friends,
You didn't hear from us last month but that won't happen again. With Valentine Day coming Tuesday we are very busy with bits of paper, lace, hearts, etc. Mr. Ralph Spencer, our Sunday School teacher, had a party for us with all the trimmings. We had a wonderful time.

Last Sunday the famous violinist, Dave Rubinoff, came down and played for us. It was different from anything we had ever heard before. He told us the story of the music and we appreciated it much more that way.

We have been to the movies several times this month. After seeing Sands of Iwo Jima, most of us plan to be marines.

Helen Vinson, who used to live in our house and be our substitute matron, was married last Saturday night to Roscoe Smith.

Mrs. Hough has gone to Myrtle Beach this week-end and Miss Taylor is our matron.

You'll be hearing from us again next month.

— The Synods Boys

HOWARD

Hi Folks,
We haven't written the cottage news since Christmas, so its time we caught up.

We received many nice gifts for Christmas. Circle Number 5 from Mooresville gave us a Philco radio and record player combination. We love to listen to "Lets Pretend" on Saturdays and some other programs.

Circle Number 2 from Morganton gave us $5.00 to buy records and we have just about everything we want now.

The Women of the Church at West End gave each of us $1.00. With that money added to what we already had, it made just enough for Marie McNeill, Bernice Kuykendall, Virginia Baucom, and Addie McEwen to buy raincoats; Alma Wright a pretty green corduroy jacket, and others housecoats, kerchiefs, and other things we wanted.

Our friend, Mr. Stowe from Belmont, came up the night before Christmas and brought his movie projector and showed us some Christmas films. Also he brought us skates and lots of toys, fruits, nuts, and candy.

Virginia Lafon of Laurel Springs has come to be with us. She makes us a complete family. She is ten years old and is in the fifth grade. We are very fond of her and hope she likes being with us.

Dave Rudinoff came to Barium Sunday to play his violin. Among the pieces he played were "Clara De Lune," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," "Peasant Dance," and "Fiddling the Fiddle," a piece he wrote. Besides the songs he told us many interesting things about his life.

Look for us next month.

— The Bean Stringers

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
We didn't get any news about our cottage in the paper last month, but we little girls had a wonderful Christmas and Santa was very good to us.

Recently we have had the pleasure of attending three very good movies, Miss Grant Takes Richmond, "The Challenge to Lassie", and "Holiday Affair". We especially like "The Challenge to Lassie", since all of us like dogs so much.

The basketball games are in full blast now, and though all of us are not interested in basketball at the present, we older ones get a big kick out of watching the games. We always look forward to the Statesville games, because our matron is from Statesville and having two big sisters who are also very interested in basketball, she really gets "kided" about who she is going to yell for. What a house we do live in when Barium gets beat! We can hardly step our foot in the house when Barium does get beat.

Two of our little girls at our house had the chicken pox. They had "specks" all over them; but they have recovered now, and are as healthy as they ever were.

It has been said that the robin is the first sign of spring. Here at Barium we have had very little cold weather; and the flowers are coming out all over the campus. We have been down in the woods a number of times this month to plant flowers so that the play woods will look as pretty as the rest of the campus.

Our report cards have come out for the third time this year, and five of our little girls made the honor roll. We surely are happy because they made it, but we hope a lot more of us will get on next month.

It's very hard to tell exactly what children are thinking about. However, the other day one of our big sisters had an interesting experience with little Virginia Dare Lane. At lunch Virginia and Clara were talking, and Virginia said; "Clara, did you like what you got for Christmas?" Before Clara could answer, Virginia began naming out all the things she had received for Christmas. Before Clara could hardly catch her breath, Virginia asked, "Clara, do you have any money to take to camp? I do, I have five pennies!" All of us who were at the table began laughing, but little Virginia turned "red," and laughed too. Here is hoping she will slow down until we catch up.

A lot of our friends have been to see us, and we are always glad to see them.

We surely hope you all will be with us again next month. Until then.

Father - Son Banquet

Scoutmaster" - Edgar Guest, read by Dr. Wallace S. Hoffman.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Charles W. Brown, head of the Charlotte office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

After praising the Boy Scout movement and putting it along with the Sunday School as a prevention of crime and juvenile delinquency, Mr. Brown told the boys something about finger printing, saying that there were 113,000,000 sets on file in Washington, divided into the Civil Identification File and the Criminal File of which there was from eight to nine million.

The boys were also thrilled with Mr. Brown's account of the numerous bank robberies which occurred soon after he took charge of the Charlotte office and that all the robbers had been arrested.

The question in the minds of the boys as to how one got to be a member of the F. B. I. Mr. Brown answered that by saying that a man had to be a college graduate with a degree in law or accounting. He has to be a member of the bar or a certified public accountant. After examination and investigation he receives further training at Quantico, Va. That after he joins the F. B. I. he is still continually in training.

Plates were set for over three hundred and all enjoyed the fellowship and the inspiring program.

The Background

Mr. and Mrs. Arrowood met the guests at the door and Mr. and Mrs. Sides greeted them as they entered the living-room where Miss Rebekah Carpenter introduced them to the superintendent and he in turn sent them down the line. Mrs. Lowrance and Mrs. Kyles were at the punch table and Miss Mary Ann Schepman was at the piano.

I tell you it is hard to beat these Women of the Church when they get their heads set to do something. Just like those in Valdese who planned a lovely evening for us as we were leaving there, so the women here gave this fine reception for us as we began our life at Barium.

O yes, they arranged further for the photographer to be present and the flashlight bulbs were popping. And then later toward the end of the evening they held kangaroo court, or that which was similar to it. They turned the sofa out from the wall and seated the McClure children on it and placed Mrs. McClure and the old man back of it and gathered around to watch that which was about to happen. Mr. Ralph Spencer, the photographer, got out in front and everybody else at Barium, it seemed to me, gathered around and had suggestions to make about the type of pose to assume and the expression to get on your face. Some wanted a three-quarter grin and some wanted one of full length, others suggested that we use the push-button style. We squinted and twisted and posed and straightened and unstraightened until finally the bulb flashed and the results of this appeared in the papers. We thought you would like a different pose, so that is why we use a different one in this paper.

So that, dear folk and gentle readers, is the background of the picture that has been appearing in other papers, and we are doing as has been the custom since the Garden of Eden, blaming it on the women.

Railroad Station Takes A Trip

A landmark as familiar as the railroad station has been to every one who has been to Barium Springs must not pass without some due recognition. The railroad company no longer has need for a depot or freight station at Barium and they have, therefore, ordered the building be razed. Through the efforts of the former superintendent, Joseph B. Johnston, this building was secured for Barium Springs, but it is necessary to remove it from the railroad property. Within a few weeks the moving crews with their trucks, jacks and rollers will be putting the skids under the railroad station, removing it from its regular site. No longer to stand in the dignified place of a railroad station and serve the public, this building takes up its new service on the campus as an auxiliary building.

No passenger or freight service will be inconvenienced by this removal, for that had long since ceased to be a part of the railroad service to this community. For many years the railroad station has been used as a post office building. Through an agreement with the company the postmaster received and dispatched the mail from there, but now it will be necessary to provide other quarters for the housing of the post office.

Many of the former students at Barium will cherish the fond memories of approaching the campus from the Mooresville direction and seeing always there this little gray building with its funny-shaped roof, noting that Barium Springs was near at hand. In the earlier days it was quite an occasion to see the train come through and stop at the railroad station. As one alumnus of the institution has said, "It used to be the highlight of the day to go down to the depot and see the train come in and leave again." Life in those days was not as rapid as it is now and there were no buses and automobiles to give easy transportation in and out from Barium.

The orders of the railroad company are that the building shall be removed and the grounds shall be made clean and satisfactory to those supervising the moving. And so, for those who come and go through this area, there will be no remains to remind one that once there stood a building which held an important place in the life of (Continued On Page Three)

In the dining hall we proudly display the many tokens of our athletic prowess. There, too, hang plaques honoring those who have achieved in other fields of endeavor.

Recently added to this group is - not another trophy, not another plaque, but - the picture of that one to whom must be given much of the credit for any worthwhile achievement of ours, - Mr. Joseph B. Johnston. In this hall he ate with us often, laughed with us, held us spell-bound with interest, or awe, as he talked to us on Sunday mornings.

We don't need a reminder of him, but, especially during these intervals when he is not here in person, it's good to have this speaking likeness.

Barium Girls Win Basketball Crown

On Friday night, March 3rd, the Barium Sextette met the girls team from Albemarle in what was the game of the season, for only that game stood between them and the championship. Albemarle had been beaten only one time and that by the Barium Springs team at Albemarle, and now face to face it was either championship or Co-championship. The teams took the court and went into heavy action immediately. Through the excellent work of the guards the forwards from Albemarle were held to a low score and through the magnificent work of the forwards of Barium the score for the home team was rolled high with Frances Stricklin scoring over 50 points, the final outcome was 76-39 in favor of Barium, and this gave Barium a clean sheet for the season's campaign. They had won 16 straights, losing none.

The competition in the South Piedmont Conference has been strong, and the following schedule with the scores given will show the games played.

Senior Girls Make Sewing Machines Hum

Nothing could be nicer than a pretty new dress unless it is 75 pretty new dresses, and that is just what the senior girls, under the capable direction of Mrs. J. E. Smith and Miss Louise Campbell, have made in the sewing room during the month of February. The little girls' eyes danced with glee as each pointed out her new dress hanging on the wall. The whole wall of the sewing room was a riot of color with the new dresses of yellow, blue, pink, lavender, and green, checks and plaids, stripes and floral designs. These dresses had been made from pique, Indian Head, prints and gaberdines. The question arose as to how they made so many of them so pretty and all so different and how the patterns were chosen. The director of the sewing room explained that when a child needs a dress she comes to the sewing room and takes the catalogs and magazines and looks through them until she finds the particular style that she likes. So for many hours they sit around the table with Siegel's, Sears, McCall's, and Simplicity, studying the different children's clothes until they have decided upon the pattern they want to use. When this pattern has been chosen then the child has a (Continued On Page Three)

"Anyies, Backums, and No-fudgin'"

All across the campus can be heard the cries of anyies, backings, vencha roundance, dubs, and thribs.

As the springtime comes, the small boy's mind turns to thoughts of marbles and pockets are bulging and jangling with marbles as the boys go up and down the walks. Dr. Joseph S. Hiatt, superintendent of the Chatham Memorial Hospital in Elkin, has been kind enough year after year to send marbles to the boys. The other day we received a shipment of 2,000. These have been turned over to the children and they are making use of them on the campus. At almost every bare spot there is a circle drawn for the game. The housemothers know very well that the marble season is on because the knees of the pants give evidence of having been used for something other than prayer; and more than that, they give evidence of knees going through. But that is a part of a boy's life, and it makes for a happy life. It is good to have the marbles: it is good to have the boys, and it is good to have them together, so let the marble cries ring out.

CHURCH & CAMPUS

BY REV. CHARLES H. SIDES

Should the reader be somewhat amazed at discovering this title in a column usually reserved for a sermon, his amazement might be justified. So perhaps a word of explanation is due. We have felt that it might be well from time to time in this section of the Messenger to give our readers a little further insight into some of the activities connected with Little Joe's Church.

Instead of the sermon this month we will report to you on the Boy Scout Troop jointly sponsored by the church and the home here. We have a troop now consisting of twenty-four boys varying in ages from eleven to seventeen, and made up of boys from Jennie Gilmer Cottage and the Quads. The weekly troop meeting is held on Thursday evening at 7:00 o'clock. In that group are boys who have just entered scouting and are trying to pass their Tenderfoot requirements so that they may be full-fledged scouts, and others who are advancing to higher and higher ranks. Two boys, Carl Spicer and Franklin Lentz, are ready to become Star Scouts with only the Life rank then standing between them and the highly-coveted Eagle rank. It has been several years since Barium had an Eagle Scout and we are counting on these boys and others a little behind them to reach that final goal.

There are of course advantages and disadvantages to attempting a scouting program at Barium. The boys are all nearby and there is no problem of transportation to the weekly meetings. But the outsider would hardly realize how fully the time is occupied here, so that the main problem becomes finding a time when the boys and the Scoutmaster can get together for the weekly meetings. And when the Scoutmaster is also the pastor, as is true here, available time for such a meeting is further limited. The summer is vacation time, of course, and participation in Scout Camps is hardly possible. However, with these drawbacks, our Scout Troop remains strong and the boys are giving it a very active interest.

Since the boys often feel, and rightly so, that Scouting should give more outdoor experience, the Scoutmaster suggested recently a track and athletic meet to be held on successive Saturdays. It was eagerly accepted by all the Scouts, and last Saturday the first events were run off. As we have boys ranging in weight from around eighty to one hundred fifty pounds it was decided to divide into two weight groups and give a prize to the winner in each group along with a prize to the winning patrol. Fifteen events were scheduled including broad jump, high jump, dashes, runs, push-ups, baseball and football throws, rope climb, Scout Pace, and others.

The boys under one hundred pounds took part in the running broad jump, the standing broad jump, the running high jump, and the standing high jump last Saturday. Now the winning records won't push any world records, of course, but for boys around five feet tall or under they were very good. Marvin Garis almost sprouted wings to jump twelve feet and six inches to win that event by almost two feet over his nearest competitor. The other three events were won by David Thomas as he proved himself a good little track performer in the standing broad jump, the running high jump, and the standing high jump. You just should have seen the competition in the high jump. Form didn't enter in too much as the boys used every style to get over that cross bar. And Johnny Collins thrilled the crowd every time diving over the bar and landing, it looked like, on the point of his chin.

It will take several more Saturdays to complete this meet for both weight groups and perhaps in another Messenger we can report the final results. It has been a number of years since Barium had a track team, but from the looks of some of these boys we could have a team, and a cracking good one, in a few years.

Campus News

WOMANS' BUILDING

We are so excited, we have to tell you the news of our girls winning the South Piedmont Conference first.

Friday night we played our last game and won 76-39. Our eyes and minds are now turned toward the tournament being held at Statesville's new gym. "Here's wishing you the best of luck, Big Teams."

We hear Mr. and Mrs. Johnston are going to be here during the Jr. Tournament starting the fifteenth. We can't wait until the time rolls around to see Pop Johnston again. We are inviting you to come and see him too.

We would like to take this time to thank the Barium Alumni for the grand picture they gave us of Mr. Johnston to put in our dining room, where we may see it every day three times a day. "Thanks again."

Don't think you are coming near a grave yard, when you come near the white posts being put up to keep the cars off the grass, so we can improve the looks of our campus grounds. Lets all help and see what we can do.

We will have to sign off and see you next month at the same time, same station, and also saying you are more than welcome to attend the Jr. Tournament, opening March 15, lasting for one week.

— See you then,
Marie Andrews

LEES

We have been enjoying the basketball games. We have the Junior Tournament next week and we will see some of the games.

Just now we are having fun playing marbles, so if you pass by and see us around a circle that is what we are playing. Ferrell sure can win a lot of your marbles.

Ten of our boys have recited the Childs Catechism and some of the others are trying hard to recite it.

We have been trying to keep the campus clean, the March winds keep the paper flying.

We got our report cards the other day and most of us did better this time.

We have been working in our flowers, we have had flowers blooming all winter. The pansies are blooming now.

We are enjoying the stories in the Christian Observer. One of our friends in Mooresville gave it to us Christmas.

We all like Mr. McClure and his family.

Will let you hear from us next month.

— Lees boys

BABY COTTAGE

Well, Well here comes Baby Cottage, here comes Baby Cottage, right down Baby Cottage lane into the Infirmary with those right mean old things they call old bumps meaning chicken pox, it is chicken pox period, one to three a day going down with them.

All but eleven out of 21 in the Baby Cottage is down there now. What makes it so bad is they had begun taking out tonsils and that will have to stop now.

One little boy made this statement to his house mother when he came back from a check up. She asked him why he did not come back with Miss Carpenter and with a great big sigh said, "Well I had not been doctored enough," so perhaps they will get doctored enough before this plague is over. We hope so.

Well we don't have any news only we all keep busy playing.

We have a new substitute matron, Miss Winnie Furgerson, and we like her so much. Just wish she would stay all the time.

We hope we will get to go to a show next week as we have not been but one time since Christmas.

We sure hope to see Gene Autry if he comes to Statesville. We listen to him over the radio and love to dress up in our suits and play. We would be glad if he would come to see us.

We have had to play indoors so much lately because it has been so cold. We will be glad when summer time comes and our flower garden gets in full bloom. Our Johnquills have been very pretty and our housemothers have bought lots of rose bushes and we hope they will all bloom this year.

We are looking forward to Easter, we have such a big time.

I guess we will have to stop so we'll say so long. We will be seeing you.

— Baby Cottage

QUADS

Basketball season is almost over now. We have only one game to play and then the tournament. We are all hoping to win the tournament. We have our last game with Albemarle here.

Our girls have won all their games, the boys have won 8 and lost 7.

One of our boys had his appendix taken out about a week ago.

Week after next we are going to have a Junior varsity basketball tournament here. We are going to enter a tournament at Statesville next week. Good luck boys and girls.

We have a large portrait of Mr. Johnston in our dining room.

Last Sunday there was a big fire over in the woods, it almost got in our orchard.

The best of luck to all our readers until next time.

— Your ace reporter,
Fairley Morgan

HOWARD

We had fifteen girls to make the honor roll this time. They were Laura Jane Craig, Florrie Garis, Alma Wright, Evelyn Cox, Marie McNeill, Virginia Baucom, Virginia Lafon, Elizabeth Byrd, Jean Carol Harrison, Bernice Kuykendall, Shelby McEwen, Jewel McFarland, Remona Blake, Sylvia Wells, and Peggy Jean Sellers. We have worked hard the past six weeks and nearly every girl made a better grade than usual.

We went to the picture show and saw "Dear Wife." It sure was good.

Mrs. Smith and Miss Campbell are making us some pretty dresses at the sewing room. We are so pleased with them. Some of us are getting new wind breakers for springs.

Look for us next month.

— Howard Cottage Girls

ANNIE LOUISE

Although Valentine has come and gone, we here at A. L. C. are sure that "Cupid" is still flying around shooting people with his arrows. We had a wonderful Valentine's day at school as well as here at the cottage.

We would like to thank Mrs. Laura M. Young of High Point, for sending us those lovely cut-out Valentines.

Our report cards have come out once again, and about five or six of our little girls made the honor roll. Continue the good work girls and in the future all of us will be as proud of you then as we are now.

By the way! we have started work on our flower garden, and we surely hope that with all the work that goes into the making of it, we will have some beautiful flowers to show for our hard toil. Cross your fingers for us.

The big senior tournament that goes on up here at Barium is over with and all of us little girls are looking forward to the Junior tournament because we get to go to some of the afternoon games. Our two big sisters worked over at the tournaments this past time. Clara kept score and looked at all the "cute boys," while Bonnie worked in the refreshment stand and got "fatter" than she already is.

All of us little girls are proud of our varsity basketball teams, especially the girls. The girls won the South Piedmont Conference, winning all sixteen games. We just hope that they will do as well next year.

The sewing room has been awfully busy making us some pretty new dresses. We are saving one of our dresses for Easter. Maybe if the Easter Bunny sees us in one of our dresses he will leave more eggs for us to gather.

We have run short of news, so until next month, when things are popping over again, be good!

BARIUM GIRLS WIN

son on the hardwood courts for the Barium girls.

By the way, do you see the Church in the picture. Look again and in case you missed it let me point it out in this fashion, that while these young ladies spent only nine weeks winning the championship yet the Church spent 131 years of care in getting ready for this winning. Add together the total time that these girls have spent at Barium and you will arrive at the amazing figure of 131 years. Figuring a little further, you can see that these 131 years give 47,815 days of care. In other words, the Presbyterians of the Church have afforded 47,815 days of care for this championship. Those of us close at hand will see that it is worth it and worth every day that has been provided. The girls here in their joy over winning the championship will also remember the great host of folks who have had a share in it too.

Hats off to the champions, and to all those who have had a hand in it making these champions at Barium Springs.

Glee Club News

The Barium Glee Club is now busy getting ready for the "Annual Spring Tour." Actually, this "tour" consists of visits to a few of the nearby churches; usually for a short concert of sacred music given at the Sunday evening service.

If any pastor - or choir director is interested in having the Glee Club give a thirty minute program in the church on Sunday evening, or at some other time, please write Wm. A. Hethcox, Principal, or Mrs. Lee Spencer, music director. If it can be arranged the invitation will be accepted. Of course, the time from now until the close of school is short, and is a very busy time; so the number of invitations which can be accepted is limited. If you do invite the Glee Club, don't expect too much, as this is strictly an amateur group. A visit to your church, however, is a valuable experience for the members of the Glee Club, and it gives you a chance to meet and to know some of your children at Barium Springs.

Barium. All of those who have known the building and seen it in use will always remember arriving there by train or the leaving of Barium or sitting on the edge of the railroad station and watching the trains roll in and out. Time moves on and the railroad station moves on, and we assume that this is progress.

Then under the direction of Mrs. Smith and Miss Campbell the senior girls make the dress a reality. Mailing Information

On page three of this issue of the Messenger will be seen two blanks affording information on sending gifts to Barium Springs.

One is the memorial gift wherein in the memory of someone who has died a gift is sent to Barium Springs to be used in the building of a new church. Many people are using this blank already and they find it a great help in sending contributions to Barium for the church. Of Course, a contribution sent in without the blank and marked is credited to the church fund anyway, but the blank is used and printed in order to give something to fill out easily and also to remind the people that such an avenue is open to them as a means of remembering loved ones and friends.

The second blank will note that we have two persons who receive money and gifts or packages at Barium Springs. One of these is Miss Andrews and the other is Mr. Arrowood. So, in order to keep the blood pressure equally balanced in the finance department, it would be of some help to us if the blank could be used and the different items sent to the proper persons.

Now, if you are the kind of person who does not like to be regimented and does not care to use blanks or certificates or anything of the sort, then you are most cordially invited to send yours as you see fit. Just simply mark it Barium Springs and we will get it here and credit it to the proper person and proper source. But if you would like for Miss Andrews to be receiving some mail and Mr. Arrowood to be receiving some mail addressed to him, then you may fill out the blank and address your gifts to the proper person.

It would be a real help to the finance department to have the gifts properly marked and labeled and sent to the one who will eventually receive them and make recognition of the gifts. So, as we ask for help in this department, we also express appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation which prevails among all the Churches and express our gratitude for the gifts that come to the Home.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., APRIL 1950

NO. 6

Two Letters Tell the True Story

It is a wonderful thing to get mail and it is a thrilling thing to see the character of the persons who send the letters. Across the desk at Barium Springs come letters of every description, those from the big business firms, those from the Sunday Schools, those from the church treasurers, those from individuals, from children and from every source. The other morning the opener was run through the letter that gave evidence of having come from an elderly person. As the page unfolded it was clearly manifest that the hand which had written it was a bit shaky by reason of age and also that the spirit of the writer had lived long in the presence of Jesus Christ.

Because this letter set our heart on fire and because it is typical of so many, many letters that come to Barium Springs and because it manifests the true relationship of Christians in North Carolina to this Home, we print (with the permission of the writer) this letter in the Messenger with a portion of the reply.

"Dear Friends: I am sending you another comfort to the boys that sends me the Messenger. A few years ago I sent you one but I suspect that is worn out. This is not so fine, but it will keep you warm. I wanted to send it long ago, but

One To A Family To Those Desiring It

The purpose of the Barium Messenger is to send to every Presbyterian home in North Carolina the news of what the people of North Carolina are doing for boys and girls at Barium Springs, and to report the news of the campus. Our mailing list carries now somewhere between 25 and 30 thousand names. Some of these should be removed, some of these should have the addresses corrected, some of these are duplications and some homes receive more than one copy.

The editor and printer of The Messenger are very anxious to have every Presbyterian home receive a copy without charge, and also they are anxious for every other person who is interested in Barium Springs and who wishes to have a copy to have one. So if you read this column and know of anywhere you can help us correct our mailing list or add a new name to our mailing list, please drop a postal card to the Barium Messenger or to Barium Springs, or just address it anyway so it gets to Barium Springs, and we will see that your name goes on the mailing list and will send the Messenger to you.

The folk here would like very much to know what you think of the paper, and you are hereby invited to send in your criticism. If you have something on your chest and you want to get it off send it on over: we have enough troubles here so that a few more would not make a great deal of difference. So send us good suggestions or fuss at us, or do whatever you wish as long as you read the paper and keep us in your heart and prayers. So from editor and printer and all concerned at Barium Springs let

Presbyterian Ministers
Synod of North Carolina

Dear Brethren:

Ever since I came to Barium Springs on January 16th, I have wanted to write you a personal letter, but being a bit Scotch and having to watch the finances very closely, I have refrained from sending out individual letters and am using this issue of the Barium Messenger to send you a message.

I would like for you to know that when the committee of the Board of Regents came to me with the call to come to Barium that my soul suffered torture for days and nights that extended into weeks and months. When I met with the Board of Regents on October 25th and stood in that group to accept the call I said to them that I was convinced in my heart and soul that the Holy Spirit had led me to this place to be a servant of the Church in the name of Jesus Christ. I had then, and I have now, no illusions about the magnitude of the task and the terrific responsibility that rests upon the superintendent of this Home. I believe that this Home is cradled in the hearts and prayers of all the people of this Synod and I believe that my faith in the ministers and the officers and the members of the Presbyterian Church is more than well founded. I believe that you love this place and that this place will be provided for in whatever is necessary and good.

I should like to say to you that this place will be used for developing strong bodies, sound minds and pure hearts. It shall be our endeavor to provide the boys and girls of this Home with opportunity to become well-rounded citizens of the state and of the Kingdom of God.

We promise to use all that is sent here for the upkeep of this Home in such a way as to serve children and to bring glory to God. Barium Springs is the Synod of North Carolina in action, and we have the privilege of living with these boys and girls and representing the Church of Jesus Christ to them. I covet from you your earnest prayers on our behalf, and I extend to you a most cordial invitation to visit us, and to send us any suggestions that will be for the good of the Home.

Most sincerely,
ALBERT B. MCCLURE

Executive Committee Board of Regents Meet

The Executive Committee of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home met at Barium Springs on March 14th at ten o'clock.

The meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mr. J. A. Cannon, with the chairmen of the various sub-committees making up the membership present.

The business of the day was largely exploratory in setting forth policies and studying existing relationships. The biggest single transaction was that taken subsequent to the report of the committee on Buildings and Grounds. For more than a year this committee has been securing information and getting bids on the new boiler for the heating system. It was reported that the building itself would have to be enlarged and that the new boiler necessary for the campus would be one of 200 h. p. with a new stoker attachment. The Committee was authorized to let the contract for the enlarging of the building and the installation of the boiler. In connection with this it was also decided to make a study of the total steam line on the campus with a view to making new installations at the expansion joints, thus conserving steam and making more effective the carrying of steam to the back side of the campus.

The regular meeting of the Board of Regents will be held in May and at that time some special committees appointed to make studies will report to the Board.

Joseph B. Johnston Is "Assistant Surgeon"

The announcement has been made recently that Mr. Joseph B. Johnston, formerly superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home, will be associated with Dr. Davis in the work of Davis Hospital in Statesville, N. C. Mr. Johnston, acting as toastmaster at the annual basketball banquet at Barium Springs, announced in a facetious manner that he was the "assistant surgeon" at Davis Hospital and that anyone wishing an operation should just come on up and describe it and he would see that it was done or do it himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston are living in the Hospital Apartments on Cherry Street near the hospital. After spending about eight weeks in Florida and South Carolina visiting friends and relatives, drinking fruit juice and enjoying southern sunshine, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston returned to Charlotte in time to see some of the Junior Tournament at Barium Springs. They then took some of their household things out of storage at Barium and set up housekeeping in Statesville.

While the exact nature of Mr. Johnston's new position has not been revealed, it is generally understood that he will be associated with Dr. Davis in the business relationship of the hospital and in any other fashion that these two may deem wise. One thing that will certainly be a portion of Mr. Johnston's life, whether it is a part of his job or not, will be looking after the children from Barium Springs when they go to the Davis Hospital.

WOMANS' BUILDING

Hi there,
First lets wish every one a Happy Easter. Everyone is getting their new outfits ready, but lets not think this wonderful day is only a time to dress up in your Sunday best, but a great day we should all remember.

The Junior class is as busy as bees, getting every thing ready for the Junior-Senior banquet which will take place April 21.

We were very glad to have some of our friends from Thomasboro with us for supper and then our church worship Sunday, April 2. Come again folks.

Did I hear some one speaking of operations? Well two of we girls are just now recuperating from an appendectomy. Mae Hillard is already up and around as strong as ever, and Marie Andrews is following close behind.

Our basketball banquet was a grand occasion although we did not have the B sweaters to present to the Varsity girls who won the conference and tournament which consists of nineteen straight victories.

Louise Campbell was chosen most valuable, Lorene Hall captain, and Frances Stricklin allstate. "Congratulations girls."

We are glad to have Mrs. Williams and daughter visit us, here's hoping they enjoy staying here as much as we enjoy having them.

Well we will sign off until next month same time.

— Chief Editor, Marie Andrews

BABY COTTAGE

Well if our guess is right it is time again to let all our good friends know what we are doing here in the Baby Cottage so here we go.

First let us warn you all, if you should see lots of little ducklings trying to wade and paddle their way to and from the dining room, please don't get frightened, for it is only us children trying to wade through the mud puddles. We have to, as we don't have a cement walk.

We are happy to say we are all well from chicken pox, only two are out now with colds and sore throats.

Easter is almost here and we are working on baskets in Kindergarten and hope to have a big egg hunt.

We hope we get to see Gene Autry if he comes to Statesville,

Basketball Banquet
For Barium Teams

Our annual basketball banquet was held on Friday night, March 24th, at six o'clock with about 200 people in attendance. We had a good supper planned around steak and French fried potatoes, with a few invited guests to help keep the homefolks straight.

Mr. J. B. Johnston was in grand form and did the honors as the genial toastmaster. He reviewed basketball at Barium Springs for the past years and made some predictions about the future that were most enjoyable and quite inspiring.

The varsity girls voted Louise Campbell the most valuable member of the team and this honor was also won by Paul Barnes on the boys team. The following varsity girls were presented letters by Miss Rebekah Carpenter: Lorene Hall, Elsie Vest, Peggy Neel, Marie Andrews, Rae Powell, Carolyn Wicker, Frances Stricklin, Louise Campbell, Ann Wilcox.

The letters were presented to the varsity boys by Reverend C. H. Sides, as follows: Paul Barnes, Buddy Maples, Donald Mitchell, Terrell Hall, Mack Wicker, Fred Feimster, Bobby Whiting, Charles Stevens.

The following junior girls were presented letters by Mrs. Melba McLuen: Ruth Barkley, Helen Barnes, Helen Baucom, Hilda Donaldson, Jane Feimster, Pattie Inman, Gloria Williams, Jackie Porterfield, Margaret Hopkins, Jackie Kuykendall, Mae Hillard, Retha Bass, Edna McGhee, Florence Andrews, Carol Jean Andrews, Peggy Byrd, Delores Ramsey, Annie Ruth Church, Beth Jackins, Mary Jane Andrews.

and also go to his show.

We don't have any news to write. School will soon be out then vacations will start. Camp also will open up, and that long mountain trip in the bus taking our lunch with us and also getting those big red juicy water melons like we did last year. Yum, Yum, they were so good.

Our house mothers are working very hard digging grass, resetting plants, and planting seeds in our rainbow garden so we are hoping to have the prettiest garden ever this time.

Wishing every body a very Happy Easter, we are all saying so-long.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Everybody,

We had thirty five visitors from Thomasboro Presbyterian Church Sunday. The Pioneers showed them around the campus. After we got through showing them around we had supper in the dinning room. After supper we went to church and they had the program which we enjoyed very much. We hope they will come again soon. Now that Spring is in the air we are having many visitors.

The girls and boys are playing softball, house mothers and girls are working in their flowers gardens. Lovely Spring dresses in the sewing room. Robins and bluebirds everywhere, surely Spring is here.

The fourth grade gave a very interesting program last Friday, every one enjoyed it very much. The first grade will give their program next Friday. I'm sure we will enjoy it. We are looking forward to hearing their rhythm band could not get it started. I am not so young any more and some times I don't walk very good and have to wait for someone to take me to town. I don't think I will make any more. I enjoy your paper and I thank you. I belong to the Presbyterian Church at —, N. C. I do not get there very often. I like our minister very much. My husband don't like to drive much any more. He will soon be 77 years old. He drives to work but that is not far. I hope you will get this before the weather gets hot.

May the Lord bless and take care of you. With love to all."

"Dear Mrs. —: I have received your letter and I want to thank you for the comfort which you have made and sent to us. I have succeeded Mr. Johnston as the superintendent of the Home here at Barium Springs and one of the reasons why I came here was the fact that Barium is loved and prayed for and worked for by people all over the Synod of North Carolina. When I read your letter this morning my heart was strangely warmed as I thought about your love for Jesus Christ which caused you to do the lovely thing that you have done in making and sending comforts to this place. The work of your fingers, the thoughts of your mind, and the prayers of your heart help to strengthen and keep us in the work with and for children in the name of Jesus Christ.

Let me thank you for all of your love and prayers for us, and ask of you that, as your physical energy diminishes and you may be unable to continue some of the things you have been doing, you continue to remember us in prayer, and remember also that we love you for what you are doing for us and trust that we may be good stewards of all that is sent to us."

again which they have every year. Everyone enjoyed seeing Gene Autry in "Mule Train" last Saturday, most everyone went to see it.

We have enjoyed our winter gardens this winter. We have had sultana, begonias, African violets and geraniums in bloom all winter. Now we are ready to plant them on the outside.

—Shirley Ann Cannon.

Mid-Piedmont
Tournaments

The nineteenth Annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament was reeled off at Barium Springs from February 15th through the 20th. Forty-five teams from seven counties in the Piedmont section of North Carolina participated. Forty-three games were played during the five-day period and these were some of the best games played in the whole State during the year. We have fine basketball teams in this section and the best teams enter our tournament.

Union Grove and Cool Spring met in the finals in the girls division, with Cool Spring winning by 74-71. Scotts nosed out Celeste Henkel in an over-time game in the boys division by a three-point margin 36-33.

The following teams were represented in both girls' and boys' divisions: Matthews, Bain, Oakhurst, Thomasboro, Paw Creek, Berryhill, Long Creek, Huntersville, Cornelius, and Davidson from Mecklenburg County; Rock Springs from Lincoln County; Stanley from Gaston; Sherrills Ford and Oxford from Catawba; Hiddenite from Alexander; Landis from Rowan; Troutman, Celeste Henkel, Scotts, Union Grove, Harmony, Cool Spring, and Brawley from Iredell. Brawley was entered only in the girls' division.

Jo Ann Eller of Landis won the foul shooting contest by making 20 out of 25 attempts. Ted Garner was high for the boys with 24 out of 25. He missed number 13.

Long Creek won the trophy for having the best dressed girls' team.

We had good crowds during the week with over-flow crowds for the semi-finals and the finals. It would be nice to have an adequate gymnasium to take care of these events.

The Junior Mid-Piedmont

tire staff of the Davis Hospital have rendered service year after year to the children of the Home at Barium Springs. Now that Mr. Johnston is there on that staff, you may be sure that when a Barium child enters the hospital he will be one of the first ones in the room and will see that that child is looked after and cheered up while he is a patient.

WHAT CHRISTIANITY IS

An eminent clergyman once defined Christianity as follows:
In the home it is kindness.
In business it is honesty.
In society it is courtesy.
In work it is fairness.
Toward the unfortunate it is pity.
Toward the weak it is help.
Toward the wicked it is resistance.
Toward the strong it is trust.
Toward the penitent it is forgiveness.
Toward the fortunate it is congratulation.
Toward God it is reverence and love.

WORKERS' CONFERENCE HELD AT THORNWELL

The forty-fifth annual meeting of Southeastern Conference workers in children's institutions was held in Clinton, South Carolina on March 28th and 29th. Thornwell Orphanage was the host and provided lodging within the buildings on the campus.

The vice-president, Sam Ed. Bradley directed the Conference in the absence of the president, W. G. Mize.

Representatives from Barium were Miss Rebekah Carpenter, case worker, Mrs. Foy Gresham, house-mother, and Reverend A. B. McClure, the Superintendent.

Tournament was held one month later on March 14th through the 20th. Sixteen girls and sixteen boys teams played 46 games. The Junior Tournament has the double elimination feature and there is less pressure than is experienced during the varsity tournament. Twenty-four trophies are awarded which means that any team winning one game is entitled to a trophy. This has been a very popular tournament and we have more teams wishing to enter than we can accomodate each year.

The Mountain Orphanage won the title from Barium by winning the final game in the girls division by the score of 50-43. Statesville took top honors in the boys division by winning the final game with Barium 33-27.

The boys and girls who played in this tournament will be the varsity stars of future years and the good play shown recently by the juniors gives every indication that we will continue to have the same fine caliber of varsity basketball for years to come in this great Piedmont section of North Carolina.

Commencement Program To Be On May 21st and 22nd At Barium Springs

May 21st and 22nd will see the commencement exercises of Barium Springs for the graduating class of 1950. On Sunday morning Dr. Joseph M. Garrison, pastor of the Church of the Covenant in Greensboro, will preach the baccalaureate sermon. On Sunday afternoon Reverend Joseph B. Clower, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Morganton, will bring the vesper message to the young people of the Home. On Monday evening, the 22nd, the graduation exercises will take place. Professor Ernest Albert Beaty of Davidson College will address the graduating class and the awards will be made and the diplomas given.

One of the outstanding awards is the Ace Medal. One is given to a student and another to a non-student. All the members of the high school and all the adults of the Home cast a ballot to choose the outstanding member of the senior class to be the recipient of the Ace Medal award. Tabulation will be made and the result of the voting will not be announced until the award is made. The superintendent, upon the counsel of others of the Home, will select one member of the alumni who is to be the recipient of the non-student award. This will be someone who is outstanding in the field of service and will be brought to the campus for the purpose of receiving this Ace Medal.

Funeral Services For Miss Blakeney

Funeral services for Miss Edmonia Martin Blakeney who died Friday night, April 28th, at the Lowrance Hospital in Mooresville, were conducted on Sunday, April 30th, at the Providence Presbyterian Church of which she was a life-long member until moving her membership to Little Joe's Presbyterian Church at Barium Springs, N. C.

Dr. H. D. Haywood, pastor of the Providence Church, officiated at the service and was assisted by the pastor of Little Joe's Church, Reverend Charles H. Sides, Jr., and the superintendent of the Home, Reverend A. B. McClure.

For the last six years Miss Blakeney had been the teacher of the third grade at the Presbyterian Orphans' Home. She had lived in Annie Louise Cottage where the third - grade girls are living. Every child loved her and every adult on the campus felt the magnificence of her spirit and the nobility of her soul every time she came near. Miss Blakeney will be sorely missed and long remembered on the campus at Barium Springs. It is the prayer of the entire group here that a double portion of her spirit will be the mantle of whoever succeeds her in the work at Barium Springs.

Campus NewsANNIE LOUISE

Has spring fever gotten a hold of you yet? If some of us don't snap out of it pretty soon now, we aren't going to be able to get much done in our flower garden and so forth. Speaking of flower gardens, we've been digging our fingers to the bone trying to make a few buds appear on those lonesome looking stems. Maybe we'll get it done yet!

Have we told you lately about our most recent report cards? Well, folks, we're ready to tell you just how proud we are of them! Eight of us little girls got on the honor roll and one big sister. So many of us came so close to making the honor roll that we felt a little bit proud of ourselves. You can't expect too much from such small ones, but honestly we try. Next time, though, we're going to try a wee bit harder, and bring that eight up to at least sixteen.

Last month we didn't get to tell you what we did to celebrate Easter. Rest assured that we all twenty-six had a wonderful time trying to find some Easter eggs. One time we almost gave up completely. Those eggs looked almost the same color as the ground and leaves, and we just couldn't find a few of them. It took the ones who hid them to find them, and even they were at the point of giving up. But as luck would have it, not one single egg was lost. After we found all of them we sat down and ate as much as our tummies would hold without getting sick.

Several of our little girls have had the measles and "boy" they really were spotted. But most of them are well and are back with us, just as happy as ever.

School will be out in three weeks and we can hardly wait to get out for summer.

Next time you hear from us there will be lots to tell about our summer plans.

Until next month.

— The A. L. C. Girls

WOMANS BUILDING

The time has come when we would like to pass our current events on to you.

First we would like to say we certainly do appreciate the delicious turkeys which the government gave us. Every one seemed to be loosening their belts Sunday, wonder why?

Another one of our girls was operated on the other day. Here's hoping she will soon recover. "Best of luck, Hazel."

We are having quite a bit of sickness these days consisting of measles, chicken pox, and bad colds.

One of our teachers, Miss Blakeney, whom we all thought a great deal of, died Friday night in the Lowrance Hospital in Mooresville. She will long be remembered and may God be with her family and loved ones during this sad period of life.

was a great success. Dr. Skeen from Mooresville was our speaker and he told us six ways to become a failure. Other guests were there, but we will not call all of their names, we will only say we enjoyed having them. The food was more than delicious and the dance was wonderful.

The Virginia Hall Circle, Junior Senior girls and Miss Carpenter went to the skating rink in Mooresville and we can truly say we had a wonderful time.

We only have three more weeks of school, and I think every one looks as though they can hardly wait.

We are looking forward to having the Board of Regents meet with us on the ninth of this month. They are planning to stay a few days with us.

We will say so long until the same time next month.

Board of Regents In Spring Meeting

W. E. Price Elected Chairman For Coming Year

The Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home met in the regular Spring session at Barium Springs on Tuesday, May 9th, with the Chairman, J. A. Cannon of Concord presiding.

Through the reports of the various committees the work of the Home was summarized and plans were made for the coming year. The Finance and Budget Committee which had spent long hours the day and night preceding trying to fit the needs into the amount of money anticipated, finally concluded by reporting a budget of $236,838.00. It was explained that by simple arithmetic a budget could be deduced because the annual per capita cost is over $800.00 plus per child. Multiply that by the number of children in the Home for a year the budget can be easily arrived at.

Special work for the summer was laid out in the report of the Buildings & Grounds Committee wherein Annie Louise Cottage was to receive the most attention. The wiring is old and dangerous in this building, so it will be necessary to completely rewire the whole building, to plaster and paint, and to generally improve so that the twenty-five little girls and their house mothers may be more comfortably and safely housed.

Other general repairs and upkeep were planned.

The Committee in charge of buildings and grounds also reported that the new boiler was in and ready for installation, thus affording the Home ample heating capacity for the entire campus. This heating system had been repaired and improved at the cost of approximately $35,000.00.

Upon report of the Nominating Committee, W. E. Price of Charlotte was elected Chairman of the Board for the coming year and Mrs. H. S. Kirk of Winston-Salem was elected Secretary. A unanimous vote of appreciation for the excellent work of Mr. Cannon and Mrs. Coit Robinson, chairman and secretary respectively, was taken and words of appreciation spoken as these two retired from the Board.

Definite plans for the church and the Activities Building were approved and the work is under way. The church will be built by the memorial contributions from the people throughout the Sate and Southland. The Activities Building will necessarily come from the capital funds. A subsequent issue of the Messenger will carry full information concerning the plans for the development on the campus, and a separate story in this will give the financial picture for the year 1949-50.

THE MESSENGER TAKES A VACATION

Owing to the fact that many of the staff and children will be away during the month of July, there will be no issue of The Messenger in the month of July. All money copy that would ordinarily be in that issue will be held over and run in the August number.

Campus News

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,

Here we are again, giving you our little bit of gossip and news from the little bit of cottage that we have left. What! No cottage? Well, not exactly: We're just getting our house done over in fine fashion, and in so doing, we're having to move out. Luckily, though there is an apartment adjoining our house where we - yes, all sixteen of us, our housemother and two big sisters are living during the "reconstruction". (We picked this word up from one of the big sisters.)

Oh, happy day! Swimming has begun, and we are planning on going in real soon. We have been watching with eager eyes to see just when the big sisters were going to bring out the swim suits, and finally they have. (Yippee!)

Many a sore toe or foot has been "painted" since we've started going barefooted. Every once in a while someone comes running up to the housemother or a big sister to tell them they just got stung, or they stumped their toe, or some other similar summer accident.

Printer Kyles Appreciates Cards

Since the last copy of The Messenger cards and letters have come in from all over the State and from out of the State, too, bringing us information as to enable us to correct addresses and stop duplications where two papers have been going to the homes. Many of them have contained interesting items and many of them have contained facts about the mailing list which have enabled us to clear it up in spots at least.

Mr. Kyles has expressed his appreciation for the kindness that have been afforded us in sending in corrections and for the patience that has been manifested on the part of those who have been receiving incorrect mail or have been unable to receive the paper because of an incorrect mailing list.

Keep up the good work and any time there is an error in the mailing list please notify us at Barium. Any time there is a change of address let us have it here, and in that way we will be able to keep the many thousands of names in order and keep the papers going directly to the place for which they have been printed.

and the familiar reply we would like to quote for you: "Well, it's your foot, you can stomp it or get stung if you want to." Unquote. But then there's a sympathetic smile, and someone fetches the alcohol and "war paint."

Our school is finally out, as it (Continued On Page Two)

Mr. Jos. B. Johnston Honored by Davidson

Was Given Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws

The Superintendent Emeritus, Mr. Jos. B. Johnston was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by his Alma Mater, Davidson College at the recent commencement.

His citation spoke of the fact that he had been a loyal Alumnus and Trustee of Davidson; that for many years he was superintendent of Presbyterian Orphans' Home. That he had done a great deal to foster clean athletics and give young people an ideal of good sportsmanship; and that he was known and loved by hundreds of young people who looked on him as their father. Surely this is an honor well bestowed.

SPIRIT OF CHRIST

By Rev. R. S. Arrowood

Rom. 8:9 If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his.

Here is a simple statement of essential Christianity in words that are beautifully clear. There is a lot more to Christian faith than this; there are many preparatory steps of experience and faith before one may come to this point. Paul has been leading up with them through more than seven chapters of this tremendous epistle when he comes out with this searching sentence. This epitome of Christian experience, if any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his. That is if he does not have the spirit of Christ he does not belong to Christ.

Here the first great interpreter of Christianity has given us a simple test of what it means to be a Christian, a simple test of how we may know we, or anyone else, is not a Christian. This is so simple that it is self evident. It is a spiritual axiom. An axiom is a self evident truth, something we would be hard put to it to prove. We just know it is so like one and one makes two. Here is where I think we ought to begin in our Christian thinking, begin with our relationship with Jesus Christ. That is where Paul would have us begin. We go through certain religious practices, we say our prayers we read our Bibles we attend church and that is well. We have certain forms and ceremonies we are baptized, we take communion. These things are means of grace. We accept a creed perhaps we recite a creed called the Apostles Creed, but after all, though I may give assent to these and many other points of doctrine which might be mentioned, the simple unfeigned test is, do I have, do you have, the spirit of Christ?

Now what is the spirit of Christ? Well the spirit of Christ is so many sided so rich, so full, so beautiful, that we can't miss knowing something about the spirit of Christ, we cannot know all about it. But if we have read the gospels, if we have been around where Christ has been we know his spirit, first as we can look around us at the friends and neighbors, brethren and sisters in Christ Jesus in our own church and we know the spirit of each one as clearly as we know the tones of their voices, the form and features of their bodies or the way they walk. It might be a profitable meditation what does Christ's spirit mean to me? What do I think about when the spirit of Christ is mentioned? Perhaps we visualize him, we personify him in a sainted mother, a beloved father, or a devoted friend. If so what characteristic did we regard as Christ like? I would like to know your thoughts on that.

May I share with you my thoughts on that and my joy with you that we have not been left in the dark as to what is the spirit of Christ.

It is the spirit of brotherhood. Jesus taught us to pray our father which art in heaven. He has taught us that the brother comes first before the worship. If we bring our gift and find our brother hath ought against us we are first to be reconciled and then offer our gift. Brotherhood went a long way with Jesus. It crossed social lines, he permitted a woman of ill fame to kiss his feet and bathe them with her tears and dry them with the hair of her head. He crossed political lines, Zaccheus, I am taking dinner with you today. He crossed racial barriers, he must needs go through Samaria. I have often wondered if the master did not shrink from these contacts. He who was so pure, from the caresses of the impure. He that loved the oppressed, from one who had been a traitor and a turncoat, who by fraud and false accusations had laid heavy burdens on the poor; I wonder how he felt toward that mongrel race that had built a rival shrine to his Zion and had been in feud with the Jews for generations. But the spirit of Jesus was higher and deeper and broader than any social strata or nation or creed or race. There was no littleness or narrowness in the spirit of Jesus Christ.

Now this brotherliness did not expend itself in sweet sentiment. Jesus showed his brotherliness in service. I am among you as one who serveth. Symbolically he washed the disciples feet which was the work of a servant. He taught, "He who would be great among you let him be as a servant." Yes, the master who pushed a saw and drove a hammer; who fished on the sea of Galilee, and who lifted the fallen, laid his hands upon the leprous, made clay of spittal and anointed blind eyes. He knew what it was to serve. So our first interpreter in that sublime passage Phil. 2:5-11 "Have this mind in you which was also in Christ Jesus, who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man he humbled himself, becoming obedient unto death, yea, the death of the cross. Wherefore also God highly exalted him, and gave unto him the name which is above every name; that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven and things on earth and things under the earth, and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." "Let this mind be in you which was in Christ Jesus."

It was a spirit which served to the point of sacrifice. Not just the dropping of an extra nickle or dime or dollar into the collection plate out of an abundance. Did you notice the words "Becoming obedient unto death yea the death of the cross." "Greater love hath no man than this." "Let this mind be in you."

That speaks of humility. Do we have the spirit of humility? Rabundrant Tagore the poet of India Knighted by the King of England wrote:

"Here is thy footstool, and there rest thy feet where lies

The poorest and the lowliest and the lost

When I try to bow to thee, my my obscance

Cannot reach down to thy foot rest

Among the poorest and the lowliest.

Pride cannot approach to where thou walkest

In the clothes of the humble

Among the poorest and the lowliest and the lost.

My heart can never find its way to where

Thou keepest company with the Companionless

Among the poorest, the lowliest and the lost.

So Tagore never became a Christian, he had not the spirit of Christ.

Yet it was the humility of Christ that impressed the great Indian poet, a humility which he could not approach for Jesus approached what was for Tagore the unapproachable; He laid his hands on what was to Tagore the unapproachable. Is our pride so stiff it cannot stoop as low as Jesus Christ. Cannot our heart find its way to when Jesus walks in his seamless robe among the needy of the earth. If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his.

It would be an interesting line of thought, a most serious line of thought to consider that those who are not his; who are not those that belong to him, will be lost and will perish. That is true of the individual, that is true of the business or industry. It may prosper for a time but in the end it will fail.

The nation that has not the spirit of Christ is none of his. Our souls are being tried again today to become angry, to become vengeful, to say in our hearts we are the greatest nation on the earth, drop a couple of a bombs on the Kremlin and blow it off the earth. But let us remember the words of Jesus, he that takes the sword will perish by it, he that takes the bomb will perish by it. I believe in order and discipline in the home in the state and among the nations of the world, but bitterness, malice, anger, pride, jingoism, saber rattling, red baiting, is not the spirit of Jesus Christ. Force never healed and war never cured. Some way, somehow the love and the spirit of Jesus must possess the world or the end of all things will come and it will come sooner than we think.

The church that does not have the spirit of Christ does not belong to him. If every man and woman in the church has the spirit of Christ. Then the church will have his spirit. It is beside the mark for me or any one else to be critical of the church when I am part of it. It were more profitable to search our own heart just now. Does the spirit of Christ dwell in me, the spirit of brotherhood, of service, of sacrifice, of humility for if any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of his.

Again we thank thee Lord that thou hast taught us thy spirit spelling it out for us on the dusty hills of Palestine, and by a Syrian Sea, and if to that place of a skull outside a city wall and on that cross to pray, "Father forgive." And in thy grief and pain to turn to assure and bless a dying felon, saying, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

May thy gracious spirit abide with us this day, Amen.

is almost everywhere. The graduation exercises were very touching but we want those who left us to know that our sincerest wishes and best of luck goes with them where'er they may be.

Recently some of our girls, who have been with us for a long while, left us to move to Howard Cottage. We hated to see them leave us, but we still get a chance to see them. This leaves us a remainder of nineteen girls, and three of them have gone on vacations.

We have a new big sister, who moved over three weeks ago. Even though Clara Mangum has become a Senior and had to move out, we are glad to have Shirley Byrd with us.

Dig, dig, clank, and dig! This is all we hear now that the rain seems to have gone for a while. Yes, all of us are busy pulling out weeds and our faces are purple with all the digging, not only does our flower garden look like a "Weed" garden, but our play woods do to. Pretty soon, though, it'll look as good as new again.

One can never know just how much we Annie Louise girls miss our beloved teacher, Miss Blakeney. We feel sure that she will be much needed in her Heavenly home, and this takes some of the hurt off our hearts. All we can hope for is that she is being greatly rewarded for the marvelous work she did here on earth.

Until August we remain,

PRINTING OFFICE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again bringing you the latest news from the printing crew. Since we wrote you last we have lost one boy, Donald Mitchell, who was a senior and headman. Donald has taken up work with the Statesville Daily Record. We know he will be a complete success. So here's our luck to you, Don.

Vacations have rolled around once more and we are looking forward to ours very much. Swimming season is here also and if you ever come to visit us during the week days you will probably see a whole swimming pool full of water lovers.

School closed May 19th and we are all glad to be coming to work again and we are looking forward to a good summer vacation.

Well, folks this is all for this month, so until next month, bye-bye.

Oh! I almost forgot due to the absence of most of our crew we will not publish a Barium Messenger next month.

SEWING ROOM

Hi Folks,

As all of us new seniors came into the sewing room this morning, the first thing we heard was, "Where is the new seventeen?" It seems that everyone wants a new dress. We don't know what the occasion is, but we have the general idea.

Although we shall miss the old seniors, we are very happy to be sitting in their seats, which they occupied for a year.

The seven new seniors are Shirley Inman, Jeanne Turlington, Melva Powell, Clara Mangum, Elsie Vest, Peggy Plyer, and Frances Stricklin.

Shirley Inman came over from the little boys cottage. We know she misses them, but the "larger" boys are more fun. Right Shirley?

Jeanne Turlington used to be a nurse but she gave up nursing, so she could watch for an employee of Black & Clark Motor Co. who drives a gray Studebaker.

Melva Powell is nearly always found at one of the doors to see if by chance a beautiful new "Lincoln", with a cute boy in it, will pass and blow to her.

Clara Mangum trying to make up her mind between two blonds, sewed her finger in the sewing machine.

Elsie Vest before going to Conference, filled her suit case with 25 stamped envelopes. Wonder who the lucky person is?

Peggy Plyer always looking for a "Nash." Don't worry honey, Roy will come by soon. We hope!

The financial picture at Presbyterian Orphans' Home is the darkest it has been for some years. In fact for the first time in some years it is necessary this year to record a deficit of $10,760.69. Last year we spent $9,000.00 less than the year before. But our income was reduced by $16,326.61.

The tabulation above gives the figures on the income so far as it pertains to church sources. The principal decline in income is in the giving of the churches and from miscellaneous gifts.

The first column above refers to churches through the budget. In 1941 Synod asked the Presbyteries to allot to Presbyterian Orphans' Home 9%. Since that time the percentage to the Home has been gradually reduced. Now the largest percentage given by any Presbytery is 6½%. One Presbytery gives 7%. Another gives 3½% and takes 1% of the amount handled by the Treasurer for the expense of the Treasurer's Office. As a result of these reductions the total amount received from the budget of the churches was 27,816.12 which was a decline of $4,560.57 from the previous year. The giving to our Thanksgiving Offering as can be seen a boon declined from $88,663.67 to $82,341.29 or a reduction of $6,320.38.

These figures too show very clearly the necessity of the special Sunday School and Women of the Church offerings and the Thanksgiving offering for these offerings constitute about four fifths of our income from the church. The amount received from the regular budget of the church would at the present level of expenses care for about thirty five children.

At its recent meeting the Regents of the Home studied all of these figures very carefully. But believing that the church wished adequately to care for our Home, and knowing that according to accepted standards of child care about $240,000.00 is required to support the three hundred children which is our normal population, the Regents did not beat a retreat, but directed that the church be given the full facts as to the financial picture.

During the war period when many things could not be bought, we recorded a substantial surplus each year. But this was done at the expense of our equipment which has largely had to be replaced since the war.

The administration continues to use every means to economize in the handling of the sacred money committed to our care and we confidently look to the church for that interest, prayer and support which is the life blood of this institution.

Some of you might think that we don't do any sewing, but in the two weeks we have been here we have had a taste of almost everything that the sewing room is filled on to make. All the way from dresses to mattress "Ticks."

Mrs. Smith and Miss Campbell have had limitless patience with us and they have really needed it. We sign off now, but until next month when we will be back, we all be thinking of you.

JENNIE GILMER

There, it has been a long time since you have heard from us. We are busy now that school is out, getting the house and the dairy cleaned up.

The swimming pool is opened now, and we do a lot of swimming. Most of us know how to dive and swim, but the one's who don't hope to know how before the summer is over.

Four of our boys have gone on their vacations, and they are Fredrick Lentz, Marvin Garris, George Moore, and Memory Thompson. We hope these boys will have a nice time.

Well until next month we will say good bye.

INFIRMARY

Hi! Friends

Guess we had better let you know a little about our new nurses. They are Pattie Inman and Jane Feimster, our old nurses Jean Turlington and Elsie Vest have decided to learn a little more about "Stitching" before taking over a full time job with us.

Everyone seems to be feeling good except our dear little mascot Patricia Mobly. She has had a light case of tonsilitis.

Two of our nurses, Louise and Elmina will attend conferences this month. Louise will attend the conference at Red Springs, and Elmina will attend the conference at Morganton.

We are looking forward to our vacations this month. Mrs. Finley is going on hers in July.

If at any time you come to see us and we aren't here, we'll be riding in Mrs. Finley's new Oldsmobile.

Bye bye. See you next month.

Contracts Let For Activities Building

The Regents of the Home have accepted the bid of the Ervin Construction Company of Catawba and have let the contracts of the new Activities Building to be located on the corner of the campus. Thus the outstanding need of the last fifteen years has been met and the pressure and tension existing in the present arrangements will be eased.

For six months during each year the school auditorium had to be turned into a gymnasium and the school had no place for chapel programs or exercises pertinent to the educational functions. Half of the children in the Home went to Sunday School on Sunday morning through this auditorium converted into a gymnasium. During the week the teachers of the first seven grades trying to teach around it had to talk above the noise taking place in Physical Education on the court just outside the door. Tensions will be relieved and the quality of school work will be improved in getting the auditorium back as an auditorium for the school and the Sunday school.

In addition to serving as the basketball court, the Activities Building will meet the needs of the entire student body. Varsity sports serve the needs of approximately 30 percent, but in the new Activities Building there will be the regular roller skating, folk games, badminton, volley ball, shuffleboard, and rainy day room for activities that will touch the life of all the children.

About three-fourths of the necessary money for this building is in hand. All the savings have been scraped together and put in one pile and it is the faith of the Regents that people throughout the Synod interested in the Home will want to share in the building guaranteeing not only its erection but also its complete equipment. Children, teachers, housemothers, staff workers, everybody is standing up cheering for this great day in the life of Barium when the work on the building that will meet the greatest need on the campus has actually begun.

An Interesting Letter

Dear Mr. Arrowood:

I appreciate your letters received some two or three times. Have been ill, but you need not as I see it, put a stamp on a letter just in acknowledgement of a one-dollar bill. But as John Barrymore used to say, "It reminds me of the fact that if I do calculate right," every month for the past 19 years I have sent a one-dollar bill into Barium, and not one has ever been lost in the mail.

This may be odd, but it has been my only way to do some little thing for our Orphanage.

My regards,

July 3, 1950.

P. S. I am now 80 years of age.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi There,

Here we are trying to bring you up to date on our current events.

First I would like to tell you of the wonderful time we had at the square dance, which Mr. McSwein called. It was a grand treat, because it is not often we have such a delightful experience. We also had a grand get together on the fourth of July. Swimming contest, eating, a soft ball game, and last but not least, a watermelon feast. Everyone seemed to have a wonderful time.

We would like to tell you, we have a new nurse, and we hope she is going to like us, as much as we are going to like her.

Vacations are nearly to an end and now all you hear is, "Camp." Some of the smaller children are going next week, lets hope they have a good time.

It will not be long until school starts and everyone is excited. Ha!

Shirly Ann Cannon, one of our girls, is just now recovering from an operation, "Here's hoping you will soon be well Shirley."

We certainly were glad to have the two sons of Mrs. Lottie Walker visit us, and we hope they can (Continued On Page Two)

Two Weeks of Camp Held On the Catawba

Monday afternoon, July 31st, was a great day for all the children in Annie Louise, Howard, Synod, and Lees Cottages. All during the summer they have been planning and talking about their camping trip and at two o'clock there were four rows of children standing along the side of the road waiting for the big yellow buses to come by and pick them up. Blankets, food and equipment had already been sent down, and the camp director, Mr. Archie Calhoun, together with his capable leaders, were ready to take these little folks down to the river for a week. Each child (and there were 96 of them) had his own little bundle of clothes and things that he might need and want, with twenty-five cents to spend at the country store across the river.

Down on the sandy beach by the rolling Catawba these children finding themselves away from the restraint and routine of the campus life, run and jump and play and carry on with wild glee. Swimming in the river, playing in the sand, playing group games together, swinging in the swings, and fishing from the banks, all combine to make busy days which are ended with family prayers.

The second week of camp will be under the direction of Miss Rebekah Carpenter who for many years has directed the camp for the older group, made up of the older boys and girls who have stayed here through the whole summer, and who did not go on a vacation. They have the time of their lives at the river in relaxing and resting and doing nothing. Food is prepared and the work is done by those who have had their time off and these boys and girls are kings and queens for a few days before they get ready for the opening of school.

Through these days on the river many an interesting episode has been stored away in the mind to

Nuernberg Worker Visits Barium Springs

Miss Gertrude Duell, social worker in Nuernberg, Germany, is visiting the United States, and under the direction of the Children's Division of the Department of Public Welfare, a visit to Barium Springs was arranged. Mrs. Louise Blake, Supervisor of Children's Institutions, chose Barium Springs because of its being a child-caring institution which has the extra feature of a camping program during the summer.

Miss Duell spent a part of the time at the camp with the campers and the rest of the time upon the campus of the Home, visiting with the housemothers and with the children and studying the plan and procedure, comparing and contrasting it with the work that is done in her own city in Germany.

Upon leaving Barium Springs, Miss Duell went to the Alexander Home in Charlotte to spend a few days there in the study of a child-caring institution that deals with particular problems.

be enjoyed forever and often recalled and retold in later days. It is a wonderful experience for the children of the Home.

Bean Stain And Blackberry Jam

The boys of Lees Cottage proudly announced that they had already picked 113 bushels of beans, while the girls in Howard and the Woman's Building displayed their stained fingers, indicating that they had strung and broken that same 113 bushels. All the children in the Home have their assigned share in the Home's production for summer food and winter supply. The orchard, the truck farm, the dairy farm, the cannery, and many other places require the time of the boys and girls.

A review of the records shows that up through July 15th there has been quite a variety brought in in great quantities. The boys on the truck farm with Mr. Stikleather brought in for the table and for canning such things as peas, lettuce, onions, radishes, by the bushel and cabbages by the hundred of heads, roasting ears by twelve hundred dozen, 264 bushels of beans, beets, squash, Irish potatoes, cucumbers, butter beans, tomatoes, and cantaloupes. The cannery has canned over a thousand no. 10 cans of beans and has stored away about one hundred twenty-five no. 10 cans of blackberry jam. Too, there has been 15,000 gallons of milk, 26,000 eggs, 2,000 lbs. of beef, 1200 lbs. of pork, 526 lbs. of frying sized chickens, 120 lbs. of hens and 240 lbs. of lamb. Some of this goes to the summer table and some of it goes to the cold storage for winter supply.

The big boys, under the direction of Mr. Stinson on the big farm have helped to produce feed supplies and grain, 119 loads of un-baled hay, 2300 bales of hay, over 1,000 bales of straw, 510 bushels of wheat, over 1500 bushels of oats, over 100 bushels of rye, and about 1600 bushels of barley.

These have been carefully stored away for the feeding of the horses, pigs, chickens, beef cattle, dairy cows, and sheep.

It has not all been work though. The picture in the center of the front page indicates that there has been a lot of activity down around the swimming pool. In addition to that, 90 percent of the children have had from one to three weeks vacation away from the Home this summer.

Work and play and worship, properly blended together is good for the children and they are happy in it.

come again before long. We would also like to tell them we certainly are enjoying living in this building, "Lottie Walker Building."

The men and boys on the campus are working very hard to do away with the paths we have made. "Come on folks lets see what we can do to help!"

We certainly are glad to get some new children and we hope they will continue to come and make this their home. "Welcome friends."

The boys who work on the messenger each month really gave you a vacation. We saw them and their bosses out cutting grass and cleaning up around the church. "Looks nice too."

Well folks we will say so long until next month same time.

PRINTING OFFICE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again bringing the latest news from the printing office. A lot of things have happened since you last heard from us. All of our boys of the crew are back from their vacation and we had a very good time.

Last month the boys and girls had a square dance and a grand get together and we all enjoyed it very much. On the fourth of July there was a swimming contest, a softball game, and at last a watermelon feast. Everyone seemed to have had a wonderful time.

Vacations have come to a close and everyone seems to be ready for another school year. Some of the smaller children are down at "Camp" and lets hope they have a good time.

We have had our big press motor repaired in this slack period. It was hit by lighting and it is now repaired and ready to go as you can see.

Dwight Reid has just gotten back from Alabama from his vacation. Dwight told us he and three other boys caught 25 good sized fish, using soap for bait. It could be true.

In this paragraph we would like to say that we hope the readers of this paper have had a very pleasant vacation and have had a good rest. We sure have.

Well folks, thats all for this time and so until next time, bye.

—John Edsel McArthur

JENNIE GILMER

Hi There,

This is Jennie Gilmer bringing you our news.

All the boys are back from their vacations, and we all had a grand time, but are glad to be back.

Pretty soon some of Lee's boys will be coming to live with us and we hope they are as glad to come as we are to have them.

Some of us boys will go to camp and are really looking forward to going. I guess all of you know that we like to go boat riding and hiking. We wish you could come along.

School will start in a few weeks and we will be very glad to get back to school routine.

Well folks we will see you again next month and tell you more about school as we will be going to school then.

—The Jennie Gilmer Boys

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

We, your little friends, have been doing some gay traveling this summer, and all of it was wonderful too. First, many of the girls over here went on vacations. There were only a few that didn't go. However those that stayed at home had just as good a time enjoying the moving back into our newly painted house. Second, we have just arrived back from a weeks camping trip at Camp Fellowship. There aren't enough words to express how dirty all of us were. The very first thing we saw was hot water and soap waiting for us in the tubs. Boy! does it feel good to be clean again after all that lipstick and and such.

While we were away at camp, a new little girl came down there to stay the rest of the week with us. Now, we have her to live in our cottage all the time. Also there was another girl that came just before we left. One is in the second grade (Claudeth Merritt) and the other in the third (Christine Clark). They are both very cute, and we are very glad to have them in our family.

A while ago we mentioned something about our "Newly painted house." You folks should see it, for it really looks pretty. The new lighting system is just beautiful, and we are just as glad to have that as we are to have the new paint "job." All of the Annie Louise girls would like to say here and now, that we thank Mr. Ervin, Mr. Gibbs, Mr. White, and all the carpenter group for making our house so beautiful.

Pretty soon now our school will start, and we'll have to dust out all the cob-webs for some more learning. Most of us have forgotten how to spell, and do we drive the house mother, and two big sisters mad when we start to write letters.

Our house mother has gone on a months vacation, and already we miss her. She will be back a day or so after we start school, and we hope she has a nice time during the four weeks.

As for our flowers, they're so thick that they resemble a jungle. But no matter how thick they may get, they're still pretty.

Since we're so excited over just coming back from camp, we'd better wait until next month to tell you the rest of our experiences.

Til then,
—The A. L. C. girls

SYNOD'S COTTAGE

Hello Friends,

Things have really been happening during June and July.

We all had a nice vacation.

Our house mother, Mrs. Hough is back with us from her vacation. While she was away, Miss Winnie Ferguson, took her place.

Our big sisters took their vacations. Hilda Barnes went to Stony Point, and Mary Frances Price went to Lenoir.

We had a grand time at camp last week. While we were away, our big sisters and Mrs. Hough fixed up our floors. They really look nice.

We have seven new boys with us. Four from the Baby Cottage are: Gene Taylor, Bill Boston, Freddie Gillespie, and Tommy Joyner. Three just came from their Bobby Meritt, and Braxton Bridges. We are very happy to have dges. We are very happy to have these boys with us.

Many New Faces At Barium Springs

The Fall of the year finds that a large number of folk have come to Barium Springs through the Summer. Some of them are children who are going to live here and some of them are adults who will live in the cottages.

The children who have come this Summer are: Kay, Christine, and Gray Clark from Morganton; Aileen, Bobby, and Claudeth Merritt from Rocky Point; Jimmy, Buddy, and Sara Lou Morris from Gastonia; Susie Blackburn from Fayetteville; Martha, Harold, and Edna Evans from Mocksville; Barbara Jackson from Statesville; Johnny MacNicholas from Statesville; Lena Mae, Ella Ann, and Charles Edwin McLean from Red Springs; Braxton, Linda, and Peggy Bridgers from Goldsboro.

New members on the staff are Miss Nancy Hoots, a registered nurse from Statesville, who is now in charge of the Infirmary; Mrs. Leona Fanshaw from Fayetteville, who has charge of the little boys in Synod's Cottage; Mrs. Carrie Webb from Woodleaf, living in Howard Cottage and working with the small children.

All of these folks, children and adults alike, make the campus happier because they have come to live at Barium. Already the children act as if they had been here all of their lives as they share the joys and pleasures with the other children.

Elliott Wedding Of Interest Here

The following item taken from the Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier is of interest here:

"The marriage of Mrs. Anne C. Watt of 170 Broad Street to Exam Avery Elliott of Franklin, Tenn., took place August 16th in Saint Michaels Protestant Episcopal church. Rev. Harold Thomas officiated.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will live at 170 Broad Street where Mrs. Elliott conducts The Watt school."

Mr. Elliott is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston of Statesville.

Mr. Elliott was postmaster at Barium Springs for five years, living in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnston while here.

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,

Yes, once again we little busy bodies are bringing you the ever-present gossip from Annie Louise.

Many of our little girls' parents have come this past month, and it is so nice to get acquainted with new children's parents, and also reacquaint ourselves - our busy selves - with the other parents.

Soon now, we will be going to football games and yelling - or rather cheering - for our own home team. It seems like ages since we last saw a football game, but of course a year does seem long to us little ones.

Last month I told you that we were about to begin school, but at this writing, it has gotten into full swing. Our study room, which we call the kindergarten, is now in full time occupation. Of course we aren't guaranteeing you that we use it for study, but just between you and us, we're supposed to.

We have a number of little girls in our cottage whose birthdays come in September. Just to satisfy your curiosity, we'll name 'em for you: Sue Moore, Clara Dean Byrd, and Christine Clark. Even though we have sung a "Happy Birthday" to them all, we want them to know that we sincerely wish them many, many more in the years ahead.

A good many of the substitute housemothers are leaving us to take up their fall terms in college. Two or three of such students have been our housemothers during the past three months. We have become so attached to many of them, that we hate to see them go. However, we wish them good hunting and "larning" in those big thick books they study in.

Much to our sorrow, swimming is over, especially for us young ones. It so happens that we are having the hottest days of the year right now. Oh, well! such is life.

If we want to ever get any learning into these thick heads of ours, then we had better get busy. Don't you remember, we're supposed to be busy bodies. We can't let our reputation die down any. So keep your right hand fingers crossed. (Left hand brings bad luck).

Until October!

— The A. L. C. "Busy" Girls

SYNODS

Hello Folks,

Here we are back again telling you the latest news, since you last heard from us.

We are kept rather busy these days since school has started. We are glad to have our teachers back with us.

We have a new housemother, Mrs. Fanshaw, who has come to live with us. We hope she will enjoy living with us as much as we enjoy having her as one of our big family.

We have two new boys. They are Johnny MacNicholas and Charles McLean. We are happy to have them with us.

Until next time.

— The Wigglers

WOMANS BUILDING

Hi There,

It is time for us to pass our good news on to you once more.

School has started and every one seems to be very happy. Here's hoping we will remain in this state of mind.

We have a new girl and we certainly hope she will enjoy living with us. Glad to have you, Lona! Also we are glad to have Miss Winnie Ferguson to spend the winter months with us.

We certainly did appreciate the delicious Bar-B-Q. Although it is gone we still have not forgotten about it.

We will be looking forward to having each and everyone of you with us, here September 15, to see our first football game of the season. "Best of Luck, Boys!"

The place has been cleared, and

286 Students Enrolled In the Barium Schools

School bells were heard again on the campus on Thursday morning, August 31st, as the 1950-51 school session got under way.

A short class schedule was followed during the early morning and the highlight of the day was the opening day program in the Elementary School auditorium.

Reverend R. S. Arrowood led the devotions and Reverend Albert B. McClure brought a very inspiring and helpful message which was most fitting for the occasion.

The attendance on the opening day was slightly higher than at the beginning of the previous year. We had 196 enrolled in the Elementary School and 90 in the High School.

Three new teachers have joined the faculty this year. Miss Mary Smithwick of Louisburg is the new piano teacher, Miss Eleanor Miller of Charlotte is second grade teacher, and Mrs. David S. Brown of Statesville is fourth grade teacher.

Mr. R. G. Calhoun is principal of the School, with the following teachers: A. M. Calhoun, W. A. Hethcox, Mrs. Melba McLuen, Miss Ruth Troutman, Miss Reba Thompson, Miss Irene McDade.

The Elementary teachers returning this year are Miss Theoria Straughn, first grade; Mrs. R. E. Jackins, third grade; Miss Sadie Brandon, fifth grade; Mrs. Pless Canter, sixth grade; Miss Faye Stevenson, seventh grade; and Mrs. Lee Spencer, teacher of public school music and director of the Glee Club.

First Football Game With Thomasville

Since August 21st the boys of the high school, under the direction of Coaches Calhoun and Jackins, have been getting ready for the football season. Though the squad is small, the players are in good shape and anticipate a good season. The schedule will open with the first game on Friday afternoon, September 15th, on Sloan Field at Barium Springs with Thomasville affording the opposition.

This game will give the coaches a chance to see just how much they will have to work yet on the team in shaping it up for the heavy schedule that lies before them. All of the home games will be played in the afternoon on Sloan Field because there is no lighting on the field for night games.

The date for Homecoming has been set for October 27th and our game that day will be with Monroe. All the Alumni will be expected to return and share in the festivities of the day. Further announcements will be made in the next issue of The Messenger and through the papers in general and through correspondence.

The schedule for the season is as follows:

Sept. 15, Thomasville at Barium.
Sept. 22, Barium at Children's Home.
Oct. 6, Salisbury at Barium.

SEWING ROOM

Hi Friends,

This is the first time we have written the news for the past two months, and we can say right now that we have lots to say.

During the month of July our sewing room shut down for the entire month up 'til August the first.
All the girls went on their vacations and had lots of fun.

Now to the high event of the summer for each girl and also for our sewing room matrons.

Melva Powell went to Mooresville and also ran back and forth between Carolina Beach and White Lake. She came back very brown and also with a cut foot. You ought to see her now, waiting patiently at the mail box for a letter from Charlotte. We are wondering who she is waiting to hear from?

Jeanne Turlington spent her vacation in Clinton, N. C. Her Studebaker friend was with her two week-ends. We are wondering when he is going to get tired of coming down to Barium. Something must be up. Right girls?

Elsie Vest went to visit some friends in Kannapolis, N. C., the beach and the mountains. A certain young boy from Stony Point was a favorite visitor of hers while she was away.

Shirley Inman went to Lumbe-ton, N. C. and also visited the famous Carolina Beach and White Lake. Two long distance telephone calls from Statesville, N. C. kept Shirley happy. Wonder who was calling? Your guess is as good as mine.

Peggy Plyler spent her vacation in Kannapolis, N. C. We know she had a good time looking at all the beautiful Nash cars go by.

Frances Stricklin was the first of our seniors to go on her vacation. She spent her two weeks in York, S. C. and Jacksonville, Fla.
She came back very brown and went to a church conference. She has been life guard down at the pool this summer while the regular life guard went out for football.

Mrs. Smith spent her vacation traveling around Washington, Virginia and South Carolina. She really had fun and she was right back on the job on August the first.

Miss Campbell spent her vacation traveling and at her home in Mooresville, N. C. She came back the first of September ready and willing for work.

Last but not least, Clara Man-gum had a wonderful time in Durham, N. C. She must have really impressed a boy because he came 150 miles just to see her an hour and a half. Since she has been back there seems to always be a 1950, yellow convertible, Pontiac coming to Barium every available night. She surely is lucky. Right, all?

Camp started the first two weeks of August and two of our seniors who didn't go on a vacation went. The second week Frances went, and by the looks of her baggage, she must have thought she was going to stay a year. The rest of the senior girls were lucky enough to ride down to camp on the back of the truck eating crackers and ice cream.

In August we have been making all the cottages their new school dresses. It seems that every one wanted navy dresses and we really have been turning out some pretty ones.

The last of August always means school, and we sincerely hope that this will be the best school year that we have ever had.
Keep your fingers crossed for us.
Until next month.

— The Sewing Room Girls
Clara Mangum and Melva Powell.

FINANCIAL REPORT TO THE SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA

The Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home of the Synod of North Carolina have instructed that a complete financial report be given to the members of the Synod of North Carolina. There are three phases of finance at Barium Springs; namely, The Operating Fund, The Capital Fund, and The Designated Funds.

OPERATING FUND 1949-50

Operating Cash Balance April 1, 1949	$60,091.85
RECEIPTS
Presbyteries percentages	27,816.12
Sunday Schools	32,088.89
Women of the Church	8,879.26
Young People	97.88
Thanksgiving Offerings	82,343.29
Miscellaneous Contributions	12,968.25
Clothing Funds	12,999.02
Endowment Income and Rents	16,875.50
Income from Trust Funds	13,182.42
Duke Endowment	9,998.83
From Relatives	8,096.85
TOTAL	$285,438.16
DISBURSEMENTS
Administration	$27,441.52
Household	79,176.95
Health	5,211.87
Education	21,810.13
Plant Operation and Maintenance	45,786.39
Case Work and Foster Homes	11,279.09
Farms, Dairy, Garden, Orchard, Poultry	38,291.49
Printing Department	3,326.08
Annuities	1,537.97
Shoe Shop	2,285.51
TOTAL	$236,147.00

The expenditures for the year were $10,800.69 more than the income, which decreased the operating balance by that amount and left it at the minimum necessary for carrying on without borrowing money to meet operations in the times when money comes in slowly. This balance was $49,292.16 on April 1, 1950.

CAPITAL FUND

The source of the Capital Fund is legacies received annually. During the year 1949-50 the sum of $21,778.00 was received. The average over the last five years has been $18,692.22 per year. The expenditures from Capital Funds last year for land, buildings, machinery, equipment and trucks were $18,632.96.

DESIGNATED FUNDS

There are certain funds received at Barium Springs which are designated for special purposes and can only be used for that purpose.

The Memorial Church Fund	$94,572.25
Children's Village Fund	49,350.00
Funds held to be designated later by Donors	50,853.27

Through a long period of years there have been designated funds for endowments. This has reached the amount now where if used totally for operation it would carry the institution for a little more than a twelve-month period.

The above is a complete financial statement of the Home. The operating budget for 1950-51 is $236,838.00. It is easy to see that if the operating budget is not met annually by the gifts of the churches and friends the needs of the children will not be met. They will have to eat less, wear less and be admitted in smaller numbers. Barium Springs has always been taken care of and it is the faith of the Regents and the entire staff of the Home that the people of North Carolina intend for the needs of this place to be supplied. It is also the belief of the Regents and the entire staff that the Synod expects economy and business like management. To that end the Regents and the staff pledge themselves in faithful service.

Barium Boys Entered Seminaries This Fall

When the new students enrolled at the seminaries in Richmond, Va. and Louisville, Ky., Barium Springs had representation in each. Ernest Stricklin had chosen the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and Paul Horne had gone to Richmond to study at Union.

Ernest Stricklin came to Barium Springs when he was ten years old and graduated in 1943 with a fine record. Between high school and college he spent about three years in the Navy.

At Davidson he distinguished himself in the campus activities and particularly in the athletic life as one of the outstanding football players on the campus. During his years at Davidson he continued to serve Barium Springs by having charge of the water front during the summer at Camp Fellowship.

Paul Horne entered Barium Springs at the age of two and continued here until he graduated in 1942. Paul found his college course interrupted by the war and spent three years in the service of his country. Upon returning he completed his college course at Davidson and then at the request of the Administration of the college stayed an extra year managing the Student Store. On Awards Day at Davidson special recognition was taken of the outstanding work that Paul had done in his extra year.

This path from Barium to Davidson to the Seminary and into the Gospel ministry has been walked by many Barium students before. It is the earnest hope and prayer of the administration and of the Church throughout the Synod that the Spirit will lead many students yet to walk in that pathway to serve in the Kingdom of God.

Homecoming Set For October 27th

The annual Homecoming date has been set for October 27th at Barium Springs. From far and near, the trek to Barium will begin even before the 27th and that Friday promises to be a great day in the life of Barium Springs.

In addition to the hand-shaking, the personal greetings, and that which takes place at any reunion, there will be the scheduled events of the day. Beginning at 11 o'clock there will be a High School Chapel and pep meeting. At 12 o'clock the alumni luncheon will be served in the dining hall. After luncheon there will be a meeting of the alumni called by the president of the Alumni Association. At 3:30 in the afternoon the Homecoming game with the Barium Springs Red and White Tornadoes demonstrating their ability will be played on Sloan Field. Monroe High School will afford the opposition and from all appearances it promises to be a humdinger of a game.

Will every former student of this institution who reads this or hears of this occasion please accept it as a personal invitation to return to the campus on Friday, October 27th, for the annual Homecoming event.

LOOK AGAIN, THERE ARE APPLES ON THE TREE

Three Seniors and two Juniors in the apple tree assisting the supervisor of the orchards, Mr. Woodrow Clendenin, in gathering the apples. The apple crop at Barium has been more than abundant. The limbs of the trees have been broken down and the apples have been more than the Home could possibly use.

The Thompson Orphanage and the Jackson Training School were invited to come and take as many as they needed, additional boxes have been sent to Davis Hospital and the children of the Home have had all the apples that they wanted to eat. Of course, the late apples have not yet ripened but will be stored in the apple house for use in the late winter and early spring. No peaches now for about five years, but apples galore for all the children on the campus and for friends and neighbors nearby.

Do Your Thanksgiving Plans Include Your Barium Family, Too? The Synod Requests A Generous Offering, Presbytery Approves It, And The Home Needs It.

How It Looks At The Halfway Mark

One half of the church year is gone, bills are paid and accounts balanced and we can take a look at how things stand. In brief we have taken in from all sources of income $61,735.38. We have spent $107,152.04.

The above figures look bad but are not too discouraging. One half of our benevolence income is received from the Thanksgiving Offering. Also much of our income from regular offerings is received late in the church year. So we receive three fourths of our yearly income in the last four months of the church year. We are greatly dependent on the Sunday School offerings and those from the Women of the Church which largely keeps us going during the first part of the year. At best we have to draw on our reserves for about $50,000.00 for the first eight months of the fiscal year.

Another encouraging fact is that we have received from the churches $1,662.76 more than for the same period last year and we have spent $6,701.66 less than last year. I think there are three reasons for that. First, we have not been able to find some additional personnel, approved by the Regents; second, we do not entertain Synod this year. That always calls for considerable face lifting around here and the buying of additional supplies which hold over for several years. Third, the Lord has blessed us with fine crops this year and all the hay has been saved. The truck farm crops have been good, reducing our food bills. We have a wonderful apple crop.

Presbyterian Orphans' Home has had three sources of income from the churches. There is the percentage assigned us from the church budget; the special offerings from the Sunday Schools and Women of the Church; and the Thanksgiving Offering. Last year (Continued On Page Two)

Board of Regents to Hold Fall Meeting

The Fall meeting of the Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home has been called for Wednesday, October 18th, by the president, Mr. W. E. Price. The twenty members of the Board will convene in the morning, attending to business throughout the day and having lunch with the children on the campus.

Three new regents will attend their first meeting. Mr. C. Spears Hicks of Durham has been elected to replace Dr. Kelsey Regen. Mrs. J. H. Matthews of Gastonia has succeeded Mrs. Coit Robinson, and Mrs. Charles Ross of Lillington has succeeded Mrs. P. P. McCain. One other regent, Mr. W. Y. Preyer, who was elected at the Fall meeting of Synod, has written that his doctors will not permit him to accept any additional duties and, more than that, they are requiring him to lay down some of his present responsibilities.

In addition to the matters of the Home pertinent to the life of the boys and girls, especial attention will be given to the building program, including the Activities Building and possible housing facilities for the personnel necessary to the life of the campus.

Campus News
BABY COTTAGE

Hi Friends,
We suppose you are surprised to be hearing from us but we have been so busy and excited about many things for the past several months, that we haven't had time to write.
One of the many things we were excited about was the fair. It has been about two weeks since we went to the fair but you can still hear the little children talking about what they did and what a wonderful timethey all had.
Since you last heard from us, we have lost seven little girls and only gained four. We have lost four little boys and gained two. One of the little boys, Charlie Greene, has been on a month's visit in Charlotte. Happy return Charlie!
We wish you were all here to see how beautiful the campus looks at this time of the year. Most of the leaves have turned to their many colors and are gradually falling. It won't be long until everyone here will be raking or playing in them.
This coming Wednesday, October 11th, we are going to have a birthday party for our children since we have had so many birthdays this month. One of our big sisters also had a birthday.
We have now four big sisters who take very good care of us with the help of our housemothers. Two help with the girls and two with the boys. One of which is a very beautiful red-headed girl.

Another who shows her talent by singing in our church choir. Another who has been with us for only two weeks, we are growing to love as we do the other three. Last but not least we have a little girl who looks like a boy since she had her hair cut off.
So long until next month.

INFIRMARY

Hi Folks,
Long time, no hear! But open your ears because we are going to shoot you the works.
Football season is under way here at Barium and, "Boy!" are the "Tornadoes" hot this season; with the winning of Thomasville 21-6 and Childrens Home 41-0, but with a slight upset from Boyden High of Salisbury we were defeated 12-7. Here's hoping we win the rest of our games in the future. Keep up the good work boys.
Our new gym we have looked forward to for so long is being delayed for the lack of steel.
We went to the fair last week and had a wonderful time. The High School students want to thank the Kiwanis Club of Statesville for making it possible for us to attend.
Shirley Porter, the "Little Nurse" has finally returned from the hospital where she stayed for five weeks. Welcome Home!
Well folks, if you get sick you know where to come. Yes, you guessed it, come right to the Infirmary.
See you next month with more of our exciting news.
— The "Morgue" Reporters
— Jane Feimster, Elmina Johnson, Shirley Porter.

WOMANS BUILDING

Hi There,
Time again to bring you up to date on our current events.
First we want to tell you about our football team winning both of its games. The score of the Thomasville game was 26 to 6, and the score of the game with Children's Home was 41 to 0 in our favor. "Keep the good work up boys, we are with you all the way."
Fair bound! Every one attended the fair and seemed to have had a wonderful time. We had a chance to vote for the girl who is representing the fair queen from our school. "Best of luck Ann!"
We are all enjoying school and it will not be long until we receive our reports. Lets not be like this boy. Teacher: "Billy where is the Red Sea located?" Billy, "Its on the third line of my report card."
Each month our work sheet changes and we work at a different job. For myself I can't wait as I miss my good warm bed every morning. I know everyone else feels the same way so I hope their time will pass as fast as mine did.

Miss Ferguson took some of the girls (ones who wanted to) on a weiner roast and you should hear them talk. We know they had a grand time and also know they ate everything they could hold.
Two girls, Marie Andrews and Frances Stricklin, from our building are group leaders in our league for the coming year. May God be with you and guide you girls, and also the others who joined the groups.
Well so long folks until next time
—Marie Andrews

ANNIE LOUISE

Hello Friends,
One of these days we little girls here at Annie Louise aren't going to make the deadline for the cottage news. But what can you expect from us small, "brainless", busy girls? (The $64.00 question!)
That event which never fails to creep up on us is soon due. Of course we're talking about the undying report cards that seem to come around unexpectedly. Just in case a "few" of us are a little below average, do you suppose it would do any good to cross our fingers? Or is it too hopeless?
Since our first football game was played on our own "Sloan Field", we Annie Louise girls were able to go. However, the second game was on Children's Home's field which we heard all about from our two big sisters. From all we can gather, our mighty Barium team is doing pretty good.
Speaking of our two big sisters, the other night they were teasing the house mother, who is from Statesville, about hoping her home town would get beat. For a while there was a wild chase all over the campus, and since their hiding place is a secret, we can't tell you anything further. But we can tell you this, they both slipped up by the fire escape at Bonnie's suggestion.
Not so long ago all the Barium students went to the Fair, which is just below us. You never saw so many dirty faces in all your life as there were at the end of that day. We always look forward to the fair, for we never have gone a time without having a great deal of fun.

As the beginning of October is the time when the changing leaves are given the most attention. It seems that they are the prettiest right at this time of year.
Some of our little girls have gotten beautiful fall school dresses from the sewing room. Come to think of it, there are a few that are the color of the leaves.
Just the other day we little girls had the nice surprise of going to see "Peggy" a comedy in technicolor. All of us were about to "die laughing", for just about everything in it was funny.
It's time now for us to wear shoes, which at the moment we are glad to get on. But by the time summer rolls around again, we'll be glad to get them off. That is human nature, we guess.
Now don't forget to keep your fingers crossed for us, and we're pretty sure that we won't. With the report cards coming our way, it's going to take more than crossed fingers to get good reports, and thats us crossed over our housemother's knee.
Until November, we remain—
—The A. L. C. Girls

HOWARD

Hello Friends,
We are glad that the leaves are falling. Now we can make play houses and run and jump in them.
We have a new bicycle that the children from the Junior High School in Mooresville sent to us. We are having fun riding the bike after school. If Miss Cora Freeze and the boys and girls who sent it to us could see us riding it they would know just how much fun we are having.

We are having a big time now after school has started. We have started skating. On rainy days we stay inside and fix puzzles and play records.
All of us were invited to the fair. We were so excited about getting to ride all the different things. We had almost as much fun talking about it when we came back. It was nice of the folks at the fair to invite us.

LEES

Hello Everybody,
We are still around and as lively as ever even if you haven't been hearing from us.
We had a very happy summer but were glad to start back to school. It is time for our first reports, hope every one makes good grades.
We transferred nine boys to Jennie Gilmer and we got nine from Synods Cottage.
We are glad to have Elmer Earl Cox to come live with us, he comes from Washington, N. C.
The flowers have been pretty, we have helped keep the weeds out of them. We want to move a lot of them in the house this winter.
You should see our campus now. The maple leaves are turning yellow and red and some are falling. We enjoy playing in the leaves. Then we will rake them up and send them to the barn to make beds for the cows.
We are having fun playing football. We are the "Rag Team".
So long till next month.
— The Lees Boys

How It Looks At

our income from all sources lacked $10,000.00 of meeting our needs and we had to draw on our reserves for that amount to make up the deficit. But if the churches, through their splendid organizations, continue the rate of giving we are now receiving, with God's help and blessing we will avoid a deficit this year. So we thank God and take courage.

Iredell County Fair Holds "Barium Day"

Since late summer great plans have been made by all the children on the campus for the annual Iredell County Fair. Some of the boys have been getting their calves ready while others prepared exhibits of fruit, grain and various other items. However all were ready to attend on the day which was turned over to Barium.
The general manager, Mr. Clyde Smyre, extended the usual invitation to Barium Springs to come down and have the afternoon "on the house". R. G. Calhoun, principal of the school, together with his teachers and some of the housemothers, made arrangements for the children to leave the campus at 12:30, walking about a quarter of a mile, to enter the fair ground gate. From one o'clock until five it was a hilarious and glorious occasion. During the first hour all of the exhibits were open and the children had an opportunity to see them. From two until four o'clock the Ferris Wheels were running and the jitneys were flying and the trains were on the track and loud and happy voices were calling across the way, giving evidence that hearts were light and merry. The management was at its greatest and turned the things over to all the children who came along. At four o'clock the arena was open and the arena show with all of its entertainment was presented before the cheering children. At 5:30 the afternoon was closed and weary bodies but happy minds made their way back to the campus and once again the Iredell County Fair was tucked away in the minds and memories and experiences of the boys and girls.

State Conference Held At Oxford

The annual meeting of the child-caring institutions was held in Oxford, N. C. on the 27th of September. The Masonic Orphanage with Reverend A. D. Leon Gray, superintendent, was host for the day, providing assembly halls and conference rooms and affording a delicious meal at lunch time for the nearly one hundred visitors.

The morning session was featured by choral singing of the children from The Colored Orphanage in Oxford and two addresses, one by Miss Mary Bruce Roberts from Atlanta, Ga., speaking on The Housemother, and the other by Mr. Martin Gula of Washington, D. C., speaking on The Superintendent.

After lunch forums were held for the housemothers and the superintendents. The business session in the late afternoon closed the conference, with Reverend L. C. Larkin of the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh being elected president to succeed Reverend Thomas L. Moose of The Nazareth Orphanage at Rockwell.

Invitation was extended by the Mills Home of Thomasville for the conference to meet with them in 1951.

Representing Barium were Miss Neely Ford, Mrs. Elizabeth Payne, Mrs. E. M. Ellis, Mrs. J. H. Gentry, Miss Kate Taylor, Miss Lois Jackson, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, Mrs. Ruth M. Watson and Reverend Albert B. McClure.

FOUNDATION OF FREEDOM

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Jno. 8:32: Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.

One hundred and seventy four years ago the Continental Congress passed and signed a great Declaration of Independence which began.

"We hold these truths to be self evident. That all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Some years later a constitution of the United States was enacted and certain amendments were passed from time to time which became a part of the Constitution. The following are significant sentences:

"Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or of the freedom of speech or of the press."

"The right of citizens to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state, on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Somewhat before the Declaration of Independence of Philadelphia there was the Mecklenberg Declaration couched in similar language. A hundred or so years before that our Scottish forefathers signed their covenant in their blood on the grave stones of the Greyfriars Church yard, words that spoke as strongly for freedom.

I have just received a book translated from the Latin of the 16th century. I give you two short quotations. One was the words of Geo. Buchanan, moderator of the church of Scotland and a Presbyterian Elder. He said, "Kings do not exercise authority by divine or other inherent right, but are created kings by election at the hands of their people, and on condition of their maintaining the laws." The other quotation is from John Knox founder of Presbyterian church of Scotland, "All man is equal."

Whence came these thoughts of men of old that we find written in constitution of our Republic? It comes from God's Book. His word of truth. His word is truth. 'Freedom,' says Jesus, 'comes from knowing the truth.'

So may we briefly today find again and redefine the Foundations of our Freedom.

1—Freedom under the Law.
It is something of a paradox that there is no freedom without law. No state is a free state which is not governed by law and that law to apply to every person in the state be he king, prelate, president commissar or what have you. A free state is governed by law.

That is why when God was establishing the Hebrew Commonwealth, the first great democracy, he first called his servant Moses onto the mount and delivered to him the book of the law.

Should we make our freedom strong? Obey the law. Uphold the law. In that day when the law is used to strengthen oppression or to defeat justice then is freedom fled from our country.

2—Freedom under representative government.

As our Declaration says, "Deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed." The germ of representative government is found in the Hebrew Commonwealth built up by Moses. Fear him as he said to the Israelites, "Take you wise men and understanding and known according to your tribes and I will make them heads over you."

Dr. Lyman Abbott has written "The Hebrew commonwealth was the first government to put restrictions upon the absolute power of the monarchy; the first to have a popular legislative assembly; the first to ask for the judgement of the people in general elections; the first to organize government into three departments - legislative, judicial and executive; the first to make any provision for popular instruction."

I have read a story of a statesman who picked up the book of church order which outlines the government of the Presbyterian Church, a representative government, representatives chosen by a vote of the people and he said here, coming down from the days of monarchy are the principles on which America was founded. Yes, I am proud of my Presbyterian heritage, traceable in two lives for nearly two hundred years. But the Presbyterian System is of value because the men of the Westminster Assembly were men of the Book and the Scottish Church which accepted those Presbyterian standards and passed them on to us were embred with the Philosophy of Geo. Buchanan, Algernon Sidney, John Knox, and Andrew Melville who were men of the Book. That book which Andrew Jackson declared in his last illness to be "The rock on which our republic rests."

3—Freedom in equality.

When our forefathers declared their independence they say that they hold it a self evident truth that men are created equal. Abraham Lincoln in his Gettysburg address began by saying "Four-score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Whence came this fundamental principle of freedom? It is founded on the word. The principle goes back to Moses in the establishment of the Hebrew Commonwealth when Moses declared in Deut. 10:7 "The Lord your God regardeth not persons." Job declared "He respecteth not any." God had to work a miracle and repeat it three times to get it through the thick head of Peter, but at long last Peter said I perceive that God is no respecter of persons. Puir Bobby Burns who wrote "a man's a man for a' that" also describes a poor farmer and his family reading the Bible and praying and singing hymns and concludes his great poem, "From scenes like these old Scotia's granduurs springs, which makes her loved at home revered abroad.

Princes and Earls are but the breath of Kings, an honest man's the noblest work of God.

Salisbury Eleven Takes Tornadoes

A strong and spirited club of Yellow Jackets from the Boyden High School in Salisbury, coached by Bill Ludwig, came out victorious in the scrap on Sloan Field on Friday, October 6th, by the score of 12-7. The Yellow Jackets with the passing accuracy of Barger scored two touchdowns in the first half to take a 12-0 lead. In the second half the Tornadoes held strong against all scoring threats and produced a touchdown of their own, making the extra point after and leaving only five points separating the two teams at the final score.

Strong line play, excellent passing, good down field blocking were demonstrated all afternoon. The coaches of Boyden and Barium had their squads in excellent shape and the spirit of the teams on the field and off and the spirit of the cheer leaders and cheering sections was a thing of beauty to behold. Finer sportsmanship and cleaner play could not be asked for.

This is Barium's first loss of the season, having won from Thomasville 21-6 and defeating the Children's Home 41-0. The remainder of the schedule is as follows:

October 13, Barium at Spencer; October 20th, Barium at Lexington; October 27, Homecoming, Monroe at Barium; November 3, North Wilkesboro at Barium; November 10, Barium at Mooresville; November 17th, Barium at Statesville.

Beta Club Elects Ten New Members

The Beta Club of the Barium High School at a recent meeting elected ten new members. Eight girls and two boys were recognized for their excellent grades and citizenship.

The new members are: Paul Barnes, Helen Baucum, Hilda Donaldson, Pattie Inman, Shirley Porter, Melva Powell, Frances Stricklin, Dorothy Surles, Palmer Wilcox, and Gloria Williams.

Mooreville Kiwanis Gave Circus Tickets

The Kiwanis Club of Mooreville, N. C. extended an invitation to the children at Barium Springs to be their guests at the Mills Brothers Circus in Mooreville on October 26th. Dr. Norman Sholar who had charge of the arrangements said that there were 300 tickets available and that he wanted every child at Barium Spring to be present for the circus that afternoon.

Mr. J. H. Lowrance, whose long service at the Home makes him ready to meet any occasion that arises, had transportation ready. The two buses were driven out and the two big trucks loaded up, the pick-up trucks were standing by, and all the cars available were in line so that the whole Home was loaded up and started in procession to the circus grounds.

Upon arrival, we found the Kiwanis committee ready to greet the children and the management of the circus very hospitable in admitting us to the Big Top. To the utter amazement of everyone present, the reserved seats in front of the middle ring had been made available for the Barium children. While the crowd waited the band came over into the center ring and gave a concert, and then for two hours the acts were performed to the thrill and delight of those who were present. Some of the little girls from Annie Louise Cottage wanted to take the clowns home and when their housemother asked them what in the world they would do with them at night they said they would just put them in the box with the rest of the dolls.

The management of the circus in cooperation with the Kiwanis Club went all out in making it a glorious occasion, and even invited the entire assembly to remain for the Wild West Show after the regular performance.

It seems like the Kiwanis Clubs of Mooreville and Statesville are special friends of Barium Springs. They are always doing something nice for the boys and girls here.

Adult Leadership Needed At Barium

Perhaps the most important place at Barium Springs is that of a housemother. For twenty-four hours a day she lives with the children and it is the housemother who coordinates all that happens in the life of the child. At the present time there is need for additional leadership in this field at Barium, but since this is a phase of work that is so important, it requires persons who are particularly well suited for the job.

A person necessarily has to be strong in body to take the strain of the day as it comes. Adaptability and gentleness are two other qualities that a person needs, and if one does not have a good sense of humor there is hardly a possibility of being successful in the work. Love for children and the ability to understand them are also prerequisites. So the housemother must be a rather unusual person, strong in body, keen in mind, and deeply spiritual in outlook, capable of dealing with the most important thing upon earth - the soul and body of a child. Persons who have these qualities and who have a desire to enter into this work as a calling and who are young enough to grow up in the work, might communicate with the superintendent of the Home.

THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM SPRINGS

On Thanksgiving Day nearly three hundred children will bow their heads to give thanks for the bountiful meal set before them at Barium Springs. It is traditionally true that certain friends provide the Home on that day with all that is necessary for a Thanksgiving spread. Every child may eat until he is satisfied, and more than that, until he is uncomfortable. But the glorious part of the story is that as they eat their Thanksgiving dinner they also know that they will be able to eat during the days between then and next Thanksgiving, because Presbyterians throughout the Synod of North Carolina, are going to reach down deep in their pockets and send their hard-earned money to the Home to provide for the children.

The Synod of North Carolina in adopting its budget proposed that nearly two-thirds of the Churches' gifts to Barium Springs should be given at Thanksgiving through the Thanksgiving Offering. Every year ministers, officers, Sunday School teachers, and members of the church have worked hard and given sacrificially. This year will be no exception. Even though everything at home is higher, people will also recognize that the same items bought at Barium Springs are higher too, and will therefore send to the treasurer of the Home enough to feed, clothe and care for the boys and girls who make up the Barium family.

Often it has been said that Barium Springs receives more than its share, that Barium Springs is rich. If the financial statement printed in the Messenger was read, the truth would be known for the facts stand out clear as to the exact financial status of this institution. Presbyterians like facts, and the facts are that last year the Home lacked over ten thousand dollars of receiving enough to meet its needs. This deficit was met by taking that amount from the cash operating balance. This cash operating balance stands now at a minimum necessary for meeting the bills between the interim of the incomes from the Churches. It is the faith of the Regents and the administration that when men, women and children throughout the Synod know these facts that they will provide adequately for the work of the Home.

Thanksgiving in 1950 is going to be a glorious occasion because Christian people at the call of the Synod and, in the name of the Christ, are going to send to this part of the Church's work an offering for boys and girls. Remember that Barium lives from hand to mouth and that it is your hand and Barium's mouth.

Homecoming Day Brings Hundreds Back

Former students from North and South Carolina and Virginia thronged the campus at Barium for the annual Homecoming football game on Friday, October 27th.

At the morning Chapel Program and Pep Meeting, presided over by the principal of the school, R. G. Calhoun, Reverend C. H. Sides, pastor of Little Joe's Church, conducted the devotional exercises. The new superintendent, Reverend Albert B. McClure, was presented to the returning alumni, and then the feature of the morning was the address and reminiscing by the former superintendent, Dr. Joseph B. Johnston. Dr. Johnston delighted the assembly by calling the returning grads by name and relating some incident about them and their athletic abilities while they were at Barium Springs.

At high noon the bell in the old tower called everybody together in the spacious dining room for the alumni luncheon, which by special request from the alumni was similar to that which had been eaten so often on the campus. About two hundred folk were present as guests, making from five to six hundred people in the dining room at one time.

The alumni meeting, called by the president, Arthur Roach, was held in the high school building. Reports were made, and resolutions were adopted. Since officers serve for two years no elections were necessary.

The feature of the day came when the Red and White Tornadoes of Barium Springs took on the Blue and White Pythons from Monroe, N. C. in a grand football game. During the contest two passes were completed for touchdowns. John Bullard took a reverse and ran for another one and Buddy Maples bucked over from the five for the fourth. Paul Barnes kicking each point with Pinky Hillard holding, made it four straight and the score was 28-0 in favor of Barium Springs.

Campus NewsSEWING ROOM

Hello friends,

Since we did not get any news in the Messenger last month, we have lots to say this time.

The most important thing that has happened to us was about a week ago. I suppose everyone enjoys a home made cake once in a while. All the sewing room girls and our two bosses enjoyed a big piece of devil's food cake. You ask where we got it? Jeanne Turlington's mother came to Barium for a week-end and she brought her a beautiful cake and well, you know the rest. We really would like to thank Jeanne's mother and all hope she will come back soon.

Our football season is in full swing and we have won all of our conference games. Our only non-conference game was with Salisbury. But they did not beat us too much, only 13 to 7. Our last game was played over at Lexington and ended with a scoreless tie. Keep up the good work boys and you can rest assured that all of us are behind you.

The sewing room has really been busy making pajamas for boys and school dresses for girls. You should hear these machines hum. You would think something was behind them, as indeed there is, you ask what? Why there are seven senior girls busy working their fingers to the bone.

Here is a little gossip about each girl working here in the sewing room.

Jeanne Turlington took a trip to Charlotte to buy her a new coat. We all know she will be really warm this year.

Frances Stricklin is already making college plans. She will attend W. C. U. N. C. Good luck goes with your plans Fannie.

Melva Powell having an 8 by 10 picture made. Wonder who the lucky person is that will receive it? Old Powell can be seen any time at the mail box, what time she isn't sewing.

Anne Wilcox is being a busy beaver beautifying our recreation room down at the Woman's building. Wonder what the big deal is? What say, Willie?

Shirley Inman, waiting with great anticipation for the Albemarle-Statesville football game. Now what's in Statesville? Or is it Albemarle that is attracting her attention?

Peggy Plyler, keeping up with Western Carolina College. There must be a "Church" down there, Reckon?

Joyce Katen's favorite music is listening for the sounds of a motorcycle. We can't understand why she likes that kind of music, but if she likes it, why complain?

Louise Surles is still working as the school librarian.

Last but by far not the least is Clara Mangum. Wonder why it is that Clara is receiving a letter from Salisbury nearly every day. Could there be something serious about all these letters? We will leave that to her to decide.

Report cards have gone out and nearly everyone made the honor roll. We really are proud of our girls and we hope everyone will make the honor roll next month.

Homecoming is Friday, the 27 of October. Everyone come up and have a real big time. We are expecting a lot of people, so don't disappoint us.

All of us senior girls send all of you a sincere wish that who ever you are, or where ever you are, you will have a wonderful Thanksgiving and may God bless you all.

Until you hear from us again we remain as ever,

—The sewing room girls.

ANNIE LOUISE

Greetings Friends and Neighbors:

Since the Thanksgiving season is near at hand, we here at Barium are beginning to look around to see all the beautiful wonders to give thanks. The autumn trees, with their red, yellow, orange, and still green leaves, are a sight in itself to behold. With so many trees on our big campus, they no doubt are the first fall season things we notice. The green grass is fading slightly and with it we know old man winter isn't any too far away.

Surprises galore are just flooding our way! First, we went to the picture show to see a comedy called "Peggy". All of us including the first grade laughed till our sides felt as if they'd split. Second, we just came back from seeing a circus in Mooresville. It was the biggest circus we had ever seen, and in all three rings they had an act going on at one time. For some of us, it was the first time we had been big enough to see one. However, for us "veterans" it was again a pleasant surprise.

That same night while we were bathing, little Betty Sue Church and Mary Jane Bolton said that they wished they could have brought one of the elephants back with them. Where would you keep it? was asked. "In our boxes, of course", came a quick reply. Now for any of you who have seen these boxes, you could tell at once that an elephant's foot could barely get in one.

A little birdie has dropped us a hint that we may get to go to a movie to see "My Blue Heaven" starring Betty Grable. Of course there is a possibility that this birdie is wrong, but we hope not.

You faithful friends of ours who have kept your fingers crossed for us on that report card business, might be interested to know the outcome for the first six weeks. We want you to know that it certainly did help, for there were a good many of us on the honor roll, but also a good many who weren't. There were a few who missed by one S. Now that's doing good for us small ones, don't you think? Please keep on being just as faithful, and we'll see what we can do next time.

Until that time, thank you so much for everything.

—The A. L. C. Girls.

WOMANS BUILDING

It seems that so many nice things happen to us that I forgot something very important last month.

I would like to take this time to say thanks to Mrs. Crumpler for the sixteen pairs of lovely curtains. They certainly do improve the looks of our rooms.

We don't mind the wind blowing now, since Mr. Treuse sent us the beautiful lace trimmings for our slippers. "Thank you Mr. Treuse."

All the Senior girls are stepping out in new outing night gowns. Bet they stay warm, don't you?

Glad to have the Regents with us the other day. The birthday table was not quite so large this month, only 59 people went, this included the Regents and pupils who had a birthday in October.

We received our reports and everyone made pretty good grades. Now we will say, "Congratulations" to all the girls who made the honor roll.

One of our girls has taken the job as assistant matron on the other side of the campus. We hope she will soon come back and live with us. "Welcome home any time Elsie."

Our game with Spencer was one which almost anyone could enjoy, even though we did have to stand up. We put the game in the bag by a margin of 38 to 6.

Lay off your cokes and candy, girls, basketball starts November thirteenth. We can hardly wait, as we have new suits and everyone is doing her best to see if she can get one. They are still black and gold, but so beautiful that the players might be scared to play in them. We also got new warm-up suits which are lined this year. Guess we do not have an excuse to get so close to Mr. Hethcox now. "What do you say to this, girls?"

Everyone's eyes were turned to some visitors the other day that Elsie, Peggy and Marie were showing around. Certainly was glad to have Rev. and Mrs. Moore and some members of his church down from Charlotte. Hope you can come again soon, friends, and also you others who have not been the first time. Don't say you don't have time, just run up any time.

Due to rainy weather the Barium and Lexington game was postponed until Monday. The game turned out to be a scoreless one. But it was still exciting for those of us who went.

We have been having some excellent plays in the past weeks. If they don't watch out we will run the movie stars out of business.

We forgot to tell you before, thanks to you friends who have made it possible for us to attend the football games away from home.

Every one seems to be making tracks, and with new shoes at that. They certainly do look smart. Don't wear them out walking up and down the side walks, girls.

Some of the girls have had visitors and we would like to say we certainly did enjoy having everyone of you, come again, friends.

A member of the Senior class is going to start writing some news from our school. Be sure you read it, I know it will make interesting reading.

Certainly did have a delightful time at the Circus. Thank you friends, who made it possible for us to attend.

"I smell paint." O yes, I know, they are fixing up a recreation room down stairs, where we hope to dance, play games and just have fun.

So long folks until next month.

—Marie Andrews.

FOUNDATION OF FREEDOM

By REV. R. S. ARROWOOD

Ino. 8:32: Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.

Last month we discussed the blessing of civil and religious liberty and gave three pillars for its foundation: The Law; Representative Government; Equality.

The fourth pillar is

FREEDOM OF SPEECH AND WORSHIP

We get our papers with their criticism of the powers that be, uttered without fear or favor so long as they contain nothing scandalous or libelous. So long as there is freedom to speak the truth in America, men's minds will be enlightened and their intellect will be free and freedom can live. The first amendment to Constitution guarantees that to us. It is not known behind the iron curtain, where a choice remark just a hint may cost a life.

How wonderful is the Bible in its teachings on free speech. Old Nathan the Prophet feared not to point his finger at King David saying, "Thou art the man." Old Elijah met Ahab in Naboth's vineyard that Ahab was about to take, and Ahab said "Hast thou found me, O mine enemy?" And Elijah replied "I have found thee because thou hast sold thyself to do evil in the sight of the Lord." The Apostles Peter and John preaching at the beautiful gate of the temple were called and commanded not to speak nor teach in the name of Jesus. But Peter and John replied "We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard."

Closely bound to the freedom of speech is freedom of worship, assured us by the Constitution of the United States.

How fortunate Americans to have civil and religious liberty won by the blood of martyrs all down the ages. Witness the Hebrew children in the fiery furnace, Daniel in the Lion's den; James the son of Zebedee slain with the sword; Stephen stoned to death; Peter crucified; Paul beheaded; Ridley and Cranmer burned at the stake. Time would fail me to tell the long sad story how, in the name of religion, "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Yes the roll of martyrs is a long one who gave their lives that we might worship our God according to the dictates of our own consciences. It was fitting that the words of Patrick Henry were first spoken in a church, Old St. John's Church in Richmond. "Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death."

FREEDOM FROM THE POWER AND PUNISHMENT OF SIN

But political and civil freedom is not the final, the complete freedom, described in our text, for far too many in this land of freedom are still bound by the chains of habit; hemmed in and hampered by their own prejudice; limited and enslaved by their sins; knowing little of what Paul calls "The glorious liberty of the children of God." Freedom to such an one only comes through the sacrifice, the salvation of Jesus Christ. No slave can set a slave free but the son of God can for he abides in God's house forever.

Last summer we visited one of the most beautiful estates in North Carolina and went through that part of the house open to the public. But often we came to a silken cord that said we could go no further. There were hundreds of rooms we might not enter. But if we had seen children of that home every door would have swung wide for us. "For if the Son shall make you free ye shall be free indeed."

To gather then in a few words the message of this text. The hope of the world for freedom rests not in armies; or in Marshall plans; or in treaties, United Nations, or any man made material thing, but only on the principles of this Book, the Word of God, and in Him who is incarnated truth. For where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

Barium Takes Second Place In Conference

The Barium Springs football team finished a very successful season, with only one loss and that to Statesville 7-0 in the final game. The South Piedmont Conference record shows six wins, one tie, and one loss, which was good enough for second place in the final standings.

Salisbury, a triple A team, won over Barium in its only non-conference game by the close score of 12-7. Barium was one of the few teams to score on Salisbury this year.

The results of the games played this season are shown below:

Barium 21, Thomasville 6.
Barium 41, Children's Home 0.
Barium 7, Salisbury 12.
Barium 38, Spencer 6.
Barium 0, Lexington 0.
Barium 28, Monroe 0.
Barium 28, N. Wilkesboro 0.
Barium 23, Mooresville 0.
Barium 0, Statesville 7.

The Junior teams played only four games this Fall, but were winners on every occasion. The scores are as follows:

Barium 21, Statesville 7.
Barium 37, Statesville 0.
Barium 35, Lenoir 0.
Barium 7, Lenoir 0.

WOMANS BUILDING

So much has happened this month I hardly know what to tell you first, and I can't go by importance because one is as important as the next.

We certainly have enjoyed having members from Gastonia, Kings Mountain, Charlotte, and other neighboring towns with us. We want to say thank you for the lovely and useful gifts you brought.

Everyone certainly did enjoy the delicious picnic supper, given mostly by the young people and some older members of the church from Gastonia.

Members of our home here at Barium have traveled around to different churches, and talked, sang and just had a swell time. "Thanks to you friends who's homes they stayed in." We know they had a wonderful time!

We had a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner and an entertaining ball game. Wish you all could have seen it. I think the final score was 18-0 Statesville Alumni's favor.

The girls on the first floor went bowling and you should hear them talk. This was the first time most of us had been, and we can hardly wait until we get to go again.

The upstairs girls took in a movie as their entertainment, as we have so many girls we could not all go bowling.

Mr. McClure and our matrons planned a square dance for us, and since we do not have them very often it is rather hard to find a partner. But I think the ones who wanted to go, went so far as to put a sack over some of the boys heads until they got them down there. Enjoyed having everyone of you boys with us and hope there will be some new faces at our next dance, which we hope will not be long off.

The boys are going to have their football banquet Friday. We hope they will enjoy it as much as we enjoyed their games. The senior girls have their fingers crossed, hoping they will get to go.

Everyone is looking forward to Christmas and to make it seem almost here we have a beautiful

SEASON'S GREETINGS

These little girls can hardly wait for the real Santa to come, but while they eagerly anticipate that glorious time they want to speak for all the boys and girls of the home and wish you a "Merry Christmas!"

snow fall. Merry Christmas, to all of you.

Supper was prepared by some of our girls and Mrs. Hobgood, for the men of the church. Surely was delighted to have each and everyone of you. Melva and Peggy Plyler appreciates the pictures the photographer sent them, of the girls who worked. "Thank you."

Well so long folk until next month.

—Marie Andrews.

BABY COTTAGE

Stop, Look and Listen!

Can that be old St. Nick we hear? Must be, for sure as can be we did see him Thursday night in Statesville and heard his big hearty laugh, and we just know he soon will be around, and just how in this world can we keep our eyes closed and not peep just a teeny weeny bit just to make sure he is the one we saw. I hope he finds every little stocking and makes everybody happy.

We have had snow and we played in it and had lots of fun.

Our basketball season has begun. We play our first game Dec. 12, and we are hoping to win, for our big sisters are on the team, and oh boy, we can't lose.

We just don't have much news this time only about Christmas. Our Santa letters have gone out and we just know all our good friends everywhere are going to see that Old Santa don't miss anyone.

We do want to thank everyone for what they have done already for us and that you have a very happy Christmas.

Yours as always,
—The Babies.

RUMPLE HALL

Hi Folks,

We are back again with our news. We didn't get our news in last time so we have a lot to tell you.

School is getting along just fine. We are all happy to be going back to school. We all are putting in a hard days of work and play.

Rumple Hall had a skating party we invited the Jennie Gilmer boys to go with us. We had a wonderful time and while we were skating it started snowing. One would have thought Santa had come and we thought we were having a white Christmas too.

We went to the Statesville Christmas parade and enjoyed it very much. The bands were wonderful. Jean Turlington was elected our Christmas queen. The night after that we had a football banquet and all of our football boys came.

We are all getting our furniture painted up. Some friends in Durham are sending us some new mirrors for our rooms and some friends in Wilmington are getting us some new curtains. We are very happy to be remembered by these friends.

We were also very happy to be remembered by a group of friends from Mooresville. We had a wonderful box of goodies and did we enjoy them. Thanks friends.

That's all folks so be watching for our news next month.

—Joyce Ferrell and Barbara Melton

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear friends,

This time last month we youngsters were thinking along the line of Thanksgiving and all it means to us. During December we tune up our thoughts on Christmas, baby dolls, Santa Claus, Rudolph the Red Nose Rein deer and so forth. Not only will our thoughts be tuned up but our vocal cords need to be tuned up too. In a week or so from now, quite a few of us will try to harmonize to the beautiful songs which are dear

Falling Leaves and Christmas Money

It would be hard indeed to convince a child at Barium Springs that money does not grow on trees, for every Fall as the leaves come tumbling down to the campus it is a sign for them to get their rakes, brooms, and sacks and start to work to pick up the money that has been growing on the trees. This is the way that leaves golden and red and brown and yellow become pennies, nickels, dimes, and dollars. The children in cottages rake up the leaves, play in the big piles and then pack them down deep into bags that have been provided. The housemothers supervise the job and keep count of the bags and then the truck comes by and hauls them away. Well, where does the money come in? Simply that the cottage gets paid so much for each bag and that money is used for Christmas. Thus a child is enabled to serve the Home and provide something for himself and his cottage in getting ready for Christmas giving and spending - spending for himself and giving to the Give-To-Christmas-Tree.

Each year a large Christmas tree is put up in the center of the dining room sometime before the Christmas holidays begin. For weeks the people of the campus plan and save and get ready to come to the Give-To-Christmas-Tree service. During the service an opportunity is afforded each one to bring his gift and place it on the tree and these gifts are taken and used for some person or family selected in advance who really needs something at Christmas time.

and familiar to us. If we get good enough, we might open our windows in order to give the other cottages some listening pleasure. Second report cards are just

Football Banquet Honors Players

The annual football banquet was held at Barium Springs on Friday evening, December 1st, to honor four teams - varsity, junior varsity, and the 90-pound and 110-pound teams. Reverend R. S. Arrowood served as toastmaster.

Paul Barnes, varsity captain for the past year, received the greatly prized award of being voted, by his teammates, the most valuable player during the past season. This honor is acquired by a majority vote of the 18 letter men.

Mr. W. A. Hethcox presented the letters to the 90-pound team, Rev. C. H. Sides to the 110-pound team, Mr. Joe Ben Gibbs to the junior varsity, and Mr. S. A. Grier had the honor of awarding letters to the varsity.

The banquet menu maintained the high standard that has been set for this annual occasion at Barium, which is the crowning event of the football season and marks the close of a very successful one. Letters were awarded as follows:

Thanksgiving Report Will Be In Next Issue

From the North, South, East and West of the State of North Carolina, from the urban Church and the rural Church, from organizations and individuals, there has been coming to Barium Springs the gifts made at Thanksgiving time for the Home and the Children. Of course the money is essential to the operation of the institution, but the great and encouraging thing is the interest and prayers and love manifested by this giving.

It will be late December or January before a satisfactory report can be made, so look for the listing of the gifts in the next issue of the Messenger.

the honor roll. Improvements on conduct mean that we want Santa to be good to us again this year and not bring us any switches.

Every time we seem to tell you about our Joy Gift Christmas tree, which we have in the dining room. Well, it's no different this year. Again we're going to backfire and give instead of just receiving. To someone in need, we are going to give a gift and we are all too happy in doing so. It makes us feel that we have balanced the Christmas Spirit by giving.

Our ever favorite game of basketball is almost in full swing. By the 12th of December, we will have played our first game of the season. Our big sisters are going to try to explain what goes on out there on the court, for there are a few of us who have never seen a basketball game. We do hope that our basketball season will be as successful as our past football season was.

Also every month we tell you about a movie we have recently seen. This time, the most recent was "Tripoli," a very colorful and exciting movie. During part of a sand storm, we just had to close our eyes, for we're too chicken-hearted to watch.

Remember to keep in touch with us every month, and we'll make sure that our little article is right here where it ought to be.

Merry Christmas, everyone, and may you have a very happy New Year.

—The Little Forget-Me-Nots

SCHOOL NEWS

The football season was officially over on December the 1st when we had our football banquet. At the end of the season, we had a total of six wins, one loss, and one tie in conference games. We were second in our conference. At the banquet, it was announced that Paul Barnes had been elected by his teammates as captain and most valuable player of the year.

We will lose four players from graduation, Paul Barnes, Terrell Hall, Bobby Whiting and Mason Traywick.

We had Thanksgiving holidays from Thursday until Monday of the following week. On Thanksgiving Day we had the annual "Linament Bowl" game. The alumni of our school played the alumni of Statesville and lost 18 to 0.

Two weeks ago basketball practice started. You'll be hearing more about this later on.

The Glee Club had a program November 9th at the grammar grade auditorium, giving both sacred and secular music. They also gave a program of sacred music at Mitchell College. The Sextette, consisting of Melva Powell, Jeanne Turlington, Helen Barnes, Rae Powell, Louise Campbell and Shirley Inman, went to Raleigh and spent the week-end in order to sing for the Vanguard Sunday School Class and the First Presbyterian Church there on Sunday morning. This sextette also sang at Statesville for the Ladies Auxiliary. Another group, made up of Hazel Creech, Pattie Inman, Peggy Neel, Lucille Stinson and Anne Wilcox went to Newton to sing for the Ladies Auxiliary.

We are very proud of our school this month because during the recent Jr. Red Cross drive we had 100% participation and gave a total of $31.25. This is the largest amount we have given in recent years. The Junior Class is now selling Christmas Seals.

The middle of November we wrote our Santa Claus letters.

Our contestant for Miss Merry Christmas was Jeanne Turlington, a senior. Everybody went to the parade in Statesville. Now that the Yuletide Season is officially here, let us be the first ones to wish all of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

LEES

Hello Folks,

We had a very happy Thanksgiving and we want to thank all our friends for the nice things they do for us.

We went to Charlotte to see the Christmas parade. We took our sandwiches along and had our supper in the bus. We had a good time.

We are looking forward to the Christmas holidays. Santa Claus will soon be here and we will have plenty of toys to play with.

We were invited to the Playhouse to see "Tripoli," then last week we went to see "Treasure Island".

Some friends in Morganton sent us some candy for Thanksgiving and Mr. Flynn Menius came to see us and brought a crate of oranges. Thank you,

We were all thrilled to see the snow. It was real cold but we got out in it just the same.

We have enjoyed the football games and now we are looking forward to the basketball season.

SYNODS

Hello Folks,

We certainly want to thank Mrs. Eugene Johnston's circle in Mooresville for the nice box of cakes they sent us. We have been sharing them with the Howard Cottage girls. They sure do taste good when we come in from school.

Old Jack Frost paid us a visit in real style during the Thanksgiving holidays. He nipped our toes and noses. It was so cold we had to play inside most of the time.

We brought home new report cards today with three of our family on the honor roll. They are: Douglas Byrd, Bobby Meritt, and Bobby Ramsey. Some brought their grades up from last month, others have promised to do better in the future.

Christmas is just three weeks away. We are trying to be real good so he will remember us this year.

Hope old Santa will be good to you.

—The Wigglers.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

The sewing room is just buzzing with news this month. We have been very busy making Choir robes for the Glee Club, and after making them, the girls got to wear them to sing at Mitchell College. Man, they really looked nice. (if we do say so ourselves).

All of us are really proud of ourselves. You ask why? Well, now don't die of shock, but all of us sewing room girls made the honor roll. The only thing now, is to work hard and make it again next month.

Our football season ended very successfully and to make a happy climax, a football banquet was given to which all the senior girls were invited, the faculty, and a number of friends, and of course, the football boys.

After the banquet, the high school was invited to a square dance and all of us danced until we could hardly move. Sure hope we have lots more square dances, 'cause all of us just love to dance.

Now for some news about each of our girls:

Anne Wilcox, receiving letters from Mississippi, wonder who could be way out there and is expecting to come home for Christmas.

Marie Andrews, having a little trouble with her football friend, but she was seen buying a Christmas present, so maybe things will work out.

Peggy Plyler is still keeping up with Western Carolina Teachers College. We are still wondering if a "Church" is down there.

Melva Powell was seen coming out of Belks with a big package. Wonder who the lucky person is that will receive it? The mail box is still a favorite haunt of old Powell's.

Shirley Inman has moved her interest from Albemarle to Statesville. Now wonder what is in Statesville?

Frances Stricklin going around with a wonderful expression on her face. What has come over Fanny? Could it be a "Boyd"?

Jeanne Turlington, our candidate for "Miss Merry Christmas", of Iredell County didn't win but we all thought she deserved it. The Studebaker friend is still going strong.

Now for Clara, well, old Mangum is still receiving letters from Salisbury every day. We were wondering last month if it was serious, now we are almost sure it is. By the way, old Mangum has a part time job working in the "Snack Bar", when the girls are practicing basketball.

Some of our girls have been away this month, making talks and singing. November 18th, Shirley Inman, Jeanne Turlington, Melva Powell, and a few more girls went over to Raleigh to sing. They wish to send their love to Dr. Scarborough and Miss Annie. They had lots of fun and talked about it for days. Clara Mangum went over to Winston-Salem the same day and made a talk on Barium to the Highland Presbyterian Church. After church, she ate at the Robert E. Lee hotel and that's all old Mangum talked about. We know all of these girls had fun and would love to go again, but much to their sorrow they will be graduating in May.

We want to thank Mrs. Hillard for the wonderful candy we enjoyed so much. Any time ya make any more, Mrs. Hillard, we would love to have it.

We are all looking forward to Christmas and to the New Year. Surely hope all of you have a wonderful Christmas and a very happy New Year.

May God bless you all.

—Clara Mangum.

HOWARD

Hi there,

The things that stand out in our minds most this month is going to Charlotte to see the Christmas parade. Hopalong Cassidy led the parade and Santa Claus ended it. The parade was real pretty and we all enjoyed it. We all sat in the bus and watched it.

No one expected the snow but it came Nov. 24. Every one was excited. They were jumping up and down and running back and forth. After breakfast our big time came, we were all sliding down and throwing snow balls. After we had played a little while we came in and got warm. After dinner we went outside to play again and started to make a snow man but we didn't get to finish it.

We got our report cards, nine girls made the honor roll. Their names are Romona Blake, Shelby McEwen, McFarland, Sylvia Wells, Merle Byrd, Janet Woodall, Shelby Peak, and Edna Mae Evans. Elsie Vest, who came to help at our cottage made it too. We are all proud of the ones that made it.

We are still riding the bicycles, we are teaching the ones to ride that don't know how. Already four girls have learned to ride. They are Shelby McEwen, Lillian Bacon, Betty Wright, and Barbara Porter.

So long until next month.

—Howard Girls.

CHILDREN OF THE HOME ENJOY CHRISTMAS AND HOLIDAY SEASON

Christmas at the Home is one of the glorious seasons of the year and one of the busiest. Christmas letters are written in the school rooms under the direction of the teachers early in November and these letters are put in the hands of Miss Rebekah Carpenter who handles the Christmas presents for the children. Particular letters are sent to those who request particular ones and the others are sent to churches who ask for large numbers of letters with some churches taking as many as forty or fifty letters from the boys and girls.

As packages come in they are carefully listed and stored away. It takes a lot of thinking and remembering and writing to get these packages correctly listed and assigned to the proper cottage for a particular child. Two days before Christmas the store room is bulging and Miss Carpenter's brain is in a whirl.

Everything is sorted out and for two days the truck delivers the packages to the various cottages. The housemothers then in the secrecy of their own rooms begin to check to see that everything is properly arranged for and at the last minute there comes a frantic flurry if some expected package has not arrived. The housemother and Miss Carpenter are well fortified for that occasion and immediately the situation is remedied and the child is provided for.

By bedtime on Christmas Eve all is ready and in waiting for Christmas morning. From five o'clock on that good day throughout the rest of the day there is the thrilling excitement of what Santa Claus has brought or what has come from under the tree. Little girls with their baby dolls and little boys with their toys, cowboy suits and tents rock and sing, dance and play all day long. Basketball, volley balls, skates, shirts, sweaters, lovely things to wear, watches, small radios, money and gifts of every description are proudly displayed by the other boys and girls as the members of the Home visit from cottage to cottage to see what each one has received.

In addition to this there are special cakes that come for Christmas dinner, special turkeys that have been on deep freeze for many weeks in preparation for Christmas dinner, special candy that has been sent in for Christmas, special fruit that has been sent up for the Christmas time, and a varied assortment of candies and fruits and games and toys from one or two particular individuals who send up a truckload. There are those who, realizing that in it all somebody might be overlooked, send in special money for use at Christmas. Many individuals send in checks to be used for the children and for the purchase of Christmas presents. Organizations like the Elks of Statesville and the Y M C A of Davidson send in checks. All these things go into the making up of Christmas Day and Christmas dinner, and Christmas gifts, and Christmas trees, so that Barium Springs has a wonderful Christmas season because there are others who have caught the Christmas spirit and remembered the Home.

Campus News

ANNIE LOUISE

Dear Friends,

So much has happened since the first of December that we hardly know just where to start. We'd like to begin with Christmas morning, but there are lots of things which happened to us before that great day.

In December, we told you that the word had drifted out that all small children were going to Davidson for a real, sure-enough party. By the time any more news had drifted to us, we had already

Christmas Treats Parachuted to Campus

Candy from the heavens was a reality on Christmas morning. At eleven o'clock the air was filled with tiny parachutes floating to the ground with candy, chewing gum, and good things to eat. Mr. Aubrey Wallace and Captain Marvin Huntley had been getting their flight ready for weeks at Monroe. The Civil Air Patrol of that town had purchased handkerchiefs and string and had made the little parachutes. The Men's Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church had furnished the money for the project. The airplane had been furnished by the Civil Air Patrol with Captain Huntley at the controls.

At the appointed time on Christmas morning the plane circled the field three times and then made the first run across, setting loose a whole batch of 'chutes that filled the air and came fluttering down to the upreached hands of the children waiting for them. Four runs in all across the field and four loosing of 'chutes gave everybody a chance to get one out of the air and to have the thrill of getting it, taking possession of a good piece of candy and gum and to have a brand new handkerchief for keeps.

come and gone. On the way there, our hearts were light and so were our mouths, coming back, we were just as light-hearted, and our arms were heavy with gifts. No one at our house will ever be able to express our appreciation for the wonderful time, the wonderful courtesy, and the wonderful gifts. Anyway, thanks a lot, we had a nice time!

Next on our list as being an important occasion was the Friday noon we got out for the holidays. We were practically at a loss over how to spend so much free time! But we soon found out, for we went on walks, and played all sorts of games - both in the house and out of doors.

Finally, Christmas Eve we were unusually quiet. This sounds abnormal, doesn't it? Well, we were told that Santa might be peeping in the window to see if we were good or not, and we settled down for a quiet evening, just in case he happened to be watching us. Then - Christmas morning! Feet never moved as fast, sleepiness never vanished as quickly as it did that morning. Presents were sitting there so invitingly, waiting for us to open them up. "Why Santa must be awfully bright to remember all I wanted for Christmas!" "Isn't my Negro doll darling?" "Look at my Bride doll!" Oh, well, isn't all this chatter typical? Seriously now, if there is anyone in our writing thank-you notes we might have skipped, we would be awfully glad if you would write and let us know. There are so many to whom we must write, that perhaps we overlooked someone.

After Christmas Day wasn't the end of our fun! As usual we went to a movie to see another technicolor film. This time to see "Pagan Love Song". We were mostly interested in the beautiful coloring, the swimming, and the dancing.

Perhaps next month we will be able to finish telling you all our adventures and such! So, until February, we wish for each of you a very very happy New Year. —The A. L. C. Girls.

CHILD WELFARE EXPERT VISITS NORTH CAROLINA ORPHANAGES

Howard W. Hopkirk, senior consultant to the Child Welfare League of America, and one of the nation's outstanding authorities on child problems, visited North Carolina January 8 - 13 to consult with officials of two orphanages.

SEWING ROOM

Well, here is our first news for the new year. We sincerely hope that all of you had a wonderful Christmas, and we also hope that this new year will be the best ever.

The sewing room was closed from the nineteenth of December until the second of January. All of us had a wonderful time during the Christmas holidays.

Most of the Senior went home for a few days during the holidays and all of them came back reporting a wonderful time, but glad to be back.

Here is a little report on each of the girls from the sewing room.

Melva Powell received a beautiful music box from her boy friend. Lucky girl! Every time you pass her door you will hear the song "near you."

Shirley Inman, sporting a new "Joan of Arc" hair-do. She really looks cute - you ought to see her.

Marie Andrews with a new long sleeved blouse. Wonder who gave it to her?

Ann Wilcox taking "good" care of our boy friends while we were away, and having fun with the boy from Mississippi.

Peggy Plyler almost getting snow bound while going home. But a tall, good looking boy came to her rescue.

Jeanne Turlington admiring new white topper she received from studebaker friend. Lucky girl to have such a wonderful boy friend!

Clara Mangum wearing a new locket all the time. We know she wouldn't lose it for the world.

Frances Stricklin going to York, South Carolina, what has Fanny got up her sleeve?

Just before we got out of school our sewing room instructors gave us a party and each of us received a beautiful slip. Wish you could have seen the beautiful cake we had. It sure was good.

Since we have come back to work, we have been busy making over the books for the year and fixing some of the Christmas clothes that were a little too big.

Our basketball season starts the fifth of January and we will have lots to tell you about that next month.

We wish you, again, a happy New Year.

Mangum and Powell.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Gee! So much has happened since you last heard from us, that I hardly know where to start.

Santa certainly was good to us this year and we want to take this time to show our deep appreciation. "Thank you to all the Santas!"

It's always a treat to have turkey, and Dr. Scott from Statesville, is on our thank you list for that delicious turkey we had Christmas.

The ball teams have their first conference game January fifth and will continue to have one nearly every Tuesday and Friday until the season is over. "Good luck, girls and boys!"

The Seniors are now wearing those beautiful rings they had to wait so long for. One girl said, "Gee, its not in here I guess I'll

Mr. Hopkirk visited the Presbyterian Orphan's Home at Barium Springs on January 9 and 10. He consulted with the Rev. A. B. McClure, superintendent, and other officials, and then went to the Baptist Orphanage of North Carolina, Inc., at Thomasville on January 11 and 12 where he consulted with the staff headed by W. C. Reed, general superintendent.

Both agencies are members of the Child Welfare League, which is the national federation of child care agencies, both public and private, sectarian and non-sectarian. The League sets standards and helps improve methods for child-care agencies and admits to membership only those meeting high professional qualifications. It now has members in 146 cities in 40 States, Canada and Hawaii.

Mr. Hopkirk has been an expert in child care for more than 25 years. He is a member of the National Commission on Children and Youth, a director of the U. S. Committee for the care of European Children, chairman of the Department of Social Welfare of the National Council of Churches, and author of "Institutions Serving Children," published by the Russell Sage Foundation.

Mr. Hopkirk served as executive director of the Child Welfare League from 1940 to 1948, becoming the League's senior consultant upon his retirement that year.

take my ring off."

We had open house Christmas and all our friends came over to help us enjoy our beautiful gifts. "Glad to have you friends, come back to see us."

Sorry Mr. Johnston and his family could not be with us this Christmas.

We had some visitors on our campus and we hope they enjoyed being here as much as we enjoyed having them. "Come again folks!" Glad to have all our teachers back with us now that the holidays are over.

The "Give to Christmas Tree" turned out to be one of the best we have ever had. This year the gift goes to our old friends, who need the help of young strong people.

Now is the time for exams and you can tell from the determined look on everyone's face, that they are going to pass if possible.

Senior are back and all reported having a nice time while visiting their loved ones during the holidays.

Well, so long friends until next month.

—Marie Andrews.

RUMPLE HALL

Well it is about time we started doing something. We had a nice time at Davidson. The boys were real nice to us and we think it was one of the nicest times we had this year.

Our Christmas tree was real pretty. We had gotten ornaments to put on it. Mrs. Ellis popped some pop corn to put on it and she had a little scene on a table which had some little reindeers and a Santa which made it real pretty.

Christmas morning we were all excited. We had to let every one get dressed and then we went in the sitting room. Mrs. Ellis got Shirley Johnson to call the names on the presents. If we all went up there at one time you know what our present would look like. We all got so many nice gifts for Christmas we hardly know what to do with them.

Mr. Stowe came to see us a little bit before Christmas. He brought us so many nice things, we enjoyed his visit very much. We had a square dance New Year's night with the boys. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Ellis were there to help us do right. Mr. Sherrill and some boys came to play the music and we all had a good time.

Every one at Barium has four free show tickets and we know there will be some good shows on soon, at least we hope so.

We are trying to keep our yard clean and keep it clean so the campus will look neat.

Our Mooresville friends came to see us Wednesday before Christmas. They brought all of the girls a nice present and it was such fun opening them.

We guess this is all for now. Look for us in the cottage news next month.

Former Student Writes Back Home

As soon as the letter which appears in this column reached the desk of the superintendent, he immediately requested permission to publish it in the Messenger in order that the readers might have some idea of what has been done by one of the former students. The letter speaks for itself.

Dear Friends:

I am sure that you have no idea of my existence unless you have seen some of the names of students at Barium in the early part of this century - 1902 to 1909.

I with two sisters, Florence and Nola Murray, and a small brother, Fletcher Murray, entered the "Family of the Church" then called The Orphans' Home in the fall of 1902, and a younger sister, Evelyn Murray entered later. I graduated with the class of 1909. There were only three of us: Ernest Creason, Nell Powell, and Hester Murray. I have heard that Ernest died in early manhood, though I do not know this to be a fact. Nell was married and living in California near San Francisco the last I knew of her.

I attended Flora Macdonald College two years, taught a mission school near Plumtree, N. C. from the middle of May to the middle of September of 1911. Then I took the teacher's examination in Avery County North Carolina and taught the public school at Plumtree that year. The next winter I was principal of a country school in my home community near Burgaw, N. C.

In 1913, I was married to a young Presbyterian minister from Statesville, Reverend W. Parks Gibbs, and we went into one of the Home Mission fields of West Virginia. Mr. Gibbs had a large territory, some fifty miles in length, ten preaching points in churches and schoolhouses, and the method of travel was by horseback or by buggy in summer. The old-time sled with seasoned hickory soles on the runners served during the snowy periods in winter. We enjoyed the sledding. We were there several years until the exposures and rigors of those cold mountain winters made it necessary for Mr. Gibbs to get out of that section, have a throat operation or two, and then to take up other work for awhile. We taught school together for a few years in North Carolina and then in Virginia.

Our only child, a son, John Boyd Gibbs, was born in West Virginia in 1914. He is now an ordained Presbyterian minister in U. S. A. Church, lives near Nashville, Tennessee, is married, has a lovely wife and two dear children, a son, John Boyd Gibbs, Jr. now eight, and Mary Lou Gibbs, six years.

Mr. Gibbs and I did several years of teaching in the Mountain Missions or our church. During the war we did some supply work in mission fields in Virginia and Tennessee. Now we are living near Smithville, Tenn., on the rim of the Cumberland Plateau among a number of nursery farmers. Here, almost every farmer raises several acres of fruit, shade, and nut trees, grape vines, shrubbery and roses as well as the regular crops of corn, grain, hay, etc.

Mr. Gibbs is in his seventieth year so is on the superannuate list. I am in the early sixties, but it doesn't seem possible. We are both alert in spirit and mind.

A new marker has been placed at each end of the campus of Barium Springs as a gift from Mr. and Mrs. John Allred of Mooresville. Photographer Ralph Spencer asked the following children to pose: Shelby Peak, Edna Evans, Joey Vecchio, Merle Byrd, Aline Merritt, Lillian Baucom.

What I want is a pamphlet with names and addresses of Barium Alumni if you have any such roster. I knew several who went on to college and made names for themselves; namely Oscar Mann, Thornwell Gibson, John Carriker and others. I am proud to have had the excellent training which was given at Barium, and have been able to teach Bible Schools, Sunday School classes, do pastoral visiting with Mr. Gibbs, work in the church, and to organize many missionary societies. My Home Ec. training enabled me to be a seamstress and tailor for my family as well as to teach Home Ec. some ten or twelve years. My students write me yet and tell me many nice things about our former associations as teacher and pupil. These letters are very gratifying for we tried to influence the hearts of our students as well as to train their minds.

One of my sisters, Nola Murray, died in 1929 and my brother, Fletcher, died during World War II. Florence, Mrs. Roy Potts, lives on RFD, Waynesville, N. C., and Evelyn, Mrs. P. T. Peterson, on Route 3, Box 204, Wilmington, N. C.

Please send me a copy of your paper and the list of names if you have them. If you do not, why not make that a goal? I know there was an Alumni Association at one time, but I have been out of touch for many years which is my own fault.

We were very much interested in your midget football teams when we got papers that reported their prowess.

My good will and thanks are yours for all that Barium has meant to me, for that training has been the leading influence in my life for all of these years and means more than I am able to tell

Dining Room Pictures Given As Memorial

The big dining room at Barium Springs is taking on a new life and color because of the beautiful pictures which have been hung on the walls. These pictures have been given as a memorial by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Love Tait in memory of Mr. Tait's parents, Margaret Elmina Love Tait and Charles Spottiswood Tait of Brunswick, Ga.

Mrs. Tait, a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Lincolnton and the teacher of art in that city, was invited to Barium Springs to give advice and help in planning for this project of beautifying the dining room. Many weeks and months were spent in securing pictures of the right size and subjects.

When the project was completed Mr. and Mrs. Tait announced that this was a gift to the children of the Home in memory of Mr. Tait's parents.

The Barium family is thoroughly delighted to have the warmth and beauty of color surrounding them at every meal, improving the appearance of the dining room and enriching their souls for eternity.

BABY COTTAGE

Hello friends,

So many things have happened since you heard from us that we don't know where to begin.

First we want to thank every one of you for the most wonderful Christmas. Old Santa left us so many nice things. We hope he had plenty for all the little boys and girls every where.

We had a beautiful give-to-tree in the dining hall, also Christmas tree in the cottage and we were so happy to see the lights come on Christmas morning and see what Old St. Nick left for us.

We have been to the show several times, we enjoy going so much.

We also had a Happy Birthday table for December and January.

We have lots of new brothers and sisters come to live with us.

We have started back to kindergarten, and it will soon be vacation time and moving up to get ready to start to school, and that really is the biggest day in history, when we walk out of the Baby Cottage to start to school.

We have had to stay indoors so much as the weather has been so bad and some have had their their tonsils out and are having to stay close for a little while.

Your little friends,

—Baby Cottage.

RUMPLE RALL

Hi Folks,

Here we are again, back with the news of our cottage.

We got our report cards last week and everyone of us improved some. We had nine girls to make the honor roll. Most of us are going to try to make it next time.

We are all looking forward to our next basketball game. Our next game will be with Children's Home on February 2. Cross your fingers we win!

Next week we are going to have the Father and Son Banquet. We are all looking forward to that.

We are all having a good time with our basketball goal some of the men put up for us. Thanks a lot.

Well so long for now, look for us next month. —Nellie Sellers.

Montgomery's Will Provides Pipe Organ

Plans for the new church at Barium Springs which are now being drawn can include a pipe organ for the sanctuary. The will of late J. T. Montgomery provided money left in his will for Barium Springs shall be used for the purpose of purchasing a memorial pipe organ for the new church to be erected at Barium Springs, to be known as a memorial to J. T. and Mattie Lou Montgomery. I would like for it to be a really good organ and if there is any surplus, after paying for it from the above fund, the excess shall become a part of permanent endowment fund of the institution.

Mr. J. T. Montgomery was a highly esteemed citizen of Statesville and beloved elder of the First Presbyterian Church. His life was a blessing to the community. He loved good music for it inspired his soul, and it lifted him above the trials of the day and strengthened him for his tasks. He also loved Barium Springs, and manifested a great interest in the boys and girls at the Home. In his will he has made provision for that which strengthened and fortified his soul to afford also to the young boys and girls of the campus the same strength that he knew in the beauty of worship through music.

The executors of the will in the closing out of the affairs of Mr. Montgomery will make the money available in plenty of time to secure for the new building this wonderful instrument for the good of the boys and girls and to the Glory of God.

SCHOOL NEWS

After our ten day Christmas vacation, we came back to school on January 2nd.

The Glee Club is going to Mooresville the 18th of this month to sing for the 2nd Presbyterian Church. A double sextette and the boys chorus are going to sing at the Fathers and Sons banquet on Thursday night, Feb. 8th.

The Beta Club sponsored the March of Dimes in our community. We collected $26.45 from the school and surrounding area.

Some of our friends in the Lions Club of Statesville invited the piano students to hear Jerard Jennings, acclaimed America's greatest child prodigy. This seven year old wonder, gave an amazingly good program and we are very grateful for having had the opportunity to see and hear him.

SEWING ROOM

The Sewing Room is writing to you again to tell you some news from our department.

We are really turning out some beautiful dresses and we think they are extra nice. Some pajamas we have been making too and they are really nice. If it weren't for our wonderful supervisors we would never turn out some of the nice clothes that we do.

We just must say something about our basketball players. Both of our teams are on top of the South Piedmont Conference and we hope they stay there all through the season. Keep your fingers crossed for all of them.

Now for some news about each of our girls here in the sewing room.

Marie Andrews has a new hair cut must be for her boy-friend. Looks pretty cute. Ole Powell can take the credit for the way it looks. Why don't you go into business Powell.

Melva writing letters backwards to her boy friend from Charlotte. Now wonder what ole Powell and Johnny are trying to do, keep a secret from the rest of us gals?

Shirley has become interested in Statesville again. Can't imagine why? But we think it's because of her cute boy friend.

Frances Stricklin trying to play "Ranzino" and getting forty-five points in one basketball game. What are you trying to do Fanny? By the way who is Fanny's red-headed boy friend?

Jeanne Turlington wearing her new topper her favorite boy friend Haskell gave her. In about three weeks Jeanne will be an old woman on St. Valentines day.

Peggy Plyler waving at every Nash that comes by. But the "Church" at Western Carolina is still most important interest.

Clara Mangum sending a mighty good looking picture to her favorite boy friend. We know it isn't the boy in Salisbury cause that's off. Now wonder who it could be? Mangum isn't telling this time.

You have heard the latest from the sewing room and the girls who work there.

So until next month, take good care of yourselves and be good!

The Sewing Room Girls

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Even though the weather is cold and North Wilkesboro girls froze the ball during the game, both boys and girls came out victorious. The conference games are well on their way. The next on our schedule is Children's Home here. "Best of luck big teams!" Just because they are younger than we are lets not forget the future varsity team, which is now the Jr. team. They are showing great progress.

Not quite as many on the honor roll this month, guess exams had a great deal to do with it. But do not worry, reports come out again before long and we hope to have one hundred percent on the honor roll "Is it possible girls?"

Only two Juniors in our building and they can't wait until graduation. Sophomores are eagerly awaiting the day when they can call themselves Juniors.

Freshman girls are really stepping out in those beautiful blouses they made in Home Ec., with the guidance of their teacher, Mrs. McClure from Mooresville.

Last, but not least, the eighth grade girls, we don't know what we would do without them, they are our Little sisters.

We want to welcome our two new members Barbara McCall and Ruby Clark. Glad to have you, and hope your stay at Barium will be as happy as ours is.

Seems they are doing some work at the Church, from what I can tell at the present it looks a great deal better.

About three weeks ago they asked us to leave a row in church vacant, and guess what? Not a single visitor has come to occupy those seats yet. "Whats wrong friends?"

The Carrom Set we received is really being used now. Even though there is not enough room for everyone to play we enjoy watching others.

News is short this month so I guess I will bring this to a close and take up where I left off next month.

—Marie Andrews

QUADS

Hello Friends these are your ace reporters with the latest news from the Quads. Some girls must have told their boy friends that crew hair cuts looked good because its getting to be an epidemic.

What came over Joe Barkley lately he is beginning to walk around with that far away look in his eyes.

While graduation is coming closer, Terral Hall, Paul Barnes, and Ami Lybrand have their eyes on Catawba College, Uncle Sam also has his eyes on them. More power to you boys. At the same time, Mason Traywick, Bob Whiting, and Charles Faircloth are expecting a new M-1 rifle in a few months, "free of charge."

After the rush of a big Christmas we are just now beginning to settle down to our daily schedule of school, work, sports and play.

All of the boys want to take this time to say hello and good bye till next month when your ace reporters will bring you up to date news, on what goes on at the Quads.

ANNIE LOUISE

January has been a fast moving month for us little Annie Louise girls, who spend their time working a little, playing a great deal, and going to many basketball games.

From all we can understand, we here at Barium are to be the center of activity during a tournament in the middle of February. Seeing the teams and spectators come and go, win and lose, we make many acquaintances for years to come.

The birthday table for January was what we term as good food, lots of fun, and plenty of time to take care of both. January wasn't a very big birthday month. But with new faces seated at the table, it made everything so much more exciting.

As faithful as always, our third report cards came out the other week. Everyone had been promising such and such, until we didn't know whether we could do all we said.

On the same day the report cards came out, some of the music students, both voice and piano, went to Statesville to hear Jerard Jennings present a concert. Since we A. L. C. girls are too small to take music, we were puzzled over the word "prodigy" that our two big sisters used when they talked about the little boy. Some of us without front teeth, pronounced the word "prothigies", others just couldn't plain out pronounce it at all! We at least know what it means-even if we can't say it.

Many of us have been asking the question, "How long is it until summer?" The reply, "Just about four more months!" "Yippee-summer is nearly here!" is the response. After all the rain and ice, snow and sleet, who in the world would not shout "Yippee" to summer being only a few months away? Thoughts center around, "only four more months of driving howling wind, and freezing rain, then it'll be hot!" Some times when it is hot one day and cold the next, we get greatly discouraged. Oh well! its still four more months til summer.

Material for our new Activities Building are gradually being load-off huge, red trucks. It will be nice to have it, for we need it very much.

Basketball is still our main sport whether it is winter or whatever! we have only one home game in February, much to our regret! However, we have already seen a number of games-our team winning. Our forwards are so tall that the goal is only a few inches from reach. We lose a good many players this year and the basket next year will look a few feet away instead.

Weather permitting we are staying in the house to play with our Christmas things. They're still in fine condition, and we are trying very hard to keep them that way. We must get back to our task of changing our babies diapers, getting them ready for bed, and so forth.

Don't forget to cover up good and come to see us when you can.

—The A. L. C. Girls

JENNIE GILMER

Here we are once again bringing you our news.

We sure did enjoy the fruit Mr. Stowe Jr. and the toys given to us from Mr. Belk.

During the Christmas holidays, Boyce Dean Smith, James Ramsey, Nelson Anderson, Sydney Morrison, Jerry Thomas, Russell Wilson, Ray Smith, Freddie Lentz, Marvin Garis, and John Ferrell had visitors.

We want to thank Mr. Sams of Statesville for sending us some movie tickets.

Ray and Roy Clark from Morganton came to live with us two weeks ago, and we're very glad to have them.

Good bye until next time.

—The Jennie Gilmer Boys.

HOWARD

Here we are again with our news. The thing that we are thinking about most is the things we got for Christmas. It was about 6:30 when we got up. When our housemother told us we could get up, we jumped out of bed and ran down stairs.

Everybody was so pleased with what they got. It would take a long time to tell what everyone got.

We went Christmas shopping the Friday before Christmas. We had a dollar to spend on our friends. We wrapped and put them under the Christmas tree.

The thing we are thinking about now is our report cards. We all wish to make the honor roll. About half of us did, they are: Ramona Blake, Shelby Peak, Shelby McEwen, Sylvia Wells, Jewell McFarland, Janet Woodall, Aline Merritte, Lillian Baucom, and Edna Evans, and Elsie Vest who is working at our cottage. We are all proud of them.

The piano pupils got to go to a concert in Statesville. A little boy seven years old, played the piano. His name is Jerard Jennings. We were all amazed at the way he played.

Miss Andrews took one of our girls, Sylvia Wells for her Christmas present to Charlotte. She spent the afternoon in the dime stores messing around. Then she had her supper and then came home.

When Miss Jackson has her day off, Miss Fanshaw comes to work in her place. She brings some scrap cloth and lets us make doll clothes. We have a lot of fun making them. So long till next month.

Church Architect Visits Campus

Dr. Samuel E. Howie, chairman of the Church Building Committee, called a meeting of this committee for the middle of March for the purpose of meeting with the architect, Mr. Harold E. Wagoner of Philadelphia. Mr. Wagoner is the architect for the Davidson College Presbyterian Church, and upon his visit to the college also includes Barium Springs where he is busy working out the final details for the plans of the new Church here.

Two sets of sketches have already been presented and many details have been considered. The purpose of the March meeting was to make final decisions relative to the location and interior of the Church. The committee plans to have everything in readiness so that the minute that steel can be obtained the contract can be let for the erection of the Church.

This building is one of the most urgent needs upon the campus for the congregation each Sunday morning is larger than the present Church can adequately accommodate. Three hundred and fifty will fill to overflowing the present auditorium and therefore the new auditorium is being planned to seat five hundred. This will provide adequate space for the regular congregation, allow for some anticipated growth in village membership, and afford space for visiting groups that come for the Church services on Sunday.

From the memorial gifts contributed in memory of loved ones and from special contributions made particularly to the Church there is now in hand approximately two-thirds of the amount necessary for the erection of building. The committee is confident that once the work gets underway the people of the Synod wishing to share in it will enable the Home to complete the whole edifice and equip the interior without any indebtedness upon it.

Summer Helpers Secured From A. T. S.

The Summer relief force for the home will have in its number four students from the General Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Virginia. These persons will serve as relief house-mothers in the cottages and as directors of special activities on the campus. Arriving on June 1st, they will organize and direct, under the leadership of the minister, a ten-day Bible School for the beginners, primary, juniors and intermediates. From that they will be able to carry on through the Summer a specialized religious program of activities and also some recreational projects in addition to their living in the cottages with the smaller boys and girls.

To have the Assembly's Training School students and graduates at Barium is not new because already on the campus there are a number who have graduated there, but the intensified effort for the Summer is different from last year and is to be tried as an experiment. It may be that in Summers to come an unusual program can be developed where-

Iredell Teams Win Cage Tournament

The defending champions made history repeat itself when the Cool Spring girls and the Scotts boys came through with wins in the finals for the second straight year in the twentieth annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament which was held at Barium Springs February 14th through 19th. The Scotts girls received the trophy and awards for runners-up position and the Berryhill boys were runners-up in the boys' division. Third place trophies went to the Brawley and Celeste Henkel girls

Mrs. David W. Morris (Anne Fayssoux Johnston) died suddenly at her home in Burlington on Friday December 22, 1950.

Anne Fayssoux was born in Lincolnton but spent most of her life at Barium where her Father, Dr. Joseph B. Johnston was Superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans Home. Anne Fayssoux graduated from Barium Springs High School and Queen's College in Charlotte. She was active in College and was May Queen her Senior Year.

Treasurer Says February Very Lean

It is good indeed that the month of February was short as the income for the Home in its operation was very light. The gloom is somewhat dispelled in that it is the hope of the administration that February's small income means a saving up for the March contributions.

At the present time the income has not been sufficiently increased to take care of the increase in the rise of prices, but with the last month of the year still to be heard from this can be overcome.

Basketball Teams Add New Trophies

The girls' basketball team brought home the conference championship trophy with a perfect record for the games played. This means that the girls in regular season play and last year's tournament play have not lost a contest. The schedule for their regular season and the resulting scores show the caliber of play necessary to defeat the teams which were engaged.

The boys team got off to a good start but ran into some trouble about the middle of the season, losing several games by two points and some by three and one by four. The loss of Buddy Maples, a junior weakened the team in some fashion, and by the time the boys regained their equilibrium the season was over and their record did not show the real quality of the team's play.

The South Piedmont Conference Tournament playing in Statesville, N. C., found the Barium girls seeded first, going through to the finals, and in that game winning first place in the last game on March 9th. This then brings in the trophy for the showcase in the dining room.

The Barium boys given very little consideration as contenders in the Tournament, started things off right by soundly thrashing the Statesville Greyhounds. In the second round they came up against the highly favored Kannapolis team which had been picked by many to win the Tournament and were victorious over them by a slender margin. This victory put them in the finals against the Asheboro team which had won the Conference championship, and in that final game they won second place and brought home the trophy to be put in with the others.

The girls team this year will lose five of its starting players by graduation, while the boys will lose only three seniors from the starting team.

Coach Calhoun will have the job next year of rebuilding his championship team among the girls and shaping out his boys squad into what he hopes will be another outstanding boys team and one that is capable of winning the championship in the Conference Tournament.

Large Enrollment Takes All Space

The housemothers at Barium Springs are beginning to understand the plight of the old woman who lived in a shoe. To accommodate the 292 children of the Home it is necessary to put up beds in the halls in some of the cottages and to put extra children in some of the rooms in other cottages. Every bed is taken from the Baby Cottage up to the Woman's Building where the older girls live. It might be possible to arrange for a half dozen beds in that building, but rarely if ever are there applications for girls of that age.

All that can be done between now and the end of school is just to take the emergency cases where a child has neither food nor shelter and do the best we can in overcrowding. When Summer rolls around the seniors will be graduating, and re-ad-

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

Here we are again with our news.

The thing we are thinking about most is our report cards. Grading period for this month stopped Feb. 26, and we get our report cards March 5.

Judy Bolton and Janet Woodall have already learned how to ride the bicycle, fourteen others know how to ride. We are all proud of them.

Sylvia Wells and Madeline Byrd have recited the Child's Catechism. Miss Taylor and Miss Jackson took them to the picture show. The name of it was "For Heaven Sakes". After they had seen the show they went window shopping. They came home at 9:30 and everybody was in bed when they got home.

Mr. Grier will soon be back from Florida. We are all anxious to see him.

Mrs. Fanshaw took us on a two mile walk Saturday. We were soon like old women using sticks for our walking canes. We went to the chicken farm. Mrs. Lackey showed us all the chickens. She said there was not quite eight hundred. We saw where they laid their eggs, and where they kept their eggs.

We will have more news for you next month.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

This is the beginning of March, with pretty weather to mix it up well. Along with the pretty weather as a message of the coming spring, are the brightly colored red and blue birds that wake us up with a cheery note and keep us happy for the rest of the day. Other signs of spring are the buds on shrubbery and trees, and the jonquils peeping out to see how the world looks.

Just the other day, we little girls gathered up our spades, hoes and what-not to get our start in the flower garden. For those who weren't with us in our cottage last year, the task of gardening was new and adventurous. As long as the weather permits we "busy-bodies" will be out there in the garden when we get the chance.

Also, with spring coming, the time is approaching when we will "journey" to the playwoods. We have individual gardens there, and we spend most of our time digging up the seed and planting it in better looking soil. We are told that won't do any good, but we hope it will. Not only do we plant flowers in the playwoods, but we also swing and slide, crack nuts, and eat them with candy. Is there anyone who would like to join us?

Ever since winter came and brought bad weather, we have been "itching" to go to the spring. Our Saturday-night suppers are even more pleasant by eating surrounded by pretty green grass, natural big rocks for seats, and tall trees.

Not so very long ago there came to our midst at Annie Louise, two little girls who are out of the family of four. They are so quiet that we hardly knew what they said their names are, but they are Brenda Faye and Mary Evelyn Pursly. Brenda is in the fourth grade, and Evelyn is in the first. Every time Evelyn takes a talking spell she mentions what all she is learning; such as writing, rather printing, and how to read. We are very glad to have these two nice little girls with us even if they are so quiet.

Well, well! Guess what the wind is blowing in? Yes, of course, it's report cards, as usual. We hope spring fever will keep away from us until we get through with school for this year. But everyday after lunch you can see people on the campus entering school building yawning. Naturally they've got their hand over their mouth, but that doesn't keep them from getting drowsy.

Speaking of school, everyone in Annie Louise is thinking of May 19th. We've been teasing our house mother about having us at home all day long and getting to annoy her even more!

In closing we just got to tell you about the two movies we saw during February. One of them was in technicolor called "High Lonesome", and the second was "For Heavens Sake." They were both good movies and we really enjoyed them.

Until the April showers month, we wish you lots of good luck and loads of fun.

—A. L. C. Girls.

SEWING ROOM

Hello Friends,

The sewing room is still buzzing with activities though the short month of February. Although February was a short month, many things have happened.

The Howard cottage girls are all sporting new dresses, both school and Sunday. The Rumble Hall girls are all receiving new pajamas and the Annie Louise girls are getting some new dresses. Through March the sewing room department will be extremely busy getting all the new Easter dresses made on time. All the girls are thinking up new ways they can have their dresses made and all you can hear is, "where are the 'seventeen's today."

Some of us Seniors in the sewing room, after months of sacrificing bits of money, saved and bought material to make our own Easter outfits. Peggy Plyer made a beautiful dress with the help of our instructors. Clara Mangum is going to look like a doll in her new suit she is making, these girls are both proud of their accomplishments, but they would readily give their credit to their wonderful instructors, who are so willing to give them a helping hand.

Speaking of our instructors, we just couldn't write this news without telling you that they gave us a St. Valentines Party, which was very nice and also good.

We know all of you are waiting for news about each of our girls, so here goes!

Marie Andrews, designing and planning her own Easter dress, wonder who she is trying to please, it being red? It couldn't be Hillard, could it?

Shirley Inman receiving air mail letters from Guam and Alaska. No one reads them except her. Wonder what kind of military secrets Shirley is getting?

Melva Powell still happy about getting her letters from Charlotte and we all know she will look nice in her new navy suit Easter, just for him.

Jeanne Turlington seeing more and more of her Studebaker friend. Doesn't Haskell like navy blue, Jeanne? Wonder why she sent the suit back that she ordered.

Anne Wilcox having a wonderful time at the tournament, sponsoring the Berryhill girls. We know now why she wanted them, "the cute boys they have!" We know your game "Willie".

Peggy Plyer trying to get us girls up at 4:30 o'clock to go to the kitchen instead of 5:30. We know Peggy likes to cook, but please don't rob us poor working girls of our sleep next time, Peggy.

Frances Stricklin having a good time at the Statesville-Barium game. Fannie tried to play Ranzino again by making 44 points. Keep the good work up Fannie.

Clara Mangum, receiving a beautiful box of candy for St. Valentine's day. Wonder who gave it to her? Mangum also received the shock of her life the last night of the tournament, when a certain person walked in. How's it coming Clara? She isn't saying.

All of us had a wonderful time at the tournament and we are really going to miss it next year.

The next time you hear from us, Easter will be over and we won't have but about a month and two weeks at Barium. But we'll save all of that "graduation stuff" for next month.

Until next month, the best of luck to each and every one of you. The sewing room reporters.

—Mangum & Powell

WOMAN'S BUILDING

Hi Folks,

Each of us meets some difficult tasks in life, sometimes I think writing this is mine. But I would like to bring you up to date on our current events.

The Mid-Piedmont tournament went off smoothy. Congratulations to the Cool Spring girls and Scotts boys, they came out winners. And we also want to say we enjoyed having all of you with us, and hope you can come back next year. The Senior Class is keeping Ammon's Studio in business here lately. We will let you see what we mean soon.

On February 8, we had a banquet for the fathers and sons, we enjoyed having each and every one of you.

Senior girls have nearly worn the calendars out counting the days until graduation. "It will pass before you know it, girls."

The Juniors are getting tired of waiting until they can move to the sewing room. "Don't sew your fingers like we did, Juniors."

Sophomores are all trying to play the graduation march for some reason. All three pianos are going constantly, wish we could find them another one.

Freshmen are eagerly awaiting graduation so they can move down stairs. They say the big girls live down there, but I can't tell the difference.

Eighth graders are discussing how long until the new activities building is finished. We hope it Everyone wishes they could have a birthday every month. Guess you folks would to, if you could see the beautiful tables and delicious food on them each month. Well friends, we will close and memorize those long poems for English. See you next month.

Board of Regents Will Meet On May 10th

The twenty members of the Board of Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home will convene for their regular Spring session on Thursday, May 10th, at 10:00 a.m. The president, Mr. W. E. Price of Charlotte will be presiding with Mrs. H. S. Kirk of Winston-Salem as secretary.

Prior to the meeting on May 10th the committees will convene and survey the areas assigned to each of them and be prepared to make reports at the regular meeting. One committee of particular importance will be that on Finance and Budget which will receive the information from the superintendent and prepare the proposed operating budget for the new year. The superintendent will make the annual report covering the operation of the Home from April 1st, 1950, to March 31st, 1951.

By-Laws presented at the last regular meeting are scheduled to be adopted at this Spring meeting. The practices of the Home in the year concluded will be reviewed and policies established for the immediate future and for the long-range program.

The students of the Elementary School, under the direction of the teachers, delighted the campus with one of the finest evenings to be held at Barium this Spring. Weeks of preparation resulted in the boys and girls performing in wonderful fashion in the operetta called "Sunny of Sunnyside" on Friday evening, March 30th. The costumes and characterizations were wonderful. The wild animals in the circus roved back and forth on the stage, and the little flowers sprang up out of the flower pots and danced and sang. Villains swept through the community and committed their deeds of crime but justice apprehended them and everything ended in a happy fashion.

The picture gives some evidence of the group that participated, but words themselves will never do justice to the occasion presented in the auditorium of the Elementary School. Congratulations are in order for the rhythm band, the chorus, the actors, the participants, the directors, and all who had a share in this performance. The stage was beautiful in its decoration of spring flowers and the audience filling the house was thrilled and delighted with the children's performance.

The Kindergarten

By MRS. R. S. ARROWOOD

What is all the chatter? Why the Kindergarten class is coming down the walk. Six boys and six girls, all five years old, and their enthusiasm is running away with them. Ring "Miss Airwood's" door bell and in they come with chubby hands extended in a cluster to be shaken one at a time mid a chorus of "Good Mornings."

The rug has been rolled back in the living room and they bring, each one, his little blue chair placing it in what is meant to be a semi-circle. After reports of what was seen on the way or who did what or whose "people" came or whose clothing box arrived, we gradually settle to our devotionals. About fifteen minutes is used in: Bible story, singing hymns, some of which are accompanied by the record player (we have a lovely album of Children's Favorite Hymns), prayers, some individual sentence prayers, memory verses, and then just talking about something we have read or heard at Church.

Refreshment period is next in which fruit, usually a luscious apple, or a beverage and cookie is served.

The story period is filled with requests for numerous favorites, but usually a new one is told or read first. Then old favorites may be retold by teacher or child and sometimes dramatized. Looking at story books is an endless delight - "May we look at books?" is a frequent question. With two shelves very well supplied they have an inducement to look at them. The pre-primers are easy to read when the total vocabulary is only two words or a few more. The pictures provide the readers with sufficient vocabulary, however.

A long table is now brought into the center of the room and the chairs arranged about it for work with modeling clay, crayons, pencils, scissors, and paste. Some have learned to write their first names (with only a few letters upside down or reversed). Working puzzles is a pleasure well provided for. We get an endless delight from the use of the record player, singing, skipping, marching, and just listening to our records. They play it themselves and enjoy selecting their favorite recordings. Tinker Toys and some other things of interest are in

With Spring in full swing and April showers clearing a path for May flowers, we little girls are looking forward to barefoot summer days and "one-two-three, here I go" swimming pool days. Anyone would at once realize that we are just as anxious as anyone else about getting out of school. Even though our school building and our swimming pool are located closely together, we don't at all mind having three months devoted to swimming.

Our proposed "Activities Building" is finally underway. We Annie Louise girls naturally don't know much about it, but we're always hearing about it when our two big girls get into a conversation. Anyway, all we know is that one day we might get to go skating there, and our basket-ball games will be played there. At least we'll get to walk farther when we finally put it into use.

At Easter time all our friends begin sending us candy eggs of assorted shapes and sizes. It would be very difficult to write each of our friends and thank them individually. Here and now we

Twenty-two Join Church Easter Sunday

As a part of the regular morning worship on Easter Sunday morning twenty-two persons were presented to the congregation as new members received by the session. Of this number sixteen were received on profession of faith and are: Rachel Bass, Roy Clark, Ruby Clark, Peggy Joyce Cox, Mary Glenn, Elizabeth Jackson, Barbara Johnson, Joyce Kelly, Bernice Kuykendall, Nancy Lee Kyles, A. B. McClure, Jr., Marie McNeill, Ann McLean, Barbara Melton, Lawrence Ramey, and Sylvia Ann Wells.

Two young girls, Barbara McCall and Lena McLean, who have come to the Home during the year were received upon reaffirmation of their faith and three boys, Harold Evans, Merton Cox, and Duke Spear, were received from the churches in the communities from which they have come.

Mrs. Martha H. Ramsay from Durham, N. C. was presented to the congregation as a new member having moved her letter from the Trinity Avenue Presbyterian Church in Durham. Mrs. Ramsay is a new member of the staff and is at the present time house-mother at Synod Cottage with twenty-four little boys under her care.

Easter Rabbit Visits Barium

There really is an Easter Rabbit. He came to Barium Springs on Saturday morning before Easter and if the peccan orchard is over run by rabbits next summer it will not be because any of the Easter eggs were left there. The 130 hunters diligently searched every hill and cranny bringing out beautiful eggs of all colors - real rabbit eggs. From the youngest child, Nancy Spencer, who is one and one-half years old, to the oldest - those of the fifth grade, there was utmost delight at the sight of the eggs.

The Sunday School teachers with Reverend and Mrs. Charles Sides later served chocolate milk and candy eggs to the group.

would like to thank you for the candy, and we appreciate it very much. Humm, it is good!

Easter morning was the final showing of a week's preparation for this occasion. Many of us had dresses from either our people or our clothing boxes. Others had dresses from the sewing room. Even if we have to say so ourselves, we certainly looked nice in our light colored sweaters and matching dresses and socks.

Either on Easter or a few days thereafter, some of our folks and relatives came to see us. Most of them were old friends and some of them were paying their first visit to Barium. We are always glad to see them, which isn't too often for us.

Our pride and joy has just been completed and given. Well, perhaps some of you remember the operetta we mentioned last month. It is our "pride and joy", and we are all pleased about it going over so well. Some of us at A. L. C. were leading characters; others of us played the part of roses or daisies and danced to a timely tune. Then there were some who were clowns, and looked and acted their part exactly. It took a great deal of work, making over 150 boys and girls get together, and our teachers took on an extra task, which was extra difficult. We hope they, as well as us, feel a deep satisfaction from such a satisfactory play.

April showers are beginning to be plentiful, so our May flowers ought to be plentiful, too. We are ready to start out on our adventure of the summer entitled, "Weeds". If all this rain doesn't help all our flowers, we at least feel for sure that we'll have a job of weeds.

All in all, life is sweet and full of unexpected things, even if we might have more weeds than flowers. So we journey on - waiting for Spring fever to pass and our classes pass and we pass our grades. Perhaps by next month we will be over our fever and can be called "The Busy Bodies". In the meantime don't let it get you, or you'll be like us.

With lazy thoughts, we will speed up our pace to be with you next month.

—The Spring Fever Victims

BABY COTTAGE

It hasn't been so long since you last heard from the babies although some of us are not babies now, as some are all of six years old. T. T. was six just before Christmas and I heard her telling her house-mother, "I'm an old lady now I can get married, and my teeth are almost gone. She and Linda Lee go around showing where their teeth were but are just a wide space now. Some of the boys have kept up with the girls losing teeth.

Lots of good things have happened to us. We went to the movies but can't remember the name of the picture' but oh what a nice ride in the big yellow bus. We all love to see it parked at the baby cottage for we know we are going to get to ride.

We had a very pleasant surprise a few Sundays ago when our former Nurse, Miss Nancy Hoots, spent Sunday afternoon and night with us. Monday was "Mama Richards' " day away from us chatter boxes so she took Miss Hoots with her, and went to Statesville. One little girl said, "Oh Miss Hoots tum back with 'Mama Richards' tause we love you." We are always playing hospital and dentist. Last Friday Mrs. Williams from Charlotte came to see us in time for an Easter egg hunt; she helped us find the eggs the bunny left for us. Little Larry had her by the hand and looked up and said, "I just can't find where the bunny left them eggs." The Easter bunny was good and after we found all those eggs and candy we were so full we didn't want any supper, although none of us got sick.

The boys' housemother, Mrs. Nelson, missed all the fun here, but she had a wonderful time Easter week-end; she spent it in Charleston, S. C. and went to the Sun Rise Service. We remember part of a picture we saw last year, the name was Prince of Peace.

Mrs. Sides and Mrs. Arrowood also gave us a nice party Saturday with eggs, chocolate milk, candy, oh! they and everyone have been wonderful to us. You should have seen our pretty little pins we wore on Sunday to Sunday school and church. Thanks, Miss Carpenter.

Our big sisters are anxious for school to close, and we are too because after that it's almost time to go swimming, and we like that. In the meantime we are having fun in the kindergarten, with Mrs. Arrowood who's a very nice teacher and we all like her a whole lot.

This is all the news, anyhow we can't think of any so we will sign off until next time.

WCMANS BUILDING

Once again I have received word to let you in on our current events.

I would like, if possible, to tell you how nice everyone looked in their new dresses and beautiful corsages. Also, to say to the instructors and the girls in the sewing room, "we thank you."

Three of the Senior girls had a voice recital, and not only did they sing wonderfully, but they looked beautiful with those lovely bouquets.

We were glad to have one of our former matrons spend Easter with us. Also we would like to say we were glad to have all the visitors who came up, and went to church with us Sunday.

The Seniors are busy planning and getting every-thing for graduation, and making out their lists of friends and loved ones they would like to invite up graduation.

Whats this we hear about the Juniors making evening dresses. We know they will look like dolls at the Jr., Senior banquet, which they are working so hard on.

Sophomores are still sitting and looking pretty, as they have nothing to worry about.

Freshmen are going on a diet when it comes to eating in the dining room. No wonder they are busy working and eating in Home Ec.

Eight graders, are really practicing how they are going to walk up and receive their diplomas at graduation. Make sure you get the right ones friends.

Marie Andrews

SEWING ROOM

The Sewing room was really hustling and bustling all through the month of March. Every afternoon after school, we Seniors were busy at our machines, working very hard to get out the dresses before Easter. When the last dress went out, all of us let out a sigh of relief.

The girls looked so nice Easter morning that the sight was almost breath-taking. Easter Sunday was so very beautiful. And the people on the campus looked so nice. Was it any wonder that everyone was happy?

We Seniors were especially proud of ourselves, because most of us had bought, selected, and made our own dresses with help of our instructors.

Marie Andrews had a birthday, and she being sweet nineteen, we had a nice birthday party. Man, we just think our instructors are the best you will find anywhere and we really appreciate them, and what they do for us.

Since everyone of you are patiently waiting to hear something about each of our girls, I won't keep you waiting another minute.

I honestly think ole Frances played "Ranzino" in the tournament. We played Statesville the last night and beat them 56 to 79. Stricklin made 56 points which was the highest score made by anyone in the tournament. She was also picked for the all tournament team by the coaches.

Marie Andrews really rates around this place. She got two corsages for Easter and she really looked nice in her tomato red dress she made.

Shirley Inman is still receiving air mail from overseas. She even gets pictures too. Lucky girl to be getting mail from two "friends."

Peggy Plyler looked too good Easter for "Church," not to see her. But for the benefit of him, I'll just say, she looked wonderful.

You never see ole Powell after work because, you guessed it, she is always at the mail box waiting to see if that certain letter came. That blue suit Melva had on Easter surely did look nice. Too bad "You know who" wasn't here.

Jeanne Turlington spent the week-end before Easter in Clinton, N. C. She brought back a beautiful white suit, and to top everything off real nice, Haskell gave her an orchid for Easter.

Clara Mangum, and Anne Willcox were invited to spend a week-end with some friends at Berryhill. They came back with such wonderful reports about their week-end that all of us wish we could have gone. Mangum & Powell our toy wagon (cowboy pistols, whistles, balls, etc.) The color book industry ought to be one of the most thriving in the country. Never are they interested in drawing originals when a color book is in sight. However, the color books disappear sometimes and then the rebirth of modern art and realism begins. With a little interpretation from the artist one can see a whole story grow upon paper.

Indoor games are always welcome when the weather is cold. Some of the favorite games are "Going to Jerusalem," "Fruit Basket," and "Feathers". When the weather permits we go out of doors for the last half hour or more to play or take a walk. The slogan "every man for himself" seems to be most prominent in five-year olds. Embryonic team work can be discovered with some prodding in the older ones.

My place as a Kindergarten teacher may be compared to what is sometimes unjustly said of grandmothers and aunts: they love them and are loved by them, but when they are ready they send them back to mother. So little a thing may bring a burst of unexpected delight and pleasure from a five-year old that one must be on guard lest his vanity should begin to rise to the front. Our hats are off to the house mothers who are at the helm twenty-four hours a day.

Nineteen Seniors To Graduate

It is a woman's world in the senior class this year as they outnumber the boys 13 girls to 6 boys. Nevertheless, these boys have struggled hard to keep even with the girls through the years at Barium. All of the boys and nine of the girls are students of the Home. Two of the senior girls are children of staff members.

Clara Mangum has spent the longest time in the Home, a little more than fifteen and one-half years, while Louise Surles has been here less time than any other with a little over six and one-half years. The total time spent in the Home by the six boys and eleven girls is more than 179 years, which in turn is more than 65,000 days at Barium Springs.

While some of these 65,000 days have been happier than others, yet all of them have been good; each graduating boy and girl stands out as a credit to the institution and offers real hopes for citizenship in the world in which they move.

Out of the total class at the present time ten plan to do further study, three plan to go into nurses' training school and the remainder will seek employment of their choice.

This good group of citizens now leaving Barium Springs will make room for some other children to be admitted and so the cycle goes on.

Activities Building Is Going Up

Massive steel beams span the foundations and brick and mortar are being put together to bring the Activities Building about one third of the way toward completion.

Brick masons have the wall up to the first floor and as soon as the Flexicore concrete has been placed and leveled off they will start their work again.

There is just a vague possibility that there might be a skating party in that building on the Fourth of July. No real hopes are held out for that yet because it is impossible to determine to what extent the contractor will be able to get together the necessary materials and labor.

There will certainly be a dedication during the summer months if the final funds can be found for the payment. At last the building will be ready for use and the children will begin their happy play.

WOMAN'S BUILDING

We, the Senior girls, would like to express our deep appreciation to our housemothers and to each and every one of you who have made it possible for us to be here. We graduate and leave with memories of this our Barium home, and the many wonderful times we have had, packed in our hearts where they shall remain.

Libby Twombly, our mascot, had the Seniors out to a wonderful supper and a delightful dance. "We had a wonderful time, Libby."

This being my last time writing this news I would like to say, I have enjoyed it and I hope someone else will take up where I leave off.

It seems as though we hear "Sermons" in the air, not Rev. Sides' either. We Seniors are having the pleasure of preaching our ten minute sermons, which you might say, are required to graduate. Most of us have already finished and are now looking for an open pulpit or maybe we should just say pit! No matter which we say you would consider them good work if you could have heard them.

Juniors are busy as bees getting ready for the Junior-Senior banquet. "Best of luck, Juniors".

We were glad to have the members of the Survey Committee from the State Board of Education visit us in our school a few days ago.

We were delighted to have a number of men from the First Presbyterian Church in Greensboro with us, and we hope more of you will come.

We are all looking forward to seeing you on graduation which is May 21. So friends come on up, there's always room for one more.

Well friends I have enjoyed writing this, but now I just say so-long.

—Marie Andrews.

JENNIE GILMER

Hi Everybody,

It's awfully hard to keep our thoughts tuned to school and work with such wonderful weather beckoning us out. We want to lie in the sun or go exploring in the fresh green woodlands. We long to see the first scrubbing and to kick off our shoes and run barefoot again.

We are happy to report that in spite of spring fever, we have some honor roll students and a good many improved report cards.

We want to thank all the people in Statesville who were responsible for letting us see the play "Cinderella". We certainly will begin their happy play.

The Junior-Senior Festive Occasion

The Junior class made Friday, May 4th, a memorable occasion for the seniors and the invited guests as they staged the Junior-Senior banquet in the dining room at Rumble Hall. The Navy motif was used throughout. The tables were arranged in the shape of a big anchor and nets, trappings, port holes, and ship regalia were so attractively arranged that one almost felt the sea breeze blowing through the dining room.

The Sophomore gobs and deck mates dressed in Navy colors served the table. The guest singer, Jack Mills, chose for his songs those appropriate to the sea and Navy life. Louise Campbell, presiding in the absence of the class president, Charles Stevens, was most gracious in her presentation of the persons on the program and in giving toasts to the senior class. One of the highlights of the evening was the appearance of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Johnston and Dr. Joe's tale about his visit to the Mitchell campus and the pretty girls and the mocking bird.

The evening in the dining room was concluded with and inspirational address by Reverend J. B. Hurley, Associate Pastor of the First Methodist Church in Charlotte, who was introduced by Mrs. Melba McLuen, teacher in charge.

SCHOOL NEWS

So many things have been happening in our school for the past two months that I am going to put them in chronological order.

April 5 - We Seniors were invited to Mitchell College for Career Day, as were all the other surrounding schools. There were classes offered in different vocations, and you could attend two of your choice. Entertainment was provided by some of the Mitchell students who presented "He Couldn't Marry Five," a very funny play. We had a grand time and learned a lot.

April 26 - All the grades from the seventh upward were invited to Garden Valley located eleven miles from Statesville. The seventh grade went in the morning, and the others went that afternoon. We spent around two hours in this lovely spot surrounded by thousands of azalea blooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Twombly, parents of our mascot, Libby Twombly, invited the Senior Class to a dinner party at Biltmore's. We had a dance afterward. It was a

Speakers Chosen For Commencement

Final plans have been made for the commencement exercises of the school and speakers have been chosen for the occasion. On Sunday morning, May 20th, at 11:00 the commencement sermon will be preached by Dr. S. H. Fulton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Laurinburg.

The Sunday evening vesper service, replacing the regular meetings of the young people of the campus, will be held at 7:30 p. m. Reverend G. Dana Waters, pastor of the West Avenue Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, will be the guest speaker for this occasion. Class Day exercises will be held on Monday morning at ten o'clock. On Monday evening at 8:00 the nineteen seniors will receive their diplomas. Awards will be made for the year and the occasion will feature a graduating address by Dr. Carl R. Pritchett, pastor of the Davidson College Presbyterian Church. All of these services will be held in the auditorium of the Elementary School building because of the lack of space in the Church or the High School building.

Friends of the children in the Home and the people of the neighboring communities are most cordially invited to be present for these services during the commencement week-end.

WBT Artists Entertain Children

Fred "Atomic Power" Kirby, Jack "Bow Fiddle" Pascal and "Fiddling Hank" thrilled the boys and girls as they came to the campus for an evening's performance. Mr. George Harris of the Myers Park Presbyterian Church together with the Men of the Church had made the arrangements and he came along with the team, bringing six other men with him from the class.

For more than an hour these artists delighted the children with their singing and playing and pranks and fun. The program was concluded by giving every child a picture of Fred Kirby and presenting citizenship papers as members of Tiny Town, U. S. A.

The children left the building with their citizenship papers in one hand and Fred Kirby's picture in the other and a mouthful of bubble gum and the memory of a wonderful evening lingering in their mind.

We are happy to see Mr. Grier back from Florida and we sure went for those oranges and grapefruit he brought back for us.

LAUNDRY NEWS

It's been quite some time since you've heard from us, so this month we've lots of things to talk about.

Of course our main interest right now is the forthcoming commencement exercises which are just two weeks off. The seniors are especially excited and busy, doing last minute tasks and preparing to leave. We've enjoyed your friendship, seniors, and are going to miss you all, even 'ole Traywick.

Along with the excitement of school closing, the laundry girls are thinking of all the work we'll have to do after our help leaves for summer vacations. We're going to miss you too, so hurry back!

Now to turn the spotlight on a few of our girls. Ethel Brotherton, one of our faithful workers, will leave us soon to go upstairs to the sewing room, since she is a rising senior. By the way, Ethel was sporting a new evening dress at the Junior-Senior banquet held recently and we all have to agree she was a knockout!

Any hour of the afternoon you can find Shirley Plyler and Martha Nell over at the Snack Bar with an armful of puppies. Seems like they just can't resist them, so all you puppies beware.

Shirley Hollifield is trying desperately to find a new hair style. It must be for someone special, eh Shirley?

Recently Barbara Bradshaw has become a regular hillbilly fan since one of the carpenters at the new gym is an almost perfect replica of Roy Acuff.

Margaret Hopkins competing with best beau for skating championship. Give up, Margaret you haven't got a chance.

See you again next month friends, with more news.

—Hazel Creech.

Summary of the Year's Work

Excerpts from the report of the Superintendent to the Board of Regents in their annual Spring meeting are here-with given Humbly, we give thanks to Almighty God for the many blessings of the year bestowed upon Barium Springs. The unmistakable evidence of His presence upon the campus has been manifest to all. We, therefore, acknowledge Him, our Heavenly Father, as Sovereign over us and dedicate our lives anew to His service in the work of the Home.

The first item then to be considered is administration. A full year's working together is bringing the members of the administrative force in the office to a better understanding of each other. A reasonable harmony has existed in the planning and executing of the affairs of the institution. In some of the re-organization anticipated it is hoped that the loose ends of administration may be brought together and that this section of the Home may operate with greater efficiency.

The accomplishments of the year within the realm of household are amazing in the light of the facts which exist. We have had a capacity load of children and have been understaffed and the staff has been underpaid. All the workers have toiled diligently and long, going the second mile almost every day. The children of the Home have responded beautifully to the crowded conditions, and the irritations that naturally exist from pressures have been at a minimum. I am convinced that the most important person on the campus is the houseparent. This person is responsible for the child twenty-four hours a day. With the minimum salary of $80.00 a month, and a maximum of $110.00, plus room and board, it has been impossible to secure additional persons who are qualified for this important work. To put an unqualified person in charge of a heterogeneous group, ranging in number from twenty to thirty, is utterly incomprehensible. Frictions arise and damages are done. It is, therefore, indispensable that consideration be given to the houseparent, and that the salary scale be provided that will enable the administration to reinforce the staff with capable and competent persons when additions are made. The practice of housing personnel other than houseparents in the building with the children is very un-

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gray Receive Alumni Medal

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Gray whose home is on the Wilkesboro road, made history at the Barium Springs High School commencement Monday evening, just as they made history at the Barium Home some 30 odd years ago when they were married, the first boy and girl to step out from the Home as life partners.

Mrs. Gray is the former Miss Annie Hartsell, a graduate of Barium with the class of 1914.

Mr. Gray, news editor with The Statesville Daily and The Landmark, was with the class of 1913.

They were married in Little Joe's church at Barium on August 18, 1915. For the past 31 years they have lived in Statesville.

Monday evening their married life, their family life, their church and community life were given the highest recognition that Barium makes, the Ace Alumni award. It was a history-making award because for the first time, it went to a husband-wife couple. Heretofore it has been awarded to an individual only.

High tribute was paid to Mr. and Mrs. Gray for the home they have established, for the influence of that home, for their own daily life, for the training of their children, for their service in church and community, all of which have upheld the ideals on which Barium is founded and the high standards that Barium sets up for the young people who come under its guidance.

Awards Made At Commencement

Dr. Carl R. Pritchett, pastor of the Davidson College Presbyterian church, made the commencement address at the Barium Springs High School graduation Monday evening.

Dr. Pritchett used the conquest of fear as his topic and in a narrative style, that held the interest of the youngest of his hearers, he told how youth can go out to conquer the fear of material, of physical, of worldly ills in the strength of an all-guiding and all-directing hand.

The 19 members of the graduating class wore caps and gowns and took their places on the stage, led by their attractive little mascot, Libby Twombly, who was also in a cap and gown. Louise Campbell and Henry Troutman were chief marshals; Dwight Reid, Elmina Johnson and Bonnie Odum were the other marshals.

Mrs. Lee Spencer was accompanist and played the Priests' March as procession-al. Members of the Junior class sang the farewell song at the close of the program with the alma mater sung by everyone.

Perfect attendance certificates were given by Mr. W. A. Hethcox, diplomas by Mr. R. G. Calhoun and Bibles were awarded by Rev. Charles H. Sides, with Miss Ruth Troutman giving the certificates to the elementary class.

Peggy Neel was salutatorian and Peggy also received the Bible medal. Shirley Inman was the valedictorian and Shirley received also a Bible from Little Joe's church, and the customary money award, for reciting The Shorter Catechism.

Paul Curlee Barnes won the much-coveted ace medal and Louise Bradshaw won the music improvement medal.

Martha Lucille Stinson was given a medal for perfect attendance. She did not miss a day during her entire schooling, first grade through graduation.

It should be noted that there is not now any director of recreation on the campus. The varsity sports and Physical Education directed by the coaches through the school provide the only organized recreation on the campus. This must be remedied and in all probability it will require someone on the campus specifically trained to guide the boys and girls in wholesome recreational activities.

Campus News
RUMPLE HALL

Hello Everybody,

It has been a long time since we have written our news. We have been letting the seniors and juniors have first place in our paper for the last month. Now we are ready to tell you how much we have enjoyed the campus activities. The senior play was enjoyed so very much. We don't think we have told you about having Fred Kirby with us and that was very delightful. School is out and ten of our eighth graders have moved to Womans Building and eight of the Howard girls have moved to our cottage. We are missing our eighth graders very much. But hope they will be very happy at the Womans Building. We are happy to have our new girls. Hope they are going to be happy with us. Rumble Hall has had some visitors this past week. Mrs. John M. Wells, little Johnny and Glenn from Charlotte, N. C., Margaret Carpenter, from Rutherfordton, Mr. and Mrs. Dellard and little girl from York, S. C. We were very happy to have them.

We have a lot of new faces on the campus now. We have not learned them all yet, but I am sure we will know them well for they are to teach us in Bible School. We are looking forward to that. Some will be house mothers for vacation.

Our swimming pool has not opened yet but we hope it will soon. "Just can't wait", the weather is getting so warm.

We received two beautiful bolts of material from our friend in Wilmington, N. C. Thanks so very much friends. We know we are going to be proud of our rooms for we are to have new curtains. Guess this is all for this time.

—Barbara Melton
Peggy CoxLEES COTTAGE

Dear Friends,

We are still around if you haven't been hearing from us.

We got a bicycle for Christmas and we have been having loads of fun riding it.

We saved up money and bought us a record player, now we are buying some records.

School is out and we are glad we have a lot of time to play. Some of our friends in Kannapolis brought us a glove, ball and bat. Thank you.

Vacation Bible School begins Monday and I know we will have a good time and learn many things.

They are filling up the swimming pool and we will be glad when we can go swimming.

Four boys from Synods moved to our cottage, they are: Douglas Byrd, Billy Harrison, Graham Blake and Alton Bass. We are glad to have them.

We got our typhoid shots May 29th, but it didn't hurt much.

We'll write again next month.

—Douglas Byrd
Richard BlackburnSYNODS COTTAGE

Many changes have come to us with the ending of the school year. Of our household four made the honor roll: Barbara McCall, Douglas Byrd, John Bolton, and Henry Harris. We are so proud of them. Douglas, along with Graham Blake, Billie Harrison, Alton Bass and Jimmie Harris were promoted to the Fourth grade. The first four have moved to Lees and are having their desire to help on the farm fulfilled.

Our big sisters, Mary Frances Price and Hilda Barnes will be seniors this fall so they are now living at the Woman's Building and stitching away at the sewing room. We miss them very much, but Louise Bradshaw and Barbara McCall are winning the hearts of all the little boys.

Last week, Freddie and Donnie Gillespie went home to live with their mother. A message from them says they are very happy.

Last, but not least our cottage is having its face lifted this summer. Next Monday, before painting begins, our family is going underground. We'll be out of sight but not out of hearing, in the basement of the Woman's Building, at the gracious invitation of Mrs. Gresham. On the Fourth of July, What a homecoming! We hope!

INFIRMARY NEWS

Hello Folks,

Things have really been happening since you last heard from us. The mighty seniors, Louise Campbell and Elmina Johnson decided that they liked the Woman's Building better so they moved over there. Louise is now working in the Snack Bar and Elmina is working in the sewing room. Linda Inman and Lois Dellinger moved here from the Woman's Building and we are very glad to have them.

The seniors are sponsoring a square dance tonight in the auditorium and we all expect to have a big time.

Two of our girls, Linda and Pattie Inman were on the honor roll for the last report period and Jane Feimster only missed it by one S.

We really had a busy day Tuesday, the 29th. Two nurses from the health department came down and they and Miss Fleming gave us all typhoid shots. You should have seen everyone going around nursing sore arms the next day.

Right now, everyone is excited about vacations. Linda and Pattie are going July 10, and Jane and Lois are going July 31.

Look for us again next month and we will have some more news for you.

—The Little Nurses
Pattie, Jane, Linda, and Lois.SEWING ROOM

With commencement over, tears shed, and moving from building to building completed, the new, bright seniors have taken up their positions in the sewing room.

So far we senior girls have not sewed our fingers. This statement is far, far better than what the former seniors did at the beginning of their sewing career.

Many of you people don't know us at all, or anything about our experiences, which apparently begin in the sewing room. Therefore, we'll try to help you up to some "interesting" news.

Ethel Brotherton is still talking about her good friend who has finally arrived. From the moment Ann Willcox wrote to say she was planning a visit, all Ethel could talk about was Ann's coming. Now that she is here, the "parrot" is telling us that her friend is here every five minutes.

As for the rest of us, we like our friends to come back for visits. We aren't used to being seniors yet and we'd like to get a few pointers from the "former graduates." Throughout the summer we hope that many of them will come back to get a free meal off the home.

Familiar quotes around the place now are established as, "What next to sew?" answer, "Pajamas of course." "Can I have my dress now?" "Where in the world is that old elastic?" Mrs. Smith, my machine needle broke." "Mrs. Smith, my belt came off!" Whew! what a life!" says Mrs. Smith.

One of Caroline Wicker's aunts sent her some material to make some dresses. Evidently her aunt thought Caroline an expert with one week's work. All that is left to say is that "boy, we sure would love to have that aunt."

"When am I going to hear from Mason?" cries Mary Frances Price?" An optimistic reply sounds like this:

"Never be discouraged." At long last the "little princess" (as Mason calls her) has heard from her man. Harry S. Truman will probably get eaten out of the White House and Blair House. Don't starve Mason and Doc in Washington.

"Whose going to lie in the sun this afternoon?" yells blonde Elmina Johnson. No one replies since Elmina's pace is too, too fast for the rest of us; so energetic "Elminie" trots off to the back yard to add another layer (thin layer) of tan.

Hilda Barnes is getting to be a regular Doris Day. Even though she has always been bashful before, she sure is tuning up her vocal cords to serenade John Whiting.

The "Honest Abe" of the class is now putting her trustworthiness to work. Yes, Louise Campbell has to depart from the sewing room to take up another task of selling-and eating - popicles and candy. We certainly do miss her, but she's just across the road.

Sara Bradshaw, who is always in a hurry with her sewing, has been asking her neighbors for a razor blade just about every day. Don't worry she isn't cutting herself, only the material. Besides ripping, her poor fingers are getting stuck full of holes. Without Sara our motto, "As we sew, so shall we rip", would not be very effective.

Last but not least is the short, blonde Bonnie Lou Odom vs. "Lucifer." Heart breaks seem to be in full swing for old Lucifer, but there is a sailor in Florida who is still getting and sending letters. What won't happen to Bonnie next?

When next month rolls around look for our news in the same place and at the same time. We'll be good if you all will.

—The Seniors of 1952

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE
Hi Folks,

Well, here we are again and we've got lots of news to tell you.

Our most important news we think is that school is out and we all passed our grades. We had eight small girls and one of our big sisters on the honor roll. They were Nancy Joyner, Nancy Mobley, Mary Lettie Ramey, Patsy Porter, Pamela Fair, Christine Clark, Judy Taylor, Sue Moore and Hazel Creech.

Since you last heard from us, six of our girls have moved to live with the larger girls. They were replaced by Linda Byrd, Diana Mobley, Mae Ramey, Teresa Taylor, Susie Blackburn, and Peggy Bridges; all from the Baby Cottage. We are very happy to have them and hope they like their new home. We also have a new big sister, Hazel Creech. She likes her new home and is very fond of playing with us.

Campus News

We've seen two good movies recently. They were Lassie in "Painted Hills" and "Rocky Mountain." These pictures were very entertaining and we all enjoyed them.

To the nineteen seniors who graduated recently, we'd like to say we miss you all; so hurry back to see us soon.

Vacation Bible School starts next Monday and is lasting two weeks this year instead of one. It's so much different from our other school that we are looking forward to it with eagerness.

Our real vacations start on July 10 and that is when most of us will go. We enjoy going home but always look forward to returning.

We'll be with you again next month so until then; so long, it's been good to know you.

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

We are glad that we have six new girls, who moved from Annie Louise, at our cottage. They are Lois Ramey, Clara Dean Byrd, Donnie Lewis, Carol Moore, Brenda Pursley, and Catherine Reich.

When moving started we were lucky to be given a big sister. We were glad it was Margaret Hopkins, since we all like her very much.

Since riding the bike is the thing we like to do most at our cottage, we want everyone to know how to ride. Of all the girls who moved over here, Brenda Pursley is the only one who knew how to ride but, we have already taught Carol Moore how to ride.

We went to see a movie last week. The name of it was "Lassie and the Painted Hills." We all liked it.

Nancy Ferrell, Kay Clark, and Betty Ruth Anderson all made the honor roll the last six weeks for the first time this year. We are proud of them.

Miss Margaret Hall of Statesville sent us some records. We enjoy listening to them a great deal.

Vacation Time For Everybody

"I woke up at twelve o'clock and could not go back to sleep", said the little girl standing in line waiting for the early six o'clock bus. The whole campus had been in a state of nervous excitement because vacation time was coming. July 10th saw half of the children of the Home boarding buses and trains and traveling by car to uncles and aunts and grandparents and other relatives. For weeks this had been the topic of conversation. Miss Rebekah Carpenter, the case worker, had been busy securing a written request and permission from home; Mr. Lowrance had been getting suitcases, and housemothers had been mending, sewing, cleaning and packing in preparation for two weeks away from the campus.

While the first group was away the others stayed to take care of the necessary duties. Then on the morning of July 31st their great day had come and they, too, made their way to the various parts of

Caravan Visits Campus Ten Days

A Caravan Team sponsored by the Synod's Council arrived on the campus the last day of June and spent the next ten days working with the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship and the Council. This group was under the direction of Miss Eleanor Godfrey of Winston-Salem and the student members of the Caravan Team were Peggy Crowe from Wilmington, Dora Lee Wiley from Norwood, Tommy Hall from St. Pauls, and Howard White from Dunn. The Caravaners spent each morning visiting and working with the various groups on the campus. The afternoon was given over to the study and evaluation and special training. The early evening and night was given over to worship, study and recreation in which the whole group participated.

The Youth Fellowship will perhaps count this as the highlight of the Summer's program. Not only was it fun, but it was also a very valuable period in preparation for the remainder of the Summer and the Winter's program.

These Caravaners made themselves a permanent place upon the campus and they do not need an invitation - all they have to do is just come back home. Tommy Hall might wish to return though only in the Winter when there are no beans to pick.

Many Young People Attend Conferences

Through the generosity of friends in Gastonia the young people of the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship and Pioneers were able to attend the conferences.

The Iredell County Chapter of the American Red Cross, sponsoring a life-saving school in Statesville, found one-fourth of the class from Barium Springs. New Bookkeeper Joins Office Staff

On July 1, Miss Juanita McInnis took up her work as bookkeeper in the office of the Home, succeeding Miss Lulie E. Andrews who is no longer at Barium.

Miss McInnis is a member of the Second Presbyterian Church in Mooresville and is a daughter of an elder of that Church. She graduated from the Mooresville High School as valedictorian of her class and then took her special training at Mitchell College in the accounting department. During her college days she distinguished herself in her records and gave evidence of her ability in her chosen field. For nearly five years she served in the office of the Superintendent of the Iredell County Schools as the bookkeeper.

The Home feels fortunate in securing the services of Miss McInnis because of her pleasing personality and her professional training.

Ferguson Writes of Former Days

I am enclosing $1.00 for which please mail me the Barium Messenger as long as this will take care of. One of the boys sent me a copy of the issue in which Mrs. W. Parks Gibbs gave a fine account of her religious work since 1908, and it was of much interest to me. As you know, she was Hettie Murray from her letter. It is possible she has not visited your lovely and good Home since leaving.

I believe I entered your Home about 1898 and left about 1908 and two years ago I was able to attend your Home Coming day in October. It was really hard to believe it could have been made into almost a Heaven compared to the days of fifty-two years or so ago. It is really beautiful and wonderful. I did find some landmarks of course such as Synods Cottage, Annie Louise Cottage, Rumble Hall, and a few other buildings, all very much made over.

Of course, the steel ram that pumped the washing water to the great wooden tank and the wells and pumps the old wooden bucket was gone. And, of course, the oil lamps were gone.

Your lovely children were dressed well, looked happy and there was a high school. The winding clay road where I saw my first automobile was replaced by a ribbon of fine hard surfaced highway.

I went and looked at you

Cottage NewsLaundry

Since we hardly ever write any laundry news we thought maybe we would celebrate this month and write some.

The half of the girls who haven't gone on their vacations are keeping the old laundry open. The washer still boils over when Edna Baucom won't keep on the job. The mangle is running well. We have some girls working over there that are new on the job. Of course, Mrs. Neel guides the clothes through. Have you been wondering why the clothes have been ironed better this month?

When the sewing room closed Ethel Brotherton came back to her old job of ironing. Of course she has some very capable helpers. Jackie Porterfield and Jacqueline Kuykendall.

Next week the ones that haven't gone will go on their vacations, and the ones that are gone now will come back to take over our work. But we hope they have had as good a time as we know we shall have.

When you come to visit our campus you are always welcome in the laundry.

Take good care of your selves and we'll try to take good care of the laundry.

—Shirley Plyler.

Jennie Gilmer

Hi Folks,

This is the Jennie Gilmer Boys. We are having a fine time these days as vacation time is here. Vacation time is split this year as half of the boys went July 10th and the other half will go July 31st. The boys that went July 10th have already returned and all reported an enjoyable time.

Some went to the beach while others went on sight-seeing trips to the mountains and large cities; and still others spent a lazy two weeks at home. We are real glad to have them all back and we also hope that the boys that are on the 31st. will have an enjoyable time.

We boys are not the only ones vacating this month. Ralph Spencer and his family left July 21, for two weeks in Florida. We hope they enjoy their well earned rest.

Football practice is supposed to start in about three weeks and everyone is looking forward to it. Meanwhile we are enjoying ourselves in the swimming pool which feels mighty good these hot days.

—Jennie Gilmer Boys.

Synods

We are now back home after spending a month in the basement of the Woman's Building, while our cottage had its face lifted.

Mrs. Ramsay, our matron, is away on her vacation and we have "Miss Jackie" with us for a while. We call "Miss Jackie," "Ma Kettle." We miss Mrs. Ramsay and we all wish her a happy vacation.

Our big sister, Barbara McCall and ten of our boys went home on July 10th for a vacation.

Louise Bradshaw and 8 of our boys go on vacation July 31. Vacation time is very exciting.

The swimming pool is now open and we had quite a day on July 4. Jimmy Morris won the "belly whopper" contest. Jimmy Harris won a diving contest, and John Bolton won one too.

We've had a casualty, Earl Corbett decided to climb the football goal post and it broke and so did Earl's arm. Earl is at home but his arm is still in a cast.

Jimmy Harris moved to Lees Cottage and we have a new boy with us, Stanley Muse from Durham, N. C. Stanley is quite a fellow even if he does have red hair.

We have been busy too, for we asked that we be given beans to string and break. Believe it or not, but we enjoyed working.

Last, but not least, we've enjoyed going down to the spring for picnic suppers on Saturday night. We like to go on walks.

Look for us again next month.

Annie Louise

Well, here we are again busier than ever. We've had a lot to do lately with about half of us on our vacation from July 10th until the 26th. The rest of us are going the 31st. We can't wait until the day finally rolls around, neither can we wait for the day to come back. We don't know when we're happier, going or coming. One of our treats lately was when we saw "Bed-time for Bozo" and "Ma and Pa Kettle on the Farm". They were real funny and we enjoyed them very much.

We had a very good time the 4th of July. We entered swimming contests, ate watermelon and played in the rain.

The ones that have come from their vacations are very busy telling about the mountains, beach and home, which makes us more eager.

We have lots of work to do now that only half of us are here. We like that very much.

We like to mop the floor and clean up our play room and kindergarten. When we go home we are going to help our people a lot. We will have a lot to tell you next time we will be so excited for school to start.

One of our big sisters, Hazel Creech went home to stay. We miss her very much. We also have a new girl, Betty Rae Pursley. She is getting along fine.

I met one neighbor, Alonzo Litaker, and he seemed glad to see me. I saw the great steel tank that must hold good clean drinking water I guess from a clean, closed deep well, and your Home, I believe, is heated by lovely steam heat instead of stoves and fire places, and you get your light from electricity, and it all seemed so very wonderful to me. If I said all the nice things I can think of since my visit, it would make this letter too long.

Long ago so often I would see a printed sign in almost every home. It read - "God Bless Our Home." So, I will close with that in mind - God Bless Our Home at Barium Springs, N. C. If you think my letter would be of interest to anyone you may print it in your paper.

I am with much respect,
Lawrence M. Ferguson

The regular annual physical examination has been held and the student body seems to be in good general health. Where there have been specific items listed by the doctors we are taking steps to have these attended to. The doctor at Troutman, the local infirmary supervised by the nurse, and the Davis Hospital with its complete staff serve the students well. We are very much behind in our dental program. Conferences have been held with the dentist in Statesville who is doing the work. Ways and means of catching up with the back work and providing for everyday individual care is in process of being arranged for.

At present we are taking care of all the emergencies, but we need to do more than that.

The following figures from the case worker's office show some of the work done in the health department:

279 children were given a complete physical examination. 51 children were given a T B Skin Test, 37 children were given Parasite Tests, 42 children were given Wasserman Tests, 22 Tonsilectomies, 279 Typhoid Shots, 7 Appendectomies, 271 Teeth were filled - all children were screened by the dentist and emergency work done, 81 Extractions, 20 Refractions, 5 children taken to the Orthopedic Clinic, 15 were immunized against measles.

The school has had 285 students, 200 in the Elementary School and 85 in the High School. The school comes the nearest to being a department within the organization that we have. With Mr. R. G. Calhoun as the principal of the school, a good year has been accomplished and we look for still better things to come in the days that lie ahead. The school has cooperated with the other schools of Iredell County and has had complimentary remarks from those inspectors of the State who have come through to grade every phase of the school's activities. The department of Extra-Institutional Services is concerned with the case work and the Foster Home program and maintenance in other institutions. During the first months of the year just concluded the Foster Home program was discontinued upon the authorization of the Board of Regents. The children thus affected were returned to their own homes or brought into the Home at Barium. This, then, indicates that the total scope of our work lies in the institutional care within the bounds of Barium Springs. The population to date is 292 - 147 boys and 145 girls. During the year there were 43 applications received with two reopened. These 45 applications involved 116 children and out of this 116 44 were admitted to the institution.

In the farm, dairy and orchard there are 600 acres in cultivation of which 85 acres are used for permanent pasture. Mr. J. F. Stinson is the supervisor and he is assisted by six full-time paid men and from two to 18 boys. At the present time we have 4 mules, 3 horses, 4 tractors, a motorized combine, and other necessary implements for farming. We have 48 sheep, 36 lambs, and 89 hogs. In the summary of production for the year on the farm we find that 52 acres of wheat yielded 510 bushels; 9 acres of rye yielded 120 bushels; 11 acres of oats and barley mixed yielded 310 bushels; 52 acres of oats yielded 1647 bushels; 60 acres of barley yielded 1295 bushels. On the same acreage used for small grain, after the cutting of the grain, there was harvested in lespedeza seed 11,000 pounds of No. 1 seed and 3,000 pounds of No. 2 seed. 72 acres of land produced 3600 bushels of corn; 8 acres produced 120 tons of ensilage corn. From the 104 acres used for alfalfa 200 tons of hay were used at the dairy barn and 50 tons for the horses, beef cattle and sheep. 90 tons was sold green in the field because we had more than we needed. 1800 bales of straw were put in the barns for use in bedding for the cows.

Ninety-two hogs were killed during the year, totaling 28,160 pounds. The hams, shoulders, and sides were cured at the freezer locker and the trimmings were used for sausage and livermush with the fresh meat from the spare ribs and back bones. This amount of hog meat makes the pork diet a little too heavy and it is our intention to move more from pork to beef, increasing the beef herd.

The orchards are supervised by Mr. Woodrow Clendenin and he has been assisted by one or more adults and from 1 to 15 boys. 1800 apple trees on 35 acres of land last year produced over 7,000 bushels of apples. The 500 peach trees on 15 acres of land produced about one peach. There are 200 peach trees which will bear in a few years from now, replacing the older ones.

The dairy is supervised by Mr. Ralph Spencer and he is assisted by his brother, Lee Spencer. Student help totaling 20 to 25 boys in the age range from ten to fourteen years is used.

The herd consists of 90 to 100 animals which have been cared for in four main buildings with several small auxiliary buildings. The herd is tested annually by the State Veterinarian and found to be free of Bangs Disease and TB. The milk is tested regularly by the County Sanitarian and the bacteria count has been ranging between three and four thousand which is considered very low. A Federal survey was made of dairy barns in this area during the past year and the barn at Barium was rated 98, the highest in Iredell County. The amount of milk produced last year was 44,410 gallons from an average of 35 Holstein cows. This is raw milk, having been cooled and stored, served and consumed. While there is some confidence in the quality of the milk which the children are getting, yet there is always the possibility of some infection coming from the animals through the milk. The County Health Department strongly recommends the use of pasteurized milk only.

The print shop and the shoe shop are under one director, Mr. Ed. Kyles. For three-fourths of the year just closed there was one adult assistant, Mr. Wallace Twombly. From one to eight boys are used in the shop. Necessary shoe repairs are made for the children of the Home but the primary work is done in the printing office.

Some idea of the activity involved in the shop can be had from the fact that in addition to printing 288,750 copies of the Messenger to be mailed out, there were 404,870 other pieces printed.

The general organized effort put forth in the religious training still persists upon the campus. All of the children are required to attend Sunday School and the morning Church service. The group meetings in the afternoon and evening are optional and the student attends on his own volition. Service is held each Wednesday evening and the student body is required to be present. The pastor and session arranged for a visiting preacher to hold services for one week in the Church.

The Passing of A Landmark . . .

This issue of The Messenger marks a change in the way we are showing our receipts from the various organizations of the Churches of Synod.

This change has been brought about partly by the growing conviction that an undue amount of space in The Messenger was being devoted to financial statistics in proportion to the benefits derived from the publication of each gift.

The second reason which brought about the change is the changing methods by which the offerings for Presbyterian Orphan's Home are received. Not so many years ago practically all of the money from the organizations was sent direct to the Home. Now each Presbytery has its Treasurer and the churches are urged to channel all the funds through the Treasurer. When the Presbytery's Treasurer first began to function, he sent us a list giving each contributing organization and the amount. As the churches have been using the Central Treasurers in increasing amount, this system has become burdensome so that several of the Treasurers have discontinued this distribution list. The Presbytery's Treasurers have always gone the second mile for the Home and have been most helpful in every way, for which we are very grateful. But because we would have to show an increasing amount credited to the Presbytery but undesignated as to the church or organization, we thought it hardly worth while to show a partial picture.

So we plan in the future to give our receipts by Presbyteries showing the totals given by the organizations of the churches. The figures will be given for the month just preceding and the total for the church year to date.

The Synod of North Carolina has apportioned to the Presbyteries the sum of $66,300.00 to be raised in the regular budget and has set the figure for the Thanksgiving Offering at $100,000.00 which makes a total asking by the Synod for the Home of $166,300.00. It is our purpose to show the proportionate part of Synod's asking for that period of the year. For example, through July, one third of the year is gone and one third of $166,300.00 is $55,433.33. We are sadly aware of the fact that this is counting on the Thanksgiving Offering, and Thanksgiving is quite a way off. However, we feel that this gives the clearest picture of what the Synod expects and what the Home will require to be adequately supported. If we see wherein we can improve on this report we will be glad to change. We welcome suggestions.

The following is our first report under the changed set-up:

Prior to vacation time the whole student body had been very busy indeed harvesting grain, working the gardens, gathering in the vegetables, spraying the apples, caring for the peaches, canning, picking blackberries and making jam, stringing beans, washing clothes, cooking in the kitchen, caring for the buildings, cutting grass, cleaning buildings, making the sewing machines hum in the sewing room. All in all, the days had been busy and the work had been well done and the vacation time was deserved.

Teachers Return And School Opens

On August 30th the big bell in the high tower brought both joy and grief to the hearts of the students at Barium, for at 8:15 on that morning it rang forth its summons to the schoolhouse again, thus ending the vacation period and beginning the busy days of school. Many of the children were so excited they could hardly sleep through the night and eagerly danced their way to the school house while others dragged along, longingly looking back toward the swimming pool and the fields where they had been playing all summer.

The teachers were present ready to receive them. Mr. R. G. Calhoun, the principal, had already been on the job for two weeks and had everything in readiness. Only three new members were added to the teaching force and none of the three was a stranger. Mrs. A. M. Calhoun, having been absent from the staff for three years, returned to teach the first grade; Miss Kathryn Troutman who taught at Gastonia last year, but who lives in Troutman, takes the sixth grade; Mr. W. L. Guy, formerly the principal of Celeste Henkel School in Iredell County, comes to take the seventh grade in the Elementary School. The other teachers in the Elementary School are Miss Eleanor Miller in the second grade; Mrs. R. E. Jackins, the third grade; Miss Faye Stevenson, the fourth; Miss Sadie Brandon, the fifth. The eighth grade is in the High School building and is taught by the teachers of the High School, and this group is the same as last year: Miss Reba Thompson, Miss Irene McDade, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Melba McLuen, Mr. W. A. Hethcox, and Mr. A. M. Calhoun.

Help Needed

The housemother is the most important person on the campus of the Home because of the long hours spent with the children in the cottages. It is, therefore, especially important that persons qualified to render this service and afford this leadership shall be placed in these positions. Persons between the ages of 25 and 50 who have a sense of humor, physical stamina for hard work, are willing to invest in the lives of children, and have a sense of calling for this particular field of service are greatly needed at Barium Springs. Persons interested in this type of work, or knowing of persons who might be qualified for this service will please communicate with the superintendent.

Football Team Hard At Work

The coaches, Calhoun, Jackins and Guy, issued the call for the football players and they did not have to call but once. The squad was small and all could hear and the forty boys in High School reported for practice. Beginning practice on August 20th and rounding out in shape, the squad hopes to about break even during the year on the games to be played.

All hopes for Buddy Maples, the spring-legged bit of dynamite in the backfield, has failed for the doctors have ordered him not to participate in football this fall. However, he may be able to play basketball in the new year. Charles Stevens, a senior and a guard from last year, has been advised to remain inactive because of a shoulder injury and he will not even don uniform during the season. Conference rules on age eligibility caught up with Fred Feimster and he

Summer Workers Leave The Campus

The coming of September and the opening of school brought to a close the Summer program. The relief housemothers and the special workers of the Summer have all returned to their places of study or work. Four young ladies from the Assembly Training School in Richmond who were sharing in the experiment of the Summer provided

Attention Alumni

The football coaches, the president of the Alumni Association, and the superintendent of the Home have gone into a huddle and have called the signal for Homecoming Day. This date is October 12, and every former student of the Home is expected to return to take part in the exercises of the day.

In the morning there will be a combination program under the direction of the principal of the school wherein the present student body will have a chance to take part in the program and then the former students will have an opportunity to be presented and take some part in the program. Following that there will be the regular Alumni banquet in the dining hall. The term "banquet" is used advisedly because the meal is prescribed from year to year as being very similar to one that the students remembered so well while on the campus. Immediately after the meal there will be a meeting of the Alumni Association under the direction of the president.

Then in the afternoon there will be the annual Homecoming football game played this year between Barium Springs and the Children's Home. Make plans now to be present for this occasion.

Alumni News

Peggy Plyler has taken a position with the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Charlotte.

Joyce Katen is staying in Marion with her sister, Margaret Everett.

Anne Willcox has joined the Waves and is at Great Lakes, Ill.

Billy Burke from Charlotte spent the day at Barium. He will be in the 10th grade in Central High this year.

Children Invited to Attend Circus

The King Brothers Circus came to town on September 1st under the sponsorship of the Elks Club of Statesville. This was a happy day for the boys and girls of Barium because the members of the Elks Club extended an invitation to all at Barium to be their guests.

Mr. R. G. Calhoun, the principal of the school, shortened the afternoon schedule and made special arrangements for the children's travel. Each of the teachers took a group and went along with the children. Mr. Lowrance called into action both of the school buses and both of the large trucks and as many cars as were available for the afternoon's transportation. They all loaded up and made their way to the big top out on the Hickory highway.

Members of the Elks Club met the group at the gate by special arrangement with the management and admitted them through the turnstyle and escorted them to the seats reserved for them in the center tent.

The elephants, the horses, the dogs, the clowns, the acrobats and the trapeze artists furnished a high grade of entertainment which kept everyone thoroughly delighted. The clown made a special visit to the Barium section, and the boys and girls were thoroughly delighted as he feigned his affections for some of the teachers in the group.

Howard

Hi Folks,

We are just bubbling over with news now that school has started. There has been some changes in the teachers this year. Miss Stevenson is the new fourth grade teacher. She used to teach the seventh. Miss Brandon is still the fifth grade teacher. We are all working toward the honor roll hoping that all of us will make it this year.

Each of us have made a trip to the sewing room. Mrs. Smith is making all of us a pretty plaid dress for school.

We saw a very good picture, "Alice In Wonderland." There was a short picture also of "God's Hali Acre", that was very educational. We learned a lot about birds and animals.

Our little two year-old neighbor, Nancy Spencer brought her birthday cake and ice cream up to our house and shared it with us. We enjoyed it so much.

Shelby Peak and Sally Corbett, two of our girls who did not get a vacation. Spent a day in Asheville seeing the beautiful scenery. We all know they enjoyed it very much.

We are still doing beans but now we have something to think about while doing beans.

Football is about to start and we can hardly wait for the first game.

Woman's Building

With such sweltering hot afternoons, which are now being spent in class rooms, it is a deep wonder that we all don't throw up our hands in exasperation! Even among those who like school, I bet they would love to be basking in a cool room with a tall glass of lemon-ade or tea near by. Doesn't that make you want to drop everything?

Since we have eight senior girls who are eagerly awaiting for graduation, we've got to let them get this final year over and done with. Hot weather or not! But, girls, when winter comes, what song are we then going to be singing?

We are sorry to have one of our junior girls leave us to go to a smaller cottage. Even if she is just across the campus, we shall miss her. We wish her success throughout the coming year with her new job at Annie Louise.

There's a great day coming! Yes siree! It won't be long before our activities building will be complete and we can start our skating. Each night after supper the majority of us trek down to see how much more has been done. But for some of us who don't go so often to see it, a saying one of our teachers passed on to us close to the end of school when it was first going up, suits us just fine. It goes like this: "The less you look, the more you see!"

After a month's vacation we are glad to have Miss Winnie Ferguson back in our building with us. We hope she had a nice time, but we are also glad to have her with us once again. Welcome home, Miss Winnie.

We've just got to wait until next month to finish telling you our news. Right now we have got to get our nose stuck in our books.

See you next month, friends.

—The W. B. Girls.

Jennie Gilmer

School days are with us again and though we are glad to welcome the fall and football, we aren't too fond of getting up at 5:30 A. M. to milk those cows. Well, there must be some bad along with the good things so we won't gripe too much - yet.

We have some real friends down in Mooresville, one of the Circles is either sending us stacks of comic books or something to eat. We had a real picnic supper about two weeks ago and you should have been here to help us put it away. We can't begin to thank our friends enough.

We miss all of our boys who left us to stay home this summer, we hope they will be happy though and will visit us soon.

The circus is coming to Statesville soon and we are keeping our fingers crossed hoping we will get to go.

—J. G. Boys.

Rumple Hall

Hello Folks.

We are back again with our news. We don't have much news to tell about this time. First, we went on vacation, half of us went the 10 of July and the rest of us went the 31st of July. Most of us went to the beach or to a lake, and we all had fun.

August 17th the Pioneers went on a hayride, we went to Brown's Pool in Mooresville and had watermelons, we came back by Davidson College.

School has started again. The girls in the seventh grade have a new teacher, his name is Mr. Guy, and we all think a lot of him.

Well this is all our news for this month.

Your friend,
—Ann McLean.

Annie Louise

Here we are back again not only with the news this time, but with school and lessons, too. However, we're not in the least discouraged since all of us were really looking forward to it. Many of the girls who were in the first grade feel real proud now that they are in the second grade, especially one little girl who was overheard boasting that she had been promoted and was going to be in the second grade. She was soon cut short though, with the reply from one of the other little girls. "You needn't feel so big-gity," she said, "I was commoted," too. (meaning promoted, of course)

Now that school has started we're sort of disappointed that the swimming pool is closed, but we're really glad that we can all be back together again after a swell vacation with our friends and relatives. We really have enjoyed ourselves this summer and will be looking forward to next year when all of the summer workers can be with us again.

With the return of Vacations and the starting of school we have a newcomer in our midst. Judy Hamilton's her name and we hope that she will be very happy here with us.

Recently we've been to see two movies and hope that we will get to see "Alice in Wonderland" sometime soon. We have heard the story but have not seen the movie yet, so that's really something we're looking forward to.

We've had two birthdays so far this month but later on there will be another one. Our "big girl", Shirley, will be celebrating the 18th. Virginia Lane and Sue Moore celebrated theirs today, September 3rd.

We're having lots of fun playing grown up now with our high heels, hats, dresses and pocketbooks that we accumulated while we were home and brought back with us. Our favorite pastime is either playing "mama" or "going to the store."

Well I guess you folks are pretty tired reading all this "bunk" so we'll just say so long, until next month.

Baby Cottage

Hi There.

Here come the babies! You haven't heard from us in months, but now we are settled back down again after our vacations. Of course if you hear us yelling and see us jumping around you would hardly consider us very settled.

The ones of us who are old now ((six years old) have moved right on up to Synods and Annie Louise Cottage. That left us with a lot of empty beds but not for long. The little girls, Patricia Ann Mace, Sherry and Marie Ross, and three little boys, Mike Porter, Walter Snead, and Clyde Mace have come to live with us. But goodness, you would never believe they are new. They all keep right up with the rest of us in having fun on the slide, ocean-wave, and swings.

The summer substitute housemothers now know how the "old woman who lived in a shoe" must have felt.

While the regular housemothers were on vacations, the subs were having quite a time with us children who returned from our vacations. Although we enjoyed being at home with loved ones for a time we were real happy to get back to our friends at Barium. In fact, one little fellow was so pleased to see his playmates again that he got up in the middle of the night and went around to all the beds to say hello. Imagine hearing footsteps in the middle of the night and not knowing to whom they belonged!

Now that September is here, Miss Alderman and Miss Glass have left to go back to school. We wish them the best of luck.

Monday we are going to see "Alice In Wonderland." We always especially enjoy the ride on the bus.

Seems like we are all looking for something to get the matter with us so we can go down to the Infirmary and welcome our friend and nurse, Miss Hoots, back to our campus.

We're looking forward to the birthday table in September most of us will be there so it should be quite an occasion.

Well, so long for now—time for us Babies to rest. We'll try not to wait so long next time about writing.

But it is something that is no earthly good to anyone until it is given away.

Little Wilbur cornered his father in the living room and let go with a barrage of questions. His dad finally became annoyed.
"When I was a boy," he said in exasperation, "I never asked my father questions like you do."
"Maybe that's why you can't answer mine," replied Wilbur.

Indeed, it was an afternoon of delight and cheer, but the house mothers are afraid the children are going to starve to death since the circus because when they come to the table they are so full of conversation about what happened that they hardly have time to eat. After all, that is what makes an interesting meal when cheerful conversation can be a part of the table's fellowship.

Hillard and Bullard are the only two regulars for the backfield and they will be depended on for most of the heavy work because the rest of the backfield is light. The music this year will be under the direction of the same persons as last year. Mrs. Rachel Spencer is the teacher of Public School Music and Miss Mary Smithwick is the piano teacher.
In the opening session of the first day the students were enrolled and properly classified and assigned during the early part of the day and then the Chapel Hour was called at 10:30. Mr. Calhoun, the principal, presiding, presented the new teachers for the year and welcomed the students to the Fall Session. Following a brief devotional period, the principal presented Reverend R. S. Arrowood, the treasurer of the Home, as the speaker of the morning. Through his fine message Mr. Arrowood demonstrated the wisdom of the principal's choice for the opening message of inspiration to his students.
High hopes are entertained in the minds of the students and faculty alike for a very successful school year during 1951-52.

ed themselves most capable and acceptable to the Home. Misses Alma Steading, Priscilla Shorey, Dean Glass, and Jacqueline Hewett will be returning to A T S to complete their senior year of study. Miss Fumiye Miho, studying at Yale, will return to the campus to pursue her course throughout the winter months.

David Sides, assisting in the boys' department, now joins Uncle Sam and his forces and has taken up residence temporarily in the Air Force at Lackland, Tex. Miss Louise Goodbread, Miss Nona Alderman, and Miss Mabel Stevenson, all of whom served part time during the Summer, have resumed their work as teachers in the school systems of their communities. Miss Nancy Hoots who served as relief nurse for the month of July has now come to be in charge of the infirmary and direct the health program at Barium.

One thing that helps take away the sadness of parting was the promise of each to return to the campus, and the student body eagerly awaits these visits.

Afternoon of Fun At The County Fair

Following the regular tradition, the management of the Iredell County Fair had scheduled a Barium Day. Every boy and girl on the campus knew this and they had been preparing for it. Lunch was eaten hurriedly and for once everybody rushed back to school with great pleasure. Then the procession began, careful plans having been made by the principal, R. G. Calhoun, for the student body to move in procession down the railroad track a quarter of a mile to the County Fair Grounds. The gates were wide open and the student body were the guests of the management for the afternoon.

The operators were busy and the wheels were turning and the rides were free for the asking. Two big Ferris Wheels, the Merry-go-Round, the little airplanes and automobiles, the roller coaster, the roller plane, and the swinging chairs were kept busy for over an hour as the boys and girls lined up to take their turn in the various rides. The odor of freshly popped corn was not enough to tantalize anyone for those who were selling popcorn gave each child at least one bag. Some got two. Many of the stands reduced the prices of drinks to five cents, and so with popcorn and bottled drinks and candied apples and cotton candy, everything began to take a merry whirl.

The exhibit rooms were open and when the rides had been finished the next hour was spent in just visiting the exhibits at the Fair - the poultry, swine, cattle, and the handiwork and school work. Then the group began to gather at the door of the arena, for nothing was to be omitted and a special show was given for the boys and girls on this occasion. The hour and one-half in the arena as the artists performed thrilled and delighted everyone who were then by that time beginning to feel just a bit weary for a busy afternoon. Making their way back to the campus from the fairgrounds, the steps were a little slower than on the way down. The dietician noticed

Iredell Breeders Give Two Calves

The Iredell Breeders Association, through its president Mr. Harry Brown, presented to the Home two registered calves, one bull and one heifer. It was agreed that these calves would be registered in the name of the Home and each assigned to a particular boy of the Home. It will be the responsibility of this boy to take care of this calf and to prepare it for showing in any of the exhibits that are held.

In carrying out the calf-chain idea, the Home has agreed to return the first heifer calf to the Iredell Breeders

Dr. Joseph B. Johnston Shows Improvement

Fraley Elected By Davidson Alumni

The Alumni of Davidson College balloting by mail elected Walter Fraley of the class of '31 to be the vice-president of the Alumni Association. The Installation ceremonies will take place at Homecoming on the Davidson campus.

Walter Fraley graduated from Barium Springs with the class of 1927 and entered Davidson College that Fall. At Davidson he distinguished himself as an athlete and student leader, becoming captain of the football team in the Fall of '30, and his leadership merited him election to O. D. K. After graduation Walter served for a number of years in the field of teaching and coaching. At the present time he lives in Charlotte, N. C., and is associated with the work of the First Presbyterian Church, serving as a coordinator of its activities and directing its work.

Dairy Boys Win Many Blue Ribbons

Wednesday afternoon, September 26th, was the big day for the dairy boys, and they came home from the Fair with colors flying, having won two grand champion prizes, 12 ribbons, 2 red ribbons, 2 white ribbons and one green, meaning 17 places in all. These honors were not without some monetary value for all told the prizes won amounted to $106.00

For many weeks prior to the Fair, the boys under the direction of Messrs. Ralph and Lee Spencer had been grooming their calves and cows for the Fair, rising early before breakfast and working late after supper. They had trimmed and washed and polished and scrubbed and paraded in preparation for the presentation in the big ring. Placing their entries in the Holstein division along with other entries from registered farms, they eagerly awaited the decision of the judges, and were thoroughly delighted to find that in keen competition they had won the top prize in two

SUPERINTENDENT

REV. R. S. ARROWOOD
TREASURER

PRESBYTERIAN ORPHANS' HOME
OF THE SYNOD OF NORTH CAROLINA
BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C.

To the Members of the Presbyterian Church
In The Synod of North Carolina

Dear Pastors, Church Officers, and Members of the Church:

As you make plans for Thanksgiving, we thought you would like to hear from the Home. There are now nearly 300 children at Barium with the girls outnumbering the boys by about a half-dozen. The reason for the even balance between boys and girls is that the space provided for each is about the same and all the space is nearly always taken.

What about those who want to come? There are enough applications on file to more than take every available bed and new applications come in almost daily. All of these children cannot possibly be admitted; only the cases presenting the greatest emergencies can be received, and even then the buildings will be crowded and the staff overloaded. It is not good to have beds in the hall, but that is what will happen again this winter.

With this full enrollment and a heavy application list, our Home has the problem of making ends meet financially. Last year the Synod asked $100,000.00 for Thanksgiving and the Home received $87,144.60. By exercising the severest economy and stinting in every department we broke even in the year's operation. This year we have about an eight percent increase in the overall operation due to the rise in prices over which we have no control. We have only to meet the needs of the students and have to face the reality of this rise. The Synod is asking for Thanksgiving the same as was asked last year. The Regents have expressed the belief that the people of the Synod of North Carolina will provide for the needs of the Home when they know the facts about these needs. It will take the united effort of every church of the six hundred and eight churches in the Synod to make this come true. Won't you help in yours?

Let us extend an invitation to each of you to visit Barium Springs. The boys and girls would be delighted to have you as their guests to visit them in their cottages, and to have a meal with them in the dining-room. They would take pleasure in showing you the campus, orchard, dairy, and farm. We would be glad to have you visit the office and make inquiries concerning finances, or the gifts of the people, or to ask any questions concerning the operation of the Home.

Most cordially yours,

Albert B. McClure
Superintendent.

Cottage NewsAnnie Louise

Here we are once more with the news. Many things have happened since you heard from us last month. For instance, Friday, October 12 was Homecoming Day and many of our friends came to see us. We enjoyed their stay and are looking forward to seeing them again next year if not before. We also had a football game that afternoon. We beat Children's Home 6-2. We do hope to have more games at home in the future since most of them have been away and we couldn't see them.

A few days ago we saw the movie, "Warpath." It was good, it was about Indians and Soldiers. We all enjoy movies but a few of us shed tears when someone is shot.

Yesterday, while our two big girls were skating over at the Woman's Building, they heard a girl ask Bobby Arrowood if it was his Homecoming. He was running around with red and blue streamers, probably used for decorating the football field Friday.

We have two new girls at our cottage now, they are Betty Edwards and Margaret Ferris. They are very nice and like to live here. We hope they continue to do so. When they came we moved two of our larger girls to Howard, Judy Taylor and Virginia Kiser - we miss them. We still have 26 little girls.

Synod's Cottage Matron, Mrs. Ramsay has just had the cast removed from her broken arm. A few days ago we heard a little girl say, "Oh! Miss Ramsay has the 'Casket' off her arm." A few of us seem to be getting worse off each day.

It's getting cooler each day and we are going to start wearing our school shoes soon we like to put them on but we are always eager to get them off in the summer.

We get our report cards soon and hope that we all make good grades.

School News

It has been several weeks since school started, and we believe everyone has settled down and is ready to get to work at last!

With the first report card period up, those who aren't so sure of how they are coming out, will buck up and work harder--we hope.

Despite the handicap of three of last year's starting players, being unable to play this year, we still consider ourselves a top-team in our vicinity and are giving other teams a tough race for the championship.

On September 14, being all steamed up over the first game, we went to Thomasville and brought home our first victory. The score: 7 to 0. But on September 21 the team lost to Salisbury. Since this was not a conference game, the score didn't bother our rating. The next game was at Albemarle, September 28. The score was a tie 7 to 7. At Asheboro the following week we suffered our first defeat. Asheboro beat us 18 to 13.

On October 4, at the elementary school building, the Senior Class presented a play entitled, "Feudin' Mountain Boys." The program was opened with the song, "Feudin', A-Fightin' and A-Fussin'" by Louise Campbell. Some of the characters of the play were introduced by acting out parts of the song. Those taking part in the play were: Johnny Hudgins, Elmina Johnson, Franklin Lentz, Bonnie Odom, Dwight Reid, Louise Campbell, Henry Troutman, Sara Bradshaw, Mary Frances Price, John Bullard, Carl Spicer, and Glenn Compton. We think it was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Look for the results of our report cards and games. We will no doubt be glad to inform you of the team.

Howard Cottage

We have added quite a number of people to our cottage. We have six new girls, four of them just came to Barium. They are: Hazel Edwards, Bessie Edwards, Fay Hicks, and Nancy Farris. Two came over from Annie Louise. They are Virginia Kiser and Judy Taylor, we are glad to have them.

We went to the Fair September 26th and had a very good time.

Lillian Baucom and Merle Byrd have started taking Piano.

We still have beans to string and while we are stringing them we have a good time taking turns singing.

—The Bean Stringers.

divisions and first place in several sections. Hearty congratulations are due to these boys for their hard work and for the fine supervision of the Spencer brothers this year and in the years gone by. The boys having entries were:

Lawton Rice, Mac McClure, Ray Smith, LeNair Burns, Bobby Ray Bailey, John Ferrel, Bobby Frye, George Cannon, Jerry Thomas.

Other prizes were won by

The Half-way MarkBy R. E. JACKINS

The Barium football team finds itself at the half-way mark of the season, after playing the first four games away from home. On September 14th Barium played Thomasville on a well lighted field and on a beautiful night. Barium scored on a pass from Hillard to Bullard and Bullard kicked the extra point, winning the game 7-0.

Our next game was with Salisbury. The Salisbury team had too much experience for Barium and did all their scoring in the first half. The Barium team stiffened in the second half and played Salisbury on even terms. In the fourth quarter, Barium held Salisbury four downs on the four-yard line, which proved to us that Barium's team was in good condition as we are very short on reserves. The final score was 14-0 in favor of Salisbury.

On September 28th Barium went to Albemarle and played the team there which had just tied Lexington. Barium scored first in the second quarter. Albemarle came back and scored in the third quarter and we came away with a 7-7 tie. One of the bright spots of Barium's score was that Barium was penalized 5 yards on the first try for extra point and Bullard stepped back and put the second try through the goal.

The team went to Asheboro on October 5th. Barium was slow getting started and Asheboro got the jump on them. Barium never catching up. The score was Asheboro 18, Barium 13. This brings us up to October 12th and the big Homecoming game with Children's Home. In the second quarter Hillard got away on a perfect play with several good hard blocks and ran 33 yards for a touchdown. In the last quarter Children's Home

Ernest Austin who was looking after the sheep entered and Misses Carpenter and Ford, members of the staff who entered some of their choice hemstitching and crocheting.

Association that they may place it wherever they wish.

The boys at the barn are beginning to feel that these two newcomers are getting used to the herd and the boys, and they are looking forward to increasing the number registered in the Barium herd.

Dr. Joseph B. Johnston(Continued From Page One)

Statesville. Dr. Johnston was not able to get out for Homecoming Day, the first he has missed in many years, but he hopes to be able to get down for a game before the football season is over.

drove to the five yard line but fumbled and Joe Barkley recovered on the two-yard line. Barium drove out to the nine-yard line, then tried the punt on fourth down, Children's Home blocked the punt, and in one of the luckiest breaks for Barium during the season, the ball decided to go out of the end zone for a safety. The score Barium 6, Children's Home 2 sent the Homecoming crowd away happy.

at supper that something had happened to the usual hearty appetites. Since it was Wednesday, prayer meeting was coming up and the minister must have noticed that while the children seemed very pleased, they were also very tired and just a bit sleepy.

This fair is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Statesville and they have always been generous to Barium Springs. The boys and girls of the Home are grateful to those who each succeeding year remember them with such fine entertainment and pleasure as has been afforded through the "Barium Days" at the Iredell County Fair.

While the spiritual needs can be met through the church on the campus, the Home must depend on you and your church for the money to meet the daily needs of nearly three hundred children. The cost of living is up at Barium, too. Will your offering take care of it?

Homecoming Day Brings Them Back

October 12th was a grand time for reunion for the former students of Barium Springs, and a festive day for the students of the Home. The regular classroom work was soon cut short in the early part of the morning and the festivities began with a chapel Program. The children of the primary school, under the direction of Mrs. Lee Spencer, delighted the audience of assembled visitors and home-folks with their songs and folk games. The High School Glee Club gave a short concert, closing this part of the program with the singing of a new Alma Mater and a new "Fight Song" which had been written by Mrs. Spencer. The audience enthusiastically received these and the student body continues to use them with pleasure. Before the football team was dismissed for their early lunch the cheer leaders gave them a rousing send-off with a pep meeting.

Two of the members of the staff who have helped to make more history here than any other persons were presented and spoke to the assembled students and guests of the day. Mr. S. A. Grier, retired campus engineer, and Mr. J. H. Lowrance, the present buver of the Home reminisced for the benefit and pleasure of all those assembled.

The luncheon was served in the dining hall and the room was packed. Grandmothers and infants and all ages in between had come to have a meal in the dining room either for the first time or the millionth time, remembering the many days that they had walked through the doors of that familiar old building.

The alumni met in session prior to the football game, attending to their business for the day, and elected the following slate of officers: President, W. A. Johnson from Fairmont, N. C.; Vice President, Cheek Freeman; Secretary & Treasurer, Lafayette Donaldson of Barium Springs. The group took up a Thanksgiving Offering and presented it to the treasurer from the Alumni Association to be used in the Home.

The feature in the afternoon was the football game between the Barium Springs Tornados and the Methodists of the Children's Home. It was a nip and tuck struggle all the way through, finally ending up with Barium on top with a score of

Dry Weather Hurts Gardens and Farm

The farm superintendent, J. F. Stinson, says that this has been one of the driest summers he has ever seen at Barium Springs. This is not peculiar to this section of Iredell County for it has been true generally throughout the State, but it has been particularly acute for the Home since so much of the table supplies come from the gardens and farm. Some of the vegetables planted during the summer did not have enough moisture to even get out of the ground and a great many of the plants were unable to produce well because of the exceedingly dry hot weather that took its toll before maturity of the crop. Not only the summertime gardens but the early fall plantings were also hampered. All of this will seriously affect the dining room throughout the rest of the winter.

The grain turned out with a good yield excepting the corn, and last year's abundant crop gives enough corn to assure plenty for the winter for feed and the fattening of hogs. The hay will be of a poorer

Corrections Helpful

During the last several weeks many cards and letters have come to The Barium Messenger giving helpful information concerning persons who now receive The Messenger in more than one copy or concerning persons who are deceased or who have moved away. This is always helpful to the printer because he wants to keep his mailing list as nearly correct as he possibly can.

One card came saying that a correction had been sent in where there had been two copies received and that now a third copy was coming, and he wondered if it were wise to attempt to make a correction. The printer, Mr. Ed. Kyles, now believes that he has this particular item straightened out and that henceforth this person will receive only the one copy instead of the three.

A postal card or letter to the office giving information and correct addresses will be a great help and we appreciate your taking time to send them in. If you know of anyone who is not receiving The Messenger

Men of Concord In Annual Meeting

The night of October 9th found the campus at Barium Springs covered with automobiles and the dining room packed to the rafters with men. The occasion was the annual Fall meeting of the Men of Concord Presbytery. The program committee had requested the Home to provide a barbecue supper, the same as the custom has been in the past. Having no advance registration, the dietician and dining room hostess prepared for fifty more than had ever been here at one of the meetings. At five minutes to seven the group relaxed, feeling that the tables had been served and that there were sufficient places for all. When the doors opened and the men started in they continued to march and soon the 508 places were taken and men were standing in the lobby and more cars arriving. Before the meal was over we had served men, not only in the dining room and in the kitchen, but in the lobby and on the steps and around the building. Nearly 600 had been in attendance. The boys and girls of the Home, the teachers in the school, and the members of the staff were flying around like bees in tar buckets trying to get the food to the hungry people.

The special feature of the program was an address by Clarence S. Johnson, director of the Program of Progress. His stirring appeal for participation in the "Tithing Adventure" inspired the listening men and will bring forth fruit throughout the churches

Barium Alumni Elect Officers

The Barium Springs Alumni Association held their annual meeting after dinner in the dining room on Homecoming Day, Oct. 12th with the retiring president, Arthur Roach, presiding. The new officers elected were: President, W. A. Johnson of Fairmont, N. C.; Vice President, George "Cheek" Freeman, of Charlotte, N. C.; and Secretary-Treasurer, Lafayette "Toe" Donaldson. They will hold office for the coming 2 years.

Those Alumni members wishing to contribute to the Orphanage Thanksgiving offering through the Association may do so by sending your contribution to C. L. Donaldson, Route 1, Statesville, N. C., or to the Home.

THANKSGIVING AND BARIUM

"These two words have always gone together in our household; I remember when my mother used to bake cakes for the Thanksgiving dinner at the Home," said the woman at her church meeting, "and send them along with the gifts from the Church."

The folks of the Home will give thanks to God that more than one hundred thousand Presbyterians in the six hundred and eight Churches will be praying for us and sending their gifts as they worship in their Churches and in their homes.

Fitful Flashes

From The Statesville Daily
By Mrs. M. R. Long

No, you don't have to go to the high hills and the far off place to see the splendor of this fall. It is here at home, on our streets and in our yards—and it is down at Barium Springs in an abundant beauty that we really think could not be excelled at any one spot anywhere. The campus there is a veritable burst of color. The golds and red of the trees are so brilliant that the light, falling through the leaves, casts a golden sort of glow all over those who pass beneath them, a glow that goes clear through the heart and the soul of any one who loves the out of doors and the wonder that nature is.

And the little children down there fit into that colorful setting like it was made just for them. We saw one little thing dancing about the base of a big tree, doing a dance all her own, stooping now and then to pick up one big bright leaf at a time to drop on a heap she had collected at one side. It was like a fairy book page—that little blue-jean clad figure flinging its thin little-girl arms about and picking up that one leaf at a time as she stooped and whirled.

And about the corner of a cottage came a flock of other little girls, dark hair, light hair, blue eyes, brown eyes, an eager, happy bunch of life and energy the light through the bright leaves falling all about them like an aura of hope and promise.

If you would see the beauty of the season—the season that marks the closing of another year, you should go and see the campus of Barium. And if you would see the beauty of life—life in the very spring-time of its year—you should go see these little children that are growing up in happiness and security on that Barium campus.

Cottage News

Howard Cottage

During this month we have had many exciting things to happen to us.

Mr. Sides (our preacher) has set aside a day every other week to come to see us. We all look forward to Thursdays. When he comes we play games, and he reads stories to us. We enjoy this very much.

This month we had nine girls to make the honor roll at our cottage. All of our girls made good grades. These are the ones that made the honor roll: Betty Ruth Anderson, Barbara Porter, Clara Dean Byrd, Donnie Lewis, Merle Byrd, Judy Taylor, Edna Evans, Kay Clark, Brenda Pursley.

A Circle from the second Presbyterian Church in Mooresville came up and gave us a weiner roast. We had a very good time. And appreciated it very much.

Halloween has just passed and we had a very good time. We had parties at school.

We all enjoy playing in the leaves and riding the bicycle. Judy Taylor has learned how to ride. We hope the rest of the girls will learn to ride soon.

Baby Cottage

Hi Folks,

Here are the baby reporters again. There has been so much happening and so much to happen, that we hardly know what to say, or where to begin.

First, tomorrow we are going to have a Halloween party. We are going to wear long skirts and faces. If you hear something in your front yard you'll know who it is. Mama Richards is working so hard to get our faces and skirts ready.

We made some new yellow curtains for our playroom. If you ever have time, stop by and see them. We also made a bookshelf to go over the radiator, its real cute.

Marie Ross, one of the smaller girls wanted to help Mama Richards. Oh, what a help that would be!

During the last month we have had several new playmates come to live with us. They are Shirley Ferris, from Charlotte; Billy Marino, Charlotte; Robert Hall, Fayetteville; Walt Snead, Albemarle. We are all so glad to have them with us, and now we have a family of eighteen.

One of the girls from the Woman's Building, Miss Ethel, has been our house mother this week end. We like her a lot. She has been decorating our house with witches and owls. So many of us wanted to help Miss Ethel that we were more in the way than a help.

Daddy McClure comes by quite often when we are playing out doors. One day he took all of us for a ride and it was fun. The little boys will go some other time.

The campus has been so pretty with all the beautiful colored leaves. They have been falling and making big piles under the trees. We haven't been able to play in them much this year because so many of us have had ear aches and colds.

Well, we will have to say, Stop - Look and Wait until next month.

Rumple Hall

Hi Folks,

We are back again with our news for the month. We have received our report cards and we did very well. Several of us were on the honor roll. We have been studying real hard.

We have had some real good football games. We enjoy them very much. We were invited to Davidson to a football game, we like going there.

Something else very exciting, we had a wonderful Halloween party. The Jennie Gilmer boys gave Rumple a party - and what a party. We had lots to eat and enjoyed lots of games as well as bobbing for apples.

We had the Pioneers from Caldwell Memorial Presbyterian Church of Charlotte to meet with us this month. We had a picnic supper and enjoyed our program together. We enjoyed having them very much.

Annie Louise

Hello Everyone!

It hasn't been too long since you last heard from us but during that little bit of time a lot of big things have taken place.

One of the biggest things now is Margaret Farris' arm. She fell from the sliding board and unscrewed a bone somewhere in her wrist. She has a cast on it now which makes it rather difficult for her to get her arm through the sleeve in her dress. She feels proud now, but boy, did she yell when she fell.

Speaking of yelling, some of us nearly lost our voices during the Halloween season. The traditional ghosts, goblins and witches paid us a visit, together with the other different and original costumes of the Lees boys. In connection with losing our voices, a cute statement was made by one little girl to another little girl who was red in the face from yelling so long and so loud. When finally "little Miss red-in-the-face" quit yelling and was silent, "Little Miss Calm" turned toward her and remarked casually, "If you've lost your voice you'll find it in my right ear"! A few of the other things that made our Halloween day so pleasant were the parties given to us by our teachers and also the delicious assorted candy given to us by Pamela Fair's mother, who is a frequent visitor and who is always welcome to our cottage. Thanks so much Mrs. Barnhardt.

Now that Jack Frost is dropping his calling card in our laps, we're busy getting ready for him. We, who didn't have windbreakers have gotten new ones. Some are red, green, royal blue and navy blue. We surely are going to enjoy wearing them this winter, because we feel sure they will keep us warm since they are lined on the inside.

Much to our delight, but to the dread of our housemother and our two big sisters we have put on shoes and socks. Some of us whose soles were worn thin got to go into Statesville and get new shoes Friday afternoon.

The cold weather we're having is not only affecting us but also our pretty flowers. Our house mother has brought all of them that she can into the house, but we'll have to start our Flower Garden in the playwoods all over next summer.

The gorgeous trees that were so beautifully dressed up in their fall dresses of red, yellow, orange and gold have now put on their dull brown and bare black suits. They were so pretty two or three weeks ago that we just wished that they would stay that way.

However, despite all of the cold weather, we still haven't forgotten the latest movie we saw entitled "War Path". We are still playing cowboys and Indians. So in closing, as Gene Autry would say - "So-long, until we're back in the saddle again!"

Be seein' ya',

—Annie Louise Girls.

Woman's Building

Sorry to have missed our small contribution to The Messenger last month. However we were in the midst of school work and just plain out forgot our duties.

Our first report cards have come out and with good results too. Some are prouder than others, but we are, for the most part, doing our dead level best.

There are a number of girls in our dormitory who are going out for basketball. The tallies will do fairly well, while the shorties will just have to keep jumping.

Several different groups of guests have been visitors on the campus and have surveyed our rooms. If you ever get the chance, come to see us. There's nothing complicated about getting in, you know.

The P. Y. F. sponsored a Halloween party recently. That took the larger girls to one gala affair, while the smaller girls were treated to a somewhat similar party by the housemothers. Orange make-up, eye brow pencil and masks made up our costumes.

Some of the costumes must have been good, for there were prizes given to some clever, original costumes.

We are looking forward to Thanksgiving and hoping that it won't be too cold for a special occasion. From the looks of things at the present, it seems as though it will be sub-zero weather.

For months now we have been thinking of Christmas. It may seem rather early, but the seniors are having to write a theme on this particular subject in connection with Bible. One thousand words seems an awful lot, especially when you've given out of words at five hundred.

You'll have to pardon us for making our news short, but home work has to be done. You understand, don't you?

Until the twelfth month - December of 1951 - we invite you to keep posted on the current events through W. B. B. S. (Woman's Building Broadcasting Station.)

So long folks,
The W. B. Girls,
—Bonnie Odom.

Sewing Room
Though Halloween was over a week ago, our instructors in the sewing room gave us a delicious treat. We are all crazy about tomatoes and were they good this time of year.

There is an old saying that elephants never forget. Some of us have memories just as keen, for the tomatoes were a promise made sometime in May. Does anyone care to know our trick? If so, we will readily send out information on: "Training Your Mind For Memory."

All of us, except one, will be going out for basketball this year. The "exception" will be making up for all the rest, so we shan't fret.

Dresses, skirts, and blouses have been going out the door as fast as they have been made. As school is taking most of our time these days, our instructors are doing all the work - well at least three-fourths of it. Since we aren't doing them as much as we once were, we can brag on the finished product. Thanksgiving Day is going to be a gay affair with all the beautiful plaids of red, green purple and blue.

Why is Elmina beating the postman to the office each day? "Tex" writes regularly, but not that regular.

What happened to "Georgia" boy, Sarah? It might prove to be an interesting subject for a theme!

Mary Frances is in the mad rush for the mail also, with Elmina running her a close race. The little private has at long last been shipped to the deep southland of fair Georgia. Mary's on the look out for those famous Southern belles.

The big Kansas flood has set its course toward North Carolina, and Hilda's Brackington will come floating in. Just one more week, Hilda.

Prospects of further education and not men, are in the offing for Caroline Wicker. Right now she's debating over which college to choose from for her "sophisticated" future. Keep up the high aspirations, "Wick."

Always last but definitely not the least, is the dope of the class, namely Bonnie Lu. This orphan is busy writing letters to Mississippi to a small fellow of 6 feet 2". Along Christmas he'll be coming in on a wing and a prayer.

Topic of conversation is what to give a soldier for Christmas! Mason and Tex and all the rest are getting to be problems. Anyone having info to contribute in regard to such presents, please get in contact with the senior girls immediately. Appreciation assured.

Come by to see us when you can. We are always glad to have visitors.

—Bonnie Odom.

Homecoming Day
6-2.

The rest of the afternoon and evening was spent in recounting the day's activities and some of the folks reminiscing with smaller groups over the campus. Saturday morning took up anew with a double-header football game between the B team and the Midget team. The old grads who stayed over saw why the small number of boys in High School can produce such a good football team-it is because of the fine training that is given to the smaller boys on the part of the coaches of the Home, Calhoun, Jackins, and Guy.

The only disappointing feature of the whole occasion was the fact that Mr. J. B. Johnston was unable to be present. Mrs. Johnston and Miss Leila represented him and said that he hoped to soon have his trouble licked and be out of the hospital and in regular attendance at the football games.

quality and less in quantity. In the summer of 1950 one or more of the cuttings from the alfalfa were sold. During the summer just past we skipped one of the four mowings and in the other three, got a light crop of hay, so we are going to be forced to stretch it out during the winter in order to carry through with dairy herds and the livestock on the farm.

However, there is reason for being grateful for that which was given.

For the first time in four years we had peaches and in abundance. Fresh peaches all during the season with over 3,000 No. 10 cans put up for the winter, together with peach preserves and pickles made for the storeroom. The apple orchard, yielding well though not abundantly as last year, will provide what looks like enough apples for the boys and girls to have fresh fruit through the winter. The select apples are chosen and stored in the apple house and kept chilled until time for use in the kitchen and in the cottages. Apple sauce and apple butter can be a regular portion of the diet because of that which has been canned by the orchard supervisor, Mr. Woodrow Clendenin.

Christmas Plans Are Underway

The tempo of life at Barium is all awirl and everybody is talking Christmas and thinking Christmas. The house-mothers and boys and girls are busy planning shopping tours in the nearby towns. Mr. John Ervin and his crew are in search for Christmas trees so that every cottage may have a tree to be decorated for the Christmas week. Miss Rebekah Carpenter is assisting Old Saint Nick in getting the Christmas things together and ready to be delivered on Christmas morning.

Special Christmas services have been planned on Wednesday night, the 19th, when the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship and the Glee Club will give a pageant at 7:30 p. m. On Thursday evening, the 20th, the regular Give-To Christmas Tree program will be held in the dining room, beginning with supper at 6:00. All of the Barium family will come together for the family supper, and following the supper each person will bring his contribution to the tree, putting it in the big red stocking and then placing some decoration on the tree. When all have made their Christmas gift the tree will be lighted and the Christmas season will actually have begun. Friday at noon the school closes and the holiday season will be in full swing. In addition to the Santa Claus and Christmas Tree, on Christmas morning each cottage will have some type of devotional service commemorating the birth of Jesus Christ.

Child Assignment And Clothing People

One of the very finest customs that prevails in nearly every institution like Barium is that people request the privilege of "adopting" a child within the Home for the purpose of providing greetings on birthdays and part of the necessary clothing funds. Oftentimes a very happy relationship grows between the child and his clothing people and continues over many years. However, sometimes people are unhappy in that about the time they have someone assigned to them there comes a notice that there has been a change made, and they don't quite understand. The explanation is that many children do not remain in the Home for a long period of time. Some circumstances may

The Quad Boys Extend Scholastic Challenge

There is a rumor on the campus to the effect that the boys living in the Quads have challenged the girls of the Woman's Building to a scholastic duel. These boys are of the opinion that man can excel in brain as well as brawn and they are determined to outdo the girls in the number that appear on the honor roll each month.

When the second report cards came out Mr. Jackins was going about the campus hardly able to see over his

Awards Are Made At Football Banquet

On Friday evening, November 30th, the big dining hall was the scene of the annual football banquet. The three football squads, the cheerleaders, special guests and friends assembled for the gala affair. Mr. William A. Hethcox, of the High school faculty and who for many seasons has been the team's bus driver extraordinaire, was in the driver's seat on this occasion, acting as toastmaster for the evening.

After the invocation by Rev. Charles H. Sides, Jr., pastor of Little Joe's Church, everybody was given forty minutes for uninterrupted pleasure

Funeral Rites For Robert Z. Johnston Held At Barium

From The Statesville Daily
Mr. Robert Zenas Johnston, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jos. B. Johnston of Statesville, died Tuesday, November 27 at his home in Fort Worth, Texas.

Mr. Johnston was born in Lincolnton on April 29, 1910. He came to Barium Springs in his boyhood, when his father became superintendent of the home there, and he spent a happy youth and early manhood there as member of a family circle whose ties are very strong. He had his college education at Davidson, graduating with the class of 1932. During his college years he, like his brothers, was interested in athletics and he was a valuable asset to the college's athletic program.

Following his graduation, Mr. Johnston was associated with the Firestone Company of Charlotte and of Spartanburg, S. C., from 1933 to 1942 and then, for three years during

Former Housemother Dies In Valdese

Funeral services for Mrs. Juliette Ghigo were conducted in the Waldensian Presbyterian Church in Valdese, N. C. on Friday, December 7th, and her body was laid to rest in the Waldensian Cemetery.

Mrs. Ghigo was formerly a member of the Barium family and served as housemother at Annie Louise Cottage. For the last number of years she has made her home in Valdese, living with her daughter, Miss Anita Ghigo, who is teaching in the High School there.

Her husband having preceded her in death, she is now survived by her two children, Miss Anita Ghigo of the home and Dr. Francis Ghigo, head of the department of Romance Languages at Hampden-Sydney College, Virginia.

Thanksgiving Offering

The month of December is too close to Thanksgiving Day for the Home to be able to give any sort of picture of the Thanksgiving Offering; however, the subsequent issues will carry in the "Contributions Received from Churches" in the regular tabulations that which has come in from the Thanksgiving Offerings. Any interested persons may get the information of the total picture from the publications as they come off the press on future dates.

change in the community where he has lived and he is able to be rehabilitated. This necessarily then means that the person must have another child assigned to them.

At Barium at the moment we are in the process of exploring the assignments that have been made and making new assignments. New personnel on the staff must necessarily become acquainted with that which exists and we are revising our plan and pattern considerably. Therefore, if persons have any questions which they wish to ask please drop a note to the office and we will give explanations for making assignments, or correspond in any manner that is necessary to fully satisfy the minds of those persons interested. Just drop a note to the superintendent and make any inquiry that you wish to concerning this phase of Barium's program.

chest because of the additional number of boys who had added their names to the honor roll. The men declare that now that the football season is over and that the girls will have to spend some time in practicing the same as the boys do, they are going to far outdistance them in the number that attain the distinction of being on the honor roll each month.

Of course, the girls in a regular woman-like fashion are not saying much, but plans are made and they aim to make the boys eat their own words, or at least out-do them in the literary efforts. They intend to maintain supremacy in the field of the intellectual. The spectators will be very much interested in next month's honor roll to see who is leading in this challenge.

School News

Our football season has come to a close and basketball is once again taking its annual spotlight. At Hickory, both boys and girls lost the first game played.

Chapel programs for November have been presented by the eleventh and eighth grades. The eleventh grade gave a very fitting dramatization entitled, "Neighbors". Devotionals showed proper relationship of our Neighbors in the cast. Taken as a class project the prologue, written in poetry, was spoken by Hilda Donaldson. The cast consisted of: Pattie Inman, Dot Sures, Gloria Williams, Jerry Williams, Alfred Williams, Helen Barnes, Shirley Porter, and Helen Baucom.

Presenting for their program the eighth grade chose to dramatize three scenes from "Bird's Christmas Carol", led by Fredrick Lentz, the devotional was given by a special choir. Bobby McEwen recited a poem. Presented in the play were: Shirley Johnson, John Ferrell, Nellie Sellers, Catherine Kuykendall, Ralph Joyner, Martha Evans, and Evelyn Cox.

For Thanksgiving the school was out from Thursday through the week-end. Holidays for Christmas begin December 21 and last until January 1st.

On November 30, the yearly football banquet was held. For entertainment the Glee Club gave a short, delightful program. Songs that were sung were: "No, John", "Jingle Bells", and "Dry Bones."

A party for December 21 is being planned by the home economics department. Three classes in high school have home ec., and two of these are inviting different people.

Infirmary

Hi Folks,

It has been a long time since you heard from us but we are ready now to give you the bits of gossip picked up around the Infirmary.

We aren't having many patients now and you can guess why. With Christmas just around the corner, everyone seems to be in perfect health. They couldn't bear the thought of spending the holidays in bed.

We said that we didn't have any patients but actually we do. Two of our own girls decided that we just had to have someone sick so they got sick themselves. Hurry and get well, Jane and Lois. You can't play hooky from school forever.

Our regular nurse, Miss Hoots, was away this week-end and Miss Taylor substituted for her. Just think of all the fun she had painting scratches.

If you had visited the Infirmary recently you might have thought that "Open the Door, Richard" was back on hit parade. For the reason, just ask Jay Lee Moose, our little patient from Synods. He really did enjoy that song.

The football banquet was Friday, December 1, and Jane and Pattie were invited because they were cheerleaders. They had a big meal and a good time to go with it. But don't worry, we who stayed home got ice cream for supper, too.

On top of such a full week we got our report cards. Oh happy day, when we got together and compared we decided we didn't do too bad as a whole but there is certainly room for improvement. We congratulate Linda for being on the honor roll and hope that next time more of us will join her.

One of the Woman's Building girls, Barbara Bradshaw, is in the hospital recuperating from an appendicitis operation. We expect to welcome her back in a few days and hope that she will soon be well again.

As no one will admit that they are sick we will have to cut our news a little short and bid you all good-bye until next month.

We wish you all the very happiest Christmas ever.

Pattie,
Lois,
Jane,
Linda.

Annie Louise

Hi Friends,

Boy! Time really flies! Just three weeks until Christmas. We're all looking forward to seeing Santa Claus so I guess we had better clean out our chimney. We're trying to be real good so we won't get a bag of switches.

Speaking of being good, we got our report cards Wednesday and when we came home none of us even saw or felt Mrs. Gentry's little ruler. We made good grades as well as behaving ourselves. Ten of us were on the honor roll and we have an idea we're going to get a surprise party or something.

We've been studying at home as well as in school, but of course something different from books, the Catechism. We're real proud that five of us have recited it and have gotten our Testaments. More of us are studying it and hope to finish it soon.

Something wonderful happened to us over Thanksgiving. Some good friends from Belmont sent us each a big dixie cup of candy. It lasted about two or three days, because everyone of us just love candy. That wasn't all, though. We got to skate in the new activities building. Of course the word "skate" doesn't exactly mean what it says. For some of us just stood up and fell right back down again. We're just learning, but we're getting tough doing so.

We've been raking leaves so we can make our yards look prettier. We like to play in the leaves just as much as we like to rake them.

Well, that's all for this month folks, so bye, bye until January.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JANUARY 1952

NO. 3

J. B. Johnston Taken By Death

Funeral service was held in Little Joe's Church at Barium Springs on Tuesday afternoon, December 19th, for Dr. Joseph B. Johnson who was for twenty-seven years superintendent of the Home here and who died at Davis Hospital in Statesville on the preceding Sunday morning after four months illness.

The service was conducted by Reverend N. R. McGeachy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Statesville, Dr. James A. Jones, pastor of the Myers Park Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, and Reverend Charles H. Sides, Jr., of Little Joe's Church.

The burial was in the family plot in the cemetery on the edge of the campus at Barium Springs.

Joseph Boudinot Johnston was born in Lincolnton March 2, 1881, the son of Rev. Robert Z. Johnston and Catherine Caldwell Johnston. He graduated from Davidson college in 1901 and shortly thereafter became superintendent of Connors Steel Mill in Helena, Ala. He later operated the Johnston Ice and Coal company in Lincolnton.

In 1922, he was named superintendent of the Presbyterian orphanage at Barium and arrived to find in it a sad state of repair, with much work needed, not only on the physical plant, but in the relationships with the children. During the 27 years he was its leader, it became one of the outstanding homes for children in the state.

In recognition of his success as an orphanage administrator, he was elected president of the Tri-State Conference of Orphanage Workers in 1946. He was also president of the North Carolina Conference on Child Welfare and twice was North Carolina representative to the White House Conference on Child Welfare.

In the field of church work, Dr. Johnston again proved himself a leader. He was a deacon and an elder in the Presbyterian church and in 1947, was elected Moderator of the Synod of North Carolina.

As an outstanding alumnus and loyal supporter of Davidson college, Dr. Johnston received a number of honors from that institution. In 1933, Davidson conferred upon him the Algernon Sydney Sullivan award for unselfish service. He was one of 51 alumni selected for special 1948 Home-

Christmas On Campus A Joyful Season

Although the New Year is at hand and school books and regular routine fill the day, yet there lingers the pleasant memory of the Christmas holidays. "It was the best Christmas I have ever had," said the lad from Jennie Gilmer. In these words he was simply expressing the same thing that was said by so many of the boys and girls of the Home. The kind thoughtfulness of people throughout the Synod had provided everything necessary for a happy season. Fresh fruit and lovely candies, nuts, cakes, chickens and turkeys in ample quantities for all to have enough were on hand. Packages piled high for weeks before Christmas to provide the gifts for the trees in the cottages, all of them so beautifully wrapped in Christmas color when opened afforded the recipients the things they had asked for and wanted and needed—dolls and cradles, cow-boy suits and pistols and guns and hats and toys and bows and arrows, shirts and ties and socks and skirts and blouses and suits and raincoats, boots and shoes and roller skates, costume jewelry and nylon hose, and on and on would go the list.

Some very thoughtful persons and groups, recognizing the need at Christmas time for a little extra money, sent in their checks with instructions for the use of them. Trees were decorated and extras were added and the money used in the spirit in which it was sent.

This was not the whole of Christmas, though it is the great portion in the life of a child, for there were on the campus Christmas services in the Church and in the Young People's Group and in the cottages and at the Give-To (Continued On Page Three) coming Citations of Merit for achievements in their chosen field. His alma mater awarded him an L. L. D. degree in 1950.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Anne Lee Davidson, and by the following children: William Lee Davidson Johnston of New Albany, Ind., Dr. J. B. Johnston, Jr., of Concord and Miss Leila Johnston of Staunton, Va. Six grandchildren also survive. He also leaves one brother, Rear Admiral Rufus Johnston, of Newport, R. I., and two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Lore of Lincolnton and Mrs. R. S. Abernethy of Winter Haven, Fla.

Thank-You Notes

In spite of the exceeding care with which every package is received, listed and dispatched to the proper cottage, some mishap will take place and somebody will be wondering what happened to the package they mailed. Therefore, if there is any question about a package sent at Christmastime, please drop a card to the superintendent or to Miss Rebekah Carpenter who was in charge of the Christmas gifts. Nearly every year somebody does not receive a note of thanks and for that we are exceedingly distressed. If you are that person please accept the apology offered in this column, and give us a line to let us have a chance to check on our particular gift.

Hi Everybody!

Before we tell you about the many things that happened to us Christmas we would like to say "Thank You" to all you nice people all over North Carolina and everywhere else that were so nice to us Christmas. You have made it one of our happiest yet. We will get much enjoyment out of them for a long time.

To really get a good look at happiness you should have seen our faces the day the helicopter came from Fort Bragg with candy, presents, and best of all, Santa. It was the first time most of us had ever seen a helicopter and it was a very exciting experience.

The week before Christmas many nice things happened to us including the "Give-To Christmas Tree" and a nice treat from our friend Mr. Stowe in Belmont. When we have our "Give-To Christmas Tree" every year we have a chance to give something to make someone else happy and usually have some pretty music by a group of our colored friends, that work with us, at our nice big supper. And Mr. Stowe came Christmas Eve with books, games, dolls, candy and several good Christmas moving pictures.

We all got so many lovely things Christmas. Candy, dolls, games, just everything nice. We wish that you could see us all playing and having such a good time. We are so excited and eager to get back to play that the other day some of us were calling apricots "peacocks" and figs "twigs." Maybe there's hope for us

Birthday Table Time Again

A long table attractively decorated and heavily loaded with good food will be waiting for those whose birthdays are scheduled in February.

Each month birthdays are listed and all those who were born in that month have the opportunity to attend the birthday table. If, for some reason, a child misses the regular time in his birth month he may "make it up" at the next table.

We received a package from our friend that went home to stay, and guess what we got? Red, yellow and white new bow ribbons. Boy, did we look pretty the next few meals! We rolled our hair in the afternoon and took it down at night and put red ribbons in it. We looked pretty enough to eat.

Joseph B. Johnston

From The Minutes of Synod

On July 1, 1922, a young man named Joe Johnston became the Superintendent of Barium Springs Orphanage. The 27 years that have elapsed since that day have witnessed as fine an achievement as can be shown by any institution under the care and direction of the Presbyterian Church. During this quarter of a century there has been carried on here a project in human relations that has transformed the lives of more than 1500 boys and girls. The physical plant of the Orphanage has been tremendously improved and many additions have been made. The Orphanage has become known, not only throughout the Synod of North Carolina, but all over the south as one of the finest institutions for the care of children in the nation. Little children have learned to love and laugh again, and they have found not only a place of refuge, but friends in whom they could put their trust. They have left this place and have gone up and down the length and breadth of the land, honest, upright, God-fearing, useful Christian men and women. The churches of the Synod have learned to look to this place, not only as a place of refuge, but as a Christian home for those whose homes had been taken from them. And the people of the Synod of North Carolina have placed their confidence in the man who was responsible for the conduct of the affairs of the Home, and they have given generously of their means for the support of the Orphanage.

These things have been possible because a young man named Joe Johnston wanted his life to count for something worthwhile in the world. With utter devotion to his task, with unbounded energy, with faith that challenged the people of this Synod, and with a heart big enough to love 300 children at a time, he has achieved his goal: he has done something worthwhile. He has made the world of 1500 boys and girls a better place to live in. He has enriched their lives immeasurably. He has been a good servant of Jesus Christ. If any man among us deserves the approbation of his Master, Joe Johnston deserves it: "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

The Synod of North Carolina, in session at Barium Springs Orphanage, in recognition of the life and work of this servant of Jesus Christ, and upon the occasion of his retirement, tenders to him and to his helpmeet, Mrs. Johnston, whose labors have been equally untiring and interest just as deep, its heartfelt appreciation, and prays that a portion of the spirit that has gone into their life and work may be visited upon all those who shall attempt to carry on the work they have performed with such humility, devotion and success.

Joe Johnston— Friend of Youth

From The Charlotte News

There may be more important assignments in life than that given to Dr. Joseph B. Johnston, but we'd be hard put to think of any.

For 27 years Joe Johnston was superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans Home at Barium Springs, North Carolina. During that span there were both lean years and fat years, as the budget of the institution varied with the economic fortunes of the Presbyterians who kept the orphanage going with their contributions.

Joe Johnston liked young people. He knew how to get along with them. And where boys were concerned, he had a highly successful formula. To the building of their bodies, their minds and their souls, he added one extra ingredient, a generous helping of football know-how. Hence it was that many a Barium lad went on to Davidson College to become a grid star.

But Joe Johnston did more for Davidson than train young football players and develop candidates for the ministry. A loyal and active alumnus, he served for nine years as a trustee for the college. Davidson acknowledged his faithful service by giving him the Algeron Sydney Sullivan award in 1933, and the LL.D. degree in 1950.

And finally, Joe Johnston served his church well. A deacon and an elder in the Presbyterian Church, he was also elected moderator of the Synod of North Carolina in 1947.

Since his retirement in 1949, Dr. Johnston has been director of the personnel and public relations department of Davis Hospital in Statesville. His death this week at the age of 70 ended a career of unselfish service to his fellow man.

Youth Lost A Friend In Dr. Johnston

From The Charlotte Observer

It would be hard to think of a more admirable calling than to be a friend of children, especially homeless children.

Yet that is the calling that Dr. Joseph B. Johnston took for himself when he gave up a successful business years ago to become superintendent of the Barium Springs Orphanage. For the next 27 years he guided that institution and saw many homeless ones grow up under Christian influences and go out into the world to make their mark as upright citizens.

The Orphanage is particularly proud of its graduates and of the fine records they have made in college, in business, and in the professions. No small part of that extraordinary achievement was the result of the sympathetic guidance and the understanding counsel of Dr. Johnston.

He was the kind of man who had the fire to awaken within youth its best efforts, to open to it a vista of learning and usefulness in the world, and to inspire it to follow that road.

Such qualities made him active in youth work outside the orphanage, especially in the Presbyterian church, which he served faithfully throughout his life. And, being a friend of and counselor of youth, he was naturally interested in athletics. For his help in that field he will long be remembered at Davidson College, which he served as trustee for nine years.

In the Presbyterian church he was moderator of the Synod of North Carolina in 1947 and served the church in many other capacities.

The hundreds of today's citizens who can trace their own usefulness to the helping hand of Dr. Johnston in times of need will bear witness to a life devoted to the service of others.

Dr. Joseph B. Johnston

From The Statesville Daily Record

Dr. Joseph B. Johnston was a man who stood out in any crowd—not only physically, but as a leader. And his accomplishments during the three score years and ten allotted him on this earth will not soon be forgotten.

Dr. Johnston - a somewhat formal title for a man who was better known and more accurately described as "Mr. Joe"—for 27 years filled a unique spot as superintendent of the orphanage at Barium Springs. That job brought him to Iredell county and from the first days, it was apparent that he was destined to be a leader, not only in his church and in his work, but in this community.

It is difficult to imagine that death has stilled that tall, gaunt frame once so active. (Continued On Page Three)

Dr. Johnston loved children, he loved sports and he was quite an athlete in his day. He maintained his interest in athletics and especially his beloved South Piedmont conference to the very last, and kept the standings of the teams during the past season's football race for the Daily Record.

Two family tragedies within the past year undoubtedly hastened Mr. Joe's death. But it was characteristic of the man that, last year, after one bereavement, he could be seen uptown the next morning, grim but calm and composed. He knew how to accept trouble, of which he and his family have had more than their share.

But Mr. Johnston will be best remembered as the "father" of thousands of children who passed through Barium during his 27 years as its superintendent. "I can call each child by name," he once said. "Sometimes, when I'm driving along, I name them—by cottages—just to keep in practice."

After he retired at Barium, he moved to Statesville, where he became associated with Davis hospital. But — when he went back to visit at Barium, it was a touching sight to see the little children swarm over him with affection. That would be proof enough of his success in life.

While we are paying our final tribute to this friend, we would like to suggest that no more fitting memorial to his memory could be established than to name the new Barium gymnasium-activities building for him. He loved sports and he did as much as any man in the state to develop the athletic program in the schools.

The Presbyterian church has a great opportunity now—in this new building which Mr. Joe longed for, for so many years—to honor his memory.

Meantime, we doubt that J. B. Johnston, who thought Barium Springs was only a little southeast of heaven, will be lonely. Surely a man who in his lifetime suffered so many little children to come to him will feel at home where he has gone. For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Rumple Hall

Here we are again with the news of Rumple Hall.

We are all back in school again and are studying very hard.

We all had a wonderful time during the Christmas holidays. Santa brought us many beautiful things for Christmas, and we are sure, if Santa were here, we would all want to thank him in person, for the nice things we all received.

During our Christmas holidays the helicopter came and Santa got out and gave each one of us a gift. You should have seen some of the presents we received. We each got four gifts. A lot of people took pictures of the helicopter and Santa.

We also had the privilege of skating in the gym. Of course when we got through skating, we were all pretty sore from falling down, but we enjoyed it very much.

We have also had a few games in our gym, too. We played Hickory and the boys lost, but the girls won. Then we played Mills Home. We won both games, but Mills Home sure did play a good game, too. They are also good sports.

We got some free passes to the Playhouse Theatre. We sure were glad to get them. We all want to thank Mr. Sams. We surely do enjoy them. We've been to two movies since the Christmas holidays. One was "The Tanks Are Coming," and the other one was "Force of Arms."

We will try to let you hear from us next month.

Your friend,

—Barbara Ann Johnson.

Christmas On Campus

Christmas Tree in the dining room.

The chance for some to sleep late in the morning with only the necessary work scheduled and a lot of time for play. The Activities Building was open during the mornings for group activities - basketball and volley ball. In the afternoon and evening it was open for skating, with everybody getting a turn. Two former students of the school, Miss Mary Dickson Arrowood, daughter of the treasurer of the Home, and Paul Barnes, a graduate of last year, assisted in carrying on the recreation.

To all of those who had a part in making Christmas good at Barium Springs we send our sincerest thanks and, as you visualize that which took place on the campus, you surely take pleasure in the part that you had in it.

SCHOOL NEWS

BONNIE ODOM

After a month with most of our basketball games away from home, we are glad to be getting back home for most of our games during this month. Our girls team lost their first conference game to Statesville this season. The scores for our Statesville games were: Barium Girls 59- Statesville Girls 69; Barium Boys 49- Statesville Boys 35. Our boys lost to Spencer's Railroaders by a 49-45 margin. We are hoping to finish the remainder of the season with a clean slate.

Although the Glee Club has not had an opportunity to demonstrate their ability publicly, they are still working hard as ever. Soon they are to sing for our congregation at a prayer meeting service. We are very proud of the fine work they are doing.

Father and Son Banquet At Barium

During Scout Week the Father and Son banquet was held as a part of the Scouting Program for the Statesville area. The annual custom of staging this banquet at Barium Springs prevailed and between three and four hundred persons assembled in the large dining hall for the evening meal and program.

President Gordon L. Wilson presided and introduced the special guests of the evening. The highlight of the occasion was the address by Harry McAlister of Charlotte, N. C. The speaker, a distinguished businessman and civic leader, has been working in Scouting for more than a quarter of a century and has received the high award of the Silver Beaver. In his address he stressed the value of the Scouting Program for the boy, and the need for adult participation in carrying on this program.

The evening session was adjourned after announcement of the financial campaign to be made, with a closing prayer led by the Reverend R. S. Arrowood of Barium Springs.

Twenty-Eight Teams Play In Tournament

The twenty-first annual Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament came to a close on Monday night, Feb. 18th, with the girls team from Hiddenite high school winning first place over Blackburn of Catawba County. The crown for the first place in the boys division went to Oxford winning over Sherrills Ford. This tourney which has been in existence for more than two decades brought together twenty-eight teams from the Mid-Piedmont area. During the five days of play nearly 400 fine athletes gave exhibition of skill and sportsmanship in the new Activities Building on the Barium campus. The play was fast and the contests were good and the winners were real champions.

The girls division found teams entered from the high schools as follows: Blackburn, Central, Troutman, Catawba, Scotts, Rock Springs, West Yadkin, Hiddenite, Harmony, Sherrills Ford, Stony Point, Brawley, Celeste Henkel and Oxford. The boys division had entries from the high schools of Celeste Henkel, Blackburn, Hiddenite, Catawba, Central, Rock Springs, Oxford, Sherrills Ford, Cool Spring, Scotts, West Yadkin, Harmony, Brawley, and Troutman.

In addition to the regular officials, Daniels, Graham, Hager and Jackins, Bill Guy of the Barium school joined the whistle-blowing forces.

Final counting of the awards showed that in the girls division Hiddenite won the first place and carried off the largest trophy. Second place went to Blackburn.

The award for the best-dressed team went to Celeste Henkel girls and the foul-shooting contest was won by Muriel Mundy from Rock Springs who dropped 20 points through the basket out of 25 shots. In the boys division in first place was Oxford, in second place was Sherrills Ford. The foul-shooting contest was won by Carl Matthews from Oxford school who had 21 out of 25 shots.

The tournament under the direction of R. G. Calhoun, principal of the Barium Springs High School, is one of the highlights of the athletic program of the year.

COTTAGE NEWS

eventful occasion, but the juniors and future seniors as well.

Quite a few girls made the honor roll on the first floor. We are hoping that all, or at least the majority, of the girls in our dormitory make straight "S's."

Several of the girls from the 1951 graduating class have visited us lately. We are always glad to have them come back as often as possible. However, two of last year's class have joined the service and have not been able to come back yet. Soon one of them is to have a leave and plans to visit Barium then.

The Mid-Piedmont Tournament started here the middle of this month, which means a great many of the girls and boys will be taking part in some phase of this particular activity. We only wish that we could show off our teams on the hardwood.

If the March winds don't blow us and our possessions away, we'll be seeing you in the month when Spring gets underway. Nevertheless, the way the February winds have been behaving, we're fortunate to be here at the present.

Until the "Windy Month," we are, the ever faithful Woman's Building Girls.

ANNIE LOUISE COTTAGE

Hi!

With all this warm weather here in February we are just about to get "Spring Fever," but regardless of being a little bit lazy we are still full of energy and eager to start planting our flower garden. Already there is some "Sweet Breath of Spring" growing at our back door. Pretty soon there will be flowers all over the campus and that's when we want all of you to come and see how pretty it looks.

Now that the Mid-Piedmont Tournament has started, we are out of school for the afternoon. We feel like we deserve a vacation after working so hard in school.

With Cupid and his arrows floating around we have been making and sending valentines. This makes us think of our good friends in Morganton who were so nice to send us each a valentine. Thank you very much.

Lately we have seen two good movies, "An American in Paris," and "Golden Girl." It is hard to tell just which one we liked best since they were both good musicals.

We have been having lots of fun going down to the football field, running races, and going on walks to the woods. We all feel real lousy and healthy after taking walks.

One thing that makes us feel and look so healthy is our friend, Uncle Bob's, corn bread. We always look forward to lunch for just that reason. It sure is good and we really like it.

That's just about all the news for now. So long!

Your Friends,

The Annie Louise Girls

SYNOD COTTAGE

Hi Folks—

Since you have not heard from us in so long we want to say first of all how much we enjoyed the nice gifts everyone sent us for Christmas and the oranges our friends have been sending us from time to time.

We have some show tickets that our friends in Statesville gave us and have been to the movies twice, once to see "Coming Roun' the Mountain," and another time to see "Mark of the Renegade." We enjoyed both of them.

The last time we got our report cards we had five boys on the honor roll. We get them again in about three more weeks and we hope to have more on the honor roll this time.

Some of us had birthday parties in January and we hope the boys who have birthdays in February have as nice parties as we had. Until you hear from us again, we remain,

The "Wiggles"

HOWARD COTTAGE NEWS

Hi Folks—

It has been a long time since you have heard from us, but with Christmas and getting back to school after the holidays, we hardly know which way we are going!

The following girls have recited the Child's Catechism: Brenda Pursley, Edna Evans, Betty Wright, Merle Byrd, and Nancy Ferrell who has just moved to Rumble Hall. We hope these girls will continue their work and go on with the Shorter Catechism. Carol Harwell, a girl who used to live with us, went home and now she has come to live with us again.

We received some gift show tickets for Christmas and have used two of them to see "I'll See You In My Dreams" and "Golden Girl." We appreciate and enjoy going to the movies.

We have been seeing a few basketball games. Both of our teams have lost one game. Since our big girl, Margaret Hopkins, plays on the team we are especially interested in the games. Now we are busy sending valentines but since we do not have enough to send to all of you, we want to wish you all a "Happy Valentine's Day!"

The Beanstringers

BABY COTTAGE NEWS

Hi Folks—

Here are the Baby Reporters again. A lot of things have happened since the last time you heard from us.

Santa Claus was really good to us. Wish you could have seen our beautiful curly-haired dolls and our pretty bright colored trucks and so many more things. We got many nice things that we needed such as oranges and juices from our "Circle" friends.

Mama Richards left January 11th for a two-months leave of absence. She went to Tampa, Florida. She sent us a large basket of oranges and grapefruit. Oh, they were so good.

Rita and Shirley went to Prayer meeting last night. Rita came home and told her housemother that they sang a Western song—"The Day Is Dying in the West."

At dinner Sara Lou asked for "straw" (meaning slaw). Linda was asked to go downstairs and ask Helen Barnes for Miss Richards' address. She was asked, "What are you going to ask Helen?" "Miss Richards' plaid dress," was her reply.

Oh, yes, Billy Marino had a birthday party. He said he was a "big boy." We don't see why because he is only four years old.

QUAD NEWS

Hello Everyone—

One of the most wonderful things that has happened recently was the party given by the Junior and Senior boys. Everything went off fine due to the exceptionally good efforts of the boys.

Sports are always a big part of Barium Springs, whether or not we have a winning team. It so happens that this year both teams have done very well. Thus far we have lost only one Conference game each. Buddy Maples was elected Captain of the boys' team and Louise Campbell received this honor on the girls' team.

Graduation is not very far off and our ten senior boys are pretty busy preparing themselves for the life ahead.

It may be that your town is entering our Mid-Piedmont Basketball Tournament which we have here each year. This is an event that we all look forward to, and this year because of our new Gym we are hoping that it will be a bigger success than ever. The basketball season will soon be over and then we will look forward to skating at the Gym.

Guess this is all the news this month, readers; from now on we will try to let you hear from us more often.

The Quad Boys

JENNIE GILMER NEWS

Hello Everyone!

We hope you are as well and happy as we are in this early part of 1952. We are especially enjoying our basketball games in our new gym and so far our girls and boys teams have lost only one game each. We are proud of our Junior team also, which has lost only one game.

We want to thank Mr. Fuller Sams of Statesville for the free show tickets we received at Christmas time and we have enjoyed the movies that we picked to see. We are certainly enjoying the books and papers the members of Circle 4 in Mooresville have subscribed to for our enjoyment during the coming year.

We are getting plenty of milk at the dairy now and a lot of new calves have been born. You should see them kick up their heels in this mild sunny weather we are having.

So long until next month.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., APRIL 1952

No. 6

Regents Will Meet In Regular Session

The regular meeting of the Board of Regents will be held at Barium Springs on the second Thursday in May - May 8th. Mr. W. E. Price, president, of Charlotte, N. C. will be presiding over the meeting made up of regents who are elected from the Presbyteries, two from each, with two additional persons elected at large, thus making a Board of twenty members. Annual reports will be heard and a budget for the new year will be adopted. Many important matters will be presented to the Board for their consideration, one of which is the laying of a new steam line on the campus.

Warm weather reached the campus just in time to save the situation. Steam lines lying under ground from twenty-three to thirty-six years have been giving trouble for some time and are beyond use for another winter. By limping through the winter just passed and reducing pressure on the lines, we were able to reach warm weather, but before Jack Frost comes to the campus again a new steam line will have to be laid to all the buildings. This is a tremendous summer time program, involving a large outlay of capital funds. The Board will give consideration to the problem of how to obtain the money in time to get the work done.

Young People's Group Attends Spring Rally

The Senior High Fellowship of Little Joe's Church made a grand showing as they stood up forty-four strong to be counted at the Spring Rally in Salisbury. With the total attendance of the group being 430, Little Joe's was more than ten percent of all the churches present.

Featured in the Rally was the presentation of the new theme for the year together with the theme picture and the theme hymn by Charles Williams, president of the Synod's Council. Reverend John S. McMullen, Director of Youth Work in the Assembly, explained the new commission changes to the group and also delivered the inspirational sermon at the close of the Rally.

In the business session new officers were elected and two Commission Chairmen chosen. All the officers were installed at the Evening Service by the Adult Advisor, Reverend Walter H. Styles, of Valdese. One of the Commission Chairmen

Wheels Go Around In Activities Building

The skating rink in the new activities building is the most popular place on the campus at the moment. With the basketball season concluded, the bleachers have been rolled back and the floor made ready for the wheels to roll. The floor space will accommodate about sixty persons at a time and there are almost enough skates to meet the needs from the Baby Cottage through the High School. With a good record player and an amplifying system, music is available and the children anticipate loads of fun from now on in the new sport at Barium Springs. Heretofore the only place for skating was the sidewalk and through the years the wheels had taken the toll at the seams and in the cracked places, and with the small area available the skating had been most unsatisfactory. But now at the new rink even the housemothers and Buck Jackins are learning the art of standing up. It is reported that Jackins fell only twice last Saturday.

FBI Demonstrate Firearm Safety

The Charlotte office of the FBI through its director, William Murphy, arranged for a visit to the campus at Barium Springs for the purpose of demonstrating the safety of firearms. A high rank was selected and targets were prepared and the school children gathered with eagerness to learn something of the power of guns and the proper use of them.

While this demonstration was originally scheduled for boys only, the magic of the term "FBI" so captivated the girls that they, too, wanted to see, and so both groups were present for the demonstration.

In connection with this visit two members of the senior class made arrangements for interviews with the special agent, looking toward employment in the offices in Washington. The whole group agrees that it is far better to be working with the FBI than against them, and this educational feature was proposed to wholesomely instruct the students concerning the work of the FBI and also to promote a safety program in the use of firearms.

Annual Banquet Fetes Basketball Players

The large dining room on the campus, beautifully decorated, was the scene of the basketball banquet on Friday March 28th, with Mr. R. E. Jackins presiding as toastmaster. The invocation was offered by Reverend R. S. Arrowood and those present enjoyed a delicious dinner of steak topped off with ice cream and cake.

The two hundred guests assembled were delighted with the master of ceremonies as he guided the affairs of the evening. A review of the year's accomplishments in basketball shows that the varsity boys ended up in third place in the regular season and in second place in the South Piedmont Conference Tournament play-off. The varsity girls took second place in the regular season and went to the semi-finals in the tournament play.

Funeral Service For Miss Celeste Boyd

Funeral services were held in Little Joe's Church at Barium Springs on April 9th for Miss Celeste Boyd. Reverend J. O. Mann, Synod's Director of Religious Education, conducted the service and was assisted by the Reverend Charles H. Sides, Pastor of Little Joe's Church. Interment was at the cemetery on the edge of the campus in the family plot, and the nephews of the deceased acted as pallbearers, bearing the body to the resting place beside her father.

Miss Boyd had long been identified with Presbyterian Orphans' Home. Her father, the late Rev. R. W. Boyd, was the first superintendent of the Home, coming to the campus in 1891. She was associated with the children in the cottages and in the school, and it is said that she was with little Joe Gilleland at the time of his death.

Six Delegates Attend Conference

The annual North Carolina Student Conference of the Orphanages of North Carolina was held at the Kennedy Home at Kinston.

Each Home was allowed to send six representatives to share in the two-day session. Two girls, Louise Campbell and Hilda Barnes, and four boys, Albert Williams, Palmer Willcox, Ennis Blackburn, and David Morrison, were chosen to represent Barium Springs. Rising at four o'clock in the morning, the group ate an early breakfast and made a hurried trip to the Mills Home where they joined the others from this area and boarded the Mills Home bus bound for

Commencement To Be In May

Already in the final six weeks and moving rapidly toward the close of school, the seniors anticipate the glory of the High School Commencement exercises, which will come the third week in May.

The Glee Club will present its program on Friday, May 16th. Sunday, May 18th, is the day for the baccalaureate sermon, and the special Young People's Service in the evening. On Monday, May 19th, the graduation exercises will be held in the evening, closing the stay at Barium Springs for those who make up the twenty in the senior class.

Applications Exceed Available Space

The case worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, is still busy making investigations and preparing reports, even though we have been unable to admit any children since January. All the available space is taken and in some instances beds have been placed in the halls for emergency situations. In the last case one child had to be kept in the Infirmary for several weeks before a place could be made in the regular cottage for her.

The old saying "There is always room for one more" does not hold true on the campus at the present. When there is no more room to set up a bed and when the housemother has more children than she can care for, the only answer left is to wait until after graduation and the seniors have moved out.

There are already on the superintendent's desk enough applications to fill the available space two or three times and additional applications come in almost every day.

Why I Study The Bible

It is difficult to analyze just why I do study the Bible, but these are perhaps the most outstanding reasons.

In the first place, I have associated with Bible readers all my life and I would miss it should I have to give it up. Then, too, in order to be our best we must have a "perfect model" to follow. Only in the Bible do we find the model of a perfect life.

When we study the needs of the world, in the light of principles given in the gospels, we are impressed that only here can they be solved.

Jesus said, "Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have eternal life." (John 5:39). The Bible is the story of the redemption of the human race, and it is here that we find the abundant life.

"All Scripture inspired by God is profitable for reproof, for instruction, for correction, which is righteousness."

"And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."

—By Marguerite Gaskill

Why I Study The Bible

In the Westminster Shorter Catechism we are told that "The Word of God which is contained in the Scriptures is the only rule to direct us how we may glorify and enjoy Him." Again, "The scriptures principally teach what man is to believe concerning God, and what duty God requires of man." "Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life." (John 5:39). These, of course are for those who are already Christians, rather than for unbelievers.

But there are reasons. The chief reason, most likely, for most of us who have been raised in Christian surroundings, is habit. Since childhood we have been taught the Bible; therefore, we study it involuntarily.

The third important reason may be called the "knowledge reason." Webster defines the Bible as "the Book of Books by preeminence." It contains sixty-six "books" written by thirty-six men, who were entirely different in character, in reactions, and in the walks of life. These men lived far apart and wrote on different subjects, yet the same theme and inspiration is in all. Christians and non-Christians read the Bible for the law, poetry, history, folklore, romance and tragedy found in it.

Even unbelievers will admit that Christ's principles applied to the problems of the world, such as the economic depression and the need of disarmament, would solve them quickly. In life we may say "Thy Word is lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." (Psalms 119:105.) We feel that David was right when he said, "Thy word have I laid up in my heart that I might not sin against thee." (Psalms 119:105).

A Day With The Kindergarten

One long ring of the door bell announces the arrival of the five and six-year-olds for kindergarten. "Buddy", they say, in great excitement has worms for the duck". Sure enough he has - a fist full of squirming worms which he has collected for his pet, Snookums. We must first go to the backyard and deliver the prize and all watch with glee as the greedy old gander (last year's Easter duck) gobbles the worms.

Now we go into the living room and Rita presents us with a bag of candy from Miss "Pipe" (Pike). Each one brings his little blue chair and we are ready for our songs and stories of the opening worship period. But wait - one boy is standing - no chair. Everyone insists that he brought a chair. With the solution not in sight Larry suggests that we ask Jesus to tell us who has not brought a chair. After a prayer and withholding the candy and story, one child with painful volition goes after a chair.

We sing "Stand Up for Jesus", accompanied by the record player. Walter asks if he may sing "Jesus Loves Me", which he does very sweetly. Rita asks that we sing "When we First Get to Church" meaning the "Doxology". We have memory verses from the Bible and learn a new one. There are many requests for Bible stories: "David and the Giant", "Noah and the Ark", "The little Boy's Lunch", and many others. A few are selected after the first one which is more about the Easter events concerning Christ. This story is very real to them and they listen intently. They find Judas and Peter worthy of much comment and the happy climax for the story is the appearance of Jesus to his mother on that first Easter morn. This leaves them satisfied after the tension of some other parts of the story.

Now Bill is being requested to tell a story, which always furnishes us with fine entertainment. He tells us today, about "The Three Little Pigs." Robert volunteers to tell us a story. We listen: "Once there was a cowboy and he had a cow. The cow chased him and knocked him down and broke his horns off and I am glad. The cowboy got up and he was all muddy."

Larry is able to recite "The Night Before Christmas" for us which he does. "... not a preacher was stirring not even a mouse", he says. Christmas never loses its charm even at Easter time.

Robert then asks if he may sing "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" "... then one froggy Christmas eve ..." he sings the whole song.

Leaving Christmas, we get back to lessons and begin our writing, drawing, coloring cutting. With big pencils and wide-lined paper some write their names very well, while others are still using the sign and seal. Percy will be a scholar - he likes writing and never gets enough of hearing "stories".

We like our pre-primers because most of the "reading" is done by interpretation of the pictures. The vocabulary produced is much more voluminous than the dozen words listed in the book.

Margaret, the youngest one, announces that she is tired of all the talking and wants to play the records. She selects a folk dance which is her favorite and stands or rather dances and sways in perfect rhythm with the music. Her blue eyes are dancing and her face is one big smile as she enters into the world of self expression.

Shirley is very much interested in birds, and calls our attention to a blue jay which is on the window sill examining the bread crumbs. The jay hears their voices, stretches his neck and looks through the window. Everyone becomes still and quiet and is spell-bound with the nearness of the blue jay. Then he takes a piece of bread and flies away.

Now it is time for out-of-doors play. There we play games such as "Hide and Seek," Basketball ("which is throwing balls into a bushel basket") "Farmer in the Dell" or individual play for those who prefer it. There is a tree to climb, a pail of modeling clay and a basket of toys. Soap bubbles are blown with large spools and make endless fun.

Here it is time to go home and no one wants to stop. Buddy is riding in the wagon with the duck in his lap - Larry pulling and Walter pushing, each earning his ride. Shirley is riding the scooter, Margaret is making a cake and playing in the "house" under the tree. (The house is furnished with furniture which we made with hammer and nails.) Rita is in the tree while Bill, Percy and Robert are busy "putting out a fire." They have a piece of rubber hose and a ladder and are very much excited.

Finally we gather at the gate and sing "Our Kindergarten is over and we are going Home, etc." They scurry away with their never-ending enthusiasm for the next event which is dinner. Always several turn and wave another "goodbye" and Margaret says, "See you tomorrow, Miss Arrowood."

School News

By Bonnie Odom

Having finished with basketball completely for this season, our high school boys have begun their softball games. This year's managers are Charles Stevens, Joe Barkley, Buddy Maples, and Johnny Hudgins. Just recently they played the first game, and all four teams seem to be in good shape. Soon the girls are to organize teams.

On April 3, the Glee Club paid its annual visit to Davidson College to give a program of entertaining music. In less than a month, they are scheduled to make a trip to Covington, Virginia to give a program of religious music.

The eighth graders have just completed the Easter Seal campaign, and have turned in $12.13 for the help of crippled children. Thus far this year, the contributions to other similar funds have been exceptionally successful.

On March 21 - 22 the Beta Club chapter went to Raleigh to attend the State Convention. For this year we had five delegates who represented us and who cast votes for our Club.

Friday, April 4, the Sixth Grade presented a delightful performance in which they made all the necessary scenes and costumes. It was entertaining in that they gave a puppet show with original characters.

The honor roll for the six weeks ending April 7 is as follows:

First Grade—Jerry Cavin, Dan Jackins, David Lee Spencer, Linda Lee Byrd, Diane Mobley, Betty Pursley, Mae Ramey, Susie Blackburn.

SEWING ROOM

Since we have been busy with Easter dresses, sheets, curtains, and the such, we have hardly had time to even think of anything else. Our instructors have been rushed also while we attended school.

Many compliments have been coming our way, and we are delighted that people are satisfied with our work for them. We shall try to keep them in good standing with us and work for their cottages.

Hilda, who is apparently the second Doris Day, is making final plans to enter a beauty school. She, as well as the rest of us, are very much concerned with our future.

We have a Miss F. B. I. in our class. Yes, Sara, is going to share with Uncle Sam her abilities as a typist.

The Women's Air Force is soon to add one more WAF into its branch. Confidentially we will watch Ethel Brotherton's patriotic career.

Soon after graduation Louise Campbell won't be sewing, or basting, or hemstitching, but studying to be an X-Ray technician. Good luck, Lou; we know you can do it well.

Here's another energetic bundle of atoms who is contributing generously her time and talents as an FBI typist. Elmina Johnson is sure to give her best to her work.

Going with Hilda Barnes to beauty school will be good natured Mary Frances Price. We guarantee Frances' customers a pleasant work-out.

Caroline Wicker isn't quite sure what college she will get into, but where ever she goes, Caroline will be a success.

With you nice people we leave our fondest regards and best wishes.

RUMPLE HALL

Hello Everyone,

Since we didn't write any news last time, we certainly have a lot to tell you this month.

First of all we got a brand new record-player and radio combined, we want to thank everyone who sent us money to get it. We already have an album of Dorothy Shay's records and we are hoping to get some more soon.

We had the Basketball Banquet March 28th and we all had a good time serving the food and ice cream to the people there.

Caroline Wicker got most valuable player of the girls and Mack Wicker got it of the boys. Congratulations Caroline and Mack!

Since Basketball season is over we are all having a wonderful time skating in the new gym. Only a few of our girls don't know how to skate, but they are learning fast. Of course they are learning fast. They get bumps and bruises but they get up and try again.

Well school will soon be out and we can hardly wait. Every afternoon you can see a different class outside playing softball. It seems as if everyone has baseball fever. Even the sixth grade gave a program: "Casey at the Bat."

On Easter nine of our girls will join the church and after they join everyone of our girls will have joined.

On April 1, the Senior Voice Club gave a program of singing and Louise Campbell sang in it. John Bullard and Johnny Hudgins, we all enjoyed it very much.

Well, so long until May,
—Jean Carol Harrison

INFIRMARY

Hello Everyone,

An important decision has just been made here at the infirmary. We have decided to write the cottage news. Since none of us want to be forgotten, we all agreed that it was about time you heard from us again.

We have been very fortunate about our health during the past winter. Our house was never full. But every now and then someone would hear about those "wonderful meals" and the "long peaceful hours of rest" that you can always enjoy at the infirmary, and they just could not resist the temptation to pay us a visit.

One of the workers here at Barium, Miss Taylor, has recently left us for a while to take a trip to England. She was the nurse at the infirmary every Thursday so you can understand why we miss her so much. Everyone hopes that she is having a pleasant trip.

We were all sorry to see the basketball season end but we are glad that we can start playing baseball soon. The boys have already organized their teams. We are also going to have a lot of fun skating now, which will probably mean more customers for the infirmary. It is not very easy to skate and really have fun without getting a few bruises.

School is almost over and then we can start enjoying summer again. Our news is very brief this time, but we will be seeing you in the Messenger again next month.

Your Florence Nightingales,
Lois Dellinger
Pattie Inman

HOWARD COTTAGE

Hi Folks,

We are busy in school. Winnie Wright had a birthday this month. Judy Taylor has learned how to ride the bicycle - we are always glad for someone to learn how.

We have been to see two shows - "Francis goes to the Races," and "Room for one more."

Beverly and Emily Sue McClure come to play with us sometimes and we have fun with them. We are having fun playing softball and all of us are learning to bat the ball, although some of us cannot knock it very far.

Miss May took us to the spring and when we got back all of us got a dish of ice cream, and then on Sunday we had some more.

Our housemother, Miss Lois Jackson, went to New York with Miss Taylor to get on the ship. While she was gone Miss Stevenson was our housemother and we played racing in sacks.

Goodbye for now.
Your friends at Howard.

Annie Louise

Hi Everybody!

As spring approaches, we realize school's just about out, so we're all working harder to make the honor roll. The last time 14 of us made it and our housemother gave us a party. That's one of the main reasons we try so hard to make good grades. Also, we're determined we're not going to let spring fever get us, as everyone says it will.

Getting our new spring dresses, has been occupying most of the sewing room girls' time, and they're so pretty. (the dresses, that is) we'd like to take this opportunity to say thank you to Mrs. Smith, Miss Campbell and the Seniors. Our dresses are so cute that our housemother told us, "when you wear your new dresses, if you act as good as you look you'll be sprouting wings." That's really a compliment to us who are noted for our mischievousness.

Traditional to the Easter season, we have been hunting Easter Eggs. We really work up energy runing back and forth, especially when three certain people tell us we're "hot" when we're "cold" and keep us looking after all the eggs have been found.

Have you folks ever seen the comedy team, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis? Well if you have, you'll really know we got a lot of good laughs from the movie, "Sailor Beware," that we saw a few days ago. We recommend this movie to everybody, especially those of you who have the blues.

Taking the time and space right here, we would like to congratulate the sixth grade on their unique and original program. A puppet show, Hillbillys, square dancing, a few songs and the dramatization of "Casey at the Bat", made it one of the most enjoyable we've seen lately.

We're still working in our flower garden and have some of the results of our labor in vases, decorating the house. We love flowers and that's one of the things of which Spring offers plenty.

If nothing unusual happens you'll probably hear from us again next month.

Six Delegates

Kinston.

The group reports a very interesting trip and a very successful Conference. Many phases of the life upon the campuses of the various institutions were presented and discussed, thus enabling each one present to get a better understanding of the boys and girls in the various Homes and to compare the life of each other as the reports were made.

This conference was begun some years ago, probably originating in the minds of Mr. O. V. Woosley of the Children's Home and Dr. Joe Johnston. Certainly, they were great sponsors of it and had great faith in it. As the leaders pool their ideas and carry back to their campuses the findings of the group, they can serve as leaders in their own individual groups for bringing about happier and better relationships.

Two good Junior teams presented a fine record for the year and brought home trophies from the Tournament played at Scotts. The girls were eliminated by a strong Claremont team, but were awarded the sportsmanship trophy. The boys met strong opposition in each game and came through victors with the championship cup in the Junior Tournament.

The certificates were awarded the members of the junior teams and the varsity letters were awarded to the members of the varsity squad. Members of the team for the girls chose as the most valuable player of the year Caroline Wicker, and in the boys varsity group her twin brother, Mack Wicker, was awarded the same honor.

In the Junior group the following girls and boys were awarded their certificates:

Girls

Hazel Bass, Edna Baucom, Phoebe Cochrane, Lois Dellinger, Annie Leigh Frazier, Martha Nell Hall, Beth Jackins, Betty Lou Johnson, Linda Inman, Mamie Lou Lloyd, Barbara McCall, Mary Emma McClure, Lena McLean, Shirley Plyler, Delores Ramsey, Anne White.

Boys

PROMISE YOURSELF

To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind.

To talk health, happiness, and prosperity to every person you meet.

To make all your friends feel that there is something in them.

To look at the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true.

To think only of the best, to work only for the best and expect only the best.

To be just as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own.

To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and give every living creature you meet a smile.

To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticize others.

To be too large, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

Twenty Seniors In Graduating Class

The graduating class of 1952 has in it eight girls and twelve boys, eighteen of whom are from the Home and two from the community.

The honor of the valedictorian went to a girl, Louise Campbell and the salutatorian was Henry Troutman.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached by the Reverend George E. Staples of the Highland Presbyterian Church in Winston-Salem, N. C. Following the usual custom of dispensing with Sunday School, the whole of the morning was given to the preparation for and the carrying out of the morning worship service.

The Sunday evening Vesper Service, designed particularly for the young people, Reverend Walter H. Styles, pastor of the Waldensian Presbyterian Church of Valdeese, N. C. was the guest minister. On Monday evening, May 19th, in the Elementary School Building, the seniors together with the other students of the Home and friends in the community took part in the final graduation exercises. Mr. R. G. Calhoun, principal, presided, and the graduating address was delivered by Dr. John R. Cunningham, president of Davidson College, thus bringing to a close this part of the life of the eighteen boys and girls of the Home and sending them forth to take up new work in new places.

Board Meets In Regular Session

Eighteen members of the Board of Regents met at Barium Springs on May 8th in the regular Spring session. Reports were heard from all of the committees concerning the various phases of the life of the campus and budgets were presented and adopted. Plans were made for the laying of a steam line, and many other minor repairs and replacements were approved.

The Board had been studying for many years the religious life of the campus, and has been giving intense study to this since the meeting in October, 1951.

It has been generally agreed that the difficulty arises out of the existence of two independent groups operating within the same sphere. The superintendent of the Home presented a recommendation to the Board that, in the light of the Report of the Committee on Religious Education and the special Committee on Church Building, intense and immediate study be given to the matter of clarifying the relationships and thus ease the tensions. Also, the officers of Little Joe's Church, through its pastor and representative, appeared before the Board and requested that the Board work toward clarifying the relationships. The Board requested Dr. Price H. Gwynn, of Flora Macdonald College, Dr. Charles E. S. Kraemer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Charlotte, and Miss Margaret Ratchford of the Religious Education Office, to make a study and report to the Board, giving advice. The Regents called in special session on January 29th, 1952 to study the report adopted the general policy that the Regents were charged with the responsibility for the religious nurture of the boys and girls of the Home, and a committee was appointed for the implementing of this policy. In the Spring meeting the committee made a report to the Board and the Board in discussion of the whole matter adopted the following as the plan of implementing the policy adopted

The Superintendent Makes Annual Report

With grateful thanksgiving we acknowledge God's goodness in the year just closed and humbly rely upon him for the year that lies before us. As long as this Home meets the needs of the boys and girls in a Christlike manner the Heavenly Father will surely provide for its needs.

Two years seem such a short time when viewed from the standpoint of the calendar, but the two years spent upon the campus when viewed from the point of events taking place and their consequences seem long and filled with stress and strain. It is to be hoped that some of the major problems are nearing their solution and that the next two years may be concluded in a very different fashion.

Administration

Administration in a general sense, of course, covers the total work of the institution. As previously expressed, it is still the intent of the superintendent to have a plan of organization where some competent person is in charge of each department, affording that person sufficient help to carry out the work of that area. This plan has not been fully realized because in some instances capable persons were not available. We continue to move in that direction and hope that before too many months we shall be able to add additional personnel who will complete the organization.

The new bookkeeper has rendered exceptional service and is well qualified to carry on that work. The manner of receiving and acknowledging money and packages from churches and people throughout the Synod leaves something to be desired, but we believe that can be arranged before the next meeting of the Board.

Household

A large section of the work of the home is cared for under this heading. The cost of living has gone up and naturally this department needed additional funds for operation.

The dining room has had a reasonably fair diet served, (Continued From Page Two) supplemented by the abundant supply of milk. The Health Department still questions the advisability of our serving raw milk and recommends that we look toward the pasteurization of the milk which is served at the table.

Wonderful work is being done in the sewing room in making a great many of the things that are worn and used on the campus. For campus appearance the children are neatly dressed and sufficiently clothed for all weather.

The recreational program provided for in this budget section is being given special attention with the view to enlarging it and touching more of the boys and girls in various forms of entertainment and recreation. Always there has been the high standard of varsity sports and competition in football and basketball. With the new Activities Building completed, all the children of the Home are enjoying skating, folk games, and other group contests. This Summer there will be a director of Activities on the campus. This person, Miss June Holtzendorf of the Assembly Training School, is a physical education major, having graduated from college and taught in college two years and completed one year at the Assembly Training School. It is hoped that she will lay the ground work for a fine Winter's program of recreation.

Health

The general health of the boys and girls on the campus is very good. Each year a physical examination is given, and it is the opinion of Doctors MacLauchlin and Lafferty who made the examination this year that the general health, with the exception of teeth, exceeds the health of any other group that they have seen or know about. The Home is terribly deficient in the care of the children's teeth. Several conferences have been held with the dentist in Statesville who has been doing the work. He, together with a committee from the Dental Society, visited the Home and much time and thought have been given to this subject. The superintendent has been assured that the condition now is no worse than it has been for the last twenty years.

It was the recommendation of the committee from the Dental Society of Statesville that a room be equipped in the infirmary and that someone be secured to spend several months on the campus getting the teeth of the children in order, and then that some arrangement be made for a dentist to visit the campus regularly. It seems imperative that some definite plan be given and that the Board make some specific allotment for this purpose.

Case Work

Our case work is excellent, but is spread so thin sometimes that it is not as effective as it might be. This is in no sense a reflection upon the worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, but rather commends her for her untiring efforts through the many long hours in every day. It is generally recommended that there be one case worker for every fifty children in a Home - we have one case worker for 276 children.

Applications received during the past year totaled 29, with 78 children involved. Out of this number 30 children were admitted to the Home, which means in the final result that about one-third of the applications resulted in placement in the Home. At the present time there are 276 children enrolled, 134 boys and 142 girls. Of this number 31, or about 12 percent, are full orphans; there are 76 with mother dead; 73 with father dead; 96 with neither dead.

While the number of children in the Home has generally been considered around 300, it becomes more and more necessary to study the staff and cottage loads and to bring the number of children down to the size of the staff, or to bring the staff up to the number of children. It is generally considered that from 12 to 15 is the ideal number of children for any one housemother to care for. Our cottage parents have from 10 to 48, with most of them having 25 to 30. This makes it utterly impossible to give the child the necessary attention for his well being. A recommendation concerning this will be found in the report later.

Education

The school year has been satisfactory. Last year the State Department of Public Instruction made a survey of the schools in three representative counties of the State. Iredell County was selected from the Piedmont area and Barium Springs rated higher than any other Iredell County school in the various tests administered. This rating was superior to other schools and gives Barium only the average rating that a school should have and does not indicate any unusual excellence over the (Continued On Page Three)

State standards. Perhaps the greatest problem facing our school is the large number of boys and girls in the Elementary school and some in High School who are not prepared to do the school work and who have been moved along in what is called "social promotion." In cooperation with the Alexander Home in Charlotte certain clinical tests are being made to determine the ability of some of these children. We hope that more thought and time can be given to them and that some special instruction can be afforded to this group of children that they may be brought up to the level of what their particular grade is trying to do.

Plant Operation and Maintenance
Through the years there has been a great deal of development on the campus at Barium Springs, bringing about a certain beauty that must be maintained. However, careful scrutiny of walkways, roads, and buildings from cellar to attic affords the inescapable conviction that our campus is in great need, that many of the buildings are outmoded, and that many repairs and replacements must be planned for. The walkways and the roadways are muddy in wet weather and very dusty in dry weather, and both circumstances affect the health and happiness of the children. Each year dirt is hauled back and put in only to wash away again. The only satisfactory solution is the hard-surfacing of about a mile and one-half of roadway and putting some top dressing on some of the walkways where the children pass several times a day.

In new work begun on the heating system some years ago we can report a new boiler installed and the heating plant enlarged, but it will be necessary to complete the program this Summer by laying a new steam line for the whole campus. The pipes now in the ground have been there from 25 to 36 years and were laid for a low pressure system. These pipes are rusted out and we barely got through the Winter. We cannot face another Winter without this need having been met.

There is some money on hand which was given to the Home through Dr. Johnston's leadership for what was then called "The Children's Village." The donors are becoming a bit restless about this money not being applied to the purpose for which it was given. The buildings which house our smaller children are far from what is needed and they will soon have to be replaced. It would seem, therefore, that it is indispensable that some definite plans be made for the use of this money in the erection of some cottages suitably located and adequate for the needs of these smaller children.
The barns and outbuildings have been standing long and are sorely in need of paint on the woodwork and particularly on the metal roofs. It looks like a must for the Summer's program to have these roofs painted and at least one coat of paint applied to the outside of the buildings.
Farm, Dairy and Orchards
This department with its three component parts means big business within itself. The dairy is under the supervision of Ralph Spencer and he is assisted in the operation of it by one adult and the necessary number of boys. The State Veterinarian checks the herd annually for TB and Bangs Disease. The County Sanitarian checks the milk regularly for bacteria count. Records last year showed 42,309 gallons of milk produced and served in the Home: 7,416 pounds of beef were provided from the dairy herd; 300 loads of manure were provided for the farm. Careful thought must continually be given to the dairy enterprise and to the wisdom or advisability of continuing to serve raw milk.
Last year for the first time in four years the peach crop was not frozen out. 1,859 bushels of peaches from the Georgia Belles, Elbertas, and Nathan Hales were gathered. The apple crop was not as abundant as was the preceding year but was sufficient for the needs of the Home - 3,269 bushels. One section of the peach orchard is old and will have to be uprooted next year and replaced with new trees. The young orchard which was set out several years ago is just about ready to bear.

Small grain last year hit the peak in production and overran the bins provided. Mr. Stinson, the farm superintendent, reports 795 bushels of wheat; 3,210 bushels of oats; 2,776 bushels of barley; 40 bushels of rye; 3,000 bushels of corn; 7,000 pounds of lespepeza seed; 221 loads of hay; 60 loads of silage; 2,500 bales of straw.
Vegetables of great variety have been raised and provided for the dining room. In addition to those that were used when fresh large quantities have been canned. Mr. Clendenin who supervises the orchard and also directs the canning reports that between six and seven thousand No. 10 cans were filled with peas, beans, apples, berries, tomatoes, peaches, etc.
Pork, lamb and mutton sufficient for the table was also provided. A beef herd should be started in order that the excessive amount of pork may be replaced with the more desirable beef. Plans for the hogs and beef cattle to be moved further from the campus should be made. This is indispensable because of flies and odors which make the proximity of the barns and hog pens very undesirable and even dangerous from the standpoint of disease and infection.

responsibility for the spiritual and moral life of the children of the Home.
2. That all services of worship and instruction for the children of the Home shall be under the direct supervision of the superintendent of the Home.
3. That the adult congregation of Little Joe's Church shall be permitted to use the facilities of the Church according to the convenience of the Home.
4. That all the members of the congregation will be welcome to attend all services of worship held in Little Joe's Church.
5. That the Home shall employ, as soon as practicable, a chaplain, who shall be responsible to the Board of Regents, through the superintendent.
6. That the Board of Regents proceed immediately to erect a suitable House of Worship for the children of the Home, and any others who may care to worship and work in this Christian Fellowship.
7. That the Synod of North Carolina be petitioned to provide whatever authority is necessary for the reception of persons into full communion in Little Joe's Chapel, and for the administration of the Sacraments.

It has been frequently stated that the root of the whole matter lies in having two separate bodies independent of each other. There has been

Summer Program In Full Swing

Every department reports unusually fine success in the work of the Summer. From the time of graduation until vacation the days are filled with great variety of work on the campus and on the farm.

Mr. Stinson and his crew have been busy getting the garden underway, taking off the first cutting of hay, and now in the midst of the harvesting of the small grain, and getting the corn cultivated for ensilage and feeding purposes.

The orchard has had its crew busy with the sprays and harrows and general work, looking toward a full crop of peaches and apples later on. The early peach trees are beginning to yield and peach pie has made its appearance on some of the tables.

The campus crew is trying to keep ahead of the grass with mowing machines and to repair the buildings and are also doing a lot of painting.

Sheriff Rumble Takes Group to Park

The junior age girls and boys from Howard and Lees cottages had the thrill of a lifetime as the guests of Sheriff Charlie Rumble of Iredell County who escorted them to the Airport Park in Charlotte for an afternoon of fun and free rides and drinks. An early lunch was provided and the Sheriff in his official car led the two buses from the campus until they were met by the rural police at the Mecklenburg line; then in great style and ceremony they moved across the country to the Park where this group joined other boys and girls from other Homes for an afternoon that

Health Department Says "Pasteurize"

Dr. Ernest Ward, Health Officer of the Iredell County Health Department, has instructed the Home that the County can no longer approve the use of raw milk at Barium Springs. For many years the Health Department has looked with disfavor upon the use of anything other than pasteurized milk for the sake of the safety of the children's health.

In this emergency situation the raw milk is being sold, and pasteurized, homogenized milk is being purchased in the quart bottles. This temporary plan will continue until definite arrangements can be made for the erection of an additional room and the securing and installing of an adequate pasteurizing unit. At the present neither the cost of this nor the length of time for installation has been determined, but all efforts are being made to secure and install the outfit in order that the cost of purchasing milk may be reduced and that the quantity for the boys and girls may be increased.

Bible School Camp Planned For August

Concord Presbytery's new camp at Lake Refuge, just above Old Fort, will be the site of the Bible School Camp which is being planned for late July and early August. Approximately one hundred of the younger children will spend ten days or two weeks at the camp site.

The six Assembly Training School students assisting in the work this summer will be planning the camp and teaching the courses throughout the day. Some of the house-mothers, one of the school teachers, and Miss Rebekah Carpenter, the case worker, will also join the force and it looks like a wonderful time is in store for the children.

The camp management has promised to afford the Home the most reasonable rates possible, and for that we are indeed grateful. Two weeks have actually been scheduled in the camp calendar, but in

HOUSEMOTHERS NEEDED

Would you like to invest your life in a great work? Need for additional house-mothers at Barium Springs continues to prevail. Persons between the ages of twenty-five and fifty who are qualified to work with boys and girls ranging in age from three years to the senior in high school, can render great service to youth and to the church. Anyone who is interested is invited to communicate with the superintendent at Barium Springs.

Campbell and Carriker Ace Medal Winners

One of the highlights of each commencement at Barium is the announcement of the Ace Medal winners for the year, with one medal going to a former student and one going to a member of the senior class. The committee choosing the alumnus to be the recipient of the medal this year thought that an excellent choice was made in the Rev. John A. Carriker who is now pastor of the Eastminster Presbyterian Church in Charlotte. Mr. Carriker

Six A. T. S. Girls On Summer Staff

The Barium summer staff has to be augmented in order to provide vacations for the regular workers. Six students from the Assembly's Training School in Richmond have come to the campus for the months of June, July and August.

Miss Alma Steading who was here during the summer of '51, and who is a graduate of the Assembly's Training School, is here for the summer again this year. Five others

Vacation Time Begins July First

The first day of July is the red-letter day in the near future for Barium Springs. From five o'clock in the morning until the middle of the afternoon the boys and girls will be making their way to their relatives for their Summer vacations. This year all of the children will go at one time except for a skeleton crew that will stay on the campus to keep the dairy and gardens in operation.

Cottage News

Annie Louise Cottage

Hello Everyone!

Here we are again and happier than ever. School is out and we were all promoted. One of us was overheard saying, "I sure am glad that I was commoted." We are having so much fun playing and working but we miss our teachers and the seniors who graduated. We really will be glad when school starts again. We get to go in swimming in about a week and we can hardly wait. Most of us "dog-paddle" though.

One of our big girls, Dorothy, is now a rising senior and had to move to the Woman's Building and instead we got a new one, Lena McLean. We all like Lena and hope that she will continue liking us.

We have some new ladies from the Assembly's Training School in Richmond, Va., with us for the summer and we like all of them. We hope they enjoy their work here this summer.

At the dinner table the other day someone asked the matron who was the wisest man in the Bible and Patsy Ross popped up and said, George Washington. She still won't change her mind no matter how much we tell her differently. Linda asked if the pickles grew on trees. We didn't know that our family was so dumb, but I guess the reason for these actions are the movie we saw last week, "Singing In the Rain." We probably won't be acting normal for quiet a while after watching Donald O'Connor. We really enjoyed the picture. Now in our playhouse we are all either "Lena LaMont", or "Cathy".

We are going on our vacations July 1st. We can't wait but about the second we'll be homesick and by the eighteenth we'll really be ready to come back and play with each other. We now have twenty-four little girls. Really twenty-six, but two of them are spending the summer in Charlotte. One, Betty Sue, is spending this week with us.

We are looking forward to Bible School before long. We love to go.

Finally, most of us can stand up on roller-skates without holding to anyone and many can really skate well. Such a difference since the first week of getting scratched and bruised all over.

By next time we hope to be able to tell you that we can swim. We're going to have classes for the ones that can't swim. Until then . . . so long and have a happy vacation.

Printing News

We are very glad to bring to you the news from our hard working crew. The hum of our machines can be heard early in the morning as we begin to print another Messenger for this month.

If you do not receive a Messenger for this month you can blame us because we have two new members on our staff. Charles Creech is our new press boy and Mirton Cox is on the mailing list. Everette Vest and Charles Smith are old hands at this work and they seem to enjoy it. Mr. Kyles is working on the annual, getting it ready to go to press. Charles Stevens, who was the class president, doesn't seem to have gotten all the material needed for the annual.

As you all know, next month vacations start and every body will be going home so a Messenger will not be printed for that Month.

Well, so long until August when we will again bring you the news from our hard working crew.

—Charles Creech

Jennie Gilmer

This is the news from Jennie Gilmer. School is out and we are working morning and evening.

We have been skating a lot but skating is about over and swimming season is just about here. It really gives you a thrill to watch the pool being filled because it isn't but just a short while until we can take our first dip.

The dairy boys have really been having a spring cleaning at the dairy.

Everything is just about in tip top shape even to cleaning the roof. We are also very excited because we are to receive a new dairy truck. We can't express our appreciation enough for it. We also have a ping pong table. One of the circles at First Presbyterian Church gave us three card tables and we appreciate them very much.

We miss the Seniors a lot. It certainly is lonesome since they graduated and went away.

Hope you enjoy reading our news.

—Jennie Gilmer Boys

Woman's Building

Hi Friends,

Hear we are again bringing you the news in general from our building.

We only have forty girls now that graduation has taken our seniors out into a new life elsewhere in the world.

All of us have been enjoying the gym lately for skating and recreation which we have during the week.

There have come to our campus six girls from Assembly's Training School to be with us during the summer months. They are helping as house-mothers and as recreational directors.

Everyone is patiently waiting for July 1st to roll around because vacation time begins then.

To all of you nice people who have not had a chance to see "My Son John" do so, because it really is a wonderful movie and worthwhile.

May 30 we had the well known movie cowboy Don (Red) Barry to visit our campus. Everyone was delighted to see a real person from Hollywood.

One of our matrons will be leaving us shortly for a vacation. Have fun Mrs. Watson.

Be seeing you next month.

—Pat Hamilton

Quads

Hi friends,

Here we are again to give you the Quad news. The senior boys have left us and every one is changing rooms. We lost ten boys from the Quads and got three more from another cottage.

We are working all day now since school is out. The farm boys are getting in the hay. The painters are painting all the buildings they can. The printing office boys are getting the annual out.

We had a visitor on the campus, Don (Red) Barry from Hollywood. He came out and gave us a talk. We appreciate Don coming to see us.

Vacation will start July 1st and will be over July 18th.

Skating is just about over now and swimming season is here.

We'll see you in August. So long.

Charles Smith
—Mirton Cox

Synods Cottage

Bumble, bumble,

Clover and bees and barefeet are here and the soft green lawn holds many a sting.

Down in the swimming pool the water is flowing in and in a few days we'll be bobbing up and down.

A few weeks ago a circle from the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville came up and brought ice cream and cookies for the whole cottage family. We always look forward to their coming.

At present there are only 22 of us boys. One member of our family, Jay Lee Moose, went to Charlotte and another, Butch Bostian, went home to live with his mother.

Eight of us made the honor roll for the year. They are: Darrell Hicks, Gary Clark, Joey Vechio, Jack Anderson, Charles McLean, Gene Taylor, Charles Roberts, and Bobby Ramsey.

We are also proud of our big sister, Louise Bradshaw, for making the honor roll for the year.

Well, so long until next time.

—The Wigglers.

Rumple Hall

Hi Friends,

The old dish washers will bring Rumple Hall news. We have been going swimming instead of skating. Skating is almost over. We have been having lots of fun swimming.

Don Red Barry came to Barium a few days ago and told us about Hollywood. We enjoyed listening to him talk.

We went to the show yesterday and saw "Belles of New York". It was a good show.

The Rumple Hall girls have been working hard in Mrs. Ellis' flower garden trying to get some flowers around here.

It will soon be our vacation time and we are all getting ready for it.

—Marie McNeill
Peggy Cox.

Summer Program

A tin roof, a bucket of paint, and a hot June day, would not necessarily be the first choice of a high school boy, but the paint crew has certainly given a good account of itself this Summer under the direction of Mr. John Ervin. Mr. Isaac White, directing the crew of plumbers and electricians, has found himself busy with the regular routine of repairs and emergency work on the pumps in the wells. This outfit claims that they can use only men and have no place for boys. That is the report which the Quad boys make from that group.

The printers who will be cutting this type and setting it up and running it off on the press feel that, after all, theirs is an art and a skill, and that for heat they yield to no one because their roof is low and flat and their windows are unpainted and the sun pours through. So, they would claim some prestige for their department likewise.

The boys are not the only ones who take part in the life of the campus. The girls, rising at 4:30 in the morning prepare the breakfast for 6:30 serving, and are sure that this could not be called leisure time. Neither would the girls of the house and the girls of the laundry and the ones in the cottages admit that theirs is all free time. All in all, it is a very busy day and a very busy life, rising at 6:00 a. m. and eating breakfast at 6:30, with lunch at 12:00 and supper at 6:00, putting in a good day's work, taking time out for a swim or to take a turn on the skates in the Activities Building or participating in some other evening's fun, makes for fine fellowship and citizenship on the campus.

Six A. T. S. Girls

who have completed their first year and who will be seniors at A. T. S. next year are also contributing to the recreational life of the campus, work in the Sunday School, and also serving as substitute house-mothers. They are: Miss Mary Belle Jackson, Miss Sara Covin, Miss Ruth Nicholas, Miss Helen Bell, and Miss June Holtzendorff. Miss Holtzendorff is a physical education major and is in charge of the recreational program at A. T. S., and is directing the activities on the Barium campus for the summer. The swimming lessons at the pool under her direction are particularly satisfactory because of her holding, not only the life guard certificate, but the instructor's certificate from the American Red Cross Training School. Folk games, square dances, and evenings of fun are being planned for the rest of the summer under the direction of Miss Holtzendorff who is assisted by some of the other members of the group.

Miss Taylor Returns From Scotland

For the last two and one-half months Miss Kate Taylor, member of the staff at Barium Springs, has been on leave to visit her homeland across the waters. Miss Taylor was born in Scotland, but has lived most of her life in the United States. Nearly all of her close relatives, however, still remain in the homeland. Two and one-half months leave gave her an opportunity to visit all of her folk and to rest and, as she reports, gain weight. Many of the boys of the Home will remember Miss Taylor as the housemother in Synod's Cottage for many years. She is actually approaching her twenty-fifth year of service to the Home. The boys and girls all demonstrated their affection for her as she returned and are delighted to have her back on the campus.

Bible School Camp

sufficient funds may necessitate cutting it shorter than that time.

This will be the first year to experiment with the idea of a Bible School Camp, and it may hold wonderful possibilities for the future in some sort of intensive religious training during the Summer period, not only for the younger children, but for the older boys and girls as well.

Delegates Attend Camp and Conferences

Plans are now underway for some fifteen or twenty young people from the Home to attend Pioneer Camp and Young People's Conferences this Summer. A telephone conversation from the First Presbyterian Church in Gastonia assured us that the Women of the Church were interested in continuing their project and a subsequent letter brought the check in which makes it possible for this number to attend the Summer conferences.

Pattie Inman, a member of the senior class and president of the Senior High Fellowship, and Albert Williams, also a rising senior, will be the representatives to the Synod's Conference to be held at Red Springs.

Sharing the added thrill of being the first group to attend the Conference at the new Concord Camp at Lake Refuge, seven of the Pioneers were selected to go, all of the elected officers and group leaders. They are as follows: Phoebe Cochran, Joyce Kelly, John Ferrell, Barbara McCall, Mac McClure, Shirley Shaw, and Evelyn Cox.

On June 23rd the Senior High Young People's Conference will be held at Lake Refuge and nine members of the group will represent the Senior High Fellowship. The Young People's Conference will be under the direction of Reverend Walter H. Styles, pastor of the Waldensian Presbyterian Church. The other adult advisor is Miss Beatrice Kiser, DRE of the First Presbyterian Church in Lenoir. The new camp site can care for more than 150 and the management anticipates a full house for this first conference to be held in the new camp ground.

Vacation Time

(Continued From Page One) who has the assignment of making contacts and connections for the boys and girls and getting schedules worked out and bus tickets bought, finds herself more than busy.

The chorus from the children on the campus to her is, "Have you heard from my mother yet?" "Have my folks written you about my vacation?" and from the Baby Cottage, "When am I going on my vacation?"

For those who pass through this way for the first eighteen days in July the campus will seem a bit deserted and unusually quiet, but by the night of the 18th the crescendo will rise and life will be normal again.

Dairy Boys Get New Jeep Truck

For many winters the dairy crew have had an old army truck in which they did their hauling of milk and feed. It very closely resembled a fresh air taxi cab, having neither cab nor top. Frosty mornings and wet days meant rough riding for them. Now the story is different - the new four-wheel drive Willis Jeep Pick-up truck is their proud possession. No more riding in the rain and no more wondering if the old boat will hold together to get back from town.

Sheriff Rumble

(Continued From Page One) would be called a "dream day" in any child's life. For a whole afternoon they could do whatever they wanted to without a soul correcting or interfering with their plans. They could drink all the drinks they wanted, ride all the rides they cared to, eat all the popcorn that they could consume - as one boy said it was just as near to a "dream day" as anything he had ever experienced.

When the afternoon was over and the journey home started it was quite a thrill to have the police escort with their sirens bring the two Barium buses right back through the heart of the city and on out through upper Mecklenburg and back to Iredell County, so that these boys and girls could begin to tell of the things that they had seen and done and what they had had to eat and drink in the afternoon.

If it is true that life is made up of pleasant memories it is easy to understand that this afternoon will long linger in the minds of every boy and girl who had the opportunity to be the guest of the sheriff and to visit the Airport Park.

Campbell and Cariker

riker has served in the work of the pastorate practically all over the United States and in Canada. He served in Missouri and Texas and in California. For a while he was stationed in Canada and is now serving in North Carolina, his home State.

The student award went to Louise Campbell who received the nomination by the votes of the members of the High School and the adults of the staff of the Home and the members of the school faculty. Louise was recognized as an outstanding athlete on the basketball team during her high school career. She showed exceptional talent in music, being a voice student and singing in the choir, and also being a piano student and an accompanist for the Glee Club. Neither her athletic interests nor her music detracted from her scholastic ability for she led her class and was the valedictorian. She has chosen for her career the work of X-ray technician and will enter the Charlotte Memorial Hospital for training in July.

The Ace Medal is given as the highest award of the Home to the person most nearly embodying the principles of life and traits of character cherished and esteemed by the members of the Barium family.

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., JUNE - JULY

NO. 9 - 10

Steam Lines Now Being Installed

"What is all that red dirt on the campus at Barium Springs?" said the questioner. One answer to that question is that it is a great nuisance to those who are daily trying to get around it or over it or through it, particularly after there has been a hard rain and it has turned to mud; but the real answer is that the Gilbert Engineering Company and the Grinnell Company of Charlotte are in the process of laying a new steam line from the boiler campus. So the walks are cut and the roads are closed and the dirt's piled high and the work goes on. When it's finished there will be concrete trench eighteen inches square in the bottom of the ditch carrying a six inch main line with fifty pounds of pressure from the boiler room.

In addition to that there will be installed under each building a reservoir for hot water which will be attached to the steam line.

The days of cold showers will be a thing of the past for the boys in the Quads. There will be no necessity for running from one building to another to try to find half tank of hot water left to take a hot bath. Every building will be amply supplied twenty four hours in the day. It has been suggested that after we have lived in this red dirt for two and one-half months it will take an ample supply of water to get it out of our hair, clothes, buildings.

Summer Admissions Almost Complete

The case worker, Miss Rebekah Carpenter, has been exceedingly busy during the summer in her trips over the state studying the applications made for admission to the Home. This work has been completed and the available spaces have been assigned. There is now hardly a vacancy for a child between the age of three and fourteen. While there are some vacancies in the older boys' building and in the buildings for older girls very few applications come in for these places.

Applications continue to come in and every attention will be afforded them. The case worker will make a full exploration and study of each individual case, make recommendations concerning it, and whenever it is possible the child will be admitted to the Home. But when there is no

Peaches Are Good Again This Year

For the second year in a row the peach orchard has yielded bountifully. The Elbertas, Hales, the Georgia Bells have come along in succession, so that fresh peaches and peach pies have tasted mighty good.

Mr. Woodrow Clendenin has been able to can several thousand cans for winter use. In addition to this there has been enough to share with the Mountain Orphanage in Black Mountain and, also, to have some peaches for sale.

bed and no space for a bed in a building it is impossible to take the children.

One Hundred and Ten Enjoy Camp Grier

The week of July 28th. to August 4th. was set aside for a Bible School Camp for the younger children. All summer these girls and boys of Annie Louise, Howard, Synod, and Lees have been looking forward to their visit to the new camp site of Concord Presbytery. For seven days, under the direction of a well trained staff, the boys and girls spent their time in study, play, and worship. Morning was given over to the Bible School session with three full hours. The afternoons were declared an open season on "craw divers" and spring lizards. Everybody, including Miss Carpenter, wad-

Sore Muscles And Tired Feet

The first football practice got under way under the conference schedule. Although the high school boys have been hardening themselves all summer with outdoor work, yet they found the pace which was set for them by Coach Jackins quite stiff. They are just beginning to limber up some of the muscles that are sore and get some of the kinks out from the early practice.

With six or eight regulars back from last year's team, the coaches face the job of trying to plug up the holes in the lines and to secure replacements for the backfield. Boys like Hillard, Bullard, Hudgins, Troutman and Wick-er, last year's seniors, will be sorely missed and the job of finding successors will not be easy.

With Coaches Calhoun, Jackins, and Guy and with the Barium squad's determination, a good team will be put together to represent the school on successive Friday afternoons in the fall.

Gardens And Crops Damaged by Drought

The usual abundant supply of fresh vegetables for the table has been lacking this summer. The dry weather in the early spring at planting time and the subsequent unusual heat and drought has taken heavy toll of the garden. Mr. Stinson hopes that the recent rains will enable him to have some later vegetables.

The crops have suffered and the yield will be severely limited. The one bright spot for Barium in the farm program

Barium Children Reach Halfway Around World To Cheer Orphans

A group of Barium youngsters in the past year reached halfway around the world to share in a Korean hospital.

The project began when Charles Barrett, a Barium Springs 1947 graduate, now serving in Korea as a welfare specialist and assistant to a chaplain, wrote to Mrs. Ruth Troutman Clark's eighth grade at Barium.

"The physical needs of the orphans with whom I work have been provided for", he wrote. "But they have nothing to help them pass the long summer hours."

Barrett told how the Korean orphans made marbles of clay, and how interested they were in marbles. He suggested that the Barium school children send any surplus marbles they might like to divide with the children at the Suwon Baptist orphanage-hospital.

It was this idea that set off a letter-writing project and resulted not only in a collection of marbles but various toys from children of all ages on the Barium campus. Many toys not suitable for long-distance mailing had to be returned, others were sent to local families in the county.

The parcels which the industrious Barium students col-

Cottage News

Baby Cottage

Hi Folks,

Here we are back from our vacations and bringing you the cottage news again.

Since you heard from us last we have acquired a new member to our family. His name is Alfred Koontz Blake from Wilmington. We are very glad to have him with us and we hope he will be happy here.

We sure will be glad when the new pipe line is finished. It runs through our front yard and we have to go elsewhere to play.

We have four new big girls with us now. Ann McLain and Gay Church with the little girls and Martha Nell Hall and Phoebe Cochran with the little boys.

We went to the movie last week and saw "About Face", a musical comedy which we enjoyed very much.

So long until next month.

—Martha Nell Hall

Woman's Building

All are back from their vacation now, and are settled down to their prospective work. We had a wonderful time while on vacation but are always glad to see our familiar friends here.

Our girls are helping string beans, while the Howard girls are attending Bible School at Camp Grier near Old Fort.

Just recently some of our girls got an ambitious idea to help the boys pick beans. I am sure they had a good time picking beans, at least it was a new experience for them.

There aren't many summer activities going on now except for swimming and skating, of course, we enjoy these very much.

On August 1 the Senior Youth Fellowship participated in a party which was held late in the afternoon at Mirror Lake. Before starting back nature decided to take a hand with a good old fashioned down pour of rain. After raining for a long period of time we finally decided to return home in two open trucks without any cover to shield us from the rain except for a few blankets. When we were almost home one of our trucks went lame on us causing the rest of the boys and girls from that truck to move over into the good truck. Of course it was crowded, but we finally arrived home in time for a few hours of sleep before day-break.

The Mecklenburg Presbytery Choir came to Barium Sunday August 3, to sing praises to God for the Barium family. We enjoyed this singing very much except for one thing, there wasn't enough of it. The choir was led by Pleas Norman, a former Barium boy, and we were glad to have Pleas and his choir come and hope they will come again soon.

—Helen Baucom

Sewing Room

Well, since this is the first time you have heard from the new crew in the sewing room we will introduce each one of us. How about, by telling where each went for her summer vacation.

Jackie Porterfield, she's the youngest of the group, went to Greensboro to visit her aunt and to Spartanburg, S. C. to visit some friends.

Shirley Porter had a wonderful time visiting her mother in Salisbury.

Pattie Inman spent her vacation in Lumberton with her father. She also enjoyed a few days at the beach.

Gloria Williams went to Fayetteville to visit her aunt and Uncle and took her first airplane ride. Lucky girl.

Helen Baucom having worked one week of her vacation at Lake Refuge, spent the other days with her parents in Wilmington and the beach.

Helen Barnes visited her grand parents in Stony Point. She also stayed a while with her sister, Hilda, a former Barium student, in Salisbury.

Dot Surles, one of the few who remained at Barium had a big time at Kool Park Pool in Hickory.

Rae Powell had a nice time visiting the State Capital with her sister and also with a sister in Mooresville.

Jane Feimster visited her mother in Taylorsville and a friend, Mr. Robert Lee Stowe, Jr., of Belmont. From all reports she had a wonderful time.

Well, folks we will try to keep in contact with you all each month.

Infirmary

The Infirmary has four new girls to work down here. We didn't write anything in the Messenger in June because we were so busy getting acquainted with our new cottage. Oh, yes, our names are Elizabeth Byrd, Shirley Johnson, Mamie Lou Lloyd, and Shirley Shaw. Miss Hoots and Mrs. Lackey, our matrons are very nice and we hope they think the same of us.

Friday afternoon, Shirley Johnson went on a hay ride with the Senior High Fellowship to Mirror Lake in Salisbury. There they went in swimming but were caught in a rain storm and didn't arrive home until 1:20 A. M. My, she was a sleepy gal, but she said she enjoyed it anyway.

Sunday night at 8 P. M. we had a group of men from North Mecklenburg to sing hymns until nine o'clock. They were led by Pleas Norman, a Barium old-timer. Maybe we will be able to hear them again. We sure hope so.

Every one is getting back to their old routine since vacations are over and we are all looking forward to the opening of school.

BARIUM CHILDREN

lected were prepared for mailing in the shipping department of the Troutman Shirt company by John Simpson; postage was supplied by adults who were interested in the project and asked to be permitted to help.

About six weeks after mailing, the packages were received by the Korean children.

Barrett, who supervised the distribution of the gifts, wrote to the class: "This was a shot taken to show your eighth graders where their toys went. I thought perhaps they would be able to spot the ones they sent over, although this picture does not show them all.

He added that although some of the children were not smiling in the photograph, their appreciation was deep and genuine.

"I could never thank you and the others who helped you enough for sending the toys to these children. I only wish you could have seen the gratitude that flowed (literally) out of the adults there who understood exactly what was going on. Anyway, for the kids and myself, Thanks a million."

The boy who has his arm in the sling is a private project of mine. I found him about a month ago in a deserted sand pit about a mile from the base. He had been living there in a hole in the ground for some time. No family - both dead - and no home. He had gotten cold one night and attempted to build a fire with some gasoline that he found there, and had burned himself badly. I found him the morning after he had been burned. I gave him the clothes, fed him, and put him in the orphanage-hospital for treatment where he has been ever since. For a while I was the only one who could cope with him as far as his treatments went; you can suppose that burn treatment is very painful."

Barrett is with the 51st Fighter Interceptor Wing in Korea. The real climax of Operation Open Heart will come in September when he returns from Korea and speaks to the Barium eighth graders about their project - and about how it was received by the homeless Korean children under his care.

Barium officials were more than happy with the success of the school project. It seemed encouraging to know that children could still reach across half a world to each other without selfishness.

Resolution Adopted By The Trustees of Davidson College On May 31, 1952, Concerning the Passing of Dr. Joseph B. Johnston

The distinctive service of Dr. Johnston, who passed on to his heavenly reward December 19, 1951, was that of Superintendent of Barium Springs Orphanage for 27 years, 1922 to 1949, during which time that institution made remarkable progress in physical equipment and otherwise, attaining unto the reputation of being one of the very best orphanages in the South. His service to his church in this capacity and as one of its honored elders was recognized by his being elected Moderator of the Synod of North Carolina in 1947.

Dr. Johnston was a loyal and active alumnus of Davidson College, which recognized his life service by conferring upon him the Algernon Sydney Sullivan award in 1933 and the LL. D. degree in 1950. He was a faithful member of its Board of Trustees for the 9 years, 1943-1952. Doubtless his most fruitful service to Davidson was that of turning the steps of hundreds of the Orphanage graduates to Davidson for their college education.

The Board of Trustees hereby expresses its gratitude to God for His gift of this "good and faithful servant"; its recognition and appreciation of his invaluable service to the Orphanage, College, and Church; and its sympathy and prayers for his loved ones from whom he has been taken - especially his life's companion and helpmeet who gave herself as royally as he in their "work of faith and labor of love."

ed up and down the streams turning over the rocks and chasing the crayfish called "craw divers" and proudly showing their catches when the trip was over.

The closing exercises for the Bible School were held in the spacious dining hall on Sunday morning, with the various groups giving samples of the work they had done and displaying some of the handwork of which they were so proud. Following that, the morning service was held in the open under the trees. Rev. Robert Turner was the preacher of the morning. Sunday afternoon, following the regular quiet hour and rest period, small groups made their rounds again over the many places of the camp site, trudging over the hills, going up and down the streams, and down around the lake, and working up a grand appetite for supper. Sunday evening vesper services were led by the counsellors and the older boys and girls of the group. Everyone went to his bunk realizing that he had had a glorious week, something to remember for life.

The work of the Camp was under the direction of Miss Carpenter and Miss June Holtzendorff, and they were assisted by Miss Alice McConnell, who volunteered her services for the week, and also by Miss Ruth Nicholas, Miss Mary Belle Jackson, Miss Sara Covin, Miss Neely Ford, Miss Lois Jackson, and Miss Eleanor Miller. One of the smaller boys seemed to express the sentiment of the whole group when he said, "Let's just move up here and live here all the time."

UNCLE BOB

Pictured above is the benign face of Robert Benjamin Templeton, better known on the campus of Barium as "Uncle Bob". All the children who come to Barium soon learn to know and love him. Often through the years returning alumni, after they have greeted old friends and looked around a bit have slipped over to the kitchen to shake hands and have a chat with their old friend, Uncle Bob.

But from now on Uncle Bob will not usually be found in his place in the kitchen, but at his little home a mile or so away where he will have his chickens and his dogs for company. After a service of thirty one years, Uncle Bob is now going on his well earned retirement, provided for by the Social Security benefits recently acquired for our workers.

When Uncle Bob first came to work at Barium, Rev. W. T. Walker was Superintendent.

He remained through the days of Mr. Jos. B. Johnston and two and one half years under Rev. A. B. McClure. Uncle Bob first took a job under Mr. J. D. Lackey, Farm Overseer. Other foremen he worked under were Mr. Ross Troutman, Mr. T. C. Cavin, Mr. Burton Linville, and the present farm overseer, Mr. J. F. Stinson.

Then in 1945 more help was needed in the kitchen and Uncle Bob was transferred there and spent the rest of his service as cook and helper there.

Uncle Bob will be missed because of the good service which he has rendered over the span of thirty one years. He will be missed even more because of what he is, a christian gentleman with a gentle philosophy of life, and a gentle rebuke for things that are wrong.

But Uncle Bob says he will be coming back often for this is home to him and he will want to see the children whom he loves and who love him.

Regents Report To Meeting of Synod

The Regents of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home express gratitude to Almighty God for His goodness and guidance through the year 1951-52. Unmistakably, His hand has been manifest in the total life of the Home. To Him we offer our gratitude and thanksgiving.

The Regents have met in two regular sessions at the Home during the year and in one special session during January. The Regents have given careful scrutiny to the total program of the Home as it attempted to effect the policies adopted by the Board. In any period or reorganization there are always perplexing problems, but it is the consensus of the Board that the work of the Home is moving along with fair progress in the right direction.

The matter which has given the Regents the greatest concern over a long period of years is the religious nurture of the children, and for many months intense study and fervent prayer has been given to this matter. The Synod is aware that the Regents have attempted to establish a program which they believe wise and good for the Home, but have been willing to delay the putting of this into effect until the Synod should have opportunity to study the religious life of the children in relationship to the Home and Little Joe's Church.

The Home has been running at full capacity throughout the year; as a matter of fact, many of the buildings have been crowded and the staff has been overloaded in the work they were trying to perform. It has been reported that only about one out of every three children making application is admitted to the Home. Preference is always given to those who are of the Presbyterian family or closely related to the Presbyterian family through the outpost work of the Church.

Plans Made For Homecoming Day

Homecoming for Barium students and friends will be on Friday, October 3rd. Appropriate exercises for the morning in connection with the school chapel hour have been planned. The alumni luncheon will be served in the main dining hall at 12:00 o'clock. The old bell in the belfry will send out a call to those who want an old time meal of sausage and grits and gravy with a little extra added to bring in the flavor of the new.

In the afternoon time will be set aside for the meeting of the Alumni Association under the direction of their officers. At 3:30 in the afternoon the 1952 edition of the Tornadoes will take on Asheboro for the Homecoming game. This serves not only as an announcement of the plans for the day but as an urgent invitation and request for all former students to come back to the campus for these activities.

Teachers Return And School Opens

August 28th brought to the campus all the members of last year's teaching staff save one, and the school got underway for the new year's work. The only new member of the teaching staff was Mr. J. E. Ramsey who will teach math in the High School and eighth grade. The others returning are R. G. Calhoun, principal, A. M. Calhoun, William Hethcox, Miss Reba Thompson, Mrs. Joe Clark, Mrs. Melba McLuen, Mr. William Guy, Miss Kathryn Troutman, Mrs. Rachel Spencer, Miss Sadie Brandon, Miss Faye Stevenson, Mrs. R. E. Jackins, Miss Eleanor Miller, and Mrs. A. M. Calhoun.

With this excellent faculty and with the eagerness of the students to begin the year's work great things are anticipated before commencement time is reached.

Commission Appointed For Barium Study

The overtures to the Synod of North Carolina concerning the Church and the religious life on the campus of Barium Springs were referred to the Committee on Homes for study and report. This Committee, through its chairman, Dr. J. Harry Whitmore, brought in the following report which was adopted:

"Whereas this is an extremely important matter concerning the very life of one of the outstanding institutions of our Synod and whereas we do not believe it would be wise or feasible to attempt to adjust this matter by a discussion on the floor of synod:

"Be it resolved:

1. That a commission consisting of 18 members, one minister and one ruling elder from each presbytery, be appointed to consider the matters presented in these communications, to thoroughly investigate the whole situation and with power to make final settlement.

2. That the commission be convened by Dr. Dudley and to meet within the next 30 days."

The synod then took recess for the Presbyteries to meet for the purpose of electing the members to serve on the commission. The following were elected from the various Presbyteries:

Albemarle, Rev. C. D. Patterson and H. H. Littrell; Concord, Dr. J. H. Carter and J. E. Ramsay; Fayetteville, Rev. W. S. Golden and W. R. Sutherland; Granville, Dr. Kelsey Regen and W. Horne; Kings Mountain, Rev. G. L. Riddle and J. Graham Morrison; Mecklenburg, Dr. W. M. Boyce and Walter Fraley; Orange, Reverend W. M. Baker and J. A. Kellenberger; Wilmington, Rev. Carl B. Craig and J. B. Huntington; Winston-Salem, Rev. R. A. White and J. O. Spear.

The commission was convened by Dr. Dudley and the following officers were elected: J. A. Kellenberger, chairman, Rev. Robert A. White, vice-chairman, Dr. Kelsey Regen, secretary. The first

Staff Needs

The Home at Barium Springs is in need of a dietitian and qualified persons for housemothers. Persons interested in these positions should address an inquiry to the superintendent.

Orphanages of State Hold Conference

The North Carolina Orphanage Conference held its annual meeting at the Alexander School in Union Mills, N. C.

Dr. Ellen Winston, Commissioner of Public Welfare of the State of North Carolina addressed the group on the subject "Forecasts for Child Welfare". A report was heard from the Children's Home Society on the adoption program for older children in which the orphanages have been cooperating. Enthusiastic approval was given for the continuation of this program if it be possible. An inspirational address was made by Reverend J. Walter Dickson, Jr., pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Belmont, and brought to a close the morning session.

The afternoon afforded a short business meeting in which Mr. M. D. Whisnant

New Children Come In September

There are five new children on the campus, three coming from Gaston County and two from Raleigh. Many months of work and study on the part of the case worker ended with Barium becoming the home for these children. Melvin McKenzie is in Jennie Gilmer Cottage and Richard in Lees Cottage. The other three children are of the one family from Gaston County. Forrest Spencer lives with the other little boys in Synod Cottage while his younger sister, Naoka, is in the Baby Cottage, and the older sister, Helen is in Howard Cottage. They have all gotten off to a good start and it will not take them long to become perfectly at home on the campus.

Elks of Statesville Give Circus Tickets

With elephants and clowns, peanuts and cotton candy, horses, dogs and wild animals, with steam calliope and brass bands, with costumes and regalia, all under the big top, everybody at Barium Springs had a wonderful time. The Elks sponsoring the circus made possible enough tickets for all at Barium to be present.

Mr. R. G. Calhoun and the teachers of the school were ready with their classes and Mr. Lowrance provided transportation and everybody took the afternoon off.

Some of the teachers were so busy getting the smaller children ready for the cannon explosion that was to catapult the great Zacchini through the air into the net that they forgot to stop up their own ears. Next year we will have to have someone to take care of the teachers while they take care of the children.

Two Watermelon Feasts Provided

Good things do come in doubles and such was the case on the campus recently. Twice the announcement was made that there would be a watermelon cutting and that you might have all the watermelon you wanted. Big, ripe, sweet, juicy watermelons by the dozens piled high on the truck. Everybody had all they wanted to eat and some had more than they really wanted. One small boy said "I have eaten six pieces and I don't believe I could swallow another bite."

Of course, there is the custom when a large group of young people get together for a watermelon cutting that

Annie Louise

Hi Folks,

We're finally getting in the Messenger again this month. Last month we didn't write our cottage news because we went to Lake Refuge near Old Fort for a week of Bible School. We really had fun and learned a lot. We sing the songs we learned about every day. The camp is really a pretty place. We got to go on hikes and swimming every day and it didn't rain except one day, believe it or not! We also played all kinds of ball and had wonderful meals. The mountains were beautiful and the only thing we didn't like was the mosquitoes which thought us awfully sweet. I think some of them followed us back. They are really coming from the ditches dug over the campus.

Large ditches were dug all over the campus in July and will be here for sometime. We are getting a new heating system which will be wonderful this Winter. The campus isn't quite as attractive as it would be without them but it isn't going to be long before the pretty maple leaves hide the ditches.

All of us had very nice vacations. Many of us went to the beach and mountains. But all of us were real glad to get back. We are still excited about school starting Aug 28, and all of us are trying our best to be good and make the honor roll.

Last Saturday afternoon everyone on the campus had a watermelon feast. You've never seen so many! Of course we ate them all as you could see all over our faces. We are also having real good pears now.

We hope we won't be gone next month and will be seeing you.

Woman's Building

School is finally on its way again, for which most of us is a happy occasion. Mr. Ramsey, who comes from Brawley, is a new teacher on our staff. He teaches math and typing, and sponsors the Beta Club for the coming year.

Lately we have had two watermelon feasts, the first given by the Mecklenburg Men's Choir on August 30; the other feast being a gift from the Gilbert Engineering Company. To both of these sponsors we wish to express our sincere thanks.

On Friday, September 5th, Betty Lou Johnson, a sophomore; and Jackie Porterfield, a senior, were chosen by the student body as new cheerleaders, to aid Pattie Inman, Jane Feimster, Rae Powell and Mary Helen Barnes in cheering our team onward to victory. With such splendid cheerleaders there should be a great deal of good cheering going on for our team.

The Elks Club invited all of us to attend the Circus in Statesville on September 8. We enjoyed all the acts, but perhaps the most popular of the acts were the trapeze acts, and the trained elephants.

September 12, our boys played their first game of the season in football against Thamasville, and won the game 18-0, with Dean Upton, one of our Senior boys, making all three touchdowns. After the game the Thomasville team remained to be our guests for supper.

A coming event, which we always enjoy, is the Fair. We always have a good time because there are so many varieties of amusements there.

In schools all over Iredell County there is one girl chosen from each school to enter the contest of "Miss Fair Queen." Our contestant is Pattie Inman. "We wish you the best of luck, Pattie."

—Helen Barnes.

Regents Report To

being of the children has been good though there is a great deal of work yet to be done, particularly in the field of dentistry in the student-body.

The school, under the direction of the principal, R. G. Calhoun, has a good record for the year. It is reported that the Barium school received the highest rating of any Iredell County School in a special study made last year by the State.

The buildings on the campus are in a fair state of repair and have received the rating of excellent from the County Health Department. Attention of the Synod, however, is called to the fact that in the very near future a number of the outmoded buildings are going to have to be replaced in order to care satisfactorily for small children. Some funds are on hand for this purpose but not nearly an amount sufficient for that which will be required. One item that has entailed great expense in the last two and one-half years is the central heating plant and the steam line. It has been necessary to enlarge the plant and the steam line and to install a new boiler. It was necessary to lay on the campus a complete new steam line this Summer, contracted for at a price not to exceed $76,000.00. The old line, having been in the ground from 25 to 36 years, was more than worn out. It looks now as if the Regents might have to borrow money in order to complete this job.

Barium has always served raw milk, and for the last several years has done so, much to the displeasure of the Iredell County Health Department. In the Spring of 1952 the County Health Department issued an ultimatum requiring the Home to pasteurize its milk for the sake of the safety of the children. The erection of a plant and the equipping of the same has necessitated the outlay of $15,000.00 which had not been anticipated. This, we feel sure, will be cared for by someone or from some source before the year is out, though we have no assurance of this at the present.

Concerning finances, the treasurer reports that the people of the Synod have been generous again this year. The income of the Home from the Churches of the Synod reached an all-time high. The Thanksgiving Offering was $92,924.80. The regular offerings totaled $87,014.73. This income from the Churches of the Synod enabled the Home to operate the whole year without a deficit. Had it not been for the fact that the Synod comprehended the rise in prices and the high cost of living and met this contingency through their generous giving, the Home could not have balanced its budget. A copy of the audited report has been filed with Synod's Council.

The Regents recognize themselves as the servants of the Synod, and further recognize their responsibility to the Synod for carrying on this great work. The Board would earnestly request the membership of the Synod of North Carolina to continue its remembrance of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home in their daily prayers, that the children may grow in the likeness of Christ, and that those entrusted with the care and leadership of the children may be guided by the Holy Spirit to do the will of God.

Respectfully,
W. E. Price President
Board of Regents.

was elected president for the coming year and the conference accepted the invitation of the Thompson Orphanage to meet there in the Fall of '53.

Following this the group meetings for sections of the conference were held, the housemothers under the leadership of Mrs. Elizabeth Woodruff discussed the subject of "Gaining and Maintaining the Confidence of the Child." The case workers, under the leadership of Mr. F. J. Herring, discussed "Relationships with Parents and Relatives." The executives in their session explored the field of "In-Service Training," and gave considerable time and thought to the discussion led by Dr. Ellen Winston on the cooperative efforts of the orphanages and all child-caring agencies in the State, particularly the Child Welfare in the Department of Public Welfare of the State.

The Alexander School, acting as hosts for the day under the direction of the superintendent, Mr. John W. Vogler, added great delight and pleasure to the whole meeting. The morning devotional period was under the direction of the boys and girls of the school and the three chorus groups from the school and the Glee Club sang beautifully for the pleasure and inspiration of the conference. The dining hall, attractively decorated, was the scene of a fine luncheon provided by the Home. The students of the school serving with grace and charm brought in the bountiful provisions which sustained and delighted all the members of the conference.

Summer Workers
Conclude Their Work

Barium's staff was increased temporarily during the past Summer with six girls from the Assembly's Training School and two school teachers from the North Carolina teaching force.

The coming of September and the opening of school concludes this part of the program and these young women have returned to their respective places for study or teaching. Miss Alma Steading, having finished at the Assembly's Training School last Spring, has gone to Oklahoma for the teaching of Bible. Miss Sara Covin has accepted a position with the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville, S. C. as Director of Religious Education. Miss June Holtzendorff, Miss Mary Belle Jackson, and Miss Ruth Nicholas have returned to the Assembly's Training School for their senior year. Miss Helen Bell, the sixth member from ATS, is remaining at Barium Springs on the staff for the Winter's session. Miss Mabel Stevenson and Miss Eleanor Miller rendered invaluable assistance during the Summer program. Miss Stevenson has returned to her work as a teacher in the Stony Point School and Miss Miller is teaching the second grade at Barium Springs.

Through the leadership of these persons an excellent program was carried on. Relief was afforded to the housemothers, recreational activities were provided, Bible School camp was conducted, and far too many other activities were carried on to be enumerated.

Cheer Leaders
Elected For Year

The High School student body has chosen Jackie Porterfield and Betty Lou Johnson as new cheer leaders. Traditionally, there are six varsity cheer-leaders who can spell out B-A-R-I-U-M and lead the student body in the cheering section for the home team. Ordinarily, when a student is elected that person continues to serve through the remainder of the high school course. Graduation last year took out two, Elmina Johnson and Hilda Barnes,

Barium Wins Over
Wilkes Central

By Sid Bost

Barium Springs put on its second performance of "David and Goliath Play Football" at Sloan Field Friday afternoon and once again little David took the starring role.

The big Goliath which unexpectedly bit the turf in this instance was Wilkes Central, heavily favored because of the size and experience it brought down from the mountains.

When David had put his slingshot and pebbles away Barium stood victor by 20-6 over Coach Marvin Hoffman's Wilkes squad. The Tornado team thus gained its second consecutive South Piedmont conference victory.

Somebody had better tell the Barium lads they just aren't supposed to be beating these big boys or the team — all 23 of them — may surprise a few more opponents before they have completed their eight-game schedule. They meet Lexington next at Lexington.

Yesterday, Barium scored twice in the second quarter and again in the third. Wilkes punched over its lonesome tally in the third.

Quarterback Dean Upton, guard Joe Barkley and fullback Arch McMannen scored for Barium. Carl Swanson got the six points for Wilkes Central.

Upton again looked like All-State material as he galloped 80 yards for his score. Barkley intercepted a pass and trotted 50 yards and Upton heaved to McMannen for eight and the third touchdown. Donald Moore kicked two extra points.

Barium Wins Over

Swanson went 50 yards on a pitchout for Wilkes Central. Jim Reavis, Wilkes Central guard, was carried off the field and taken to a Statesville hospital in an ambulance after being hurt in a pileup. He said he felt something "pop" in his back. But the hospital reported he was not seriously hurt. After the game, Wilkes Coach Marvin Hoffman, who got his football start playing at Statesville High school, could still manage a smile—although he was frankly amazed at what he had just seen. Walking up to Supt. Albert McClure of Barium and thrusting out his hand, Hoffman said, "Well, trying to run up the score on my little boys. . . ."

Hoffman was lavish in his praise of Barium's quarterback Dean Upton.

The Tornado line turned in another sparkling performance, opening up the holes necessary for the backs to get off on their long runs.

Fullback Arch McMannen began to hit his stride as a replacement for the departed Norvin Hillard. McMannen took some of the pressure off Upton with good gains late in the game.

Mr. John Gilbert of the Gilbert Engineering Company in Statesville and the men of the Men's Chorus under the direction of Pleas Norman were responsible for these two delightful occasions. In each instance they telephoned and asked if the boys and girls would like to have some watermelons and the answer was forthcoming in the affirmative. So, to these the student body would express their appreciation for these wonderful treats.

Homecoming Day Is Fine Occasion

Friday, October 3rd, was a wonderful day on the campus. It was one of the most beautiful days of the Fall, once it was Homecoming Day on which former students coming from all parts of the State made their way back to Barium for a day on the campus. From early morning until the late afternoon the cars were rolling in with sons and daughters and grandsons and granddaughters of Barium Springs.

The morning Chapel program under the direction of the school principal, Mr. R. G. Calhoun, was excellent indeed. The devotional exercises conducted by Reverend R. S. Arrowood, a group of songs sung by the 50 members of the High School Glee Club, a marching demonstration put on by one of the Elementary grades, and the pep meeting directed by the cheer leaders (Continued On Page Two)

Lackey Retires After Long Service

For more than two decades Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Lackey have been the occupants of the house in the grove to the west of the farm. Mr. Lackey has served on the farm in assisting Mr. Stinson and also in supervising the raising of the poultry for the Home. In recent years as his strength diminished he has confined his activities to caring for the chicken farm only.

Having passed three score years and ten and retiring at his own request, Mr. Lackey leaves behind him a very en-

Men of Concord Plan Meeting

The annual meeting of the Men of Concord Presbytery is being planned by the officers of the group. Dr. F. L. Jackson of Davidson, N. C., president, in arranging for the program has asked that a barbecue supper be prepared at Barium.

Last year 500 places were set in the dining room and all the places were taken and many had to eat in the lobby and in the kitchen and on the stairway. Since the dining room will seat only 500, places will be made possible for that number in the dining room and all over that number will have to take their portion as an overflow in using the window sills and the (Continued On Page Three)

Special Guests Visit the Campus

The Fall months seem to be the best months for having company at Barium Springs, or at least it seems the best time to get people to come to Barium Springs. Since we love to have company we are always excited and pleased when we are getting ready for a group of persons to come to the campus. Some of those who have already visited here this Fall include a group from Stanley Presbyterian Church; they were also joined by a big busload from the Comfort Church near Fayetteville, and so at one time we had over fifty guests visiting on the campus. The most recent group to come has been the members of Circle No. 2 of the Belmont Presbyterian (Continued On Page Three)

Children of Home Guests At Fair

The annual event of the County Fair staged on the fairgrounds just south of the Barium campus brings great excitement and thrills to the boys and girls. The long standing custom of inviting the Barium school to be the guests of the Fair for the whole of the Wednesday afternoon prevailed again this year. Manager Clyde Smyre and the sponsoring Kiwanis Club went all out to make it a happy time. Everything on the grounds in the way of interest and amusement was made available without cost. All the rides were free for the asking, the animal shows were open and the monkeys claimed a great deal of the attentive interest of the little fellows as they watched them perform.

Generosity was the word from the beginning to the end. As the rides concluded the Custard Wagon gave free ice cream to all, and as the boys and girls made their way to the arena for the special arena show Mr. Holthouser and the drink stand provided pop corn and drinks for every student in the school. By the time they reached home supper held (Continued On Page Two)

Pattie Inman Queen of the Fair

It was Friday night and the crowd eagerly awaited the announcement and the crowning of the queen at the Iredell County Fair. A large group of Barium Springs boys and girls had gathered to pull for their entry in the contest. Then the master of ceremonies stepped to the center of the stage and presented Pattie Inman of the senior class at Barium High School as the winner. With a large trophy standing by her side, a fifty-dollar check in her hand, and a crown resting on her head, Pattie could hardly believe what she had heard and seen.

Abundant Crop of Good Apples

A fine season for fruit has prevailed throughout the year. Not only were there peaches again but an excellent crop of apples is to be gathered. Mr. Woodrow Clendenin who supervises the orchard says that he is almost overwhelmed with the abundance of apples. The regular process will be followed by which the apples will be gathered and sorted and graded. A great many of them will be used in the making of applesauce and canned apples. The boys and girls at Barium Springs would feel that something very serious had happened if they should go very long without applesauce on the table. It is one of the regular dishes.

Those apples best suited for storage will be packed away in the apple house for use after Christmas and those (Continued On Page Two)

New Steam Line Nearing Completion

The fear that Jack Frost would win the battle is over and once again the buildings are warm since the new steam line has been connected and the steam has been turned on. Since early in July the campus has been piled high with red dirt and cut deep with trenches for the installation of the line. Trucks and tractors and working crews, welders and pipe fitters and carpenters have been busy. The concrete trench eighteen inches deep has been completed, the pipe has been laid and anchored, the reservoirs for hot water under the buildings have been installed and the campus is ready to be reclaimed. Concrete lids poured in sections are being laid over the top of the trench and the bulldozer is pushing the dirt back in the hole.

A day of celebration will certainly be called for when once again the roads can be (Continued On Page Two)

The Ralph Spencers Going to Arkansas

Ralph Spencer has accepted the position of assistant superintendent at the Vera Lloyd Home in Monticello, Arkansas. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and their three children, Joe, David and Bobby, will be leaving Barium Springs and North Carolina about the middle of October to take up their new duties on the other side of the Mississippi. For this young couple it will really be leaving home, for after graduation from high school as students of the Home they were married and continued on the campus as staff members. Mr. Spencer served as supervisor of the dairy and assisted with (Continued On Page Two) put everyone in a fine frame of mind for the rest of the day.

The big dining room at Rumble Hall had been filled with extra tables set for the returning alumni. The dining room was filled to overflowing. Between lunch and game time small groups gathered about in reminiscing circles, and the official meeting of the Alumni Association kept the alumni busy.

At 3:30 on Sloan Field the Blue and White Comets from Asheboro engaged the Tornadoes of Barium Springs in a thrilling game, with Asheboro coming out on the long end of the score, 20-26. An evening of recreation in the Activities Building on Friday night for the High School students and the alumni concluded the day, which according to reports from all sources can be marked down as one of the fine Homecoming Days of Barium Springs' history.

New Steam Line

traveled, the walkways crossed, and the piles of red dirt removed from sight. Best of all is the fact that fifty pounds of pressure in the new high pressure line will guarantee steam in sufficient quantities in every building. Steam will also be afforded the kitchen for cooking, reducing the cost of individual heating which has been necessary there for many years. The new system also includes the four buildings that the older boys called the Quads where formerly there has been a separate heating plant, but the new line now carries heat from the central heating plant to the boys and their hot water supply will be abundant, the heat will be sufficient and the cost of providing it will be reduced.

Naturally, an installation of this proportion is an expensive proposition. The Regents in their Spring meeting considered the bids and authorized an expenditure not to exceed $76,000.00. Those who have observed the installation have the full conviction that a good job has been done and that the campus will now be well served for the next 25 or 30 years without any interruption or expense in equipment for heating.

Lackey Retires

viable record of faithful service. Friendly and gracious in in their home and in the life of the community, Mr. and Mrs. Lackey made a place for themselves in the hearts of all.

The new residence of the Lackeys is in Statesville near several of their children where they can enjoy not only their own sons and daughters but their grandchildren and where they will be near enough to members of their family to receive aid in time of sickness. It will be a pleasant day for Barium each time that this couple returns, and it is the hope of all that their visits will be very frequent indeed.

The Ralph Spencers

the intermediate age boys in the cottage where Mrs. Spencer was housemother. The three children born to this family have lived all of their lives as part of the community and will now be traveling across the wide spaces and taking up residence among a new group of boys and girls.

It is the consensus of all who know the Spencers that the Vera Lloyd Home is now getting one of Barium's finest couples and great things are predicted for them. Earnestness and sincerity coupled with genuine ability and an understanding of children equip them for excellent service in the field of child care. All at Barium Springs wish them well and will be looking forward to the time when they visit the campus again.

Pattie Inman

(Continued From Page One) placed in jars in the voting booth. The annual custom is for the county schools to nominate an entry and place a picture on the bulletin board in the voting booth where visitors to the fair cast their votes. The honor this year is all the more cherished because of the loveliness of the others who had been nominated by the county schools. This trophy has been placed in the High School building, and Pattie says the money will go to help with college expenses.

Abundant Crop

(Continued From Page One) earlier apples will be used this Fall in the cottages and in the kitchen. In the meantime the surplus will be placed on sale and the proceeds will go into the operation of the Home.

While the students get weary from gathering and assorting and grading and storing in the Fall, yet it is a very pleasant experience to have a box of apples in the school building and one in the cottage available all through the winter and up until the coming of the early Spring fruit.

Children of Home

(Continued From Page One) no allure for the boys and girls. They really were not hungry and in addition they were so busy talking about the Fair that they could hardly stop to eat. The day closed with the smaller ones, particularly, tired and sleepy but thrilled over the afternoon's experience.

Special commendation should be made for the school teachers on the fine way in which they guided the children in their visit throughout the exhibits and the use of the rides at the fair grounds. Mr. R. G.

AND THAT MEANS THAT THANKSGIVING PLANS ARE

THIRDS OF THE TOTAL
SYNOD'S ASKINGS. AND THAT
